In Which We Note Another Recall In the Air; Movement is Gaining Momentum

That photo staring you right back in the face may not be there much longer. In fact, there may not be another one to take its place.

For the past several months, that is ever since Fay Jackson drug it out of dust-aden fies, it has been the pet eye-sore of many of this pillars readersan dsupporters. We gather this from the ramblings that we've heard of recent date.

Organized or not, we note a definte recall movement on foot. Offended readers are demanding that we remove it from the column head above and assign it to the morgue for good.

These recall movements have always interested us. If we understand it aright, for one to be a success, the opposition must have a pretty fair substitute. And, that's where we come in.

It was back in 1931 when we struck up the above pose. The photographer demanded that we assume a pose of the writing gentry. That is, with the head slightly bowed and the eyes up and to the front. We did, with the above result.

At the time, that photog really knew what he was about. And for the life of this conductor, we can't think of his name at the moment but his studio was located in the building on Central which houses the Rosebud theatre. We thought then, that the likeness was fairly good. But, alas, seven years exacts a toll—for better or for worse.

According to this recall movement, it has been for worse!

And now, the wolves are demanding that we remove it and in its place install a streamlined, up-to-date photo for the good of good columns. If we had the profile of a John Barrymore, we wouldn't hesitate a moment to heed these demands. Or, if we could wear strictly Hollywood togs as friend Clarence Muse, as evidenced by the photo on page 1-A, we would have a standing order in some studio. Or, if we could look as dignified as Ted LeBerthon, our worries would be nil.

But, alas and alack, such is not our fate.

If this recall movement was really serious about this demand, we imagine that they might enlist the aid of a good photog in doing something about it. For all we know, possibly the photogs have been the instigators of the movement. Knowing us, they may have been wondering who had the nerve to label the above as a finised photographic masterpiece and are now willing to move heaven and earth in an effort to unearth the shutter which has thrown a blemish on their profesion.

Gladys G. Clark told us, to our face, that everytime she looked at the above photo she had to laugh. "Get a new picture of yourself for your column," said Dr. A. J. Booker. This had the earmarks of a heated demand. These remarks are but few. There are others, some more heated, others mild but stinging.

So, with eyes wide, we are on the lookout for the one photog who has had even success with subjects like us. If we find him, the recall movement will be satisfied, and so will we, although we have our doubts, knowing what times the photogs have in transferring our likeness to paper.

After seven years, we have been convinced that maybe Father Time has made some changes. For better or for worse, only coming results will show.

PREDICTIONS: We like Georgie Crouch over Andy Scrivani at the Olympic next Tuesday eve. Fact is, we believe Crouch will take Baby Arizmendi if, and when, they meet . . . We would like to see Young Peter topple Jimmy Leto Friday night at Gilmore stadium, but we have our doubts. Jackson can't seem to hit a winning stride . . . and if Cefirino Garcia ever squares off against Henry Armstrong, our small-sized penny goes on Hank to dish out the goshawfullest pasting Garcia has ever received . . .

POST NEWS

Benjamin J. Bowie Post No. 228 of the American Legion held the regular meeting Monday night. After brief order of business the gavel was sounded and the deck was cleared for election of Delegates for the State Convention held in Santa Monica Sept. 17 and 18th. Seven delegates were elected and 9 alternates with Commander Geo. Johnson as chairman.

Believe it or not, no matter in what outfit you served during the World War, there is going to be a reunion of your outfit in this city during the National Convention Sept. 19-22. This will be the first time since the war that there has been a reunion of all war time organizations in the same city during any convention.

The American Legion membership race is turning into the home stretch with a burst of speed exceeding anything in organization history. An all time membership record was set by the Sons of the Legion. Ben Bowie Post hit a high mark making it the largest Legion post of our group west of Chicago.

Comrade Past Commander J. L. Hubert of Ben J. Bowie Post paid a visit to the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort MacArthur where 200 boys of our group are in training for Coast Artillery. The boys are sponsored by Ben J. Bowie Post of the American Legion. The entire post will visit these boys including the drum, bugle and drill team Sept. 3.

Prelate Appeals for Ministry Among Negroes

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18. (ANP)—A remarkable appeal for young priests of the Catholic faith to give at least 10 years to the ministry "among our neglected colored people" was made last week by Archbishop John T. McNicholas. In a letter to the priests, the Archbishop, long known and respected for his tolerant attitude toward minority groups, said.

"The physical conditions under which the Negroes in the West End are living is a disgrace to the city of Cincinnati. No such conditions would be permitted in our Zoo as prevail in the so-called homes of this section . . . The judgment that many persons have about the Negro's being scarcely human and hopelessly inferior is morally wrong. We need small churches, simple schools, social centers, many communities of Sisters working among the colored people; but our greatest need at the moment is a considerable increase in the number of zealous priests."

Over 6,000 Negro children of pre-school age are benefiting from the training and care given them in more than 100 nursery schools provided in the Education program of the Works Progress Administration. Not to be confused with day nurseries, these WPA nursery schools are havens for tots coming from underprivileged families. The pictures above show some of these children in this Federal-directed project.

Some 700 capable Negro workers are employed in WPA nursery schools. Under their guidance the children are taught good habits in an enviroment which best develops their physical, mental, and social relationships. Leaving no stones unturned in seeing that their charges get off on a good start toward useful citizenship, the WPA nursery school teachers get the cooperation of the home in studying the needs of the children. They also see that the parents learn the best methods of caring for and training the tots.

Mr. and George Bethea of W. 36th Street are on an extended trip in the east visiting friends and relatives. They are expected to return about the 20th of August.

The LAUNDRYMAN

"DARK SECRET, THE LAUNDRYMAN, AND THE TOWNSEND PENSION"

WELL, after the Gov'ment man had left, Secret says to me:

"Laundryman we better get dressed right away and get started on spending some of this Gov'ment money. Pass me that bottle of Sloan's liniment on the shelf there by you, so I can start to limber up my joints."

I reached over and got the liniment, but I made him wait till I had massaged my left knee which was all swelled up from sciatic rheumatism. I give his the liniment then, and he started massaging his back where he was suffering from lumbago. He talked up a breeze whilst he was rubbing.

"I b'lieve the first thing we ought to do is to sell them wagons of ours, we won't need them no more now", he says.

"I ain't so sure 'bout that just yet," I answered. "Don't nobody know how long this House Of Roosevelt is going to be ruling. They been in the saddle for fifteen years already, and if you know anything at all 'bout history, you know these here royal families can lose their thrones overnight."

Secret said he guessed maybe I was right about that because he had just ready in the papers last week about how the House Of Hoover was still wrestling to get the reins of the Republican party in their hands for the next election.

After we had limbered ourselves up with the liniment and had got dressed, we commenced trying to figure out what we would buy first. We didn't need no clothes particular because both of us had a good Sunday suit. We didn't get chance to wear them much nohow on account of sitting around home on Sundays taking our good rest for the most of the time. But our everyday Over-alls was pretty wellworn so we decided to buy a couple of pairs each, with jumpers to match. Secret suggested that we buy a new radio, but after figuring it out, we decided that since there wasn't nothing wrong with the one we had, there wasn't no use in buying another one. We decided on laying in a month's supply of staple groceries however, and a new thirty foot hose to water our vegetable garden.

We couldn't seem to think up nothing else that we needed right away, so Secret said we better estimate what the things we had decided upon so far was going to cost. Upon adding up, we found that the whole works amounted to only twelve dollars, six dollars each.

"I se right now that trying to spend this money is going to be a big job for us old folks," Secret says. "Why in the Devil didn't they give it to us fifteen years ago. We could've blowed it in overnight then, without half trying." He halted a moment to light his pipe, and continued:

"Here we are with two hundred bucks apiece that we got to get rid of, inside of thirty days. We can't buy a car on account of the doctor says that riding is injurious to our health. We can't chew a good juicy steak on account of not having teeth, and we can't drink hardly anything on account of high blood pressure. It's just like giving a feller a fine pair of Hanan shoes after his feet have been cut off."

I laughed. "You forget one Out, Secret," I says: "There's always the women-folks. A man never gets too old for them, as long as he can produce the Dough."

Secret shook his head and said he wasn't going that route no more. He'd never forgotten how Millie had sent him out for five years straight, and then had aired out on him when he lost his job and got down sick.

We had just finished dressing and was locking up the house when we heard a knock on the door. I opened it and there was two goodlooking young women standing there. They was both dressed up in think silk slacks and was awful easy to look at.

I asked them what they wanted, and they said they had just dropped over to see us, as the mail-man had told them that we had got our pension, and that they would be glad to render us any assistance that they could. I told them gruffly that I was sorry, but we was just getting ready to go to town.

"That's Okey," they said in unison. "We have some shopping to do too. SO we'll go along with you."

Johnson to Be Honored By Local Groups

The appointment of Clarence R. Johnson, Pacific Coast General Chairman of the Dining Car Employees Union, to the National Housing Authority, will be the occasion for a "Farewell" reception for the labor leader by various organizations in the community.

In order that Johnson's numerous friends and acquaintances in the city may have the opportunity of extending best wishes, the reception, which will be held Friday, August 26 at Avalon Christian Church, will be informal and open to the general public. Inasmuch as no individual invitations will be sent, all organizations are asked to announce the reception to their members, and invite their attendance.

The provisional reception committee includes at present representatives of the Los Angeles Urban League, the National Negro Congress, the Dining Car Employees Locals 465 and 582, and the Union Pacific Dining Car Employees Auxiliary.

RAILROAD CLATTER

Every Porter A Reporter

Well folks, I have been sharpening my tender puppies for a big night at the Pullman Porters' Dance. The boys all tell me that the music they have this year is hard to beat and when they start playing red hot swing,the wallflowers fairly quiver and the folks that dance just come right out and actually shiver, That being the case I am not telling anybody which class I will be in that night, the one that quivers or the one that shivers. I'm a good church man and try to do the right thing but after all I still have some pullman blood in me and even when you get happy in church you pat your foot. The last dance the Pullman Porters gave they turned them away. I just know that all the beauty parlor operators will be there because they always do land office business a few days before the dance. So folks, I'll be seeing you at the Elks' Auditorium on the night of the 25th. Oh, No. My wife is in Lexington, Kentucky.

Marriage is supposed to be a union of two souls, but occasionally one of the souls finds that they are hitched up to a heel.

Porters Clamor For More Tickets as Dance Draws Near

The office of the Brotherhood was a mad house all last week as the members of the organization made a last minute rush for more tickets to the prize dance of the year in railroad parlance. The five tickets sent out by mail to each member have already all been accounted for and requests put in for more, according to the Secretary, W. B. Holland. The entire cast of "Run Little Chillun" is going to attend in a body as well as many other notables from Hollywood and the film world. Preparations have been made by the organization to show everybody a good time and guarantee every lady without an escort a dance. A special group of Pullman Porter gigolos will be on hand to take care of ladies who attend without escorts. I am told that these boys are well groomed and can really shake a wicked foot. A careful study of other dances has been made by the chairman of the entertainment committee and the opinion handed down was that in this man's town when a lady goes to a dance without an escort, she generally is parked on the side lines. The chairman has promised that this will not be the case at the Pullman Porters' dance. Now girls, if you feel anyways neglected, all you have to do is to signal a gigolo, or perhaps he will single you out without any embarressment.

HOODS CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hood, celebrated their wedding anniversary this week and when the writer found them they were enjoying a repetition of their first honeymoon and billing and cooing like two little doves. Now whether this was just the lull before the storm, the writer is unable to say. However he did examine very carefully Dan's head to see if the many long years of married life had brought any scars on his crainium and was forced to come to the conclusion that Dan was an artist at ducking. Dan married on his birthday in order to cut down on expenses so when he celebrates his wedding anniversary he can put them both on at the same time. Smart man that Dan Hood. May both accept the warmest congratulations of the Railroad Clatter.

HOW MANY TICKETS DID BILL DAY GET?

Many porters who remember that Bill Day received tickets from the Brotherhod Of Sleeping Car Porters for their dance last year and never paid for them even though he attended, were asking the secretary this year if Bill Day was mailed any tickets for this year's dance and the answer was plain no. The Brotherhood never lets the same bee sting them twice.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT TO W. J. WHEATON

Dear Frank: Your letter was read with much interest and I shall answer as soon as I can catch my breath. The Brotherhoods dance has got me on the run just now and my wife is away also and as long as you have been a married man, you should know the answer. Nowadays a guy must make hay while the sun shines. Regards to the Madam. Charley.

Brotherhood to Hold Annual Meet in Chicago

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—According to information received at the national headquarters of the Brotherhood in New York its Fifth Annual Convention will be held in Chicago, September 18 through the 23.

Today, claims Randolph, the Brotherhood represents some 85 per cent of the porters and maids and attendants in the service.

Editorial Comment

AN ACT OF THE PEOPLE

One of the most important and far-raching propositions appearing on the November slate is the Garrison Amndment. This amendment, if carried, will do away with the old high-handed method of requiring a two-thirds majority of all votes cast before acquiring utilities by the public. Under the Garrison act, a simple majority is all that is required.

The two-thirds vote method has kept a strangle-hold on the people by big corporate interest who have added untold millions from the people through extortionate prices for necessities.

By all means, vote for the Garrison Act.

Those living in Germany and Russia and Italy boast loud and long of their "liberty" and their "democracy". They will tell you that absolute freedom is theirs—and will mean it. And, in a sense, they are right. But what a sense!

All Germans are legally free to speak the truth. The truth, however, is laid out and diagrammed by high Nazi officials. Therefore the German may exercise his freedom of speech even into the lofty confines of classic oratory—if the ideas set forth therein concur with those deemed "true" by the government. In the same way, a German is free to do what is "right"! He may take a poke at another citizen—if that citizen is a Jew, no amount of adverse evidence can prove him anything but "right". Hence, the entire system is a built-up farce—a joke on the real meanings of the words so frequently used—"right", "truth", "liberty", etc. The proper test of a democracy is not whether or not the adherents of incumbent administrations have Freedom and Liberty, but whether opposed minority groups are accorded the same privilege.

The attitude of the New Deal has been consistently out of sympathy with this basic tenet of democracy. New Dealers more than imply that Republicans are langerous economic royalists and ought to be jailed for the public safety. Criticism from them is regarded as unquestionably seditious and probably synonymous with high treason. Some ardent Democrats even hint that Heavenly reception will be exceedingly cool for those who cannot perceive that an crease of national debt from thirty-eight to forty-two billions is indicative of any permanent recovery.

"Conservative" Democrats are in the process of acquiring their just deserts by the President in his current "purge" tour. For the first time in American history, a chief executive has waded into local politics, endorsing and black-listing, beaming upon and glaring at friends and foes, respectively. Criticism of the New Deal has become tantamount to political suicide in many instances. "Truth" is "Truth" only when it is blue-printed by the white house. Could it be that liberty-loving America has already passed some unseen, unnoticed border into the realm of semi-dictatorship?

Speaking at a meeting held last week in one of the great auditoriums of the University of Southern California, Carl J. Hambro, President of the Parliament of Norway, stated that the sanctions taken against Italy at the time of the Ethiopian fracas was the greatest "peace demonstration" the world had even seen. He said that it was clearly shown that economic sanctions were enough to halt war, and that this would have been effected had not certain key nations weakened. Hambro told of the various activities of the League of Nations which are seldom heralded. The halt in the international opium trade, almost complete eradication in many places of social diseases, and of the splendid Health and Refugee services. He held that the failure of the League in preventing war is a result of the basic injustice of the Versailles treaty—upon which all post-war peace organizations were based.

A "GLAMOROUS" STORY

The sage of a business institution banking house, department store, or newspaper—is always interesting. But even more compelling are stories of a successful play, motion-picture, or radio program. The Press Agents tell us this is because of "glamour"—that indefinable something attributed to everything vaguely connected with the theatre.

The story of the "Negro Newspaper of the Air" is a truly "glamorous" one. This week the program celebrated its half year on the Air—equivalent to a silver anniversary for staid institutions of the commercial world. The news broadcasts have acquired an enviable position in popularity; at present rated one of the two or three favorite programs locally broadcast.

In the beginning it was a great venture. Never before had a large commercial institution offered to sponsor a radio program directed toward intelligent listeners and featuring Negroes. Orchestras, singers, dancers, actors of the Race all had appeared on immense national hook-ups; but never had a "sponsor" parted with the tremendous sums requisite for precious "Radio-time" in order to bring informative fare to the pallet of potential Negro customers. S. A. Scherer Loan Company revealed rare courage and vision.

The first night was a really momentous occasion. Despatches received from all parts of the world, edited, compiled, checked and rechecked in EAGLE editorial rooms lay in the commentator's hands. They were not tales of chicken thieving or humorous "down-home" anecrotes, but terse reports of a Race's economic, social and cultural advancement. A "flash" from South Africa telling of renewed efforts on the part of exploited natives to shake the bonds of imperialism—a wire from London concerning the ex-majesty of Ethiopia—a despatch out of New York City fore-running the recent one-third all retail jobs for Negroes agreement concluded in Harlem. From all the distant parts of God's Green Earth came the stories, night after night, of black men and women and their international battle for justice and recognition.

And soon an "interview" policy was adopted. Thus every great Negro visiting Los Angeles within the past six months has flung his message across the ether-waves to an audience composed of thousands—black, white and yellow—who have acquired the "Nightly Negro Newspaper of the Air" habit. Lieut. Lawrence A. Oxley, Ralph Metcalfe, Nannie Burrought, Dr. Ralphe Bunche, Paul Williams, Brice Taylor, Clarence Muse, and many others have been presented.

Today we do not celebrate a half year on the air; we celebrate the fact that both white and black America has shown itself willing and able to absorb the dramatic story of black peoples all over the world on a march to freedom!

BUYERS' GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

Colored consumers will never obtain any degree of economic security until they learn to discriminate and concentrate their buying with those companies that give them equal employment opportunities.

Last year Colored consumers indiscriminately spent over $2,000,000 for toothpaste.

Over $11,000.00 was spent in advertising by four of the popular brands of toothpaste in 1936. Colgate spent $3,977, 932. Ipana spent $3, 476, 398. Listerine spent $2, 207,372 and Pepsodent spent $1,612,157.

Because the Colored consumers did not discriminate and concentrate their buying on any particular brand of toothpaste, not one of these companies spent any of this $11,000,000 for advertising in the Negro pres.

If the Negro buyer had concentrated his buying on just one of these brands of toothpastes, the increased sales of this brand would warrant the company to advertise in the Negro press and to employ Negroes in their factories and as sales representatives.

Toothpaste advertisements have influenced millions of people to brush their teeth properly and save them from decay. They have explained in every day language of the people that poisons from decayed, infected or unclean teeth can permanently impair the most vital organs and the most remote parts of the body.

Since these companies have advertised only in the white press the Colored consumers have not been getting the full benefit of the $2,000,000 spent for tooth paste.

If the millions of Colored people would read their own newspapers and patronize their advertised products, they would be spending their money with companies that want their patronage and are willing to give them equal employment opportunities.

See your dentist at least twice a year. There are over 2,000 Colored dentists in this country—patronize them, they need and deserve your support.

For economic security, buy only those brands of toothpaste that are advertised in your Colored newspapers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

REITERATION

Dear Editor:

This is an open answer to Miss Sugs' open letter.

"I repeat I do not see much opportunity for advancements of Colored nurses at the Los Angeles County General Hospital."

My conclusion is based on the fact that a Negro nurse has never reached a top position in the profession at General hospital.

The writer calls attention to the fact that General hospital is one of the finest equipped institutions of its kind in the world. For that very reason it should be too fine, professionally, to discriminate in its own institution against its own products.

Professions should not have stop-gaps, blind alleys or termini. They should be thoroughfares. All who enter should be permitted to go all the way thru on their own merit.

We are informed that at General Hospital Colored registered nurses are not only on duty at the bedside but in Surgical treatments, Delivery room, Admitting room, Surgery, Clinics, and in other departments "On Duty". What kind of duty?

Are there higher types of service for nurses at General Hospital? If so, are they open to Negro Nurses? Have any Negro nurses ever qualified and filled them? Are there any nurses serving as supervisors in any department? What are the requirements for the highest positions open to nurses at General Hospital? Negro nurses have been in the service there for fifteen years. Have any of them ever reached the top in the service? If not, why not? Do they lack training, experience, adaptability or special fitness or is it a policy to let Negro nurses go so far and no farther?

Negro nurses are not among those nurses in the highest salary brackets at General Hospital. Quite often white nurses are assigned to supervisory duty and are thus put over Negro graduate nurses who have been in the service at the hospital for a number of years.

We are told in the open letter that "today there is opportunity for those Colored nurses who "help" make opportunity for themselves "by forging away at greater heights to be attained." This statement is elusive and vague.

How long should it take a well trained nurse with inate ability, adaptability and professional ambition to storm and attain the "greater heights", to which the writer of the "open letter" refers. Up to now it seems that Negro nurses have been about as successful in getting thru to a single position as supervisor as they could have been trying to bombard the mighty rock of Gibraltor with boiled peas. Because of that fact I repeat, "I do not see much opportunity for advancement at the Los Angeles County General Hospital."

As a citizen I have a right to my personal opinion on public institutions. I base my opinions on what is my contention on what should be. Why try to defend unprofessional limitations? I am not looking backward in my profession. I am looking forward. Yes forward to the highest heights that can be attained through downright up and going merit. There are higher positions and there are Negro nurses who are qualified to fill them. There are other Negro nurses who are "satisfied" just to be in the profession. I am not. To me the sky is the limit. It cannot be reached in a single bound but it can be reached by superior service. Well trained nurses, who have native and acquired ability should not be shackled by "tradition and policy" in our hospitals—particularly in our tax supported institutions.

A tax supported hospital should be of all institutions the most democratic. All should be administered to regardless of race—all who are qualified to administer to them in any capacity should be permitted to do so, regardless of race.

I stand absolutely for professional equality of opportunity based on professional fitness.

If the Negro nurses at General Hospital are not qualified to fill positions as supervisors they should not be given them, regardless of longevity. No nurse should be assigned to any professional duty on the basis of race or color. Nor should she be kept out of any position in General Hospital on that basis. Because this condition exists is no reason why it should be defended. To what positions on General Hospital staff will Negro nurses be advanced from where they are now? If they are advanced to positions as supervisors that is what I mean by "opportunity" and there is no other definition or substitute for professional advancement. The top should be the limit. That's all.

Sincerely yours,
Chrystalee Maxwell

Dear Editor:

Through the medium of your publication permit me to express my sincere appreciation for the high quality of service which members of the colored race have rendered on various election boards in my district, as the result of appointments made by me.

When I was elected Supervisor four years ago, I promised to give the colored people representation on election boards, and I am pleased to inform you that this promise was wholly fulfilled. The results have been most acceptable to me and, I am happy to say, to the members and friends whom these colored people served.

May I also take this means of definitely correcting a misstatement which has been attributed to one of the representatives of my office who has done work in connection with making election boards. He regards the colored people highly and deeply regrets that he has been put in a false position of making a statement which he entirely disavows.

He and I want you to know that we hold the colored people in high regard and regret that we have been misrepresented.

Appreciating your helpful cooperation, I am,

Very truly yours,
JOHN ANSON FORD

To the Editor of the California Eagle:

We are much concerned with regard to the propaganda that is being agitated among our group. We should be careful most particular in this primary election because it means so much to the tax payers of the State of California. Such propoganda will flood the state with unemployment that we as tax payers have to foot the bills for their sustenance, until they are here long enough to become eligible for the proposed pension. We are now overburdened. In Kern County there are five and one half men for every job in the County according to reports. We have approximately five thousand unemployed on the relief rolls. Which is an unnecessary burden. We are mindful of the fact that some of the candidates for governor have endorsed the thirty dollar per week pension for all over sixty years, which will mean an extra burden. And if the above proposed is placed on the ballot and is carried all the south will move here just like flies to a pile of sugar. I would advise the voters in this primary election to think carefully before voting if they feel they are treating the taxpayers with due respect to support a man who endorses such propaganda to get votes. The old age pension in California is now drawing from other states unecessary burden. They will come and stay five years on the tax payers to be eligible to receive a pension. The wisest thing to do in my judgement is to support men who endorse the Townsend Plan, if it becomes a law, which we hope it will, every state will have an opportunity to take care of its own aged.

"I wish to emphasize that any fundamentally sound program of health coverage must be made and administered per unit of health needs and not arbitrarily per unit of population. Golden State Official Feted in San Diego

A. E. Hackshaw

Aubrey E. Hackshaw, newly appointed assistant superintendent of the Northern California district of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, together with his charming wife was honored with a reception Sunday, August 7, by San Diego citizens in appreciation of his five years of service there and in celebration of his promotion. The affair was hosted by the board of management of the San Diego branch YWCA with Mrs. Charles Hampton as mistress of ceremonies. Mr. Hackshaw goes to his new post on September 1.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hackshaw have been outstanding in community service in the Southern California City, the latter a pioneer resident and an active Y. W. C. A. worker. The reception was attended by representatives bringing felicitations from civic and social organizations and a host of friends. Among the out-of-town guests was George A. Beavers, Jr., Los Angeles, who is vice-president and director of agencies of Golden State.

Hackshaw has been cited by officials of the company as one of the most valuable men in its service.

GIDDY-APP!!

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

THEY VOTE — WE TOTE

"California is rapidly becoming the dumping ground for the poor of the nation, and something has to be done about it!"

Thus bluntly assessing a critical situation, the California Citizens' Association has embarked upon a concerted state-wide drive to hammer home a reasonable and urgent — demand that Federal relief agencies should provide for indigent labor at its points of origin!

At the rate of 7000 a month, refugees have been, and are, streaming into this state from the drought areas. Our relief standards are high, our pensions are tempting, and California is still a charmed word.

That is flattering, but not comforting, as it becomes more apparent that the 221,000 who have entered our State in the last 30 months may actually hold the balance of power in the coming primary and general elections.

The opportunity to fulfill resident requirements and enjoy the vote is no idle privilege in a state having our liberal bounties. It is a passkey to El Dorado for the jobless, but it is the other Californians who will foot the bill for measures leading to costly expenditures. Lowering the bars on the present required two-thirds vote, such a proposal as the Garrison Bond Act would force municipalities into the utilities business by a bare majority vote, and open wide the gates to political control by the jobless indigent. If they vote the load, we must tote it.

In view of current efforts to establish migrant refugees here, supported by Federal jobs, citizens have a right to demand, "If the Federal government can support them in California, why not in their home state?"

STILL GONE

Time and tide bring all things, they say, but to all rules there are exceptions. "Gone with the Wind," for example, is still a book. When Hollywood's search for an actress to play the leading role, in the film version, is over, motion pictures may be as outmoded as the one-horse shay, and then where will the producers be? Gone with the wind perhaps, or out laying traps in the Hollywood foothills for the man able to remember when knighthood, and Scarlett, were still in flower. Now that the latest nominee for the part has declined the honor, America willingly extends sympathy to the author whose only comment was: "Have we got to go through with that again?" The answer is yes, definitely.

EVERYBODY'S TONGUE

Friends and enemies will never speak the same language, even when it's a universal language. A few days ago the Universal Esperanto Congress held forth in London with representatives present from many countries, including the United States. Politics, Spain, Italian aid to Spanish rebels, the demands of Sudeten Germans for autonomy in Czechoslovakia — these issues were distinctly not on the agenda. But, like Banquo's ghost, they stalked across the state of the convention hall, intangible unwanted, and unavoidable. One representative from Loyalist Spain was present, but not to plead his cause. He just happened to live on Loyalist territory. But his presence inflamed the Italian delegates, and though being able to speak in both Italian and the universal tongue of Esperanto, they angrily refused to talk in either. If a universal language is the way to universal peace, the burden of proof is still on the sponsors. They can all learn the words. But suppose they won't talk?

Redlands' Citizen in New Bid for Barnett Riches Share

REDLANDS. (By Alice Freeman) While women by the thousands rally to the support of Mrs. Jackson Barnett, widow of the nation's wealthiest Indian, Jackson Barnett, the aging Redlands' Negro, William Taylor, is making a new bid for a share in the Barnett riches.

The 64-year-old janitor, switching attorneys because his Kentucky lawyers assertedly were too slow in pressing his claim as a nephew of the eccentric Barnett, went to Los Angeles this week to consult new counsel. He professed to be undismayed by many unsuccessful attempts in three years.

Taylor's claims his veins contain the same Creek Indian blood that Barnett possessed.

"My mother was Sarah Barnett, who was born in Kentucky as a slave girl," he explained. "She was a half sister of Jackson Barnett. They got their Indian blood from their father."

BORN IN TEXAS

Taylor said that his mother was taken to Texas by a wealthy family. There Taylor was born. He didn't see his "Uncle Jackson" until 30 years ago. A few years ago he saw him again in Los Angeles, where Barnett's widow is fighting for possession of her palatial home in the Wilshire district, where the aged Barnett once delighted in directing traffic.

Priestess Theola, prominent evangelist, was heard at St. Paul's African Methodist church here Friday night, speaking on "Prophecies". Many of her predictions in recent years are said to have been fulfilled.

The Missionary Society of Second Baptist church of Redlands entertained the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church at a very lovely tea at the home of Mrs. J. H. Scotland on Central Avenue. The ladies were very loud in their praise to Mrs. Scotland for such a delightful evening.

The Paul A. M. church of Redlands is getting ready for the conference. The pastor, Rev. U. V. Green, is looking forward for a very successful meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. Green motored to Pomona for a vacation.

GAB STUFF

That Phrase, "It Pays to Advertise", Means Something to the Golden State Mutual Life

WE CAN easily understand why it is that the Golden State Insurance company rates as one of the most progressive businesses in Los Angeles. The reason is simple--the company knows how to keep in front of the public.

Any worthy cause, sponsored by some local organization, is readily supported by the Golden State moguls. A timely example is the Pacific Coast Tennis Championships held here, starting Saturday and continuing through Labor Day.

The first trophy to be donated by businesses and individuals for the tourney came from the Golden State, a tall and handsome prize for the winner of the women's singles title.

Josephine Brown, that tireless and keenly alert Western secretary of the American Tennis Association, showed it to us the other day, immediately giving us some column material.

A good business--a successful business--these days keeps step with the times. Its publicity is just as astounding and as fresh as today's headlines. And who can deny that this trophy upon which is inscribed the name of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company is a timely piece of publicity?

For 13 years now, Messrs. William Nickerson, George Beavers and Norman O. Houston have thus felt the pulse of the public to the extent that on the company's 13th anniversary, celebrated recently, records showed branches in every important city in the state and approval from the State of Illinois for a proposed branch in the City of Chicago.

The saying that "it pays to advertise" was never more conclusively brought to the attention of those who want to know "how to succeed in business" than by the Golden State Insurance Company.

Unselfish service has its rewards--for more unselfish service. No better example of this, it seems to us, is necessary as we look at one Clarence R. Johnson.

A real friend to the common man is Clarence Johnson. Thru his work as local Dining Car Union official, he has moulded a Pacific Coast organization that plays a big part in these days of labor emphasis.

Modest, no house-top spieler, Johnson has gone quietly about his work, result: national recognition as an authority on labor. And now comes appointment to the United States Housing Authority at Washington.

A fine gesture was the public reception last week here at Avalon Christian church which found citizens and friends showing their appreciation for services rendered.

Johnson is the man who imbues others, leaders and would-be leaders, with the key to success--the doing consistently of anything which helps the common man.

L. A.'s loss is "Dee Cee's" gain—definitely!

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By MARIAM MATTHEWS

A Sutherner Dscovers the South," by Jonathan Daniels: "Forty Acres and Steel Mules", by Herman Clarence Nixon: and "Southways," by Erskine Caldwell are substantial evidence that the South is still a fruitful subject for literature.

Excepting only Erskine Caldwell's "You Have Seen Their Faces" and one or two sociological treatises, one reviewer considers Jonathan Daniel's "A Southerner Discovers the South" the best modern book on the subject. This volume is directed to the Layman for it is a series of pictures arranged geographically along the route the author took one summer, travelling three thousand miles through the South. Although the editor of a Southern newspaper, Mr. Daniels felt that he had too often discussed Southern problems without really having seen very much of the South, and hence his trip. Wherever he went he saw people and talked with them or more frequently, listened to their talk--governors, Negro farm hands, country storekeepers, college professors, hoboes, union organizers, mine owners, bankers, aristocratic ladies, editors, novelists, Democrats, Communists, and even a Republican or two. The result is an interesting book of essays and stories, flavored with a dash of economics.

"Forty Acres and Steel Mules", by Herman Clarence Nixon invites comparison with "You Hve Seen Their Faces," by Caldwell and Bourke-White because of its size, shape and general appearance. It is a different kind of book, however, but dealing with the familiar story of the progressive ruin of an epioited land. "Farmers," the author asserts, "are exploited everywhere; unorganized labor is exploited everywhere, and Negroes are exploited everywhere. It is the evil luck of the South to have three notoriously exploited classes overlapping; it is this high concentration of exploitation that has created what the President calls 'Economic Problem No 1'." The book is illustrated with a hupndred photographs, all well chosen and some of them very fine.

The sixteen stories in "Southways," Erskine Caldwell's first collection of short stories since "Kneel to the Rising Sun", are briefer, more compact, the humor more sharply pointed, and the overtones of satire and social comment more individual than ever before. Space will not permit comment on the individual stories but the reader will find here, Mr. Caldwell's usual range of subjects.

(concluded in this issue)

Well, the first thing me and Secret did after deciding to get out on a spending spree was to borrow some dough, since it was Saturday evening and the bank was closed. We didn't have no trouble on that score however because our grocery man knowed that we was getting the Townsend pension, and gladly lent us fifty dollars each.

Our next step was to try to get hold of two High-steppers who felt like throwing a light Bally-hoo. That wasn't hard either, because just as we stepped outside of the store we met the two silk-slack girls who had come to our house the morning we got our checks. Of course they was rarin' to go, and we agreed to pick them up in a taxi and start out about nine o'clock.

The Airflow cock-tail lounge was lit up like a Catholic church when me and Secret and the girls blew in there around nine o'clock. Everything in it was spic and span, and them red leather chairs looked so restful till Secret wanted to drop down at the first table near the door. The rest of us preferred a private booth however, so he gave in.

As soon as we got seated the waiter asked for our order. Me and Secret ordered beer, and told the girls to get what they wanted. It truned out that both the girls was very hungry, so hey ordered a whole broiled chicken a piece. Then the tallest one of them—who was High and Yaller, by the way—called me and Secret old Fogies for ordering beer, and told the waiter to bring in four "Tom Collins" in a hurry.

They came—the Tom Collins—they disappeared, they conquered. After the first round, I begin t onotice for the first time what a keen looking little Brown my partner was. After the second round had been drunk, Secret had the waiter to bring us a soup-bowl full of nickels so we could keep the two nickeledomzbn two nickelodeons going all the time. We kept one of 'em playing "Flat Foot Floosy", and the other "My Little Yellow Basket", while we stepped off the Big Apple with the girls.

After the 3rd round of Tom Collins' I called the proprietor and told him to close the doors that me and Secret didn't have Nothing But Money and that we wanted the joint to ourselves. He kicked up however, and says nothing doing, that his place wasn't no buffet flat. I tried to argue him down but he stood pat, so I ended up by buying a drink for everbody in the place . . . .

I'd like to tell you the rest of the stary but I don't happen to know, myself, neither does Secret. Because when we come to, we was in Newton street jail on a Sunday morning. He was bent nearly double from a fresh attack of lumbago, while the rheumatism had my left leg throbbing like it had a head ache. I looked at Secret, and Secret looked at me.

"Laundryman," he says; "This was a bum steer you figured out this time, trying to help the Guv'ment circulate this Townsend money."

I admitted sadly that it sure was, and told Secret that for once in his life he was Right. "And now," says I; "is a good time to decide about this pension business once for all. Do we want to keep it, and continue on living under a strain trying to keep the Guv'ment inspector off us; or do we want to make our own living, be our own boss, and live in peace, like we been doing all these years."

Secret flinched for a brief moment as a lumbago twitch struck him. Then he said slowly; "I done made up my mind already. I guess we will get out of here sometime today, that is if we ain't killed nobody. And when that Guv'ment inspector knock on our door on Monday morning, I'm going to tell him to tell Jimmy Roosevelt--I think he's the one what's in the chair now--that me and you ain't going no further with this pension business. And that although we love the House of Roosevelt, they ain't no use of us killing ourselves trying to help the country by circulating this Townsend money. Let the Young Folks do it."

Rave notices given the Capra-Riskin "You Can't Take It With You" herald happy days for comedian Eddie Anderson. Anderson appears in the pic and several top-notch critics have neglected Arnold, Barrymore, Arthur, et al, to give the dusky laugh-man superlative rating. Capra, whose small son died while his latest cinema triumph was being previewed, is the director who took the Hall Johnson choir out of the "spiritual" class and gave them some real singing in "Lost Horizon". Hall Johnson's recordings for that epic are generally recognized as the greatest choral work ever done for films. The influence of oriental rhythms carried out in "Lost Horizon" is seen in Johnson's latest, "Run, Little Chillun".

Ted LeBerthon's return to "Night Court" this week is heralded. The failure of LeBerthon's Hollywood column is a sad commentary on something in the American mind. They just couldn't stand glamorous Hollywood seen through the eyes of a guy more interested in the starving than the stars.

Was Million Dollar embarrassed when their alleged new contractee, Nina Mae McKinney, did NOT arrive Sunday morning? What with cameras 'n everything, she was to be greeted in the true Hollywood fashion. A slip-up in calculating the time accounted for the mistake.

The slam-bang affair at the Tivoli election night must have established some sort of precedent. Under the sponsorship of Curtis Mosby, one-time syncopator par excellence of the state, and Mrs. Faustina Johnson, breakfast club executive, the meeting was attended by scores of the outstanding candidates. Vaudeville show preceded introduction of politicians. By all reports, the get-together was one of Mr. Lawson's "killer-dillers".

Friend McAdoo's appearance on the back-porch of that there special train with the Prez did not create just the desired effect. (The theatrical aura of that whole play qualifies it for the drama page.) After the performance of Roosevelt's other endorsee down South Carolina way, it is doubtful whether the candidates will be so anxious to get their "pitchers" took with him in the future.

'Jitterbugs' to Swing at Gilmore

More than twenty thousand "jitterbugs" from all parts of Southern California are expected to attend the monster championship American Legion Swing Carnival which will be held by members of Walter Brinkop Post the afternon and night of September 11 at Gilmore Stadium.

That was the announcement of m H. Fisher, president of the Southwest Merchants - Veterans Association, one of the sponsoring agencies, who stated that more than 150 couples have already entered their names in the contest. Virtually every major city and town south of the Tehachapi will be represented among the contestants who will compete for the Southern California championship title under the rules of the dance Contest Club of America, said Fisher.

Tickets for the event were placed on sale this week among merchants and other business houses throughout the Southwest district and advance reservations have already far exceeded expectations, Fisher reported. Three prices will be charged for admission to the contests, $1 for reserved boxes of which there only a limited number, 60c for reserved grandstand seats and 40c for general admission.

Announcement that Kenny Baker's famed "jitterbug" orchestra has been selected for the wild night swingeree was hailed with enthusiasm by teams already entered in the contest. Baker's orchestra is what swing fans term "hot".

Because of the widespread enthusiasm displayed in the "jitterbug" carnival, the first outdoor event of its kind to be held on the Pacific Coast, Fisher announced that the final date for receiving entries has been extended from September 3 to September 7.

In order to facilitate the handling of the large number of entries that are being received daily and also accommodate the heavy demand for advance reservations, special officers have been opened by the merchants and legionnaires at 976 West Manchester. Complete information regarding tickets and entry blanks can be obtained by communicating with the Legion Swing Contest Committee at that address or by telephoning PL. 9116, said Fisher.

Because of the large number of teams competing in the contest at Gilmore Stadium and also to accommodate the huge throng that is expected to attend the various events, it was decided to stage the preliminary contests during the afternoon and the finals at night.

In addition to the Southern California championship titles, teams will also compete for cash prizes. First prize will be $100, second, $50, and third, $25.

Judges of the finals will be three of the country's foremost exponents of swing music, Geneva Sawyer, Nick Castle and Nat Young, all of 20th Century-Fox Studios. Miss Sawyer and Castle have also agreed to give a demonstration of the latest "jitterbug" steps as a highlight of the night program.

The contest is being staged in form of a curtain raiser for the national Legion convention which will open in Los Angeles about the middle of September. Funds derived from the contest will be used to bring championship uniformed Legion bands, drum and bugle corps and drill teams to Southwest Los Angeles during the week of the convention.

Picture: "The Crowd Roars"
Players: Robert Taylor, Maureen O'Sullivan
Place: Loew's State

"The Crowd Roars" could have been great drama—real and compelling. As it is, the picture is a rousing little opus with two or three outstanding portrayals and the usual incredible, off-key "happy-ending".

But before I delve into a scholarly (?) criticism, let us pause. For the first time, I have viewed the precious palpitating puss of Robert Taylor without suffering positive pangs of nausea. Of course, psychologists would probably explain my attitude as the symptom of an ingrown frustration, or something. However, so far as I can remember the moment when I realized Taylor to be a fair enough actor coincided oddly with that beautiful instant when some Kongish looking gent bounced a hammer-like fist off'n Robbie's beezer. It was also heartrending to note a slight bulge about the Taylor midriff. Seriously, though, M-G-M's newest he-man has come through his metamorphosis (remember when he used to whisper poetically into Garbo's ear?) in fine shape. He tried his level best to put some real meaning into the hapless hole of "Killer McCoy". If he continues in the same vein, "Taylor," in the histronic sense, will no longer synonym with "Terrible". By that time, though, he'll probably have paunches and jowls—which automatically will disqualify his efforts.

Back to "The Crowd Roars". Edward Arnold herein portrays Edward G. Robinson portraying the guy in "Kid Gallahad" who kept his daughter stowed away in an up-state farm—"away from the lugs". Arnold has little difficulty in making the thing plausible—if not probably. Frank Morgan comes through with a delicately balanced performance as the no-good father. Although gestures, etc., are faintly reminiscent of Lionel Barrymore, Morgan definitely is to be considered more than that funny fellow who always sputters.

By the way, the film concerns one Killer McCoy who thinks of the fight game only as means to "big dough", his father who looks at anything as a means to big benders, his manager who also operates from do-re-me angle, and the manager's daughter who looks on the whole fight-game as a "Ghastly affair". She reforms Taylor and Arnold. Morgan is killed in a climatic last minute grand-stand play.

The first scenes of the film, showing the poverty and ugliness of "Killer McCoy's" background, are exceptionally well-done—in fact, so realistic that the usual "routine" chinanigins through the film's latter areas suffer greatly by contrast. The happy-ending is achieved with a great deal of strain. In order to pacify his bride, Taylor gives up fighting. Earlier in the film he has attempted the same thing; found himself unable to get work of any kind. What assurance is there that he can find employment any more easily in a second sacrifice of a ring career? Then, too, how strange that Edward Arnold, obsessed with the idea of making his daughter a "lady", should suddenly transform into a well-wishing parent at her marriage to a lowly "pug". Oh, well, why be technical?

NINA MAE McKINNEY FAILS TO ARRIVE; LARGE CROWD ON HAND

By Harry Levette for A. N. P.

They had acted upon a wire from New York offices of Million Dollar Productions declaring that she would arrive at 8:30 A. M. the following Sunday to start a new picture for the company with an all-colored cast.

Among those at the station to meet Miss McKinney were: Lawrence Criner, former Lafayette player, and one of the stars of the new production; Reginald Fenderson, of stage and screen version of "Green Pastures"; War Perkins, well-known colored radio announcer; Lawrence F. La Marr, Negro Press Bureau, Joe Harris, Reflector colmunist, and Harry Levette, coast representative of the Associated Negro Press.

A huge boquet of flowers, one of Ralph Porter's masterpieces and the anxiously awaiting group attracted the attention of many white persons at the station who also gathered close making many inquiries about the expected celebrity. But after three trains had arrived over the U. P. and S. P. with no Nina in sight all disapointedly scattered and left the station. However, at last reports she missed the first one and will arrive on a later one.

Casting for Million Dollar's new feature, "Gang Smashers" was to start the next day after Nina Mae's arrival with production to be rushed through at once in order to have it released before the first of the year.

The glamorous star who sprang into the limelight through MGM's "Hallelujah is to co-star with Mont Hawley in nthe new film, with Hawley as an ace detective and she as a nurse working her way through training school by singing.

The winner of the $15.00 C. A. Vivtor Turntable was Miss Vivian Lee.

Opening at the Paramount with the dancers is the mighty drama and sureing romance, "Spawn of the North" photographed in Alaska where emotions are still primitive and men fight one another and struggle against nature.

CLAIM EDNA HEARD AS VERSATILE AS ANY COMPOSER CAN BE

One of the most important figures in the Los Angeles Federal Theaters Project set-up is Miss Edna Heard, FTP's only lady composer, who services the West Coast string of drama and music projects with original compositions and musical arrangements for their productions, and wrote the entr'acte, "Travellers in Black" for "Run, Little Chillun", currently playing at the Federal Mayan theater.

Interviewed this week in the music department of the project, which is said to be the largest centralized theatrical unit in the world, George Dilworth, music superviser for Southern California, declared that the talented race woman is as versatile as any composer could possibly be.

"I have not given her any assignment she has not done beautifully", Dilworth said. Miss Heard is the only Negro among 145 employees working under Mr. Dilworth.

In addition to being a composer, she is a concert singer and plays the piano in the most able manner. Dr. Rufus von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, referred to her as "an artist of achievement" upon her graduation from the College of Music. Critics say of her music that "it is extremely masculine in character, a gift and an accomplishment rarely if ever found in the creative work of women."

Miss Heard does not seem to care just what subjects she is given for treatment. Composers of theatre and picture music must be versatile. Her work in such Federal productions as "Aladdin," is Arabian, Moorish and Oriental in style and character. "Travellers in Black" which she wrote on short notice, is most predominately American Negro. In her "Will Shakespeare" score, however, the music is distinctly Old English and reminiscent of the Elizabethan Period without any trace of Asiatic, African or Negro influence. "London in Spring", from the score of "Night Must Fall", is a modern tone poem. Another selection, "The Peacock," from the same score, is a concert waltz.

MIXED RHYTHMS

Asked what style of music she likes best, Miss Heard explained that she enjoyed composing the operetta, "A King in Africa" most because the music is a mixture of East Indian, Congo and American Negro.

The lady neither drinks, smokes nor chews. She writes on street cars, in public parks and in the backyard of her beach home in Santa Monica, when she is not composing in her well-appointed music room of the project.

Critics Acclaim Capra Film at International Preview

With the world's press, as represented by several hundred authorized motion picture correspondents, writing columns in praise of the picture in Hollywood, and with packed houses in New York's Radio City Music Hall at the world premiere last Thursday, Frank Capra's new Columbia production, "You Can't Take It With You", this week got away to a brilliant screen start.

Long queues of prospective patrons in New York lined the streets early in the morning to await the opening of the picture version of the Kaufman and Hart Pulitzer prize stage success, now in its second year a few blocks away at the Booth Theatre. When the Music Hall doors opened at 10 o'clock in the morning, the crowds packed the big auditorium for the first show.

Thereafter, through the colorful evening events when Gotham's socialites mingled with the masses as a formal tribute to a great picturization and a great performance by comic Eddie Anderson, the "world premiere" was a day and a night for new box office records.

In Hollywood, where the "international preview" for the press was staged with eclat on two of Columbia's modern gigantic twin stages, the picture's presentation was more moviesque. The preview, with principals of the cast in attendance, was staged for all the correspondents of American and foreign publications.

3-DAY PACIFIC COAST TENNIS TOURNEY TO OPEN SATURDAY

Possibly this locality's most important annual sepia sport program, the Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament will get underway Saturday morning at Griffith Park. Play will start with the junior matches at 9 a. m. on Saturday and will continue through Labor Day. Approximately 150 players are expected to participate. The official entry will not be completed until drawings are held tomorrow night (Friday) at the 54th Street Branch of the Y. M. C. A.

Eleven championships are on the block with as many defending champions expected on hand. Interest centers about the men's singles title, which has been held by James (Slick) Stocks of Pasadena for the past eight or nine years, and the women's title, which has had three different champions in the past three years.

Will Stocks be able to hold his own again this year, is the question that has been asked up and down the Coast since the tennis season started. Last year at Oakland, "Slick" was faced by possibly the largest field of potential champions since he first won the title. However, with little or no effort he turned them back to emerge victorious in that event and in the doubles, with Paul Ford as his partner in the latter.

MAKES 'COMEBACK'
JULIETTE HARRIS, on the "comeback trail".

McDANIELS BOOMED

Foremost contenders for the plump, brown man's crown this year will doubtless be players from the Ross Snyder Tennis club, Eastside organization which is hosting this year's matches. Jimmy McDaniels, winner of the Southern California title in Stock's absence last July, is rated number one, followed closely by Bill Deane and Emil Collins. If the efforts of those lads come to naught, Stocks will still have the North's Harold Wilcox, last year's runner-up; "Schoolboy" Mitchell, San Francisco Jayvee phenomena; Paul Ford, and Ted Allen, with which to reckon.

Feminine racquet wielders who have each shared the title for the past three years will be even starters Saturday. Last year's winner, Gwendolyn Robberson, anticipates a duel with Juliette Harris, holder of the title for a number of years and loser two years ago. Between the two of them might come year-before-last's champion, Carriebelle Deane. All three are representatives of the Ross Snyder club.

Dark horses may blast the hopes of all three of the aforementioned if plans of Elvse Bute and Otis V. Wiggins, also Ross Snyder players, do not go astray. Miss Bute put on a very fine duel with Miss Harris in the Southern California play-offs. Although defeated after the close match, she is fortified by experience, practice and instruction, and is given a fair chance to upset the dope. Miss Wiggins was the surprise winner of the Southern California title, defeating Mrs. Robberson.

The North's contributions to the women's singles competition is not calculated to give the young women mentioned any serious difficulty, but will doubtless concentrate on the doubles event. Top players are Mrs. Mavme Stewart and Miss Lulu Chapman.

Almost as tenacious as the hold of Slick Stocks is the grasp young Leonard Fuller holds on the junior boys' title. Fuller has held the championship for the past three years and is ceded a ten-to-one advantage over any and all comers in his bracket.

DEFENDS TITLE
LEONARD FULLER, 15-year-old racqueteer who is defending his boys' title.

Bray Easily Whips Androff

Big Boy Bray overcame the handicap of a running and clutching foe here Tuesday night at the Olympic Auditorium to easily win a 10-round decision. His so-called foe was Frank Androf, called "the Great" in Minnesota but merely a shadow in California.

Centering his attack on the body Bray had little difficulty in gaining the nod. His greatest difficulty was in trying to catch up with the bicycling Androff.

Other results were: Bill Poland landed a left hook flush on Ken Pearson's jaw to win the six-round semi-windup by a last round kayo; Frank Hartnek decisioned Frank Riggi in another six; Silent Joe Hill eked out a four-round decision over Charley Johnson, and Adam Moraga and Willie Fields boxed a fast draw.

Gold Offers Support to Net Tourney

As evidence of its complete integration into the life of the Eastside community, the Gold Furniture company at Washington and Central Avenue, this week offered active support of the Pacific Coast Tennis tournament, the 17th annual play-off of which, gets under way at Griffith Park Saturday.

Commenting on its business principles in an advertisement in the official tournament bulletin, Gold stated:

"We couldn't qualify as tennis experts—but we do know about service. We have been practicing for over twenty years until our service is ACES in the furniture and appliance field. We SERVE with complete, correct stocks—WE SERVE with low prices—WE SERVE with the easiest terms—and rember NO MONEY NEEDED AT GOLD'S".

Mead Denies Nov. 2 Bout for Henry

Arriving here last Saturday morning, triple champion Henry Armstrong found things milling fast and furiously about his crown-studded head this week.

Reports from the East that he would defend his welterweight title November 2 against Cefrino Garcia in New York were denied by Armstrong's manager, portly Eddie Meade. Meade said Henry wouldn't fight until his lip had completely healed and he didn't know when that would be.

He did admit, however, that Hank's next bout would be against a welterweight.

It was "Henry Armstrong night" at Olympic auditorium Tuesday. The triple champion was introduced by peer announcer Dan Tobev and spoke words of appreciation for the support of local fans.

Jackie Wilson to Fight Brandelli

Jackie Wilson, 1936 Olympic Games boxing star, meets Babe Brandelli of Ocean Park in one of two 10-rounders carded at the Olympic auditorium next Tuesday night.

The other 10 features Danny London against Kui Kong Young. The card promises to be an attractive one.

Young G. O. P. Forum Formed

The Young Republicans Forum was organized here last Monday evening in the asembly room of the Eagle building at 41st and Central avenue.

Interested in issues and men, the Forum expects to wield much influence in things politic. The next meeting of the organization will be held Friday, September 16. Those of voting age are invited to attend.

All-Star Grid Team to Play 'Chi' Bears

CHICAGO, Sept. 1. (CNA) — Ozzie Simmons, Fritz Pollard, Jr., Dwight Reed, Clarence Hinton, Willis Ward and many other stars will return to the gridiron in a big Negro All-Stars vs. Chicago Bears football game at Soldiers Field in Chicago on September 23.

The glaxy of Negro football players will don uniforms to battle the famous Pro Bears of the American League for three Chicago charities, the Abraham Lincoln Center, Hull House, and United Charities of Chicago.

The game is expected to be precedent-setting inasmuch as professional football, like its big brother professional baseball, has in the past discriminated against Negro stars. Many in Chicago look for it to be the first step in inevitable ending of Jim Crow on the pro football field, an ending presaged by the emergence of a great bunch of Negro aces in the colleges; led by All-American Brud Holland of Cornell.

In letter asking George Halas to agree to the game, Joel Hunter, head of the United Charities of Chicago, wrote:

"American Negroes have contributed to the many thrills in all branches of sport, particularly in football, boxing, and track, and have proved their competitive calibre and sportsmanship. Many of them have represented the United States in Olympic Games. We now have Negro stars on the varsity of Northwestern, Minnesota, Cornell, Syracuse, So. Dakota, Iowa, and the University fo California at Los Angeles."

The team will be selected through a poll in the Negro Press, it was stated.

Civic Leaders, Educators to Aid Youth

Leaders in civic and educational fields throughout California have pledged enthusiastic coperation for the guidance and assistance of needy young people, according to Anne deG. Treadwell, National Youth Administration Director for the State of California.

Mrs. Treadwell announces the appointment from Washington of a State Advisory Committee to serve until July, 1939 and to correlate projects financed by the Federal Government and sponsored throughout the state by schols and other non-profit institutions both public and private.

Reappointed for the coming year are Dr. Remsen D. Bird, President of Occidental College; Professor F. L. Griffin of the Department of Agriculture in the University of California at Davis; Mrs. Irene T. Heineman, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of California; Guy M. Hoyt, Chief of the Division of Attendance and Employment of Minors for the Los Angeles Board of Education; Neville J. Rich of San Francisco; and Miss Dorothy Manners Williams, Deputy United States Attorney for northern California.

An important step forward has been taken in the organization of the NYA committee through the appointment of Dr. W. R. Carter, General Missionary for Southern California as the first member of the State Advisory Committee to represent the problems of Negro youth in the state.

No Liquor Propositions to Appear on November Ballot

No propositions relative to liquor control and regulation of liquor in California will appear on the November election ballot, it is announced by the State Board of Equalization.

While a half-dozen or so initiative petitions designed to provide changes or additions in the Alcholic Beverage Control Act were circulated during the spring and summer, the August 9 deadline for placing initiative measures on the ballot passed with none having qualified.

This is the first state election that the people have not been called upon to vote on one or more liquor propositions.

PARENTS MAY NOT SUPPLY LIQUOR

Right of parents to buy or furnish alcholic beverages for their children of near-adult age, is a question frequently put to liquor control officers, according to the State Board of Equalization.

Several instances where parents, serving liquor in the home, wished to include their children who are close to 21 years of age, have been cited to the officers.

The only answer which can be given, William G. Bonelli, board member from the fourth states, is to quote Section 61 of the Act which reads: "Every person who sells, furnishes, gives or causes to be sold, furnished or given away any alcoholic beverage to any person under the age of 21 years shall be guilty of a misdeameanor."

Formerly the law excepted parents or guardians. The 1937 legislature amended the law so that no exceptions now exist.

WOMEN MAY NOT MIX DRINKS

Section of the A. B. C. Act, forbidding employment of female bartenders, was one year old on August 27, having been inserted in the act by the 1937 legislature.

While a woman may serve drinks containing distilled spirits after someone else has mixed them, she may not legally do the mixing unless she is holder of an on-sale license or the wife of a licensee.

This section of the act has given very little trouble, according to Bonelli. Only three arrests for its violation being reported throughout the state during the first half of 1938.

Trio of Poems to Feature A Capella in Bronze

A trio of popular poems by Daniel Webster Davis, beloved Negro poet, will enhance tonight's "A Capella in Bronze" program, slated for KMPC at 9:30.

"Theorizin" is the title of Federal Theatre of the Air's current presentation and the three Davis poems that comprise the quarter hour musical session include "Stickin' to the Hoe," "Hog Meat" and "Night On The Ol' Plantashun." All represent the melancholy musings of a philosopher.

Vocal numbers to be rendered by the choir include 'Camptown Races," "Welcome Table," "Swanee River", "Carry Me Back To Old Virginia" and "Dove Sequence."

The Davis poems will be read by Earl Hall, Charles Hawkins and Lester Wilkins.

Ray, Brown to Battle for Band Crown

Gordon and Nickens announced today that that Popular Floyd Ray and his Swing Orchestra, winner of the Palomar Swing Concert, and winner over Les Hite recently, will meet George Brown and his Ebony Collegians also a winner over Les Hite, in a great Jam Session and Swing Battle, Thursday nite, September 15th, at a hall to be later announced. This affair promises to be as great attraction as has ever been pulled in the annals of Dance history. The whole city of Pasadena is expected to be out and pull for George Brown's orchestra . . . The winner will meet an outstanding white orchestra later in the year.

Dancing will start at 8 p. m. and last until 2 a. m. The affair promises to add color to the Legion convention beginning on or about the same date.

Vote Pittance to Educate Negro of La.

OPELUSAS, La., Sept. 1. (ANP)—A glaring example of the vast difference between the sums allotted to white and Negro education in the South was revealed this week with the breakdown of the report of the executive committee on estimated receipts and expenditure for the season 1938-39, for the schools of St. Landry Parish.

Under "General Fund Disbursements," the sum set aside as total payments for "white" instruction was $245,301.00, as compared with $36,481.00, for nine months basis. The following schedule is for Negroes: St. Landry Training School at Opelousas to be operated, for nine months; Washington Plaisance, Lawtell, Melville and Eunice Schools, for eight months, and all other schools for seven months.

No provision was made in the budget for bus transfer facilities for colored children, while ample provision was made for white pupils. There was also no provision made for paid Negro janitors, white schools alone being allotted money for janitor service.

NEW ANTI-LYNCH DRAMA OPENS IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. (CNA — "Hell's Half Acre", a new anti-lynch drama of the South by Abram Hill will open this week at the Bronx Apt Theatre. It is being staged by the Unity Players under the direction of Joseph Ornato.

E. Q.—Dr. Ramon I am in love with two men. I would like to know which one to take?

Ans.—I would suggest that you take the one that is twenty-eight years old. He is closer to your own age of twenty-five and you both have more in common than you would with this other party. The other man being forty-five years of age is too old for you and his ideas on living will differ entirely from yours.

L. R.—Will my anticipated husband be successful?

Ans.—I vision W. K. D. as proving a success with this profession he has chosen, through his own efforts. It will be hard going right after you are married however he soon will be making a substantial living and will bring you much happiness in life. This profession will lead him to a foreign country where sometime in the future you will make your home together.

N. B. R.—My husband and I have been having many difficulties in the past. Do you see where this will break up our home and if so will I be able to take the children?

Ans.—Indications are that your home life will eventually break up unless something is done in regards to money problems. Your husband has a tendency to throw his money away foolishly and will continue to do so unless you reproach him about this tactfully. Also if he continues this it may be wise for you to leave him for awhile and see if he doesn't change his attitude. A separation will only hurt your children, however in case of one I vision you as receiving custody of the children.

H. W.—Will I be able to do what I want to within the next week?

Ans.—There is going to be a small setback in doing this as implications will arise to interfere with your plans. However keep trying you will succeed shortly.

L. W.—Will I get more money for my work in the future?

Ans.—This will depend upon yourself whether or not you will receive more money. Concentrate your efforts in improving and you will do much better. During the early part of next year I vision you enjoying a better degree of success.

A. W.—What can I do for my father's illness?

Ans.—Your father has a tendency to worry over his condition too much and as a result he is keeping himself from getting well. I would advise him to consult a reliable physician and follow his advice religiously.

G. D.—Why is it I can't keep boyfriends?

Ans.—You appear to be backward when first meeting people, however you are quite the opposite after knowing them. Do not be so aggressive in the future. Make yourself as attractive as possible so men will notice you and when out with them be sociable at all times. Men like companions not someone continuously showing their emotions.

D. L.—Will my aunt get her Policy money due her?

Ans.—If your Aunt will take the proper steps during the coming months in getting this money from the Eastern Star she will prove successful. There has been some delay due to difficulties in checking the records.

Authority Gives Out Season for Ducks and Other Birds

Duck and water fowl regulations for 1938 are announced by the outing bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California as follows:

Open season on ducks, geese, Wilson's snipe or jacksnipe, and coot in the northern zone is October 1 to November 14; in the intermediate zone, October 15 to November 15 to December 29; all dates inclusive.

Western states in the intermediate zone are California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Those in the southern zone are Arizona and New Mexico.

This season hunters may have three canvasbacks, redheads, buffleheads, or ruddy ducks in their daily bag of 10, or an average or an aggregate of three birds of the difefrent species. These birds have been on the protected list the past two years. The possession limit for these ducks is six of any single species or six in the aggregate.

SUMMARY

Restrictions in hunting regulations this year on migatory birds that have been continued from last year are summarized as follows:

Baiting of waterfowl and doves and use of live duck and goose decoys in hunting waterfowl are not authorized regardless of the distance between the bait or decoys and the shooter.

The 3-shell limit on repeating shotguns, either hand operated or auto loading, in effect the last three seasons, is continued this season. Hunters may use shotguns not larger than No. 10 gauge.

Daily bag limit on ducks is ten in aggregate, as last season, but the possession limit has been doubled to twenty in the aggregate.

Daily bag limit on geese and brant of the kinds permitted to be killed is five in the aggregate of all kinds; possession limit has been increased to ten in the aggregate.

Waterfowl and coot still may be hunted in season only from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Snipe, rails, gallinules (other than coot), woodcock, morning doves, white-winged doves, and band-tailed pigeons may be hunted in season from 7 a. m. to sunset.

Daily bag limit on coot remains at twenty five, but this year a regulation prohibiting rallying of these birds for hunting has been added.

JACKIE VAQUERO OUT-POINTS ENGLISHMAN

LAKE CATHERINE, Wis., Sept. 1.—Jackie Vaquero, sterling welterweight from California, outpointed Sammy Shack, English welter, in a fast eight-round bout in the Dells stadium.

It was the Baby-faced Californian's first appearance here.

Vaquero, out-boxed the rugged Englishman in every round but the eighth, in which he appeared very tired and was forced to hold on. Vaquero weighed 145 and Shack 147.

THE RECALL

California elects officials as city, county, state and federal on regular schedule as does all other states, but interspersed with unnecessary, uncalled-for "special" affairs, only serve to increase the heavy tax burden under which the people are groaning.

Wages of city employes have been reduced to a point where a mere existence is eked out, and many have been "laid off" because of lack of funds to maintain certain departments. Streets in residential districts are served only once during a month, yet a few individuals who thirst for power and control, care not for the cost, care not for the toilers who serve the public, pay the expense of upkeep and maintenance of the city, add to our burden by hoodwinking enough honest people to sign petitions calling for a special election to recall the Mayor.

The money to be squandered on September 16 could be profitably spent and save those extra bills that are sure to be added to our already rising taxes.

The whole story is written around one Clifton E. Clinton, wealthy cafeteria operator, who seeks revenge because the city health department compelled him to comply with the laws of health and sanitation in his places, which cost several thousand dollars.

Wealthy and more wealth rolling into his cafes daily, Mr. Clinton used every means to circulate false rumors and build up a feeling of resentment against Frank L. Shaw, the present Mayor and his entire administration.

Four and five radio broadcasts daily were and are being financed by Mr. Clinton. This backed by a few sob sisters and unfortunates out of work and willing to circulate petitions at ten cents per name and peddle whatever propaganda dished up, is the how of it all.

The present city administration (best during our quarter of a century in business in Los Angeles) has really kept pace with the times and placed us in the forefront of all American cities.

Mayor Shaw has adopted strict cosmopolitan policy in his administration, recognizing in his official family all groups, regardless of creed, color, race or religion. With Shaw, all Americans have a right to a place in the government other than just casting a ballot.

Negroes especially have much for which to thank Mayor Shaw. Los Angeles has had as chief executives, Spaniards, Mexicans and just plain, common, everyday whites, and none have given the group such high recognition as Mr. Shaw.

Glancing at the Mayor's official family it makes the heart of a black man or woman swell with especial pride when we gaze thereon and see Norman O. Houston, Paul R. Williams and Mrs. Edith Jones, on the housing and city planning commission; Drs. Ruth J. Temple, N. Curtis King, W. E. Bailey, and Frank R. Whiteman, filling big chairs in the health department, and Dr. Albert Baumann, investigator in the engineering department.

No city in America has given Negroes such a play in its government. No mayor, be he Jew, Italian, or what-not, has had the intention to go thus far with us. As a group, we'd be less than ingrates at this time to desert this man who has fought his way up from a neighborhood grocery clerk to Mayor of the nation's fifth city. In his upward climb, Frank Shaw has lifted us with him; let's not fail him September 16.

PIPE OF PEACE

The Several Scribes are planning a smoker, honoring the 63rd birthday of Fred C. Williams, veteran editor and publisher, retired. Fred's a grand old boy, though sightless, is as cheerful as a kid of ten years. Go to it, boys; give the old dude a dandy send off.

Jim Brooks, one-time secretary to Mayor Frank E. Moores, Omaha, remarked to ye scribe: "I'm out of politics. I have adopted the EAGLE as my political bible. As barkeeper here at the Harlem, it gives me all that I care to take on. Tell Mrs. Bass to keep up the good work."

CUSSEDNESS

We've faced many things in the rugged path in the fight to keep the EAGLE afloat. But of all the nerve and gall we have just located the dad of all things, malicious and spiteful in the form of a youngster who has placed on the market and sold the EAGLE and sent us on a travel junket. If such a thing should come to pass, we'll announce it in plenty of time. Ah, these children in the game. They know not what it's all about.

BUYER'S GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

As long as Negroes look to the white race for ready made jobs, they will be caught and bourne down by every economic depression that comes along. Colored people can avail themselves of the many existing opportunities of creating their own employment.

Negro youths must be trained to have confidence in their own abilities as business men, and encouraged to go into business for themselves. The Negro race has a purchasing power of about $3,000,000,000 a year, yet they are suffering because they have practically no purchasing power. Some of this $3,000,000,000 might easily be kept within the race, and used to establish enterprises where colored youth can get business experience and training.

This business experience and training is essential to fit them to successfully meet competition in the business world. Success assured, they will be their own boss, and their opportunities will be unlimited, depending upon their ability and ambition. They will not be discriminated aganst because of color, and most important of all, they will be building a secure economic foundation for generations to follow.

Statistics show that about 50,000 of the 12,000,000 Colored Americans are engaged in business. The majority of these people who have gone into business are for the most part confining their activities to the service trades, such as barber shops, restaurants, undertaking parlors, tailor shops, etc. From this, one can readily see that the Colored people in America are not engaged in the fundamental and producing industries of the times, and that barter and trade has not been a part of our group. This has been due to a lack of cooperation within the race, as well as to the lack of opportunities for business experience and training.

Biographies of most of the business leaders of the race will show that these leaders began at the bottom, and worked up to the top, with but little initial capital. A number of the readers of this column are making inquiries as to how they can go into business for themselves with little or no capital. I would like to point out to these people that there is not only an opportunity to strengthen their future security, but an excellent chance for them to make spare time money, by becoming gents for quality products in their own neighborhood.

There are many sections in the United States where Colored people must travel miles to reach a desirable retail outlet, for the necessities they wish to purchase. A copy of "Specialty Salesmen Magazine" or "Independent Salesman" or any of the sales magazines, can be obtained at your local library, or at the nearest news stand. In these magazines, and in your Colored newspapers, you will find advertisements of firms seeking agents for uniforms, soaps, cosmetics, polishes, foods, clothing, etc.

By taking a few of these items, and talking about them to your friends, you can secure orders, and in a short time establish yourself in a small business. Aside from the revenue it will bring you, it will be a source of business education and experience, and a long step toward the goal for which the race must head, if we are to gain economic security.

Read your Colored papers, and patronize their advertised products.

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

EN ROUTE TO RECOVERY

Ninety-eight out of a hundred can't be wrong! And when a cross-section of American merchants' opinion reveals 98 per cent of them have reason to believe September, October, and November, will witness a nationwide swing toward recovery, there is ample indication of increasing improvement. Added to many other heartening beacons on the industrial horizon, with steel production on the advance, thousands of men marching back to jobs in the automobile industry, and home building retaining its steady pace, the world this week, to American eyes, is en route to better times.

NEW AERIAL FIGHTERS

California is preparing to stay the ravages of forest fires with a new weapon of attack, a specially designed plane having an adjustable propeller enabling it to fly low over fires, wing flaps for landing in small areas, bomb sights for accurate dumping of materials and tools, and other novel equipment. If anything testified to the need of speedy counter-assault against the havoc of California's fiery-tongued enemy, it was the 470 fires which already this season have laid waste to 200,000 acres in the northern half of the state. Planes have already been put to the test in laying down spray barrages against crop pests, and maneuvered by flying cowboys, they have proved their mettle in rounding-up wild horses. With the U. S. Forest Service now arming itself with a fire-plane, aviation has a chance to earn its spurs in a new field.

MODERN MIRACLE

New hope for the world of the sightless has sprung to life with the success of several cornea transplanting operations in California within recent weeks. Only the other day two Californians, one blind since 1932, the other for 43 years, gazed again upon a thrilling world ablaze with light and color, their veils of darkness pierced by new and healthy cornea tissue grafted to their sightless eyes. Scarcely less remarkable is the fact that in both cases, the tissue was the posthumous gift of an 80-year-old woman. It is unlikely she could have bequeathed any other gift that would have so well entitled her to enduring gratitude, that would ensure the memory of her name so high a place in the recollections of others. The promise of recovery from blindness extended by these modern miracles is, however, not to be overemphasized. Though their success has been attested, doctors fear it may be many months, perhaps years, before sufficient cornea tissue can be found to supply the overwhelming demand of those seeking to break their bonds of darkness, and who are capable of being cured.

MILK TO SUIT YOU

From all appearances, woolgathering can henceforth be placed on a rigorously scientific basis. Instead of being spun by spinners of tall yarns, it can be spun from milk. So say two Department of Agriculture scientists, who last week announced the perfection of a process whereby cows' milk can be transformed into casein fibre and "woolen" cloth. Five gallons of bottled bossy can be converted into material for a man's suit—at $1.50 per suit! This story is not cut from whole cloth, but from skim milk. The inventors have applied for a patent, alarmed woolgrowers are hastily shearing off from any plan to milk them of their livelihood, and the sheep themselves are forming a united front, determined not to be made goats of!

NEGRO HISTORY

Dear Editor:

In reply to your answer on the recent letter written by Mr. Leon E. Steward, Jr., I understood him in a different like than you and feel that you would do injustice by all "On The Sidewalk" readers by letting this conception be known. First of all I agreed with everything he said and you didn't. I feel that the thought was timely and constructively swell; besides being well written. Although you did not agree with him to that extent, I feel if you will reread it carefully and analyze the contents, I'M sure yours will drift in the same catagory.

Very recently there appeared in the Questions and Answers of the Fresno Bee, local daily; factors treating on NEGRO HISTORY. I asked why wasn't it taught in the school system here? The answer given to the question was "Mr. Hurd Negro History is taught to some extent in high school and more of it is taken up in Fresno State." But this statement isn't substantial. That extent doesn't extend very far. It was, I think, a quick "way of answering", But if see no reason why the subject isn't stressed in the system. We have a right to know the truth as Americans what our fathers on before have done;—and if the Negro is the superior race, the knowledge of the traits that would educate others dwelling in our midst, that this is true is omitted.

Methinks some of the administrators and educational heads of the "Nordic bunch," who know our history from before Solomon, the wise, and even of the Black Napoleons and all—don't want the various nationalities, in this state particularly, to be aware of such. This is an entering wedge or challenge to the theory that (California schools are superior in education.) This can not be true until they ordain the subject of "Negro History," not as a seperate class but as a legitimate portion of the compulsory study in the curriculum.

I agree with you Mrs. Bass, when you say that the work of men like Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, William DuBois, and James Weldon Johnson did not effect Negroes alone, but dealt its greatest impact upon the nation as a whole. And I am sure Mr. Steward did not mean anything relative to building toward a sense of exclusiveness, without a man spending eleven years in the public schools of Los Angeles should, in that time, run across something historical on the Negro. It is a matter of fact Mrs. Bass that the study of Negro History is compulsory in the white schools of the South! The board of education attempts to keep the study from Negro schools and yet it is taught to whites. Even beyond the extent that it is a compulsory study there, these are mixed schools, here—mixed education should be advocated. Universities over the world call for some of the seven works of Carter Godwin Woodson. Why can't a superb educational center as California study "The Negro in Our History?" Pay strict attention to Mr. Stewart's fourth paragraph—"Since it is not so hard to adopt ones' self if he is willing to the learning of another, why shouldn't there be some subject in which to test the adaptability of the white race!

Again I impress upon your mind that the whites may also desire knowledge of the fact that, Edison would not dwarf Carver, that Longfellow could not over-shadow Johnson, or Bancroft, the historian, eclipse DuBois.

Thanks,
B. BASIL HURD

function of white institutions, the Negro universities of America are training men and women not only in the acquisition of knowledge, but are instilling within them a philosophy of opposition to the ills of political and economic discrimination.

The ignorant backwoods farmer's sending his son to Wilberforce, Fisk or Howard. There that boy learns a theory of intelligent antagonism which he never could have garnered at home. When he returns, he no longer is the offspring of people willing to endure or unaware of the indignities heaped upon them, but is one in an ever-growing brotherhood of young southern Negroes prepared to fight these things.

The northern or western Afro-American is born with the heritage of equality. No fancy boarding-schools are necessary to instill in him an aggressive self-respect. The thought of the interracial policy of the South is usually a Red-flag to him--therefore he too is a valuable weapon in the fight against that system. Wherever the fear of the white man is removed, the power of the white man is challenged.

Black men and women are readying themselves for the titanic struggle. Whether it is aware or not, the South soon will be called to give up its most beloved privilege--the right of domination. Yesterday, today, tomorrow, this very intent--Negroes are arming themselves with the knowledge essential for the coming conflict. For Afro-America is now convinced that political independence will be gained--not through the magnanimosity of a President, Congress, or tribunal--but by way of an intelligent well-planned campaign of its own. Joe Louis, John Henry Lewis, Henry Armstrong have defeated white supremacy in pugilism--Walter White, W. E. B. Dubois, and many others are ready to blast white supremacy in politics!

SEVERAL times within the past few months Herr Adolph Hitler, with much trumpeting, massing of troops, and so on has attempted to bluff Czeckoslavakia into submission.

Hitler is the only fascist potentate who has staged a successful invasion. This was accomplished, however, only because a generous Austrian politician decreed that loss of blod was useless. The great machines of Mussolini, Franco, and Hirohito have met with sad fates in their great campaigns. Il Duce will not allow any kind of visitor in Ethiopia; the reason, simply that War is far from finished. Japan's supposedly "quick" grab in China has become more and more a permanent fixture on the front-pages of the world's great periodicals. The Spanish revolution, which was to be ended some six months ago, rolls merrily on its way, with new dispatches daily of Loyalist opposition.

Hitler, because of this, is a very cautious man. There is a great difference between the people of Austria, really Germanic, and those of Czeckoslavakia. Outside the Sudeten Nazi party, there is hardly a citizen who would not die in the preservation of that nation's new independence. They are a hard-bitten, war-like people.

A million soldiers have massed on their border, and they have not quivered. Hitler has snarled, raved, threatened, and howled--they have not shuddered. And the Sudeten does not dare open revolt.

Obviously the quick putsch is something of doubtful proportions. If beaten, hungry Loyalist Spain can hold off a Franco backed by the volunteers of Fascist Europe, no doubt Czeckoslavakia could involve her Aryan neighbor in many embarrassing encounters. Ultimate victory for Hitler-barring intervention--is practically assured. However, bankrupt Germany would scarcely risk an expensive War at this time. Hitler has found a stone wall of opposition and has answered only with vain howls of rage.

For the moment the contention of Anthony Eden, ex-British Foreign under-secretary, is upheld. It is he who said "The path to peace is not always retreat!"

Sinbad the Sailor

Alabama and the Scottsboro case are before the public again. This time the southern state is shown in the role of Sinbad the Sailor trying to unload its burden of the five remaining prisoners in the ill-famous seven-year-old travesty upon justice, yet reluctant to do so.

Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers of New York, the chairman of the Scottsboro Defense Committee, talked for twenty minutes before the Alabama State Board of Pardons, outlining reasons for liberating the five youths—Heywood Patterson, Ozie Powell, Clarence Norris, Andy Wright and Charlie Weems.

From careful observation of what has been transpiring under the surface in Alabama political circles since the beginning of the Scottsboro Case, we can safely say that Alabama has already made up its mind to get rid of the case. Now comes the action by the Board—its refusal to free all of the boys. Alabama is a Balky Sinbad.

It is significant to note that in press reports emanating from Montgomery, Albama, the New Yorker made it plain that the Scottsboro Committee in return for pardons for the youths now in custody would assure the state of Alabama that the five would be rehabilitated without exploitation.

In other words, Alabama has feared for at least three years the result of tours, speaking engagements and other forms of publicity built around the defendants in the case. It got a sample of what to expect when Ruby Bates, one of the accusers of the nine boys, made a sudden and unexpected about face and repudiation of testimony. Miss Bates followup tour of principal cities in the North did Alabama's judicial system no good.

Thus it can readily be seen that Alabama has no intentions of getting in the same boat with her sister state, Georgia, which is still suffering from the effects of Angelo Herndon's description of its chain gang system and its attitude toward the Negro.

The sons of two former governors of Alabama, the reports state, were said to have added their intercessions on behalf of the prisoners along with that of Dr. Chalmers, Forney Johnston, a Birmingham lawyer, and Donald Comer, a cotton mill operator, the two referred to, wanted the state to free the boys without regard to their guilt or innocence. All they wanted was for Alabama to get rid of the boys.

It also came out that a big New York manufacturer had turned down a proposition to open a plant in Alabama because of the unfavorable light turned on the state by the Scottsboro fiasco.

It is bruited about in many business circles in the South that several other big business interests have refused to go into the state because world opinion has turned thumbs down on it.

Whether the first four boys liberated in the case were exploited is not the subject here. Negroes want all nine freed as a point of principle and as proof that constitutional guarantees are not predicated upon lines of color and previous station in life.

That the churches and other right wing organizations moved slowly at the inception of the drive to free the boys and thereby gave the communists an opening to step in and take the lead, is common knowledge. Since the Reds were more or less successful with their sensational methods of handling the case at that stage, their claim of reward was inevitable.

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

on the sidewalk

by c. a. b.

LAST SATURDAY evening, Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, spoke at Boyard auditorium on the grounds of the University of Southern California and under the joint sponsorship of the Oxford group and the "Sons of Norway".

Hambro is recognized as one of Europe's leading statesmen, has held almost every important post in the League of Nations, and consistently has been returned to his official position in Norway. The energetic Norwegian also finds time for book-reviewing, translating, an ardent study of languages, and possesses a tongue capable of achieving international eminence in the field of satire.

In the main, Hambro discussed two things Saturday evening. One: Why have the attempts at world peace failed so completely. And two: What can we do to rehabilitate this project?

When considering international affairs or disputes, the League of Nations is brought to mind immediately. Often we criticize and lambast, and yet really are unaware of the deep-rooted, predestined causes for that organization's complete collapse in maintaining world peace.

Hambro pointed out that the very inception of the League of Nations was evidence pointing conclusively to the present international embarrassment suffered by the league. Principally, he states, the association of nations was conceived as a body of victors—intent only upon the preservation and protection of war gains. The league covenant, though couched in lofty phrases and supposed high ideals, actually reflected only pious hot-air of victorious states. It was on this ground that the fiery little Norwegian opposed the entrance of his native land into the organization at the time of its birth. However, his objections were overruled and Norway, fortunately, became a member.

The initial set-up of the League of Nations held five seats on the Supreme Council permanently under the control of the great nations, with four temporary seats guaranteed the smaller ones. At the time a Geneva wit remarked that the league conventions, if nothing else, would not become a housing problem. The so-called "great powers", he piped, could occupy one house with the other nations filling in as butlers, gardeners, cooks and other attendants.

The obvious unfairness of this arrangement was endured by the lesser, sincerely peaceful countries in the belief that a permaneht organization of all nations might be evolved, thru time, into something more nearly akin to a court of international justice. Hence, for years the northern European powers, most aggressive of minor blocs and including Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, and Finland, led a relentless battle against the unjust system of representation on the supreme council. Finally, their efforts were rewarded, and today the supreme council functions with the "great nations" in a minority and its powers of appropriation greatly decreased. Much of the duties formerly performed by that body are now in the hands of the assembly, which renders each nation but one vote.

Hambro revealed many of the tremendous strides the league has made in its various humanitarian pursuits. The control of the world opium supply—hitherto considered an out-and-out impossibility — shall remain forever as one of the outstanding examples of international unselfishness and cooperation. Many countries whose near entire revenue was derived from the drug trade agreed to a systematic lessening of opium production in order to safeguard the welfare of distant, unknown peoples.

The incredibly extensive refugee relief service is recognized as perhaps the league's greatest single contribution. Through investigation it was learned that many jobless, homeless refugees spent the balance of their lives in jail. It was revealed that a citizen of, say, Nation X, fleeing some great catastrophe or conflagration is cast into prison for illegal entry when crossing the border into hypothetical Nation Y. At the end of a prescribed month sentence, he must leave the country. Return to the native land must be accomplished without a visa, and thereore a jail sentence awaits any homeward trek. In this manner it was found that many had spent fifteen or twenty years, desperate and disowned, in the various border prison camps of Europe. With swiftness and efficiency, the league established refugee projects in Africa and South America, re-establishing thousands upon thousands of formerly hopeless people.

Another service of international importance is the immense research in social diseases undertaken by the medical committee, and the stabilization of preventative injections for various maladies throughout the world.

Hambro pointed to the spectacular success of these programs as a proof that world cooperation is possible and plausible—in fact, made impossible only by the advent of selfishness in the administrations of the "great powers".

When the Italo-Ethiopian outburst occurred the League of Nations was on trial before the NAACP Asks Explanation of U.S. Policy

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.— Following receipt of several complaints from citizens recently that they were subjected to what they felt unnecessary questioning when they sought passports for travel abroad, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has asked the United States Department to explain its passport policy.

Colored people report that they have been questioned closely and in great detail about their income and other matters not usually inquired into by government officials.

In a letter addressed to the State Department's passport division, E. Frederic Morrow, the association's branch co-ordinator said in part:

"We are wondering if this is a general policy of the government applied to all citizens who wish to travel, or if it is a policy used to discourage a certain group of people from booking pasage on transatlantic liners."

Scottsboro Defense Makes Plea

Promises That Boys Would Not Be Exploited Fails to Shake Board

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 25. (ANP)—Promises by Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers of New York, chairman of the Scottsboro Defense committee, that if freed the remaining five boys would be rehabilitated without exploitation, failed to shake the state pardons board from its determination to keep the Scottsboro youths in prison.

The board heard pleas Tuesday by Dr. Chalmers and his committee for the freedom of the boys. In an unanimous decision handed down Wednesday, the board recommended denial of clemency to two of the defendants, Heywod Patterson and Ozie Powell, and stated that Clemency pleas of the other three boys now serving sentences should not have been brought before the board at this time. They pointed out that these youths may still carry appeals to the U. S. Supreme court. They are Clarence Norris, Andy Wright, and Charlie Weems.

The hearing was held in the private office of Gov. Bibb Graves. Attorney General Albert A. Carmichael, chairman; Charles E. McCall, state auditor, and D. H. Turner, secretary of state, members of the pardons board, were present. Speaking with Dr Chalmers for the boys were Forney Johnston, Birmingham attorney, and Donald Comer, Alabama cotton mill owner and industrialist, both sons of former governors of the state.

PUBLIC POLICY

Dr. Chalmers recommended pardon as a matter of public policy, and said a New York banker, in conversation with a New York manufacturer, had vetoed a proposal to establish a plant in Alabama because of the Scottsboro case. He also deplored the case getting into the hands it did at the outset.

"Perhaps," he said, "the churches and people they represent moved too slowly. Perhaps that was why groups interested in these cases turned originally to communistic sources."

He urged to avert another Tom Mooney case and warned, "Unless we work this thing out now

Report Council Offices Reopen

Ben Ellison to Serve From Central Office on Special Assignments Throughout County; is First and Only Negro to Receive Such Appointment

The Coordinating Council Projects of the WPA of Los Angeles County, closed July 15 because of an alleged lack of funds, will probably reopen this weekend, according to a telephone report from the office of Hemans Stark, project head.

Ben Ellison, former supervisor of the South Central Coordinating Council, who suffered removal to a ditch digging project along with several members of the So. Central propect, will serve from the central office on special assignments throughout the county. He is the first and only Negro to receive such an appointment and was highly recommended because of his work in interracial relations and for underprivileged children.

Reinstated in the South Central project were Misses Yvonne Washington, and Jewell T. Luck and Harry Penn. Miss Vivian Simms will resume her duties as head of the Avalon Center recreation program.

'Y' Worker Heard on Eagle Airing

Visiting in the city this week is Leon Steward, well known YMCA authority and executive-secretary of the Glenarm Y, who appeared on the "Negro Newspaper of the Air" (8:15, KGFJ) last night

The famed "Y" worker began his career in Los Angeles when he filled a position as boys' work secretary at the old Ninth Street branch. Since then he has worked in a similar capacity in St. Joseph, Mo., St. Louis, Dallas, Texas, Chicago, and Denver.

In the course of his interview last evening, Steward pointed out that "The YMCA's greatest service is to young men—not boys, or grown men. It is at this transition period, when the influence of the home has waved, that a 'Y' supplies both physical, intellectual and moral guidance"

Steward pointed out that the organization had started out as a "young man's body" but, with the acquisition of valuable properties had become "more or less an association of mature adults". The "present trend is back to the original formation," he said.

The much-traveled "prodigal son" of Los Angeles conducted a weekly half-hour program called "Our Negro Neighbors" in Denver for more than four months last year. The program was tremendously popular and broadcast over one of the largest network stations.

Hank Gives Lie to Nordic Supremacy

NEW YORK, August 25.—The conservative New York Herald Tribune, in an editorial published August 19, poses the question: "What has become of that quaint old theory known as Nordic supremacy," and then proceeds to answer it in terms of the amazing fistic record of three world-title champion, Henry Armstrong.

The complete text of the editorial, entitled "Three Champions in One", follows:

"Devotees of boxing, the Sweet Science (or the sour science, depending upon the point of view), are far from being agreed that Henry Armstrong, the California Negro, is the greatest fighter that ever laced on gloves, but he at least has done something that no other pugilist ever did: he holds three world titles at one time, the featherweight, the lightweight, and welterweight. That is to say, he is the titular master of all pugilists weighing between 126 and 147 pounds.

"Be that as it may, not even his critics can laugh off the fact that he holds three titles, something that no other man, black or white, ever did in the history of boxing. There is now only one division, the middleweight, of which a Negro is not the champion. What has become of that quaint old theory known as Nordic Supremacy?"

WPA LABORER STABBED; 16TH MURDER VICTIM SINCE JANUARY, CLAIM

Murder Weapon was Property of Dead Man; Police Unable to Learn Identity of Victim's Assailant; 2 Held Following Coroner's Inquest

A WPA laborer became the sixteenth murder victim on the Eastside since January 1 as Mack Maxwell, 36, of 1055 E. 31st street, was stabbed to death last Saturday night in a drunken brawl

Maxwell died at his home, the scene of the stabbing, in the presence of Newton Street police station ambulance doctors. Although he was conscious when police and the ambulance arrived, groaning and twisting on the floor with knife wounds on his face and body and in his ribs, he was unable to name his assilant.

Police arrested Robert McCalman, 33, of the East 31st street address and after the coroner's inquest, charged him with the murder. Also arrested was Joe Collins, 36, also of the East 31st street address. Collins, an eye-witness to the murder, told conflicting stories of what had transpired, although it is believed he at first accused McCalman of the actual stabbing.

The murder weapon was the property of the dead man. The fighting, leading up to the stabbing, grew out of a drunken argument.

Maxwell is the second Eastside fatality in less than two weeks and the third murder victim within two weeks.

German Farmer has Negro Blood; Can't Own Land

BERLIN, Aug. 25. (CNA)—The Nazi authorities have decreed that a German peasant who had a Negro ancestor is not "fit" to own property in Hitler's Germany.

The case is that of a young farmer who was named by his uncle to inherit his farm under the Nazi hereditary farmers' act as the nearest male relative. While investigating the youth's ancestry, the Nazi authorities learned that his great-grandmother had been a mulatto. The records disclosed that she was born in 1805 in a Dutch colony, the daughter of a white farmer, and a black mother.

The Nazi court thereupon ruled that "the establishment of the existence of colored blood must necessarily lead to inability to become a peasant on German land. The requirements of blood purity are of such preponderant importance that there can be no release from them . . ."

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

OUR SUMMER HOLIDAYS are running short. We are now close to LABOR DAY and that seems to be the signal for WORK and BACK to school days for the YOUNG FOLKS. It's that final day for most of the BIG OUTDOOR pleasures and it is the BIG DAY for the SCREEN ACTORS GUILD. The actors and actresses will parade before thousands of other WORKERS as an evidence of their good faith with LABOR. The Negro players will design some clever way of DISPLAYING their ARTISTIC WARES, and strive again to win a cup for SUPERIORITY. All in all these are some of the things THAT HAPPEN every year with the same amount of enthusiasm, and END UP with every body broke from VACATIONS, happily getting back to work for the WINTER. And [illegible] that life has a definite PATTERN in the way of WORK and play. JUST IMAGINE a group of TRAVEL FILMS in SING SING, depicting the LURE of the open road and BEAUTIES of OTHER spots in the WORLD. It's a hard thing for those who can't get around, SO YOU who can go for a DAY or two in the country or a few hours at the BEACH while the GOOD HOT sun lasts, will get something out of life that PRISONERS of labor or CRIME cannot ENJOY. You can get together WITH GOOD FRIENDS and it has been said the secret of a GOOD party is to ask the wrong people and MIX THEM up. Even a good hostess must be CRUEL. And again it is a blessing to have this great LABOR DAY holiday coming up when everywhere you STEP these days you step on a POLITICIAN running for OFFICE. JUDGES who should be retained or dismissed, governors coming up, assemblymen and even congressmen, SHOVING senators aside who are also RUNNING. So take a tip from a good friend who knows that the SUMMER IS about up on LABOR DAY, and go somewhere, SEE SOMETHING, the actors and all the UNIONS offer much to look upon and think about in the EARLY MORNING. Then get back in SHAPE, go to work with a smile and plan to do the SAME THINGS BIGGER and BETTER next year. Goodbye SUMMER, GOODBYE! Falling leaves and A GOOD, BUSY WINTER ahead with ALL NEW PEOPLE in the EXECUTIVE SPOTS—HURRAH FOR LIFE!

G. L. L.—Will I marry, and if so to whom and when?

Ans.—You will meet a gentleman during this coming winter through one of your friends. This man will be tall and dark of skin and will bear the initial or W. or J. He will be a steady worker and will make you an ideal mate.

G. E. O.—Will I ever have a baby? Will my husband and I be happy with one?

Ans.—By taking the proper care of yourself and visiting a doctor and following his advice religiously I can see you having a blessed event in the future. This will bring you both much closer together.

F. K. L.—Will my future wife and I be able to pay the mortgage off or not?

Ans.—If you will concentrate your efforts in saving your money instead of spending it foolishly after you are married you will be able to take care of this mortgage very easily.

V. H.—I have two men on my mind, which one really cares for me?

Ans.—I vision G. E. D. as being very much sincere in his affections for you. Marry him as he has asked you to do. He will build this home and will bring you much happiness in life. This other man bearing the initials of D. B. doesn't care for you or anyone else. He is only thinking of his own interests and it would be advisable that you forget him.

F. A. R.—Will my husband be successful in this business he has started?

Ans.—Your husband will not make much success during the first few months. He will be able to take care of the expenses and have a little left over, however, this will improve as the weather gets colder. He has a good personality and will make many friends thereby will be able to make a success.

J. B. C.—My mother has been dead for two years, and I have been keeping house for my father and brothers. Now I have a chance to marry. Should I do this or not?

Ans.—By all means marry this man. Your father and brothers will be able to get along. You could stay at home for awhile after your marriage until arrangements are made for someone else to keep house. This man will be a means of much happiness to you and after you are married matters will adjust themselves.

H. F.—Is anything wrong with me?

Ans.—You have some tendency to imagine yourself a victim of disorder and disease, which is naturally injurious to some extent in itself, and usually is just that--imagination.

T. R.—My birthdate is June 24th. Was I born in a favorable month?

Ans.—Being born under the sign of Cancer in an awakened state or one of intellectual development planetary influences are particularly favorable to you, but are equally infavorable to but are equally unfavorable to You are blest with an unusually amount of personality and magnetism, although, of course, the extent to which this natural gift has been developed can only be determined by your own efforts.

S. W.—Why is it I can't make friends with my neighbors?

Ans.—One of your outstanding characteristics is that you have a tendency to become an "Accusing Angel" and you feel it your duty to point out the shortcomings of others and to demand a rigid adherence to a code of morals and conduct. Your friends have their own lives to live and will do so regardless of you. Try to overcome this in the future. I am sure you will be able to get along better with your neighbors.

conscience of the world. The righteous covenant was to be tested before an audience of two billion human souls. And the answer, Hambro believes, was spontaneous and wonderful. For the first time in the history of this planet, nations took out economic sanctions against a fellow state because of disapproval of an act of aggression. The Norwegian statesman, as eminent an authority as can be obtained, is convinced that the effects of that short-lived embargo against Italy proved that economic sanctions are strong enough to break any warring state. But there the brave and beautiful structure of world justice collapsed—for a foundation of hypocrisy was too great, a handicap. The "great powers", ripped from behind a twenty-year veil of Christian piety, were revealed as essentially the same conspirators and mass murderers as they were in the Middle Ages.

And to what basic thing is this complete break-down accredited? The answer, coming slowly, after a lifetime of observation, rings true from the heart of Carl Hambro. It is simply "modern diplomacy". Diplomacy—the suave and polished instigator of world chaos. Diplomacy—the institution of hidden lies, double meanings, and intense suspicion. Remove this villain and the drama of world affairs will shift toward a desired "happy ending".

But is international honesty practical? The north European nations are a living testimony to this truth. Through a thousand years of court intrigue and sly politics, Norway, Sweden and Denmark had warred. And suddenly, in the 20th century, a fear came upon northen Europe so great that it chased diplomacy out of the window. Implications in the World War held equal horrors for all three nations. With rugged honesty, this was confessed, and a joint campaign of neutrality adopted. It was successful. After the war, these new HONEST international conferences continued at three month periods. Today the five north European nations are more closely allied than any two states in America. All penal codes are uniform—there can be no Reno. A conviction in Norway is equal to a conviction in Iceland, Finland, Denmark or Sweden. All laws on commerce and tariff are identical, and a Swede unemployed in Denmark receives the same consideration as that accorded a native Dane.

Honesty and tolerance have proved themselves capable. And in the jargon of campaigners, why can't the great nations "glance at the record," "recall diplomacy", and "save the world for democracy" on a permanent basis!

LAST WEEK "The Negro Newspaper of the Air" celebrated six months on the ether-waves. Friday, a day later than usual, the special half-year anniversary edition of the California Eagle appeared. I wish to take this opportunity to express the sincere appreciation of all who have appeared weekly on the program, to you, our audience. Your response has been certainly welcome and very flattering.

However, I believe the greatest amount of congratulations at this time belongs rightfully with S. A. Scherer Loan company. We must realize that this great commercial institution took a step unprecedented in the annals of radioland when it sponsored a program directed at an intelligent Negro audience. And perhaps one of the remarkable aspects of this program's success has been the fact that it finds a truly cosmopolitan audience. Apparently directed at one group, the written response we have received shows an acute interest on the part of all Americans.

Full credit and real support should be given S. A. Scherer. Their vision and courage have brought new distinction to the race and really needed service to the public at large. Although, as a race, we of Afro-America are curiously proud of the great entertainers we have produced, the need of some sort of balance in the representation of our genius to the public has been felt. S. A. Scherer, at considerable risk, embarked upon unchartered seas to fill that need—such an institution, my friends, deserves support!

Watchman Lands in Jail On Assault Charge

William Taylor, 45-year-old watchman, who gave his address to Newton Street police as 992 E. 52nd street, thought the confines of the Central avenue section offered an opportunity for assault with a deadly weapon on unprotected white men.

Taylor is in the Central jail today awaiting arraignment on the above described charge after he threatened to cut out the heart of a "V" street car conductor and attempted to carry out his threat.

A white passenger on an Eastside "V" car early Tuesday morning of last week alighted at Vernon and Avalon and told two radio police that a colored man had boarded the street car and had threatened the conductor with stabbing because he was not permitted to ride on a voided transfer. In pursuit of the street car, the radio officers saw the car stop at Vernon and McKinley and saw the conductor and motorman struggling with Taylor, who had a knife in his hand.

"I was picking my fingernails with the knife", Taylor explained to the officers, and "I had a nervous breakdown recently and I'm not responsible for my actions."

THE BRIDAL MOB

(To Rev. and Mrs. Clayton D. Russell)

Tongues were wagging, mail bags bagging,
Thousands waited August ten,
When the "Reverend" was espousing,
"Doctor's" only daughter, Gwen.

Came the day of foresaid wedding;
The betrothal hour was, nine.
Some arrived long before sundown,
Standing patiently in line.

Throngs were clamoring for entrance,
Every door was jammed by mobs.
Women climbed through open windows,
Children uttered smothered sobs.

Perspiration streaked their faces;
Bodies struggled to and fro;
Desperation in their voices,
"Let us in!" or "Let us go!"

Concrete steps crashed under pressure,
Blacks and white screamed, in dismay,
While they strove to see the doctor,
As he gave his heart away.

Ambulances served the injured.
Police (many were on hand)
Ushered in the bridal party.
When the mob would not disband.

Bill Robinson, great performer,
Was nigh taken when he came.
They assumed he was the Reverend,
And his formals were to blame.

Thrills flashed through the crowd like lightening,
When his yellow speed-mobile,
Came. He looked like a Beau Brummel,
And his best man at the wheel.

People glad to touch his garments,
Boldly crushed his lips instead.
The indulgent, gentle Reverend,
Half complying, blushing fled.

Over heard a mother saying,
To her disappointed son;
"May God bless, preserve and keep him,
For the confidence he has won.

Dear don't fret because we're out side,
For we simply can't wedge in;
Just be glad our little "servant"
Satisfies the needs of men.

When the rites had been recited,
(Out side crowds still loathe to leave),
Police said: "They're going to greet you."
Do not whimper, Do not grieve,

For the church is overflowing,
And it really isn't wise,
To fling wide her sacred portals,
To a frenzied group this size.

Like a rare and dainty orchid,
Reluctant to bear her bloom,
Emerged Gwen, tranquilly smiling,
Waving welcome with her groom.

Never more be low in spirit,
Know that God and man are pleased,
He provided you a help mate,
That your vigil may be eased.

Tells TVA Committee of Jim Crow; Promise Probe

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 25. (ANP)—Three investigations of discrimination against Negroes in the Tennessee Valley authority, out of which nothing came, will be supplemented by another probe, the congressional investigating committee revealed Thursday after Charles H. Houston, special counsel for the NAACP, had finished testifying. Gordon R. Clapp, TVA personnel director, was instructed to make a report.

Att'y Houston told the commitee he was not opposed to the TVA itself, but merely to its policies. The NAACP had been working on discrimination in the project since 1933. A year later John P. Davis, now secretary of the National Negro congress, investigated and made a report in the Crisis under the title "TVA: Lily-White Reconstruction." In In 1935, Davis made a second probe covered in a report, "The Negro and TVA."

When these reports were brought to the attention of TVA officials, they were analyzed sentence by sentence and another investigation ordered. Dr. A. E. Morgan obtained Dr. Robert C. Weaver, then advisor of Negro affairs in the Department of the Interior, from Sec. Harold Ickes for investigation, and Dr. Weaver's report sent Nov. 12, 1935 to Dr. Morgan confirmed practically all of Davis' findings, Mr. Houston testified.

Dr. Weaver recommended appointment of a director of Negro work in the office of the TVA coordinator, appointment of Negro skilled and professional workers, and appointment of a field agent to contact these workers. But these recommendations have never been carried out nor has a substitute policy been adopted, Mr. Houston said.

The association's counsel pointed out that 24 per cent. of the skilled and professional TVA workers come from the entire nation and the rest from Tennessee valley, but Negroes do not get even one-tenth of one per cent. of the 24 per cent.

HE IS known as the "Hog King of San Diego"!

Sixty-six-year old Edward W. Anderson has been an important figure in the industrial and business life of the coast city for 45 years. His career is one of the West's most colorful and inspiring success stories.

With $1.25 in his pocket, Anderson drrived in San Diego in 1893, went to work in his uncle's grocery store at $3.00 per week. Thinking he was not making money "fast enough", Anderson quit to work on a ranch at $25 per week.

Not satisfied with ranch work, he returned to San Diego as worker in the Model Steam Laundry. The laundry was "model" in every respect, says Anderson, being the first to give employment to a Negro. Well-liked, he aided in pulling trade from other laundries; so much so, all began to employ Negroes to meet competition.

He resigned from his position as foreman over protest of his employer and served as foreman of the Anchor Laundry; then opened his own laundry, the "IX L", starting with tub and washboard with Mrs. Anderson his only helper. In 14 years he built San Diego's largest steam laundry business, had a crew of 35 employees, six wagons, and held membership in the Laundry Association. He once spent $2,000 for a single piece of machinery. His wife said that amount of money could have bought a home.

Anderson sold his laundry and bought 100 acres of land on the Mexican border. Paying $10,000 for the ranch, he sold it a year later for $15,000, after trying something which he knew nothing about—farming.

Going back to San Diego Anderson bought his uncle's grocery store—the same one in which he worked when he first went there. After six months, he sold the store to Japanese and secured a contract with the city of San Diego to handle the collection and disposition of refuse. For seven years he held this exclusive contract and disposed of combustible rubbish by incineration and sold garbage to hog-raisers.

Says Anderson: "Through the efficient service I was giving the City of San Diego, the trustees of the City of Coronado prevailed upon me to take the contract for their refuse and garbage collection and disposition. There I became interested in raising hogs myself because there was no other means of disposing of the garbage".

At first, to Anderson, "a hog was just a hog." He soon learned, however, that he might as well go in for raising real blooded stock. Securing some Tamworths interested buyers soon convinced Anderson that he should exhibit them. Result: a collection of first, second, third and fourth prize ribbons sufficient to cover the top of a large dining-room table, won at Pomona and Del Mar County Fairs and Sacramento State Fair.

Anderson became known as "the Hog King of San Diego" when he exhibited a prize hog that became a grand champion. His hog ranch, the "Silver Strand," was named by friends, and is known throughout the state. He has sold much of his prize stock for breeding purposes and is still in possession of the Coronado refuse contract. Anderson has been rated by Dunn and Bradstreet as worth $75,000, a big improvement over the $1.25 he started with.

Anderson was born in Hopkinsville, Kentucky, of slave parents; married Mary E. Quarles in 1896; is organizer of the San Diego branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and County Central Committee, elected to the latter from a district of less than 150 Negroes.

"Hog King" Edward Anderson has come by his title deservedly, as the people of San Diego will testify. He has given more employment to his group than any other Negro. His Silver Strand Ranch office is at 2736 Market Street, San Diego, California.

Jail Harlem Tammany Leader in Hines Case

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. (ANP)—Because Julius Williams, former bartender and policy runner and a Democratic district captain in Harlem under Tammany Leader James J. Hines, repudiated in court Thursday a story he had told a month ago to the grand jury, he was lodged in jail by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey as a material witness and his bonds increased from $500 to $10,000 by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

Williams had told the grand jury Hines had sent him to the policy gang headquarters for a job, and this testimony helped indict the Tammy leader as the political fixer for policy racketeers. Thursday he was expected to repeat his story in open court of how Hines sent him to look up George Weinberg, a Dutch Schultz gangster who has pleaded guilty of policy game charges.

But when Williams took the stand, he denied ever being sent to Weinberg and said he did not know Hines well until 1936, which is beyond the scope of the indictment. When he was handed an affidavit, he signed at Dewey's office, the Harlemite said he could neither read nor write and therefore did not know what the paper contained.

LIFTED WEIGHTS

It was brought out that Williams, in 1909, took a civil service examination for a job hauling ashes in the sanitation department. When Dewey wanted to know how he took this quiz without being literate, Williams said it wasn't necessary to read and he lifted weights for the examination.

When the prosecutor got an admission that the witness had collected policy slips, the latter said he could read numbers but not letters. As a politician, Williams asserted he had others read the names of voters for him.

Hines' lawyers hailed Williams' testimony as a victory and said he had been threatened with jail at the district attorney's office unless he would agree to testify against Hines.

Victim's Kin Sues Sheriff for $25,000 in Tenn. Lynching

MEMPHIS, Aug. 25. (ANP)—Charging that he made no effort to protect his prisoner from the lynchers, attorneys for Mrs. Mary Gooden Patterson, sister of Albert Gooden who was murdered by a mob last August near Covington, Ark., filed suit last week here in federal court against Sheriff W. J. Vaughn of Tipton County, Tenn., for $25,000.

The bill says, "The defendant, W. J. Vaughn, was wholly negligent of his duty to safely take, protect and guard the prisoner. He made no effort to draw a gun in his behalf when he was stopped by the lynchers; he offered no resistance to their attack, but apparently exposed the deceased to the attack in the manner in which he (the prisoner) was brought from the Shelby county jail."

Also named co-defendants were bondsmen for the sheriff.

Gooden was arrested on charges of slaying Chester Doyle, marshal of Mason, Tenn., during a raid upon a crap game. Brought here for safekeeping when feeling ran high, he was being returned in an open car for trial on August 16, 1937, when the sheriff's car was stopped by another auto, the prisoner taken out and lynched.

The grand jury attempted to probe the matter, but got nowhere. Gov. Browning offered a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the capture and conviction of mob members, but this brought no results.

Cincy Cops Seek Kluxers Who Burn Fiery Cross

CINCINNATI, Aug. 25. (ANP)—Sheriff George A. Lutz declared on Monday that if he apprehended them he would institute drastic action against the hooded band whose members last Friday night burned a fiery cross near Sharon Woods. Replying to a demand for action by the local branch of the American League for Peace and Democracy, the sheriff said:

"In regard to the incident of the burning cross near Sharon Woods, a thorough investigation will be made of the matter and if apprehended, the perpetrators will be prosecuted." The strange sight was witnessed by hundreds of spectators and by motorists who stopped along the highway Friday to view the spectacle. Deputy Sheriff Edward Nolting said he found a large placard as the embers cooled, placed at the foot of the cross and reading:

"Negroes beware! Stay in your place. Keep out of Sharon Wood--danger ahead. (Signed) Knightriders of Ohio, 800 strong." Sharon Wood is a public picnic ground. Residents could offer no clew as to the identity of the "Knightriders".

Jesse Owens to Represent Calvert Co.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Jesse Owens, famous Negro athlete, has been appointed by Calvert Distillers Corporation to represent the company in Ohio with the Negro trade and consumers in that state, it was reported this week.

The addition of Owens to the Calvert Ohio staff represents the second appointment of a member of the Negro race to Calvert's selling organization. The first member of the race to be so appointe dwas Eneil F. Simpson who holds the position of Director of Negro Sales for Calvert Distillers Corporation.

As an Olympic champion, Jesse was not a drinker and his major work with Calvert will be to spread Calvert's policy of moderation summed up in the phrase, "Know how to make it, teach how to take it". In making the appointment, the company said that although a man may be connected with the distilling industry, he need not at the same time be a drinker.

Oscar 'King Kong' Matthews Not Dead!

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25. (ANP)—A story released through the Associated Negro Press two weeks ago stated that one "King Kong" Jenkins was killed in a bout at Columbus, Ga. It was immediately thought in some quarters that the man killed was Oscar "King Kong" Matthews of Tallulah, La., who was sensational in several Eastern bouts. This was incorrect. "King Kong" Matthews is very much alive, and Oscar Jenkins, 19-year-old fighter of Columbus, Ga., is the "King Kong" who died as a result of a bad beating at the hands of Obie Walker.

The following is a letter from Jimmy Yates, boxing coach at Tallulah high school:

"Dear Sir:

"Oscar 'King Kong' Matthews of Tallulah, La., was supposed to have fought Bearcat Obie Walker at Fort Benning, Ga., three weeks ago. The athletic officer and I could not come to terms, so he secured the services of Oscar Jenkins, a 19-year-old inexperienced fighter of Columbus, Ga., gave him the name Oscar 'King Kong' and put on the fight, the results being that Jenkins died a few hours following the bout after a bad beating."

Pickens Sails; to Visit Loyalist Spain

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (ANP)—Dean William Pickens, NAACP director of branches, sailed Wednesday aboard the Queen Mary for Spain. Mr. Pickens, a national sponsor of the Negro Committee to Aid Spain, carried credentials from the Medical Bureau and North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy.

He is to investigate hospitals, children's colonies and relief needs in Republican Spain, and will return to this country in time to report his findings to a national conference of the Negro Committee to Aid Spain, convening in New York in late September.

Speaking of the campaign for the American Relief ship to be sent to Spain in September, Mr. Pickens said, "This ambulance, another ambulance, food and medical supplies should represent the Negro's contribution on that ship. Negro people of the entire world have the same reasons to support the Loyalist government that they had to support Hailie Selassie when Italy attacked Ethiopia. This fight is our fight."

Mikado, All-Negro to Open in Chi

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (ANP)—Sunday, September 25, was announced as the opening date of the all-Negro version of "The Mikado" by the Federal theatre.

Rehearsal at the Great Northern Theatre, where the play will be presented, is proving that the rollicking humor of Gilbert and Sullivan fits no one if not the American Negro.

Sullivan's prowess as a tunesmith is never more clearly defined than through the voice of Maurice Cooper, winner of the Atwater Kent prize. Cooper appears in the role of Nanki-Poo, the wandering minstrel. All the supple grace and charm associated with Sullivan's songs holds even the stage hands' avid attention when the voice of Cooper tells the world, "A wandering minstrel I, a thing of rags and tatters."

The plaintiff charm of Nanki-Poo takes on a new American meaning when Cooper, leading the men's voices, breaks into a syncopated version of the tune. It is then that watchers at the rehearsal can hardly control tapping feet.

The policy of the Great Northern theatre during the run of "The Mikado" will be performances nightly except Monday.

Elks of Nation Descend On City of Baltimore

MALTIMORE, Aug. 25. (ANP)—With the baccalaureate sermon delivered Sunday by Bishop David H. Sims at Bethel AME church the 39th annual session IBPOE of W., was formally opened with a full calendar of events scheduled for remainder of the week. Final session will be held August 27.

Upwards of 25,000 delegates and visitors were said to have swelled the city's population by Tuesday when the colorful parade of Elks and Daughter Elks formed on Bond street, near Fayette, with the grand exalted ruler, J. Finley Wilson and official staff, leading the procession.

Highlight of the business sessions, it was predicted, would be the effort to have G. E. R. Wilson re-elected for a term of four years. From reliable sources it was also learned that many Elks of prominence favored a life-term for Wilson as head of the Order.

Another fight predicted for the business sessions, was said to center around the office of grand esteemed leading knight, main contenders for the office being Roy S. Bond (incumbent) and Joseph H. James, Daytona Beach, Fla. Heading the forces insisting on a longer term for the G. E. R. is Sunshine Lodge, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Monarch Lodge, New York City, it is said, also has an active and constructive program to present to the delegates. Quaker City lodge wants all officers of local lodges--except exalted rulers, financial secretary, treasurer and trustees, elected for a term of six months.

Spring Session on March 20th.

Chi Baptist Institute Draws 800

According to the report of its director just released from the Institute headquarters at 3458 South State Street in Chicago, the Chicago Baptist Institute has enrolled over 800 ministers and church workers in its regular class-room work during the last six months.

In a letter to its constituency the purpose of the Institute is stated as follows "The Institute seeks to provide an intelligent, aggressive and sincere leadership for both the pulpit and pew of the present day church. Everyone who serves in a Baptist church whether a Sunday School teacher, a deacon, or a pastor must be able to render first class service. The training and development of such leaders is the task the Chicago Baptist Institute accepts as its own."

An unusually strong faculty has been gathered together by Dr., H. M. Smith, director of the Institute. It includes Dean Shailer Mathews of University of Chicago, W. Ellis Stewart, Secretary Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company, James Andrews, Mrs. Buchanan, Dean C. W. Kilkey of the University of Chicago, Matthew Burgess, Robert Cashman of Chicago Hebrew Seminary, Mrs. Laura Bradshaw, Mrs. N. F. Burton, Mrs. Lillian Payne, Mrs. Trice-Clark, and Prof. C. J. Robinson Super-Man in More Ways Than One, If 'Great Weekly' Believed

Bill Robinson, acknowledged the world's greatest tap dancer, is a super-man in more ways than one, if the Chicago Defender, self-styled "world's greatest weekly" is to be taken as an authority.

Under a caption on the theatrical page of the August 19th issue of that paper, it was stated that Robinson, due in Chicago for a personal appearance at the RKO theatre there, had suffered a broken arm ONLY LAST MONTH in Hollywood while "performing one of his characteristic Good Samaritan deeds", but, said the "Defender", the injured appendage is back in PERFECT SHAPE and Bill is ready to go to town!

South L. A. Couple Leaves On Motor Jaunt

Mr. and Mrs. Luthur Jones, 9234 Baird avenue, will leave Los Angeles Saturday night for a week's motor juant through the National Parks, and the Southwest states, Utah, Nevada, etc. They will return home on Labor Day. Scheduled to accompany them, is Mrs. Obelia Teal of Los Angeles.

On advice of Mrs. Bill Robinson, wife of the dancer, the California Eagle was the only paper in the nation to print the true story of the now-as famous-as his-feet-Robinson arm. It seems that Bill did not break his arm recently, in fact has never broken that particular appendage. The accident referred to occured almost a year ago in New York when Bill "performing a Good Sararitan Act", it is true, slipped on a Gotham pavement and sustained a bruise on the arm, which has necessitated electrical treatments periodically.

RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

Well folks the best that I can dish up for you this week in the way of a laugh is the bright idea of Sen. Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi and a week-minded Negro woman of Chicago who claims her organization has been instrumental in obtaining 400,000 signatures asking President Roosevelt to ship them to Africa. It's only to bad that the President didn't do that little thing with that bunch of dummies. I am quiet sure the Negroes who want to live in America wouldn't have any objections as scarce as jobs are for our people at the present time. We wouldn't miss them However, it will be a long, long time before old Sen. Bilbo ever gets me to sign one of them things. The only time I want to see Africa is when I look at a map.

The critic is a person who would have you write it, sing it, play it, paint it — serve it as he would do it . . . if he could.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Hold Big Dance To-night

Pullman Porters Gather for Night of Gaiety.

Last wear after the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters gave their dance, many who slept by the date, thinking it was just another dance expressed themselves in no uncertain terms saying sadly that they were sorry they missed it. Well, Folks, all I have to say is if you were sorry you missed it last year, you will feel the same way this year because it's going to be even bigger and a whole lot better than last year's affair. If you have not already purchased your tickets, you can buy them at the box office. The ticket clerk is a single Pullman Porter with a good run, and I think he can be had because I noticed him riding in a black coupe not so long ago with a good looking mama. So come out and do your darndest and help the Knights of the Rails celebrate.

Mrs. Campbell will be gone about 8 weeks and expects to return home about the 15th of October. AND in the mean time Campbell will have to cook his own meals, make his own bed, wash his own dishes and try to be a good bachelor. We wish Mrs. Campbell a pleasant trip and know that the club of which she is president will also miss her pleasing personality.

Youth Seeks New Jobs, Survey Shows

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (By James Fleming for ANP)—Young Negroes are no longer planning to be just doctors, lawyers, dentists and school teachers, but they are even preparing for careers as cooks, chauffeurs, brokers, hotel managers and cartoonists, according to a summary of reports from 5,007 Negro high school boys reached by the Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity during its annual Guide Right week.

As first choice, teaching still leads, followed by medicine, civil service, law and the mechanical trades. Other first preferences receiving considerable mention were music, business, engineering, art, architecture, journalism, physical culture and coaching, agriculture, the ministry, chemistry, dentistry, insurance, social service and undertaking.

Aviation, accounting cooking, house management, chauffeuring, banking, interior decorating, labor organizing, cartooning and real estate received occasional first places.

Interviews, roundtable discussions, forums, "pep" rallies, lectures in schools, conferences, and quasi-social activities were among the functions which brought counsellors of the Kappa fraternity and the students together, according to Atty. R. J. Reynolds, Topeka, Kan., in his report here to Atty. Theophilus M. Mann, grand polemarch of the fraternity.

In several cities, the school system officially cooperated in Guide Right and stressed it for all students, regardless of race or sex. Over 25,000 people attended Guide Right mass meetings. In making out "self-discovery" blanks, many of the boys admitted that they were having their first experience thinking seriously about their vocational aptitudes and their future.

Plans for enlarging the Guide Right program will be taken up in December when the 28th annual grand conclave of the fraternity will be held in Detroit.

PETER JACKSON LOSES GILMORE BOUT

Young Peter Jackson went down to defeat at the hands of Jimmy Leto last Friday night at Gilmore stadium, losing the 10-round main event by the decision route. YWCA Girls at Griffith Park Camp Seventy five girls have been enjoying the activities and pleasures of camp life at the Griffith Park Girl's camp under the supervision of the 12th Street Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. The supervisorial staff is headed by Miss Ruby Jefferson, Girl Reserve Secretary, ably assisted by Miss Alvia Fobbs, Mrs. Helen Wilson and fifteen college girls acting as counselors.

Numerous useful educational and recreational activities are available to the girls in the healthful, open, mountain atmosphere. The making of belts, tea holders, ash trays, ornaments and books in the handicraft class is one of the most popular activities; almost any sport one could desire is practiced there under trained supervision; such sports as hiking through the hills, badminton, volleyball beneath the stars, basketball, softball and swimming. Hign on the top of the mountain is the beautiful swimming pool which commands a general view of the city and surrounding territory. In the evenings camp fire is held in the outdoor fireplace around which the dramatic sketches, story telling, etc.

And emphasized also in this well-rounded program is the cultivation of the religious and spiritual side in its natural out-of-door setting with chapel service every morning led by Miss Anna Rosa Broyles and special Sunday vesper service directed by Miss Jewel Watson of Nashville, Tenn.

Girls Reserves who are spending two weeks which began August 15th to 28th at the Girls' Camp Griffith Park will return to the city Sunday August 28th. Over the past week-end a number of visitors, parents of girls and members of the Committee of Management visited the camp and enjoyed with the girls morning worship, dinner, swimming in the pool on the mountain.

The clinic was taxed to its capacity, taking 20 Blood test, and doing 40 examinations. Already appointments are being made for the next free clinic day to be held September 18, it was announced. As this will be a very large clinic with many out of town patients, those who wish free examinations or care must register before Sept. 11.

Dr. N. Cutris King and nurses, Hoffman, Anthony and Meshaux of the Adoloyho Club of the General Hospital and Nurse Dobson of the Glendale Sanitarium assisted Dr. Temple last Sunday. T. T. Collier of the Auxilliary Committee of the Temple Health Institute planned and carried out the medical, social and spiritual program. Mr. Burwell, Secretary of the Home Missionary Dept of the Seventh Day Adventist Conference, was enthusiastic in his praise of the work of the Health Institute. Louis Van Norman gave practical and timely and informative Traffic Safety Talk. As usual children accompanied by their parents were given free a tall can of milk.

Efforts to Alter Status of Girls' School Illegal

Efforts to have the National Training School for Women and Girls put under the control of the National Baptist Convention were shown to be illegal recently through a lawyer's report to Miss Nannie Burroughs, President.

It was disclosed that the School is independent with a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees. The plea of the Convention that support would be given only with control was proved unlawful. The development climaxes a controversy raging for the past few years.

Miss Burroughs, founder of the institution, recently visited the West Coast. She thrilled audiences at the Second Baptist Church in Los Angeles and appeared on the California Eagle Negro Newspaper of the Air. After her broadcast, studio officials reported an influx of phonecalls. For days afterward the station was flooded with cards and letters addressed to the great Baptist leader.

Arna Bontemps to Study in Haiti On Fellowship

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (ANP)—Arna Bontemps, formerly of Los Angeles, widely known author of "The Sad Faced Boy," "Black Thunder" and other novels, is to study in Haiti this fall. Mr. Bontemps will spend two months in the island republic gathering material for a new novel which will deal with the Haitian regiment which fought in the revolutionary war during the siege of Savannah. The trip is being made on a Rosenwald fellowship, and he will spend some time in Savannah on his return from Haiti.

Sailing on the S. S. Cottica from New York on September 2 with Mr. Bontemps will be Aaron Douglass, the artist. Mr. Douglass will paint in Haiti and later will spend some time in Trinidad.

Kansas U. Medical School Now Open to Negroes

LAWRENCE, Kan., Aug. 25. (ANP)—After barring Negroes for years from more than the first two years of medicine at the state university, Kansas U. has changed its policy and this september will open the doors to colored students seeking M. D. degrees.

This lowering of the bars comes about through the work of Edward D. Williams of Ellsworth, Kan., a medical student, and Walter A. Huxman, governor of the state.

When Williams was asked to continue his studies elsewhere, he went directly to Gov. Huxman who expressed surprise at this discrimination. When the board of regents met in Topeka on Oct. 5, they voted to abolish the ban. A factor in this decision was the establishment of a new Negro wing at the University of Kansas hospital in Kansas City, Kan., where the last two years of training are taken. Williams will be given all privileges enjoyed by white students except working on "white women patients", but may work on white men if they do not object.

This issue of treating patients, a necessity during the final two years at medical school, has caused all but a very few accredited medical schools to bar Negroes from graduating. The University of Chicago, which has Provident hospital as an affiliated institution for medical teaching and postgraduate work, has been the only "A" grade white institution accepting Negro medical students freely.

POLITICAL POTPIE

By IRA

The Women's Political Study Clubs have opened headquarters next door to the EAGLE. A gala opening one evening last week was the official signal for Republicans to rally. They came in twos, fours and larger groups. Betty Hill is waving the banner around which they are assembling, backed by the all-powerful 62nd County District Central Committee, headed by Mrs. C. A. Bass, assisted by Wood Wilson, Anna Guest, Chas. Alston, and Mrs. Beatrice Johnson. All are candidates for re-election.

Did you ever note the big shot Democrats are great fishermen? Well, it's true and we offer as concrete examples: Grover Cleveland, Franklin Roosevelt---and our own Titus Alexander.

Sol Kline, candidate for Judge, office No. 1, declares from the platform that Negroes will receive his support in being selected for service on the Grand Jury. Think we'd better give a play?

John R. Quinn seeks re-election. He's well-known on this side and according to John Alexander will give the group full recognition if retained in the job to which he was recently appointed.

Little chiseling sheets masquerading under the guise of newspapers are not so numerous as of yore. Political candidates bled in the past refuse further to be hoodwinked. Only those who have libelous matter to put across at the last minute resort to such means of publicity, and it seems that this class of office seekers has faded from the picture.

Walter F. Dexter, candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, at this time seems to be far out in the lead of all opposers. This is an office in which the group should be deeply interested. Mr. Dexter is said to be as free from color-prejudice as is possible for a white man. He's credited with placing ability, moral worth and true character above all else. Look him over!

That fine young fellow, Herbert Greenwood, continues to hit telling blows for his chief, Mr. Bonelli. A man fair enough to give us recognition is worthy of our support, and if re-elected will go further by appointing more young men and women. The people have confidence in Greenwood and his appeal hits the spot.

The few headquarters operated on this side are being financed by the men and women from their own pockets. That's fine! It has not only kept peace over here, but should and doubtless will yield some worthwhile appointments. They can demand recognition, but the fellow who gets his "out in front" can make no demands, or even ask for anything for himself or group.

Your guess is as good as that of this scribe, but if straws tell the direction of the winds, some Democrat is going to have a contest against Hatfield.

Pierson M. Hall in an attempt to draw votes for Democratic contestant for U. S. Senator to be Sheridan Downey is trying to pin a Klan badge on McAdoo, incumbent. We know Hall and he's always shown more Klan tendencies than Senator McAdoo. Too bad Mr. Downey is mixed up with Hall. He's a fine fellow, but . . . that Hall!

Olson, Dockweiller, Murphe and Haight, Democrats for governor; Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, U. S. Senator, have invaded the Eastside with headquarters.

The old "it's an ill wind", etc., is proving true in this campaign. No "sack" has been opened up on this side of the city . . . hence no friendships have been severed. For once all are together seeking, wandering, and hoping; when, from whence, etc., cometh the windfall? Look out when it does happen!

Sam Hudson can't see anything politically but the impending Recall election slated for September 16. Sam is tearing his shirt for Mayor Shaw and plans a big get-together feed at the Dunbar Grill, sometime during the coming week.

Like unto fight champs, Campbell and Roberts are measuring arms and sparring for an opening in the 14th Congressional District for Republican nomination for Congress. Just now the battle is waxing hot. Both are popular with the voters.

Every tick-tock of California's clock means another $15 spent. State Controller Harry B. Riley has computed. Every time the minute hand made a revolution during July, exactly $882.25 was spent by the California state government, or precisely $14.70 per second.

Bringing a new idea into political campaigning in California, the Fine Arts Division of the Young Dmocratic Clubs of Los Angeles County has formed its own theatrical organization, which will present original plays written by Young Democrats in the motion picture industry.

Communities outside of the city of Los Angeles are developing a strong preference on behalf of Sheriff E. W. "Gene" Biscailuz for re-election according to reports received from various District chairmen.

"The Whittier District will unquestionably roll up a huge majority in favor of our popular and efficient Sheriff," according to Chairman Rex B. Kennedy, Publisher of the Whittier News. A similar report comes from J. L. Groark in the 42nd Assembly District, who states, "The San Fernando Valley and adjacent rural sections are insistent in their demand that Sheriff Biscailuz be retained in office."

"Governor Merriam's victory at the August 30 primary election will be impressive."

That was the announcement of the Merriam-for-Governor Campaign Committee today in a statement which follows:

"An impressive victory by the Governor in the primary is the first step toward success in November. Our statement that Governor Merriam will win decisively August 30 is based on all of the data we have been able to obtain. This shows that the Governor will carry every Southern California county and that his lead in the north will be surprising. We have reports that some of the opposition leaders are now privately admitting that the Governor's victory will be striking.

"There are many reasons for the failure of Governor Merriam's opposition to arouse enthusiasm, the chief difficulty being the record of accomplishments of Governor Merriam.

Organized by civic and professional leaders of their race, a state-wide campaign to unite California's 100,000 Negroes in support of George J. Hatfield for Governor was launched today, with main headquarters in Los Angeles and Oakland.

Endorsed by William Pickens, director of branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Hatfield has the strongest Negro support of any candidate for a state office in recent years. Paul Williams, well known Los Angeles architect and director of the Los Angeles Negro committee for Hatfield, declared yesterday. Williams, a member of the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles YMCA and of the Los Angeles County Housing Authority, predicts a record vote for Hatfield.

Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Negro leader and physician, is another of the race who is active in Hatfield's campaign in Southern California.

"Our people," Dr. Hudson said "are familiar, with Lieutenant-Governor Hatfield's long stand for the rights of all deserving minority groups, irrespective of class, color, creed or national origin. All that any voter, white man or colored, needs to convince him that Hatfield has always been firmly for equal rights and opportunities for all is to lok at his record."

Dear Sir:

Hasn't the time arrived for Republicans in California to get to work? When I refer to Republicans, I refer not only to the 1,200,000 now actually registered in the Republican party but also to 500,000 other Republicans who think Republican and are Republicans and will vote Republican when we show that we have something for which to fight.

Haven't we been prone to shine the seats of our remaining pair of pants, while this state was being misrepresented in the United States Senate by the political antique, McAdoo, who learned about public affairs from Wall Street and who--we thought--came to California in 1920 to spend his declining years in our famous sunshine?

Haven't we been sitting by and, groaning, when, if we thought about it logically, we would know that there could be no satisfaction in saying "I told you so" after the nation goes on the rocks?

"Assessor John R. Quinn will receive the largest vote ever given for that office, provided the polling throughout the county is as heavy as conditions seem to indicate."

The above statement is a combination of the opinions of some of the most astute political observers in Southern California and was arrived at by a careful study of the entire campaign, reports state.

Assessor Quinn has received 200,000 individual and literally hundreds of group endorsements, Quinn headquarters state, and this fact, together with his huge volunteer organization seems to give Quinn an overwhelming advantage in the voting.

Former Assemblyman Frederick M. Roberts is waging a hard battle for congressional nomination in the 14th Congressional district. Roberts is known as a fiery orator and one of the race's outstanding West-coast politicians.

WILLIAM D. CAMPBELL

Say Campbell Champion of Negro Race

Wm. D. Campbell, outstanding aspirant for the 14th Congressional district nomination, is considered among the Negro's greatest friends and champions. The candidate already has stated that representation at an Annapolis and West Point will be forthcoming if he is elected. Weary of other insincere "Machine-men", voters of the 62nd are rallying behind Campbell.

His history is very interesting and reveals a self made man who has risen from obscurity to a formost place in the annals of the country. It unmistakably establishes the fact that he is not only qualified by education and experience to aspire to statecraft, but the call is inherent and that such lives as that of Campbell are needed in the halls of our Congress.

Since being in California, Mr. Campbell has ever taken a lively interest in both civic and political life. He has served as a member of the County Central Committee and is also recognized as one of the leaders of the Los Angeles bar.

Wm. D. Campbell first saw the light of day 40 years ago. He was born of sturdy pioneer stock on a farm in the Ozark mountains in Missouri, where he attended a rural school. While yet a boy his father died, and he was thrown on his own. He completed his education by attending high school, a business college in California, universities in New Mexico and Missouri, later graduating from the University of Chicago Law School. By hard work as clerk in stores and bank, as book-keeper, as a laborer in the oil fields and as teacher of his old country school he acquired expenses for his higher education--Campbell is a self-made man.

Having previously become a resident of California, he enlisted in the army the day the War was declared, April 6, 1917, and was honorably discharged as a Sergeant at the close of the war.

He has had several years experience in Washington, D. C., in the Dept. of Justice, anti-trust work; as Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the U. S. Prosecuting National Banking law violators; and as Special Attorney, Office General Counsel, Bureau Internal Revenue Treasury Dept., dealing with important tax problems. This work carried him throughout the United States.

William D. Campbell has worked hard and from humble circumstances has attained success wholly through his own efforts, retaining the human touch with all walks of life. He has a thorough knowledge of problems affecting California and the Nation and because of his years of Washington experience is especially fitted (without having to spend the usual time required of an inexperienced man) to assume at once the duties of Congressman.

A strong support is assured Mr. Campbell from all angles of the diversified 14th district, which is composed of four Assembly Districts—the 62nd, 55th, 64th and 44th. This time, the Campbells ARE coming!

JUDGE STILL

Judge Still's Career has Been Varied

Dock worker, farmer, playground director, flying instructor--all those activities entered into the experiences of Superior Judge Leslie E. Still during the course of a varied career that placed him finally in Los Angeles County's highest judicial office.

Litigation in his court brings before Judge Still few human problems that he did not face from the time that he earned his first money carrying papers in Long Beach until he entered the practice of law after graduation from the University of California and the University of Southern California Law school.

The jurist has first-hand knowledge of work on the San Francisco docks, and in Humboldt county lumber camps, Orange County hay fields, Fresno county vineyards, Ventura County apricot orchards, and on a Coachella Valley farm where he "batched it" and decided he never would cook another meal for himself unless he had to--or starve.

In addition to all that, Judge Still was a playground director in Berkeley while attending college, and was an instructor in formation flying during the World War.

He was supporting his wife and two children when he took his law course.

Say It With Ballots Next Tuesday!

In less than a week's time, California candidates for state and national offices streak down a fast track toward the hurdles of the primary election.

Whoever falls--and fall some of them must!--they will not lack spectators. Registration for this primary, topping the three and a half million mark, has broken all previous records.

Let the number of those voting also prove a record breaker! On August 30, every registered citizen has first choice in naming his man. November's nominee may be only second choice, if voters fail to support their favorites next Tuesday. There's only one way to do it. Say it with ballots!

Pickens Backs Hatfield for Governorship

Because he is "one of the best friends of justice to colored Americans" Lieutenant - Governor George J. Hatfield, Republican candidate for Governor, has been endorsed by William Pickens, director of branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

In a letter to Dr. H. Claude Hudson, 4266 S. Central Avenue, Los Angeles, Director Pickens wrote last July 20:

Dear Dr. Hudson:

It is good to hear that many colored citizens are interested in the election of Lieut.-Governor Hatfield to the Governorship of California.

Our National office never endorses any candidates for office; but I, as William Pickens, can tell those who believe in me, that Mr. Hatfield is one of the best friends of justice to colored Americans that I have ever met.

GEO. HATFIELD

He is the sort of man for whom Negroes should vote, not because of any party connections but because of his genuine interest in a square deal to them. If I were a Democrat and he a Republican, I would vote for him. He has voted for Negroes right along. In common sense and self-defense they can now vote for him.

Yours very truly

WILLIAM PICKENS

In a letter to William Glenn, 1853 Divisadero Sereet, San Francisco, Director Pickens wrote:

"I am very grateful to you for calling my attention in your letter of April 6th to the high probability that Mr. Hatfield will be on the ticket for Governor when the next election comes around. We must do all in our power to make that probability a fact and then to see that his election is a fact. And I am thinking less of Mr. Hatfield, as fine a man and officer as I know him to be, than of the Negro citizens of that

"George J. Hatfield has come to the rescue every time the rights of colored citizens were being denied and every time injustice threatened them as a minority people. He has even gone out of his official way to aid individuals who were about to be sacrificed on the evil altar of interracial ignorance and animosity. A Negro leader like Dr. H. Claude Hudson, of Los Angeles, could give you instance of that side of Mr. Hatfield."

Paul W. Davis Runs for Pasadena Justice of Peace

Paul Davis is one of Pasadena's native sons, and is likewise prominent in civic affairs, particularly in American Legion and Boy Scout work.

Of interest to members of the race will be the fact that he is a member of the family responsible for the Davis Hall Oratorical Contest—in which elementary school pupils are invited to participate.

Arthur W. Prince, scion of the famous Prince family of California, was the first winner of an oratorical prize in this contest.

Educated at Pasadena High School and Oregon State College, Paul Davis is married and the father of three children. He received his law degree from the University of Southern California; and has practiced since 1926. Candidate Davis gives as his first reason for entering the race for office:

". . . a desire to advance in my chosen profesion of law and second a real desire to be of service to the residents of Pasadena township."

His record proves that he has no prejudices nor alliances which will impair the proper performance of judicial duties.

Mr. Davis firmly avows "The Justice Courts represent the judicial branch of the government closest to the people and in a community with a population as large as that of Pasadena, it is essential that the court facilities be available to all of the people during the business hours, and if I am elected to this office it will be my intention at all times to be available to those who have matters to present to the court, and it will be my further purpose to see that every person shall have a fair, impartial and courteous consideration of the matters that he may have to present to the court."

ELECT AN EXPERIENCED AND CAPABLE ATTORNEY JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

Pasadenans Urged to Re-Elect Judge William Fox

JUDGE WILLIAM E. FOX

HIS RECORD:

Judge Fox's first-term record of fairness, courtesy and conscientious attention to the demands of the office combine to make him the logical man to hold the office of Justice of Peace for. Since his taking office four years ago he has become a distinct asset--especially to Pasadena's citizens of color! We know that he has made an unassailable record as a servant of the people.

A subscribed and sworn statement by Dorothea Cregier, Clerk in the Justices Court, Pasadena Township says in part: "I have personally inspected all of the records and files in the Justices Court of Pasadena Township Office No. 2 since January, 1935, and find that Judge William E. Fox has decided approximately 4,555 cases and that said records reveal that there is only one reversal from any of said decisions."

HIS TRAINING

Graduated from the old Pasadena High School, Judge Fox worked diligently to equip himself for the legal profession. Both Southwestern University and the University of Southern California have conferred legal degrees upon him; and he came to Pasadena on the crest of a fine career as a leading Los Angeles barrister.

HIS BACKGROUND

Past Patron, Order of Eastern Star, Odd Fellow, Elk, and 32nd degree Mason, Judge Fox, with his lovely wife and charming baby daughter, resides at 3078 Rose avenue, Pasadena. Re-Elect him and

JUDGE GATES

Supporters of Judge Gates See Majority

Indications point to a gratifying majority in favor of Judge Walter S. Gates, candidate for re-election to the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, Office Number 2.

Despite the fact that many judges of the Superior Court are placed in office the first time by appointment, Judge Gates was elected to his present position fourteen years ago by the people of Los Angeles County. His record as a local attorney over a period of thirteen years had earned for him the confidence of the voters, and in two subsequent elections he was returned to the same office by popular vote.

Unsolicited endorsements are pouring in steadily from local organizations to add to the long list already received.

As the office is non-partisan, his name will appear on all party tickets on August 30th.—Judge Walter S. Gates, Superior Court, Office Number 2.

ASSEMBLYMAN AUGUSTUS F. HAWKINS

Gus Hawkins Backers Predict Win

Basing their claims on the fact that he is the only candidate with a record and with legislative experience, supporters of Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins this week predicted that he will win Republican, Democratic and Progressive party nominations at the primary elections August 30.

No other candidate, they pointed out, has ever held elective office or had any experience as a member of a deliberative body while Hawkins has served four years in the state legislature where he has taken an active and prominent part in legislation.

They also called attention to the fact that the Assemblyman has consistently supported measures to aid small business men, taxpayers, home owners, workers and the unemployed while waging a militant battle to preserve and extend civil rights.

Hawkins was the most active supporter of the bill to limit hours and relieve working conditions for domestic workers and that measures passed the house only to be defeated in the senate.

Old age pension advocates have had a consistent friend in Hawkins ever since he entered public life and he was one of those who raised the present pension to 35 dollars per month. He is pledged to continue to fight for pension increases and for every measure desired by the people of the state.

When attempts were made last year to cripple the state's civil rights laws, Hawkins worked unceasingly to defeat the measure with the result that it was refused passage by the legislature.

A member of the executive committee of the NAACP, Hawkins introduced resolutions in both the 1935 and 1937 sessions of the legislature, which were passed, memorializing Congress to pass the Anti-Lynching bill.

Campaign of Earl Warren is Brought to Close

Earl Warren brought his campaign for nomination as Attorney General on the Democratic, Progressive and Republican tickets, to its climax this week in Los Angeles. He has been greeted with enthusiastic support in all districts, indicating a sweeping victory in the primaries next Tuesday.

The Los Angeles Non-Partisan Committee of 2,500 directing the non-partisan drive for Earl Warren's election in the primaries, campaigned primarily upon the special ability, experience and qualifications of the candidate. Because of eighteen years public service in administration of justice, he is, of course, better equipped than any other candidate for the post, enjoying advantages of such experience in solving public problems.

McAdoo Not Member of Ku Klux Klan

Desperate efforts of Pierson M. Hall, campaign manager for Sheridan Downey, to brand U. S. Senator William Gibbs McAdoo as a Ku Klux Klan member were exposed last night as the last resort of a losing candidate. The allegations, based on a forged Klan membership card which Hall exhibited at a meeting largely attended by Jewish residents of East Los Angeles, boomeranged when Dr. Hiram Evans, Imperial Klan wizard, informed reporters that McAdoo was never a member.

"I have never signed any pasport for McAdoo", stated Evans. "I have no knowledge that he ever was a member of the Klan", added Evans who is the head of the United States Klan organization at his headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

Hall has made no statement on Evans' declaration, nor has he denied that the alleged membership card is an outright forgery.

McAdoo not only denied that he is, or ever was, a Klan member, but pointed out that as long ago as 1910 he headed an International Committee to protect Catholics and Jews from European prosecution.

"This is an old political trick", said Eugene Flaherty, McAdoo's personal secretary since 1920 and a Roman Catholic. "It is nothing but a reprehensible effort to arouse religious hatreds in a last gasp hope to stave off certain defeat.

"What Hall and Downey overlooked", continued Flaherty, "is the fact that the Klan is openly opposing Senator McAdoo. Hundreds of thousands of circulars have been distributed throughout the state by C. E. Snelson, King Kleagle for the Realm of California, calling for Klansmen to defeat McAdoo. Hall and Downey are the beneficiaries of this Klan attack on McAdoo or hope to be. They should check their facts before trying to link the Senator to a forged membership card.

"It is difficult to believe,' declared Flaherty, that a candidate can be so desperate that he will stir religious hatreds in this state which he professes to love and which he hopes to represent in the Senate. There is no more implacable foe of prosecution in any form than Senator McAdoo.

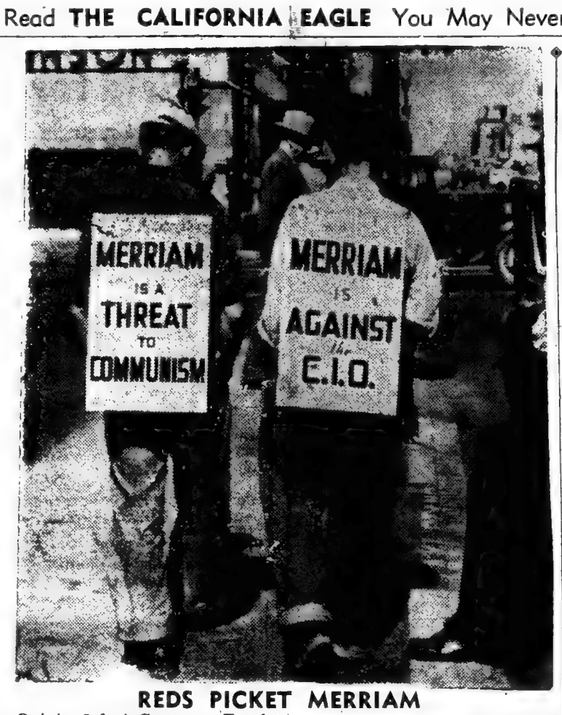
"Catholics, Jews, and Negroes of all religions, have been imposed upon time and again by unscrupulous candidates waving a red flag of K. K. K. membership every time they want the votes of these good citizens. But this time these great groups won't be fooled by a forged membership card in the Senator's name. His lifetime record gives the lie to this scurrilous morsel of campaigning", concluded Flaherty.

John W. Preston in Active Race for U. S. Senator

The last days of the primary campaign have been marked by increased activity on the part of the candidates for United States Senator.

In the Democratic fold John W. Preston, life-long Democrat and for forty years a resident of California, continues to make an active canvass. He has spoken in virtually every county in the state and has consolidated his support, both North and South.

Active working organizations throughout the state have advanced his candidacy and political observers now place Judge Preston high in contention in the three-cornered fight for the senatorial nomination.



Judge Preston has a record of distinguished service to state and nation. He undoubtedly has the largest circle of friends and acquaintances of any candidate now making a state-wide campaign.

No man was ever permitted to select his ancestors, and but for the Grace of God, I might have been born an Eskimo, a Hindu or an Ethiopian. The voluntary endorsements represent a cross-section of every walk of life, including labor groups and bankers' associations. Practically every nationality and political group also have urged Johnson's re-election, it was announced.

Realtor Urges Solid Vote for J. M. Clark

Declaring that "J. Mortimer Clark's record as State Real Estate Commissioner is evidence that the colored people have nothing to fear from his election as County Assessor," A. Jackson Temple, prominent Watts realtor today urged all Negroes to vote solidly for Clark in the August Primary.

"Members of the Negro race know only too well the empty promises which are made by candidates for public office, and as a result, have come to study the record rather than to be fooled by a lot of political palaver."

"As a real estate broker, I had been in close contact with J. Mortimer Clark during the past four years, and I can testify that he is a man who shows favoritism to none. The only promise that Mort Clark makes is that everyone gets the same treatment--regardless of race or religion, creed or color. That's what we Negroes have been fighting for for years--equal recognition with other races. Now we have a chance to take a step in the right direction by electing a fair-minded, honest man like J. Mortimer Clark as County Assessor."

Among the members and prospective members were: Mrs. Eva C. Spurgeon C. Jones Tells of Program

Spurgeon C. Jones, young business executive who is running as Assemblyman for the 62nd District has a colorful background and foresight enough to know, it is the "citizens who elect", therefore, has adopted, "the rule of the people." He has also stated emphatically that he is making no promises or statements other than to the public, and that when elected, he will be obligated to the whole people only and will owe nothing to any individual. He is endorsed by practically every church in our neighborhood.

THE FOLLOWING IS HIS PLATFORM

1 An investigation to find ways and means to prevent a re-ocurrence of the Farley murder and similar tragedies.

2 To have the 62nd District reapportioned thereby making it possible to have colored representatives in the Los Angeles City Council.

3 To demand an investigation into the discrimination as practiced by the State Civil Service Commission.

4 To fight to safeguard the rights of labor with enough vision to recognize the need of the industrial adjustments, economic rehabilitation, and the profitable transaction of business.

5 A demand for stringent state control of housing, slum clearance, and fair rents.

7 An attempt to prevent a repetition of the so-called vice investigation, a political publicity trick which brought to our district uncalled for shame and put the homes of our wives and children in a state of chaos and national ridicule.

8 To foster an old age security law on a plan fundamentally sound without imposing hardships upon anyone.

9 To back and promote all bills calling for reductions of every and all forms of taxes which are now excessive.

10 To fight for business concessions, realizing their prosperity means more employment for people.

11 To institute the 50-50 program wherein business institutions in our district whose very existence depends upon our colored trade employ one Negro on the basis of ability only, for each Caucasian employed.

Bancroft in Appeal for Negro Vote

Mr. Bancroft has issued to the Afro-Americans of Southern California through the undersigned and his other campaign workers in the 62nd District of Los Angeles County, the following appeal for their support:

"Your people, the colored people, helped elect the New Deal to office, largely through the promises of its leaders to aid the forgotten man. Your people did not know, any more than did the rest of us, that the New Dealers would violate their platform pledges, and in the name of reform launch a program which, if carried to its ultimate conclusion, can hardly fail to result in the destruction of the American system of government, including its constitutional guarantees of freedom of the press, of religion, and of speech.

"Time after time your people have been protected by the free and independent courts established when the Republic was created. Your people have always been loyal American citizens, and I am satisfied that they are not in favor of the destruction of the system which has protected their rights for 150 years, and which gave them their freedom.

"Being an overseas veteran I know the needs of the colored voter in California and in America, and when I am elected to the Senate of the United States, you may depend upon me to fight and vote for a square deal for the colored people wherever they may live in the United States."

Mr. Bancroft's final broadcast before the Primaries will be on August 29, at 9:30 P. M. over KFI. Listen in and ask your friends to listen in. Vote for Bancroft on August 30.

Communists to Answer Dies Probers

Final plans were being completed today for the mass meeting Sunday evening at the Olympic auditorium, where America's two highest Communist officials will answer publicly the charges of the Dies Investigating Committee.

Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States, and William Z. Foster, national chairman, will be the speakers.

It is mainly Browder and Foster, according to testimony at the hearings of the Dies committee in Washington, that are responsible for the so-called plots of the Communists to extend their influence in America.

At the meeting they will claim in detail that even the Dies committee could not mis-interpret the position of the Communists regarding the major issues facing the American people today, it was stated by Paul Cline, local executive secretary of the party.

"I am sure anyone who is confused regarding the nature of communism and the position of the Communist Party on such questions as democracy, peace, and security," Cline said, "will find much of keen interest when these two great men talk."

Browder will be introduced by Pettis Perry, prominent Negro Communist official.

Another speaker at the meeting will be Leo Gallagher, labor attorney and associated with

TO PRESENT PROGRAM

MRS. A. C. BILBREW, chorister of the senior choir of the People's Independent Church of Christ, will present the regular fourth Sunday evening program at the Avalon Christian Church Sunday evening, August 28, as a gesture of goodwill. Her talented twin daughters will be featured.

SCOTTSBORO—

there is going to be a repercussion that will not be pleasant. The case will revert to original hands, who will assume their campaign of agitation.

"We shall try to avoid a repetition of what happened when the other four were released. As you know, they were taken to New York where they fell into the hands of people who exploited them. It was unfortunate, but it may work out yet, for all of them came to us at the last, and now each is being rehabilitated.

"Roy Wright is now in the hands of Bill Robinson, the tap dancer. He has assumed responsibility for Wright and is maintaining him at a place unknown to the committee. Willie Roberson is with his parents in Jackson county, Alabama. Eugene Williams is enrolled in a Baptist Theological seminary in Kansas City. Olen Montgomery is studying music in New York."

Mr. Comer said, "I am sick and tired of hearing about this case. I would like to see the boys in the hands of a man like Dr. Chalmers. When a man like Dr. Chalmers comes to us an a racial question we like to deal with him. He's not like his senator. We have to see a man like Sen. Wagner try to use a racial question as he has done for a cheap political pull."

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL
Society Editor

It's hard to believe that there isn't prosperity somewhere . . . after meeting so many visitors and vacationists—not members of railroad employes' families—in and out of town and after wading thru a deluge of copy on sundry entertainments complimenting them. The calendar builds up from ordinary "naturals", like barbecues, up through weiner bakes to swank dancing parties and dinners boasting every conceivable menu . . . However, methinks that one of the nicest things to do is to just take them riding . . . Don L. Jones thinks that is a fine part of the program, too . . . So . . . Sunday, last, he hosted Miss Alzadid Dusuar of New Orleans and Mr. and Mrs. Lester P. Watts on a trip to San Diego . . . and into romantic Tiajuana, New Mexico . . . No, there were no bull fights . . . but they report loads of fun.

Thurston Lomax, junior pastor of Zion Hill, won himself some more laurels Sunday morning in the second annual young people's day there . . . getting across some pro-youth points and still not forgetting a sprinkling of the necessary Baptist fire in his sermon. What with Charlie Mae Crawford, flashing a diamond from him, directing the choir, with two sisters in the treble section, and his dear mater beaming from the audience . . . the young Rev. Lomax definitely "has something there" . . . Not to mention his pal, Ted Morgan, lifting the offering . . . and blessing it! On the serious side, it was quite the most inspiring of the special days . . . no hitches and no strained silences.

SIGNS OF FALL:

Though it is about a month in calendar time and farther away than that in climatic trends, you've got all sorts of fall signs hedging you in! Placards adorning all the lamp posts, dodgers cluttering the sidewalk and your car . . . that you can't do a thing about . . . good radio programs on vacation while the office seekers "beef" on the trouble you've seen and the plans they've hit upon to get everybody happy . . . But there's a good side to everything . . . and if you don't get your share of barbecue and free dinners, better start singing "Martha" . . . you know: "Come share thy boon with me" . . . or something like it.

A surer sign of autumn is talk of school. Over in Pasadena's Sunset avenue Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. J. Nero opened their beautiful home to a number of friends complimenting lovely Verdie Mae Hickenbottom with a shower of things one needs in boarding school. Mrs. J. Q. Keller was co-hostess with Mrs. Nero . . . Verdie Mae is a junior at Tuskegee Institute and leaves this week. Tuskegee colors of crimson and gold were carried out in the decorative scheme . . . Mrs. Alma Grant, daughter of Mrs. Nero, assisted her mother.

Summer hosting will climax in the round of events being planned for the influx from points north—bay cities, Tacoma, Portland, etc.—during the Pacific Coast Championship Tennis matches to be held in Griffith Park beginning September 3 and continuing through Labor Day. The Ross Snyder Tennis club is official host, but have no objections to anything you might be planning to keep up the L. A. hospitality reputation.

Fall fraternal doings will swing in with the Kappa Alpha Psi formal (black and white) . . . and since last week the date's been moved up a few hours from September 17 to the bewitching hour of midnight, on into the wee a. m. of September 18. Here's hoping that the fraters who make up the peckin' chorus will kindly get their steps straight.

SUNDAY SCHEDULE:

The Women's Breakfast Club is having another meeting this Sunday morning . . . Announcements describe it as super-colossal. That means the service will be much better this time . . . coffee before you finish your breakfast. The program will be a civic one with various municipal figures as speakers . . . A chance to educate yourself to the workings of your city government.

Sunday afternoon you'll have your choice between the Mountain View Charity Club's annual benefit tea and the artistic program planned for the unveiling of a mural by Lena Edwards. The first affair will be held in Camille's Party Den on East Adams . . . the latter at the Bethel AME church on West 36th street. Miss Edwards, a recent arrival from San Francisco, has opened a studio here.

If you haven't seen "Run, Lil Chillun", Sunday evening's a good time to see it. Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew is presenting the fourth Sunday musicale at Avalon Christian church Sunday night.

Showers for Wathea Simms are in the air . . . Lois Evans, Ida Bowman, and Sylvia Smith are hosting one for the likable girl Sunday . . . and Mable Eldridge will do honors sometime next week.

Congratulations to Ben Ellison, who goes into the central administrative offices of the Coordinating Council project . . . Ben's the only Negro member and well fitted for the work with his wealth of interracial experience . . . and proven interest in everything human.

STYLE NOTES

WITH TALK OF SEPTEMBER . . . . COMES TALK OF SCHOOL . . . AND THE VERY MENTION OF RETURN TO BOOKS in the upper brackets of the educational realm . . . comes the all important turn to clothes. If you're sending your daughter East to school, you'll start shopping next week. If it's Howard in the busy capital of the nation . . . her wardrobe will have to be more versatile than for Wilberforce in the midst of Ohio prairie land or for Bennett College for girls in South Carolina.

For the first named school, she'll need a number of afternoon frocks or, for the sake of economy, semi-tailored dawn to dark dresses in velveteen and Helco jersey and loosely woven wools. Her evening wardrobe will have to include an extreme formal and a dinner dress that can be adapted to semi-formal occasions for the Washington fall social whirl. . . . If it's to Wilberforce or another campus removed from the city . . . she'll want more sturdy clothes. You'll include a heavy jacket with a hood for hiking and football and one of the new Eton eight foot scarfs in bright colors that are going to be the rage of campuses everywhere this winter. She won't have to bother much about winter formals . . . but will need plent yto blossom forth in the spring for the round of fraternal proms.

Three piece suits will hold their own in new tri-color motives. An olive green top coat will flatter a green and rust plaid skirt with the jacket in beige. Other combinations will include plum, beige and black; dark blue with light blue and mustard. Two color combinations of deep wine and pale blue; grey and plum; purple and lavendar, and the old favorites green and gold will lead the gay parade with bright pink running through plaids vieing for a place in the fashion sun. In hats, Stetson variations and small hats perched above high curled coiffuers will mark the smart co-ed for Sunday afternoon and extra-curricula meetings while Neapolitan stocking caps will run neck and neck with hoods for roughing it between classes . . . if she's going to fight Potomac winds or the still cold of the mid-west.

HOME OF WILLIAM L. MARTINS WELCOMED MANY GUESTS HERE

The unstinted hospitality and palatial home of the William L. Martins will long be remembered by many who visited the Angel city this summer. Eight from Washington, D. C., one from Brooklyn, N. Y. have been their house guests recently.

Mrs. Martin, sweet, amiable; Mr. Martin, genial, pleasing, make a team of personality plus as hostess-host. Nor are these tourists lacking in appreciation. Their many letters are an interesting travelogue.

Latest guests are Mrs. Genevieve B. Dalton and Miss Norma E. Boyd, sisters and instructors in the Francis and Garnett-Patterson Junior High School respectively, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Dalton and Miss Boyd left Monday morning on an itinerary including Oakland, Calif.; Portland, Oregon; Seattle, Wash. Victoria, B. Correction

It was erroneously reported in the issue of August 11 that the late Mrs. Rosa Andrews of 1156 South Normandie was survived by a husband, Wallace Andrews. Official records show that Mr. Andrews passed away several years ago.

KAPPA DAWN FORMAL TO PRECEDE FALL RUSH AFFAIRS OF L. A. FRATS

With September a few days off and its accompanying preschool round of social events, the fraternal world will lead off with the members of Upsilon and the L. A. alumni chapters of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity hosting another black and white formal. Initiated last September, this year's affair will be held in the Elks' main floor ballroom and will begin one-half hour after midnight, continuing until four-thirty in the morning of September 18.

Kappa dance scene

The usual round of cocktail parties will probably precede the dawn prom for which some four hundred invitations will be issued during the coming fortnight.

Although not trumpeted as a rush affair, the dance will probably set a pace for Greek Letter affairs designed to attract pledges both for its own and other organizations.

COMMITTEE ON ARRANGEMENTS

With Upsilon chapter polemarch, John Brewer, as ex-officio head, the committee on arrangements includes Tillman Thomas, chairman; Atty. David W. Williams polemarch of the Alumni chapter, Percy Williams John Randolph, Dunbar Hunt, Jack Bratton, Robert Green, and Leon Coleman. The affair will be strictly invitational and formal open to those guests conforming to black or white attire.

In Memorium

God's plan, like lilies, pure and white unfold.
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart :
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
And when, through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loosed, may rest,
When we shall clearly see and understand,
I think we shall say, "God knew the best."

Mrs. Ernestine Royal, wife.
Miss Laverne Royal, daughter.
Ernest and Marshall Royal, Jr., sons.

Minister Remains Most Potent Figure -- Russell

In his first outside appearance since his recent marriage, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the People's Independent Church of Christ, addressed the Twelfth Annual Men's Day at Second Baptist Church Sunday evening.

The meeting, arranged by Theodore Roberson, was on a par with the recent and highly-successful Girls' Day effort, observers state. With Atty. Lloyd C. Griffith as Master of Ceremonies, the program featured Rev. Russell; the world premier of Chas. Edwards' "Let My People Live"; a message from Mayor Frank L. Shaw, and renditions by Independent's William Gillespie.

Reverend Russell spoke on Man". He dealt with this responsibility in regards to all profession, stressing the ministry. He pointed out that the minister remains the most potent single figure in the Negro's social and economic life. He held that this greater power calls for more extensive taking of responsibility on the part of the ecclesiastics.

The vocal renditions of Mr. William Gillespie were well-received by the congregation, with all joining in the chorus of the final hymn.

"Let My People Live", which featured Rex Ingram and Peggy Howard along with the Tuskegee Choir, was notable for its fine music. The voices of the Tuskegee singers were given expert recording. Rex Ingram impressed as the doctor, while the whole film brought forcefully home the message that "Tuberculosis can be cured.". Old methods of dealing with dread disease were tabooed, while the modern treatment was shown to be effective and complete. The picture stressed the necessity of reporting to a competent physician at the first symptom of "T. B."

The well rounded program was hailed by many as a distinct forward step in religious presentations.

Corrigan to Appear at Coliseum

Dopglas Corrigan, who made history with his "wrong way" flight to Dublin from New York City, this week accepted the invitation to appear at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum at the special Los Angeles County evening celebration being planed in his honor, according to Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough.

But as yet—no one seems to know exactly the date when young Corrigan will arrive in Los Angeles. He will be at the coliseum, Paul Engstrum, Los Angeles County official host told McDonough yesterday, but the exact date depends upon the time when he completes his zig-zag tour of the United States.

The forty-four cities of the County will unite in making this county welcome the greatest ovation because it will be an "itself come home to a home town boy whose unprecedented drop out of the sky into Ireland shattered all expected and unexpected aviation records."

Service Reliable. Beckett's Radio

"We don't call a doctor who can't find a man's heart, but we call a radio man who very likely has never seen a set like ours before," says Mr. C. W. Beckett of Beckett's Radio Service.

Mr. Beckett explained that one service manual alone lists 12000 different models—all with different parts and circuits! Tube price lists contain more than 300 different types of tubes. Only by long and expensive training can a man learn all these sets.

When these two young ladies in the silk slacks announced that they was going to town with us, I wheeled around to see how Secret was going to take it. He always was weak-minded where women folks was concerned, and sure enough his mouth was just beginning to spread in a broad grin. I knowed right away that trouble was brewing if I didn't nip it in the bud.

"Ladies," I says "If you-all brought along your 'Littlie Yellow Baskets' expecting for us to fill 'em with our pension money, you might as well beat it back home right now. Furthermore, I wouldn't go shopping with no women who didn't have on nothing but their pants nohow. I don't mind looking at 'em in the house, but this street promenading is too much for me."

Well, they swelled up and tried to get hostile, but I grabbed Secret by the arm and held him tight while I ushered them on out the front door, and locked it. Me and Secret started on down the street then, leaving them standing on our porch. Secret tried to look back once or twice, but each time he started I managed to step on his pet corn, so he soon give it up as a bad job.

All the way down to 103rd street--the main part of town--women was stopping us, asking how we felt, and if we wanted anybody to come up and cook for us, and be of general service. They hailed us so regularly, till Secret says to me:

"Our mail-man ought to be broadcasting over some radio station instead of carrying mail. He must have told everybody on his route about us getting this pension."

I told him Yes, that he sure had put plenty weight on us by letting all these women know that we was In The Money, and that between the Guv'ment inspector on one hand, and the women on the other, we was slated to have plenty trouble on our hands.

We finally managed to get shut of them, reached the bank, and deposited our checks on our savings accounts. We drew out $10.00 apiece and went to the dry-goods store where we always trade, and bought two pairs of Over-alls and jumpers each. Our bill come to ten dollars all told. Then we bought six dollars worth of sugar, cornmeal, grits and flour, and went on back home.

It seemed as if everything we had started to multiplying from that day. That night I sold $3.00 worth of peanuts and pop-corn, and Secret made $4.00 off his Wienies and Hamburgers. Our vegetables started to growing by leaps and bounds too. String-beans vines loaded up overnight, our tomatoes and corn began to ripen, two of our biggest water-melons busted wide open, and every hen on the place commenced laying overtime. Our push-wagon trade picked up right smart also; and between our business, and tending the garden, and putting away eggs, we was kept so busy till we didn't have no time to think about helping the Guv'ment to circulate this Townsend money.

Secret called it to mind Saturday evening, however, and reminded me that the Guv'ment inspector was due to look us over Monday morning. Right away we got busy checking up, and to our dismay found that instead of having spent our $25.00 quota, we was $15.00 to the good--or in this case, to the bad. After studying over the matter awhile, I says to Secret:

"Life sure is a funny proposition. When me and you was in our prime we tried and tried to land a good Guv'ment job, but they wouldn't give us a Break. Now they've wished this money-circulation job on us at a time when our wants is so few that we got to work our brains overtime trying to figure out how to get rid of it." Secret agreed, and reminded me that the Republicans always said that the Democrats always did everything backward.

"However," I says, "They ain't but one thing a man needs to do when he's overburdened with money, and that is to hook up with some women. We'll line up two pretty mamas and throw a bally-hoo at one of the swell cock-tail lounges tonight. Then tomorrow, Sunday, if the girls haven't cleaned us out altogether, we'll go to Shiloh Baptist church and give them a big donation."

By MIRIAM MATTHEWS

Great financiers have stolen the spotlight in many recent Volumes of fiction. The latest addition to this list is William Blake's The World is Mine, an extravagant story of a modern Monte Cristo. An Andalusian, Cristobal Pinzon by name, amassed a mighty fortune, greater than that of the Rothschilds even, in order that he might get revenge for his father who had been swindled out of his Spanish copper mine by four suave Englishmen and also that he might destroy the capitalist system which permitted such wealth to be amassed by a single individual. He achieved his first objective after many years, but alas, when he was ready to start on the second, gold had gotten into his blood! The author carries Cristobal from his birth in the 1890's through to his last heroic effort to fulfill his dream in the early months of the Franco rebellion in Spain. The story is a panorama of the last forty years, not only of Spain but of all Europe and, by intimation, of the core of American economic existence as well.

In "The American Years," an historical novel, Harold Sinclair presents his readers with a rather unusual protagonist. Instead of the usual flesh-and-blood hero we find featured here a town in central Illinois called Everton from the time of its founding in 1830 until it comes of age during the Civil War. The scores of people in the book, some of whom are prominent figures in Illinois history, including Abraham Lincoln, serve merely to keep the town alive. Everton grows and booms; houses take the place of cabins; land values rise by leaps and bounds. Some grow rich, some poor, some fold up and go back East, more move farther West. Told in a long succession of brief portraits, anecdotes, episodes and scenes, this story of Everton features a hundred or more men, women and children passing through the throes of experience common to all humanity. Those who like to read the American past in old-time source material will thoroughly enjoy this entertaining novel.

Joseph Taylor, president of the Student Body, and vice-president of the Adult Student Council, spoke on the "Development of Faith". Faith, he explained, is vitally necessary for constructive thinking, and should be a fundamental theme in every individual's life.

P. A. Martin, an adult student, spoke on "War".

These gatherings are scheduled to take place regularly, it was announced. They are held to give impetus to Adult Education, and to help promote a constructive program for "Life Long Learning."

Ancient Glory of Negro Told History Society

The Negro Historical and Literary Society under the leadership of Miss Lena Jones, President and Miss Blanche Miller, Secretary brought to the attention of its members at the last meeting some startling facts concerning the accomplishments and the ancient glory of the Negro race in Northern Africa during the first few centuries of the Christian era. At this time, the society found, European nations were still in a state of barbarism. The society believes that since the schools fail to bring such facts to the fore, that if it will do its best in giving this knowledge to the young Negro eventually the youth will have a different opinion concerning their destiny.

Tonight members of the Negro Historical society formed a party and went to see the Negro folk play, "Run, Little Chillun." They will discuss the play at their regular meeting Thursday night. The following people will also be on the program: Thomas Duckett, Albert McNeal, Mrs. Welhelmina Jones, and Miss Lena Jones.

Mrs. A.C. Bilbrew to Speak at Zion Hill Baptist

Mrs. Bilbrew is outstanding and noted for originality in her programs, and promises a real treat.

Other speakers will appear also. The public is invited.

J. Cullen Fentress' GAB STUFF

Swing is Just for the Jitterbugs; the Combination is Something to Watch!

WE WENT out to watch and hear what was advertised as a "Battle of Bands" the other night. What we saw would have made a great stage show. All the jitterbugs were there and the cats certainly did swing! We hied ourselves to a safe place in the balcony, because when a jitterbug goes to town he's not responsible for anything that might happen to the onlooker who's looking on anywhere in the immediate vicinity. At any rate, these jitterbugs had reason to go to town for the cats in this instance happened to be those of Floyd Ray and Les Hite.

The "alligators" (listeners) got as close as they could to the "jive-artists" (musicians). And then, out on the floor, as the "cats" got "in the groove", the "jitterbugs" broke off in pairs and proceeded to cut steps we wouldn't even attempt for fear of breaking a leg or two.

The jitterbugs packed the Elks' ballroom to hear these cats swing and they were not disappointed. From our vantage point, we took in all of the show.

We saw several pairs of jitterbugs become so enthused and so wraught up over the artistry of the cats, that they would lose their footing on the slippery floor as they failed to complete a step.

It was hilarious fun, for them as well as for the alligators, who would form a circle in which each couple would go to town.

We began to wonder as we watched the effect of swing on today's dancers. People who were dancing straight, that is, the old one-step or two-step, looked decidedly out of place. Being slightly proficient at only the older style of shaking a leg, we found it much more comfortable and much less embarrassing to do as the other alligators—look on.

What this particular Battle of Bands was supposed to decide, we don't know. We do know, that aside from the promoters, the jitterbugs profited most. Which, after all, makes for a very successful evening, when both parties come away feeling the evening was well spent.

Back to the bands, Ray, who got his start down at San Diego, made his initial appearance here last summer at Bohemian Gardens, tieing up with Tommy Dorsey in one of those "band battles". He went on to win a swing session at the Palomar and headed East. Taking eastern cities, including Chicago and New York, by storm, Ray returned to the coast recently and again won the Palomar swing session. Said to have the greatest show band in the land, Ray and his young aggregation of cats are headed places fast. You do have to see them in order to understand what is meant by show-band.

Portly Les Hite, old reliable, has been around these parts for some time, and is well known up and down the Pacific slope. Members of his aggregation are all local men, and have been with him, more or less, since the band was organized. Hite revealed a charming vocalist.

When one band is pitted against another, and the cats can swing for the jitterbugs and alligators as Messrs. Ray and Hite got in the groove the other night, it's really a killer-diller!

Predictions: We batted .1000 on our predictions last week, and this week we offer "Big Boy" Bray over "The Great" Androff next Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium.

HEARS OF SLEUTHS' SUSPENSION; GIVES UP

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (ANP)—Dennis Alston, 20, is kindhearted above all else. On Aug. 6 he was arrested by Detectives Glenn Crockett and John L. McDonald, but escaped out of the back door of a radio shop where he had gone with the sleuths to show them where he had disposed of loot in a burglary.

The detectives were suspended because Alston escaped. Last week he heard about it, so Wednesday he surrendered to police. The sleuths will appear before a police trial board this week.

Jimmy Dorsey's featured sepia songstress, June Richmond, quit this week because she was not allowed to appear with the band at a fashionable lakeside club in Michigan. The young swinger was responsible for much of Jimmy's success—friends deplored his weak stand when the discrimination effort first came up. Boys in the band, however, protested long and loud — but LOUD!

In the face of numerous rumors and false reports concerning the production of "Gone With the Wind" by David O. Selznick, investigation yesterday disclosed the following facts concerning preparations for the filming of this widely-discussed motion picture:

After many months of work by all departments of Selznick International, the screen play, research, set plans, costumes and even a shooting schedule have been completed. Selznick is giving "Gone With the Wind"', the same faithful treatment he has always given his screen classics—"David Copperfield", "A Tale of Two Cities," "Little Women," "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer", "The Prisoner of Zenda" and a dozen more.

Casting of the picture was and is the greatest problem of all. Selznick purchased "Gone With the Wind" in galley-proof form, before its publication, for the sum of $50,000. He knew he had a great film story, but he hardly foresaw the immense popularity the novel was to attain, or the c ontroversy its casting for the screen would arouse. Selzick at no time thought of quick production to cash in on a craze, and has been determined from the first that the picture would be made only when every detail was planned perfectly, and the best possible cast assembled.

Only recently, Selznick refused $1,000,000 for his film rights to "Gone With the Wind". He will produce the picture at Selznick International.

There has been some scattered criticism of Selznick, alleging he has stalled deliberately to milk publicity for the picture. Exactly the reverse is true. If anything, Selznick International's campaign has been one of denial against all manner of false rumors. Those few stories released by Selznick International concerned only the assignment of George Cukor to direct, Sidney Howard to write the screen play, minor castings, and other facts.

Selznick International, it was said the other day, has spent $500,000 on tests alone. Actually, only about a dozen tests were made at a cost of not more than $25,000. Hundreds of auditions have been held, but candidates failing the reading tests were not given camera tests.

Not one of the dozens of casts suggested for the picture could be assembled by a single studio. Selznick is willing to make a releasing arrangement with some other company, in return for talent, but on terms that will be fair not only to him but to the nationwide army of fans who spontaneously have made casting "Gone With The Wind" an indoor game. No less than five companies have tried to make a deal at their own terms. Some of the studios have asked for the very shirt off Selznick's back in return for the loan of just one player--but Selznick is buying no gold bricks these days.

Selznick has brought many fine classics to the screen. He has never rushed production on any. He was the first producer to insist on absolute fidelity in the translation of books to celluloid, and has always used the best avaliable writers, the finest possible casts.

"Gone With The Wind" will not be an exception.

By JOHN KINLOCH

Picture---"LETTER OF INTRODUCTION"
Place ---Hillstreet
Players---ADOLPHE MENJOU, EDGAR BERGEN and CHARLEY McCARTHY

Charles McCarthy has come into his own on the screen. With some aid from a gent by the name of Bergen, Master McCarthy turned felon--in fact, stole the whole show.

Otherwise "Letter of Introduction" is a rather sombre piece dealing with the trials and tribulations of Broadway folk. In several places the film flounders noticably--the end in particular. However, in several other spots "L. of I." captures a subtle feeling of realism. In fact, the picture's greatest asset is the well-sustained mood Director John Stahl has given it. The noted creator of "Back Street" and "Only Yesterday" once again transforms static melodrama into something warm and lifelike.

The plot has to do with Andre Leeds, young Broadway aspirant, who has a letter of introduction to the great movie-idol, John Mannering. The missive reveals her to be his daughter. Afraid to let the public know, Mannering keeps her true identity secret. However, he interests himself in her theatrical career--even decides to return to the stage in her first play. Twelve years in the cinema, Mannering cracks up opening-night, gets drunk, ruins the whole show. Desperate with this failure, he commits suicide. He does not leave long enough to reveal Miss Leeds true identity and leaves her somewhat under a cloud of scandal. The revealing letter of introduction is discovered among his effects and explains all to bewildered boy-friend George Murphy.

Acting honors are taken by the veteran Menjou in a tailor-made role. As the vain yet likable Mannering, he returns from a series of comedy roles with colors flying. His restraint in the "opening night" scene makes it really powerful. The embarrassed silence when he forgets his lines, his tipsy wobble to the wrong exit are almost unbearable in their intensity. The episode is a tribute to Director Stahl.

Andrea Leeds is a bit insipid, but manages the more dramatic moments with a skill reminiscent of her memorable death scene in "Stage Door". George Murphy handles his male lead with considerable ease.

The weaknesses of the film are fully compensated by the many exceptionally fine points. The extreme care with which the settings were constructed are tremendous in maintaining the sense of reality for which Starl always aims. The ingenuity with which Bergen and McCarthy are worked in as essential characters--not merely injected every so often for comedy-relief--is also commendable. The long-drawn-out ending and the places where the whole works got off the point were the most damaging.

Picture---"DANGER ON THE AIR"
Players---DONALD WOODS, NAN GREY
Place --- Ditto

"Danger on the Air" is pretty lightweight piece of nonsense. Donald Woods plays the unerring hero with unerring heroics. Nan Grey's efforts at sophistication would be funny if not so tragic. Several times things sound dangerously like a high-school playlet . . . or maybe I'm just an old meanie.

THE MARCH OF TIME

"The March of Time" is excellent as usual. The lecture on highway safety particularly fine. The commentary on foreign affairs, however, sounds increasingly like propaganda.

Dining Car Porters Back Fox for Judge

Stanley E. Fox, candidate for Office No. 2 Superior Court, has been endorsed by the Democratic County Central Committee, American Federation of Labor, Labors Non-Partisan League and California for Political Unity.

Speaking in behalf of the Dining Car Employees, Local 582, Mr. Clarence R. Johnson, chairman, stated, "We have also been advised of your extreme liberal tendencies. . . .you can depend upon my whole hearted cooperation and interest in helping you to succeed."

Sharing the bill with these two headliners who have evoked critics into giving them more than half a column's space in most of the leading dailies, are Chuck and Chuckles, the Savoy Lindy Hoppers and that grand singing quarette of radio fame, the Charioteers.

Stanley E. Fox has stated that he believes that all races should be represented on the grand jury of the County of Los Angeles and that as Superior Court Judge, he would aid in bringing that about. True Democracy can only be achieved by remembering that America has all types of people and all races within its borders and therefore, all persons are entitled to and should participate in the administration of the Government and the enforcement of justice.

Members of L. A. Bar Give Jurist Choices

For the purpose of obtaining the opinion of the members of the bar of Los Angeles county on the qualifications of the candidates for the twenty-one offices of Judge of the Superior Court, to be voted on at the primary election, August 30th, the Los Angeles Bar Association took a plebiscite among all the lawyers of the county. Nearly 3500 lawyers, including both members and non-members of the association, voted, thus indicating their preference of the candidates for each judicial office.

The result of the plebiscite was the endorsement of the following candidates for the several offices of Superior Judge: office one, Charles S. Burnell; office two, Walter S. Gates; office three Ruben S. Schmidt; office four, Robert H. Scott; office five, Minor Moore; office six, Charles E. Hass; office seven, Clement L. Shinn; office eight, Lewis Howell Smith; office nine, Georgia P. Bullock; office ten, Henry M. Willis; office eleven, Carl A. Stutsman; office twelve, Charles D. Ballard; office thirteen, W. Turney Fox; office fourteen, Parker Wood; office fifteen, Leslie E. Still; office sixteen, Ingall W. Bull; office seventeen, Leo W. Youngworth; office eighteen, A. A. Scott; office nineteen, Benjamin J. Scheinman; office twenty, Jess E. Stephens; office twenty-one, Clement D. Nye.

DOWN IN FRONT

By ALMENA DAVIS

ORIGINAL THOUGHT. . .A sure sign of Fall, even in the midst of this sweltering heat, is the substitution of the baseball for the football in the hands of the kids who take their physical culture on the sand-lot next door. Perspiration running down the creases of your neck, notwithstanding sight of the pig-skin floating through the air, to be snatched to a belly-embrace by some Kenny Washington-inspired youngster, banishes summer from the land, momentarily.

However, no amount of day dreaming of chippy Autum days can hasten the seasonal cycle so we had better turn to the sport of the hour summer's pride and joy, tennis.

To say it simply, you really ought to spend your Labor Day week-end out at Griffith Park where the Pacific Coast Tennis tournament will be held. You'd be surprised at the strides our boys and girls have taken since the old days of Ballinger Kemp, etc.

Judging by the calibre of tennis that has been played on local courts this summer, Southern California is at last on the way to leading the nation in Negro tennis, that off-shoot of the sport which is divorced from the metropolitan game by quality, quantity and the delicate temperament of tennis players.

You know, there remain some sports which white folks feel are beyond the pale of Negro participation and tennis is foremost among them. The very nature of the game is in opposition to the white man's traditional conception of us. It is politely hypocritical for one thing. One must be most diligent to give the opponent the benefit of the doubt when he calls our base-line drive out when we know darn well it was at least three inches in. One never argues with the referee and on the very best courts, one's voice is hardly ever raised above whisper, while a cheer for a sweating player, even a Britisher's "hooray", is as vulgar as a Bronx hoot.

Of all this, to say the least, Mr. Billy thinks we-all incapable, and maybe we are. I've never heard of any cutting sprees on the Eastside tennis court and the cops that are often called to Ross Snyder playground to quell a riot arising out of a close one on the baseball diamond, are never summoned to settle like disturbances on the adjoining tennis courts. But even at that, Ross Snyder, unlike Hollywood Park, is never any tomb when the ladies and gents of color, all diked out in their white shirts and shorts gather for a Sunday morning of pitty-pat. Hot words leap often to the lips of dusky-Don Budges, Sepia-Helen Wills Moodies often resort to an ecstatic squeal when they win a long rally, yet dispite our vulgarity, we are playing better and better tennis.

Tennis doesn't demand anything we haven't got-close concentration, body coordination, speed, endurance and a degree of ingenuity, to name a few requisites. But Henry Armstrong had to develop all of these to become holder of three boxing titles.

The impregnable front organized tennis presents should offer a challenge to any young hopeful who doesn't mind maintaining a poker face even in the face of his heart's exultance when he drops a "dirty" on his opponent. If "Sorry" and "take two, old man" rise easily to his lips, instead of "kill the umpire" or you dirty cheater", then tennis definitely the sport for him.

Public interest is waxing warmer, and with that, it becomes less a social past-time and more a commercial enterprise. That is when we may step in. Anyway as an argument to the socially conscious big-wigs, who control the sport, remember the players are separated by a net and about thirty feet of space. The ball is hit with a racquet instead of the hand, so there really isn't any danger of the black rubbing off!

Getting back to September 3rd, 4th and Labor Day. Pack a lunch, either day, or all three and spend your holiday in the cool, quiet and beauty of the Griffith Park hills. The boys and girls make quite cute pictures dashing around the cement courts in pursuit of pretty white balls, and if you are at all socially-conscious, you'll meet some of "our very best people" there.

Provost, Franklin Play Golf at Private Club

Sidney Provost and Frank Franklin were honored guests last week at the wealthy, exclusive private Hillcrest Country Club. Marc Lippman, chairman of the green committee, and Fred Eisner, a member of the board of directors of the Hillcrest C. C., extended the invitation to the local players.

'OBRA' STRIKES AGAIN; SCRIVANI IS TKO VICTIM IN 9 AT OLYMPIC

'Big Boy' Bray Headlines Card Next Tuesday Night

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

It took six rounds for the "Cobra" to strike Tuesday night at the Olympic, but when he did his poisonous venom sent Andy Scrivani, Chicago lightweight, to the showers—a victim of a technical knockout after nine rounds of the scheduled 10-round bout.

Georgie "Cobra" Crouch opened Scrivani's closed left eye with a hard rihgt hand in the ninth and at the end of the heat, Referee Charley Randolph, on the advice of the house physician, Dr. Lloyd Mace, awarded the spectacular battle to Crouch.

CROUCH ON AIR

Tomorrow night (Friday at 8:15) "Cobra" Crouch will be the guest of J. Cullen Fentress on his "Sepia Sports" broadcast over Station KGFJ.

GOT GOING IN SIXTH

The "Cobra" found Scrivani's style hard to savvy for five rounds but in the sixth he found the range and all of the succeeding rounds went to him as deadly lefts and right crosses found their mark. He closed Andy's left eye with a looping right in the sixth.

It was the fourth sensational win in a row for the "Cobra". He TKO'ed Joey Milo of Detroit in the seventh a couple of weeks ago; Babe Brandelli and Frankie Martin were soundly thrashed before Milo. And now, the "Cobra" is headed for bigger game.

Jimmy McDaniels was too good for Dave Chacon in the six-round semi-windup. The preliminaries found Lou Jenkins barely nosing out Zeke Castro in six; Frank Riggi decisioned tough Lucius Wright in four; Paul Ulrich and Phil Ortiz went four rounds to a draw; Roger Winninger was a TKO victim in the fourth, losing to Tommy Warren, and Jimmy Liddell won another one, beating Adam Moraga in the curtain-raiser.

BRAY TUESDAY

"Big Boy" Bray returns to the Olympic Tuesday night, taking on "The Great" Androff, Midwest heavyweight, in the 10 round headliner. A knockout looms as both boys are stiff punchers.

IN THE "GROOVE"

Getting in the groove, so to speak, is Edgar Foley, member of the Ross Snyder Tennis club, and participant in the Pacific Coast Tennis matches to be held September 3 through Labor Day at Griffith Park.

ART ASSOCIATION TO HOLD RAFFLE AT 'YM'

Coast Racquet Stars Wind Up Practice Grind for Tourney Here on September 3

Pacific Coast Tennis players neared the end of the long trail to fitness for the coming Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament this week. It is expected the racquet wielders will wind up strenuous practice this coming Monday and will rest the remainder of the week for the start of the three day series of matches on Saturday, Sept. 3.

Expected to attract racqueteers from all over the State and as far North as Seattle, the tournament, the 17th annual, will be held from Saturday through Labor Day on the Griffith Park courts, recently the scene of the National Public Parks matches.

A record-entry is anticipated by the time entries close on Friday, September 2. Drawings will be held the evening of Sept. 2 at the local YMCA, 28th and Paloma avenue.

ROSS SNYDER TOPS

The largest turn-out will doubtless come under the banner of the Ross Snyder club, hosts to this year"s tournament. Holders of all senior Southern California titles and several of the Pacific Coast championships, the club, the largest colored tennis organization on the Coast, will definitely be the team to beat again this year.

From the Bay Cities, San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland comes assurance of at least fifty players to match the tide of Southern Californians that swept over Oakland last year when the Challenger club of that city was host.

Pasadena will contribute the next largest number of players and one might count its contribution double as James Slick Stocks, Pacific Coast singles and doubles champion, head their list.

A few players are expected from the Central California clubs as Riverside, Bakersfield, Fresno, etc. are preparing at least one entrant, it is reported.

Friendly Boxing Match is Fatal

A few apprehensive hours were spent by Sydney Williams, 1506 E. 24th Street in the interim between the death of his friend, Donald Gafford, 50, of 1626 E. 22nd street, and the autopsy performed on the body by the county autopsy surgeon.

Gafford died at the General Hospital August 12 after he had been taken there July 19 complaining of a pain in his chest, felt as he engaged in a friendly scuffle in a pool hall with Williams. It was found, however, that Gafford's death was due to pneumonia, no part of his ailment brought on by the boxing match with Williams.

McCARTHY, JACOBS IN DEFY

oOo oOo oOo

Promoter Stages One Fight; Announcer Airs Another

CHICAGO, Aug. 25, (By Marshall Davis for ANP) —For all these years the mathematicians and physicists have firmly believed it impossible for the same body to occupy two positions in space at one and the same time. If a body was one place, it could not be another, and that's all there was to it.

But now all this is changed, and by a pair of non-scientists, namely Mike Jacobs, controller of the biff and sock market, and Fairplay Clem McCarthy, the radio announcing man. Last Wednesday night in Madison Square garden Uncle Mike had Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers fighting before a crowd of 20,000 at precisely the same time that Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers were putting on the show described by Fairplay Clem for millions of radio listeners.

This has happened once before. Last summer Joe Louis defended his heavyweight crown against Tommy Farr of Wales before several thousand spectators while Louis and Farr fought elsewhere for McCarthy's benefit. Now that this has occurred twice, maybe there's something to it and I, for one, favor calling these amazing incidents to the attention of the world's foremost scientists who may have slept thru this devastating attack upon the very foundations of fundamental physical laws.

Being a person who possesses great faith in human nature, I would rather assume that somehow, some way these boxers and Jacobs had baffled science and put on an entirely different show simultaneously, than that about these fights to the advan- McCarthy had deliberately lied tage of his racial brothers against our own brown boys.

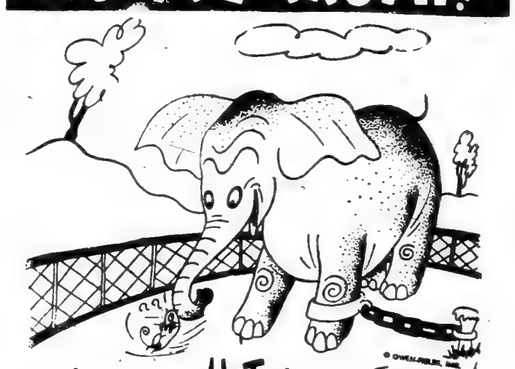
AMBERS WINS

In the Armstrong-Ambers fight described by Fairplay Clem, the white boy won from here to yonder. He punished Henry every round, warded off all Hank's blows with his forearm, and was knocked down only once for a count of one. His second trip to the canvas for a toll of eight came from a slip and not from Armstrong's flailing fists, for Fairplay Clem took great pains to stress this point.

Q Meanwhile, the dusky aspirant to three boxing thrones was fouling Lou all over the place. Louis had to come into the ring but the referee saw only a few of these low blows. Henry wasn't landing any solid punches, while Ambers was pasting him at will with left hooks and right uppercuts. Armstrong was doing so badly several times that Joe to help him, for on more than one occasion I clearly heard Fairplay Clem announce, "Louis is short with a straight left," and "Ambers lands a right flush on Louis' cheek."

I felt sorry for Henry long before the bout was over. As the bell rang ending the 15th round, I was both happy and griefstricken--happy that the carnage had ended and Armstrong had escaped alive, griefstricken because the little dusky warhorse had failed ignobly in his quest for the lightweight title. And when the announcement was made, in the face of all this evidence, that brown Hank had won the crown, I wept with Fairplay Clem for the gross injustice of such an outrageous decision and the deliberate robbery perpetrated by officials upon Lou Ambers to give victory to a representative of an already favored race.

It wasn't until Thursday morning when I read the papers that I learned about the other fight not described by Fairplay Clem. Damon Runyon, one of the best sports writers, told how he saw Lou knocked down twice by Armstrong, and declared the new three-way champion actually won 14 of 15 rounds, explaining "Ambers won but one round on points, as this writer scored it, but was awarded three on foul punches by Armstrong." The Chicago Tribune's fight correspondent said:



"Armstrong won a two to one verdict among the officials, and he left the ring with derisive shouts ringing in his ears. Why the ballot slips on the decision should have been divided is a mystery. Henry won 10 out of the 15 rounds, and three of the five he lost he dropped through accidental fouls."

Other boxing scribes wrote similar stories. The official report showed Referee Billy Cavanagh for Armstrong sever rounds to six with two even, Judge George Lecron for Armstrong eight rounds to six with one even, while Judge Marty Monroe favored Ambers with eight rounds to seven.

Similarly, the Louis-Farr bout was won by the Welshman if you heard Fairplay Clem's description and by the Brown Bomber if you paid attention to the unanimous verdict of the ring officials and sports writers.

Or do you think that maybe Fairplay Clem was really barred from the ringside on both occasions and was merely trying to earn his bread and beans with imaginative broadcast?

Lewis, Montanez Top U. S. Cards

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Colored boxers headlined the week's boxing cards in several spots on the globe. John Henry Lewis, world light-heavyweight champion from Phoenix, Ariz., and Pedro Montanez, colored Puerto Rican lightweight sensation, top the national bill, fighting in Nutley, N. J., and New York, respectively.

Lewis squares off tonight (Thursday) in a ten rounder with Dominick Ceccarelli of Italy, 175 pound European claimant to Henry's title.

Henry Martin Wins Play-Off

Henry Martin, in an 18 hole play off match for the prize in the Class "A" consolation division, had to display some very hot golf to dispose of the long-hitting Clarence Lay in a close duel. Lay carried Martin to the 18th green before being eliminated. By virtue of his win, Martin will be one of the honored players Friday night at the Victory Dance at the Vogue ballroom when prizes will be awarded.

San Diego Women's Club Purchases YWCA Building

SAN DIEGO. (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—The building, housing the Clay Street YWCA, has been purchased by the Women's Club, civic and social organization of this city, it was learned this week. The club has sponsored the work of the 'Y' for the past few years and the move is looked upon as a definitely forward step, financially and socially.

A membership drive is underway and plans for improving the property were submitted Tuesday. Mrs. Ada Williams and Mrs. Elethia Cleveland are chairmen of the buildings and grounds committee and Mrs. Chas. Hampton, executive secretary of this Community Chest agency, and Mrs. Aubrey Hackshaw are chairmen of the management committee.

Last Rites for Clarence King

In the Bethel AME church last Thursday afternoon a large crowd gathered to pay last tribute to Clarence H. King, church, fraternal and civic leader, who passed away suddenly at his home in this city on August 14. The Masonic Lodge and the Order of Eastern Star, with each of which Mr. King has been prominently identified, had charge of the services with the Rev. L. H. Owens of Bethel, delivering the eulogy and Dr. Samuel M. Beane of Los Angeles, offering the invocation. Other ministers present were: Rev. H. Francis McClure, presiding elder, Rev. L. W. McCoy, Rev. J. H. Brown and Rev. C. H. Hampton.

Not in recent years has there been a funeral in San Diego with so large an attendance. Floral offerings were in abundance, consisting of many exquisite designs and attesting the esteem in which Mr. King was held.

Surviving him are: Mrs. Lucille King, widow, Clarence, Jr. and Albert, sons, Albert King of Pittsburgh, and Lewis King of Oakland, brothers, and May King of Los Angeles, sister. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery with [illegible] Funeral Home in charge.

Visitors

San Diego continues to be the mecca for visitors, what with the Del Mar racetrack opened. Lewis Drugger and George L. Rollins of Los Angeles motored from the Del Mar races to the city last Friday to visit relatives of Mr. Rollins. Carl Bigsby, often referred to as San Diego's best dressed young man, left the city last Friday for Seattle and other Northern cities on a three weeks' vacation. Mrs. Maggie Spencer of Chattanooga, Tenn., arrived in San Diego a few days ago to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Spencer. Mrs. M. C. Jackson, evangelist, arrived in the city Tuesday of last week from Chicago. She will conduct a ten day service at the Bethel AME church of this city, and is the houseguest of the Rev. and Mrs. Owens of the church.

Melvin White, jr., son of Mrs. Edith Wilkinson, recently returned from a delightful vacation to Seattle and Vancouver, B. C. Joseph Nelson, Jr. promising tenor of this city, now an [illegible] in arts and crafts at Tsinnewawa, Jamul, was a visitor in San Diego. After spending ten days with Mrs. [illegible] Wilson and other relatives, Mrs. G. L. Rollins and daughter, Mary Frances, returned to their home in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Clarence King, Jr., who was called home from Denver last week to attend the funeral of his father, returned to Denver, where he is employed, this week. As president of Shorter ACEL, which consists of more than 125 members, young Mr. King will present a play in the very near future, "The Way Out", which he authored. Prof. and Mrs. Arthur Prince and children, who have been vacationing in their city for the past nine weeks, left for Pasadena Sunday where they will spend a week with relatives. From there they will go to San Francisco before returning to their home in El Centro where Prof. Prince is principal of the Washington Elementary school and Mrs. Prince an instructor of music in the adult school system. Prof. Prince is the brother of Rev. L. H. Owens.

GLOBE NEWS & GOSSIP . . . . . By Jay Gould

DEL MAR shows good gain over last year with favorites winning large shares of races. Nettie Holden of New York, ex-show pretty has taken unto herself a hubby, and changed her name to Mrs. (John Doe) Mills at New York City. Otis Shannon and his pretty wife, Billy, of Frisco, have returned from their cross country trip to New York and the East. Because pretty Gladys Pittman of 'Frisco like the spots lights, races, and sometimes the imported champaigne, her hubby cramped her style before and after the present split.

Charley Alexander, Los Angeles play-boy, left top tallies in the 'Frisco late spots. When Daisy Boone, Esther Smith, Lenore Calhoun, Clara Moore and Josephine Adams play the late spots they carry enough coin to last and they lay it on the line. It looks as though wedding bells will soon be ringing for Mrs. Ethel Clinton. A popular bay city man is the prospective groom. The big week end crowds at the "Club Alabam" didn't seem to miss Mytrle Bishop, the entertainer. Those wanted fun and a good time left giggling up their sleeves, saying that Charley Echols' new find Dee Dee Earl from up the state was a killer. Harry Dudley, the ex-boxer, can be seen with his red carnation ankling in and out of swell dances and night spots watching the world go by.

Corrections: Lawrence Criner, who left little mama and several other ladies holding the bag in 'Frisco, returned last week on a sight-seeing trip with his new find, Miss Billy, driving a new car and lifted everybody out of the red. So what? Alma Travers and Margurite Jones are carrying on in Stockton and playing to capacity crowds in a swanky late spot. Of all things Marceda Gault ex-show pretty, now cashier of the Creole Palace night spot, San Diego, would rather handle the cash than be the boss or be the producer of the show. Mae Moore and the adorable Jennie Thomas of Los Angeles who are sight-seeing from the Atlantic to the Pacific should have stopped off in San Francisco on their return and seen the flickering of the many lights on the Golden Gate bridge and the bay bridge. Mildred Russ, of Los Angeles, who is now taking her mail at 2227 E. 107th street, Cleveland, has traveled through the East since May and will take off for the West coast in August and back to Los Angeles. Mildred has what it takes, plenty of cash, angle being a New Yorker. Just received a letter from 'Fats' stating that Joblet, Johnnie Davidson, Hawks, Wells and Mex, the great Mexican of New York are at the Montana races and Mexico expects to return to New York and make up with his ex-girl, the pretty Mae Johnson. Mex cashed in twelve grand at Inglewood Park.

NEXT TUESDAY!

Next Tuesday we go to the polls. Next Tuesday many high aspirations will be broken. Next Tuesday the petty political stooges will haunt street corners with loud, last-minute denunciations. Next Tuesday—the people of Los Angeles may or may not have voted wisely.

During the campaign it has been the policy of The California Eagle to present as many candidates as possible. Through our columns we have shown men and issues—irrespective of party or politics. This is a "Republican" publication—our political pages have been peopled with men and ideas from all groups. Our one object has been to supply needed information to citizens who will be confronted by a tremendous list of tremendously unfamiliar names next Tuesday.

In avoiding the "straight and narrow" of partisanship, we hoped that our efforts might aid in tearing down a great American institution. The political history of the nation always has been sullied by the last-minute "expose" or "startling revelation". If suddenly, day before election, a candidate is discovered to be a Klansman, a wife-beater, former insane asylum inmate, snatcher of candy from drooling infants — disregard that discovery with the profoundest of indifference. The EAGLE, along with many other fair-minded newspapers, has attempted to reveal men's records and principles without exaggeration or under-estimation. It is from such a source that political opinions should be garnered. No amount of last-minute publicity stunts should affect any voter's decision.

The EAGLE, throughout the past few weeks, has not propagandized—but educated!

A DANGEROUS MEASURE

OPEN LETTER TO THE EAGLE

The electors of California will vote on the Revenue Bond Act of 1937 (the so-called Garrison Bill) at the referendum to be held at the state election, November 8, 1938.

Whether you favor or oppose public ownership in principle, you will be against this dangerous measure if you take the trouble to read and understand it.

The act, one of the longest pieces of legislation ever enacted in California, contains 12,000 words and is most involved. Experienced attorneys who have studied it say it will take years of litigation and much guess-work by the courts to clarify its obscurities and rectify its inconsistencies.

The act enables virtually any local governmental body in California to qualify for going into almost any kind of utility business, new or old, and makes it easy to borrow the money to do so—in some instances without any approval by the voters, and in other instances with the approval of a mere majority.

The act would scrap the time-honored policy which requires the vote of two-thirds of the people to approve public borrowing. Even with existing safeguards, public debt in California has mounted too high. Why make it easier for politicians to borrow what you must pay?

The two-thirds policy is tossed overboard by the trick and device of saying that the bonds or borrowed money shall be "payable" only out of the revenues of the utility to be bought or built and that taxes shall not be levied for that purpose. That is the bait with which to catch the public on the hook. We are supposed to assume that a public utility project, even though financed entirely on borrowed money, can never fail. But bitter experience tells us otherwise.

We call this a trick and device because the act carefully reserves the right to make contributions out of tax-derived funds if the revenues of the utility prove insufficient:—or, for that matter, even if they are sufficient.

Twelve thousand words of tricks and traps—that's what this measure is. It promises something for nothing. We are told by its promoters that revenue bonds are a financial miracle by which all must gain and none can lose; that they are debts which nobody owes. But study the act and see for yourself whether it does or means what the promoters say.

The measure would build up bureaucracy and debt. The politicians would fix the rates to be charged for the service they supply. There would be no regulation of rates, service, or financing by the railroad commission, representing the public.

Out of this act would come a super-government which will be the master, not the servant, of the people. It would be independent of the council in cities and of the board of supervisors in counties. According to this act, so long as there is a bond outstanding, the local utilities commission cannot be abolished or its essential powers diminished, even if two-thirds of the electors voted to do so. Aren't we bossed enough and don't we owe enough NOW?

VOTE NO!

A WORN OUT "BOOGEY-MAN"

Dixie has worn out the "boogey-man" of "Negro Domination" upon whose shoulders they rode into office and furnished a scare-crow to wave in the face of Yankee north.

Something had to be done to create a new object of fear for unthinking of all groups, so they seized upon Communism. Headlines in the daily press would lead one to believe that the nation is reeling under the spell of Communism and only a wave of the Red wand from Russia is needed to tear asunder a civilization built upon the blood and bones of patriots, white and black.

Fact is, all of the government-overthrowing Reds in America could be assembled in Los Angeles' Shrine auditorium with seats to spare for spectators. Well-fed, well-paid, well-housed people have no cause nor would they seek to overthrow a government under which these blessings are enjoyed.

Back to Negro domination. The white man makes and executes all of the laws. The manufacture, sale and distribution of all arms, ammunition, transportation facilities and the markets are also owned and operated by him, and just how the imagination could be so stretched to picture a few under-paid cotton-pickers, share-croppers, porters and washer-women taking over and dominating a country is indeed silly beyond belief. The same applies to this hue and cry of Communism.

$30.00 A WEEK

Over 700,000 qualified voters signed petitions for placing on the ballot a referendum measure that would give every unemployed citizen fifty years or over, $30.00 each week.

Seeking a way out of economic distress, men and women have accepted and swallowed every panacea prescribed as a cure for our ills.

Men and women driven to the status of paupers, pride crushed by a condition caused by no acts or deeds of their own, seek a way leading back to economic security. Sign petitions, yes; sign anything that promises to eliminate a "visitor" coming into the home dictating as to what food, how much, etc., shall be given to the thousands forced to seek relief.

Force of circumstances caused more than 700,000 bona fide citizens to sign a referendum guaranteeing $30.00 weekly to all 50 years of age and over. Now the proposition will appear upon the ballot at the election in November for ratification of the voters.

NICKELS MAKE BILLIONS

Come halcyon days or hard times, Mr. and Mrs. John Public spend no less than $3,500,000,000 yearly in petty gambling! These are the findings of a recent survey, indicating those little nickels and dimes talk big money when laid end to end. Mention the word "gamble", and to many it suggests swank, carpeted casinos, glittering chandeliers, evening gowns and swallow-tailed coats. They forget that of the seven billions America spends annually in gambling, fully half that sum is small change poured into pinball and slot machines, into raffles, pools, and punchboards. The silver stream flows on steadily. Come sunlit days and prosperous times, plenty of money becomes easy money. Come darker days and thinner pocketbooks, the urge to take that potential nest egg out of cold storage and make it produce needed dividends comes to the fore. John Law has tried his hand at discouraging this, but his hand only gets bitten. It takes a heap of law to thwart seven billion dollars' worth of gambling instinct!

THE PROMISED LAND PRODUCES

Thousands strong, the followers of Father Divine have now made their triumphant entry into the Promised Land across the Hudson from President Roosevelt's estate. The worshiping "angels" of the Harlem leader had no cause for complaint. En route to Krum Elbow, some 2500 of them stopped off at a new Divine mission and found that "a chicken in every pot", or in every tummy, could come true — with chicken dinners available at fifteen cents, watermelon galore, and soda pop at three cents a bottle. While Treasury experts hunt for new sources of revenue, industrialists seek to swing employment tides upward, and a nation impatiently awaits the quick return of prosperous times, it almost looks as if Father Divine and his followers had stolen a march on the country. When you can proclaim the Promised Land, and back it up with sumptuous dinners at fifteen cents a copy for all comers, the Harlem messiah is in no danger of having to eat his words — not while his followers eat chicken!

IT TAKES MORE THAN A NAME

The dark spot on the current industrial map is Pennsylvania, but down in Dixie times are not what they should be, either. At Atlanta, the Public Service Commission has just heard the petition of a railroad firm to abandon its station at Recovery, Georgia. The reason given — there's no business in Recovery! A rose by any other name would smell as sweet, but not Recovery. It has to produce, or else!

DICTIONARY FOR DOGS

Now dog-owners, given to disputing the respective brains of their pets, can leave it up to the dogs themselves for a decision. Wilfred J. Funk of Southampton, N. Y., has compiled a dog's dictionary. It was his discovery, based on tests, that dogs of average intelligence have a "vocabulary" of 60 words which they understand, while those with exceptional I. Q.'s know as many as 204 words. If you want to know about a dog's past life, just try talking to it, advises Mr. Funk. Those who understand only a few words are bums. Those who recognize three-score words or more possess respectable backgrounds, for they have most certainly lived with families. Since this is an English-speaking dictionary for American dogs it might be unfair to try the test on newly imported poodles, dachsunds, or greyhounds. They may know their onions in French, German, and Russian, but only be able to recognize "beefsteak" in English!

SAGACIOUS SAYINGS...

(From Westbrook Pegler)

Yet we do have among us many who would personally resent this suggestion as stupid nonsense who, nevertheless, do regard the Negro as somehow untouchable. He is, in fact, more untouchable now that he is free than he was in the time of slavery.

Then he lived in quarters right on the grounds of his owner and close by the big house, much closer than Father Divine's new heaven to Mr. Roosevelt's ancestral estate. He was in and out of the big house at will. He fetched and carried and his women cooked and made the beds and, in confinements, helped the doctors deliver white babies.

It is hard to reconcile such intimate relationship between white and Negroes with the prejudice which would regard the arrival of a Negro family in a white block of a plague.

The establishment of a heaven for Negro religious fanatics might reasonably be protested by the white neighbors on some grounds. A similar colony of white people given to whooping and bawling and brass music in the night would be equally unpleasant, however, and that reduces the problem to a matter of conduct.

I have never encountered a Negro reporter on a newspaper assignment, but we did have a photographer around here a few years ago who seemed to be a Negro, and he seemed to get along very well with the crowd. Nobody broke out with any disease.

That being so, I can't believe that the white personnel would be jarred for more than a moment if some paper in New York would put a Negro to work on a rewrite or on the copy desk as an experiment. A Negro reporter might run into difficulties which would handicap him too much.

In Harlem an organization of shopkeepers has agreed to hire Negroes at the rate of one in three, and white clerks who have been in the habit of selling food, clothing and all to the Negro customers will notice hardly any difference in working at the same side of the counter with Negro men and women.

Conduct is a separate matter entirely and should be dealt with by the regular methods. Negroes quartered in bug infested slums and excluded from jobs which are open to any immigrant alien, including the nazi and the communist, cannot be expected nor can it be said that their conduct is any worse than that of other slum dwellers.

Some of them get drunk, fight and commit adultery, but it seems that I have read of similar goings on in the night life of the pink people, as Bernard Shaw calls us, including members of many of our noblest families.

Many of us are rather pleased however, to be recognized socially by members of this class, indistinguishable though some of them may be, except in color, from licentiuos blacks.

Father Divine's flock may prove to be an awful nuisance ti the neighbors at Krum Elbow, and Mr. Roosevelt's property value may be adversely affected by this settlement. But if a settlement of quiet Negro farmers were to put themselves down and start working the land and operating little stores in the same region solely on the ground of color. It would be so in any northern white community 78 years after the tnorth proclaimed brotherhood with the Negro and set them free to rot.

BUYERS' GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

When the millions of Negroes in this country learn to make intelligent use of their purchasing power, they will not only make new economic friends, but they will be able to solve their own economic problems.

The depression has brought about many changes in the American economic, social and political pattern. Many of the old frontiers have disappeared. The Negro no longer has a monopoly on any particular field of employment.

As technocracy has advanced, competition at the bottom has become much keener than at the top, with the result that the untrained and unfit have been eliminated. Since the American employer prefers a trained individual it is necessary that the Colored youth seek a more diversified vocational education.

Only through education and the intelligent use of his purchasing power will the Negro fit into this new American economic pattern.

Colored Americans spend over $132,000,000 a year for gasoline and oil, yet many of the Oil Companies overlook this huge market in the advertising and merchandising of their products.

The Continental Oil Company, The Standard Oil Company and its affiliates, known as the Esso Marketers, were the first two Oil Companies to employ Colored representatives and to advertise in the Negro press.

It is doubtful if any other company in the United States employs as many Negroes as the Standard Oil Company. There are over 6,000 Colored people employed in their oil fields, refinery, and plants of this company. Colored people have been identified with the Esso Marketers since the founding of the original company many decades ago. Through these years many millions of dollars have been paid to members of the race.

The Standard Oil Company offers many varied employment opportunities to the Negro race. Mr. James A. Jackson special representative of the Esso Marketers has had considerable success in doing promotion work for this company. Other employees include oil scouts, chemist, file clerk, tin smith, steamship cook, steamship sailors, pipe line laborers, skilled refinery men, foundry moulders, guards, watchman, greasers, salesmen, billposters-contract, real estate agent on occasions.

This company also spends from $6,000 to $11,000 annually with the Negro press. The company has more than 800 Negroes on its pension lists, men have served the company 30 to 50 years before retiring on a company pension.

The Continental Oil Company employs Mr. Dudley Luck as director of the Negro branch of the Conoco Travel Bureau. They also employ considerable Colored people in their oil fields and plants.

These companies deserve your patronage. For economic security read your colored papers and buy their advertised products.

"FAIR ENOUGH"

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Reprinted from Los Angeles Evening News)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Whatever the motives of Howland Spencer, Mr. Roosevelt's neighbor at Krum Elbow, in selling a 500-acre estate to Father Divine's flock, the deal is likely to loosen at least one little stone in the great wall of prejudice against the Negro.

It puts the questions: Why is it a calamity that a Negro acquires a home in a white community? Why is his mere presence offensive to the white people? Many of those who would bitterly object employ Negro servants who sleep under the same roof with them, care for their children, and when they get drunk at night servants cajole them up the stairs, undress them and put them to bed.

In "Gone With the Wind" Miss Margaret Mitchell reminded us that in the days before the Civil War, white babies sucked at the breats of Negro slave women. Hitler, of coruse, would say that this contaminated the purity of the babies' racial blood, but Hitler is, by common consent, a vicious maniac as well as an ignoramus.

SHAW'S ACHIEVEMENTS

Dear Editor:

I had intended to read my Eagle and remain content. But after perusal of your editorial on Mayor Frank L. Shaw I just had to make some remarks. Personally, I don't know the man, but after reading constantly of his great achievements for the common people, I felt terribly chagrined to read of a recall by the people of Los Angeles. Surely there must be something radically wrong with the voters' mind to attempt to disrupt the splendid progress of such a reliable man. I submit here one reason why I say the people of Los Angeles should be fighting to re-elect without opposition, instead recall at such an era of chaos.

They have an ideal man at the helm. His record as published in the Eagle has revealed as much to me. But maybe most of our people do not know what an ideal man is.

An ideal man is not one who knows the most of what other men have in the past discovered, but he is a man from whom his fellowmen are constantly reaping a large harvest of good for the entire community, town or state he represents. He looks upon all benefit now in possession of the human race, not as a commodity to be transported from the financial, economic and progressive storehouse of the poor and placed at the disposal of a few monopolists, but as a potential seed to be properly planted for all humans. He will, therefore, put into his field just what is needed to solve the issue of the people, and after it is there, it, he will treat as the seed of salvation to humanity. He will not treat it in "Judas" fashion as do most corrupt politicians, and hold on to it and preserve it for personal gain, but willing and let come of it what it will, only so it will yield the sought after harvest demanded by the people he represents.

Such a man knows that if a farmer should cover the ground too thickly with wheat, he would not only lose what he sowed, but would have no harvest to offer at all. So he is careful not to give off too many promises lest some be not kept and brand him as a false prophet, so is this man Shaw. He takes into his mind just so much responsibility of the people no more than his brain will nourish and provide the essential solution. He need, therefore, spend no energy in trying to retain the support of all of his intelligent constituents, because he has fought a good fight for them and remained faithful to their cause, but the forces who elected him should direct all the vitality of their brains toward the annihilation of all parasitic, political enemies who intend to mar the progress of a great enterprise of importance to the people as a whole.

One of the fundamental causes of failure on the part of Race men and women who start out to accomplish anything in the world through the man they put in office is the lack of unity, sane judgment and reserve to resist the hollow promise of corrupt politicians. The man whose mind contrives to better their conditions--and is constantly giving forth a harvest of recognition in governmental set-ups, should always be successfully supported at the polls. Loyalty is the source from which grows all successful progress and racial equality. The ideal man offers the Race the only "Open Sesame" to that which he seeks. Shaw is the "Ideal man" of the people of Los Angeles, and every Race man, woman or child who fails to support this man, fails to supply the essentials of life for himself. To re-elect him to Mayor is not enough, you should strive to place him in higher official capacity. If, as Mayor he can produce such irreproachable record, in a higher office with more power at his disposal he can give more in return for your support. May I read of his success and "Long reign Shaw" should be the slogan instead of a recall! Support Shaw!

LAWRENCE BIAS

★ A CLIPPING from the August 8 edition of the New York Times reads:

"An agreement intended to end racial unrest in Harlem by guaranteeing to Negroes at least one-third of all white-collar jobs in Harlem retail establishments was announced yesterday by the Uptown Chamber Of Commerce.

This development within the borders of the greatest single concentration of Negroes in the world stands a good chance of setting a national precedent. Various campaigns of "Don't Spend Where You Can't Work" have already been carried on in Los Angeles. The argument certainly is a just one, and an indication of awaked economic consciousness on the part of Afro-America.

However, there is a caution which we feel must be repeated. In our battle for this slight inroad in the commercial set-up of the nation we must never take our eyes from the greater, more healthy economic movement--the establishment of our own enterprise. For it must be recognized that a caucasian who brings his money into a Negro neighborhood and invests has certain INALIENABLE rights. He is boss--representation may be acquired in his organization, but never control. And without actual control there is very little economic advantage.

A DISPATCH from Atlanta, Ga. reads---

"The issue of Negro participation in Georgia's September 14 Democratic primary was injected into the United States senate race today as campaign workers for Sen. Walter F. George sought to offset reports that Republicans will enter the prmiary to help him.

George headquarters made public a decision by Hugh H. Rowe Clarke's County Democratic Chairman, in which Rowe "definitely refused the request of a group of Negroes" who wanted to vote in the primary.

Rowe pointed out, however, that primary rules and regulations open the election only to "white electors who are Democrats."

The present furore as to whether or not a Negro should be allowed to vote in the Southern Democratic primaries brings to the fore once again one of America's most flagrant injustices.

The very fact that some eight million loyal, tax-paying citizens of the United States are denied the franchise is incredible. The situation is even more appalling when it is remembered that an amendment to the constitution explicitly holds that no person shall be denied this franchise on the basis of race, color, or creed.

We often wonder how a nation so loud in its protestations of democracy could allow such an hypocricy to exist unchallenged. The solid Democratic south hurls the lie at every statement of America's liberty and freedom. When the President of the United States sees fit to lambast the demagogues and dictators of Europe--when a chief executive aptly turns phrases in the cause of democracy--he forgets the old phrase "Charity begins at Home".

How easy it is for us to snort and howl over the outrages of Hitler and Mussolini. And how ridiculous it is when a Senator Bilbo, a Governor Leche deny millions of Americans their most basic right. We might even make so bold as to suggest less talk of opening our country to the refugees of foreign tyranny and more comment in regard to the correction of our own searing injustices.

Of course, we take into consideration that generalities anent the foreign situation make the more convenient prattle for our politicians. We understand that the fine old American institution of the "glittering generality" must be maintained. However, we are aware that no nation can prosper--economically or morally--when it practices despotism upon so great a group of its citizens.

The constitution, in its references to the inalienable right of the franchise, forgets one little technicality,--the party primary. The spirit of the law is clear to all who read it. The intention is sharp and well-defined. It is simply that all law-abiding Americans shall vote. The insidious manner in which the southern Democratic party has defeated this object remains the greatest single example of "party conspiracy" in the annals of the nation. Hiding behind the subterfuge of the party primary, the Democratic Donkey has kicked the Negro's voting guarantee off the statute books of several states. "The party has the right to decree who shall vote in its own primaries", say the leaders of the South. And the United States Supreme Court forsakes the spirit of our constitution, recognizes the letter of the law, and this unfairness goes merrily on its way. "Yes, you may vote in the general election, Negroes of the South--only you may not in the party primary." However, it is so well-known that the Democratic party primary election, below the Mason-Dixon line, is the final act of balloting. With no rival party, the Democratic candidate, once selected, is automatically elected.

Many suggest ways in which southern Afro-America may itself employ a technicality to defeat this unfair system. It is claimed that if Negroes form their own party, institute their own primaries, the force of numbers may change a general election in the South into something other than a mere formality. That is, colored people might FORM an independent bloc capable of challenging even the solid Democratic South. The immense difficulties in such a plan, however, defeat it. The present unfairness could not exist if the great preponderence of Negroes were not indifferent. True, there is a growing interest in politics among them, but white southerners have dominated Negroes there for so long that it is extremely doubtful that any organization of strength may be formed. Once the colored people have become sufficiently educated to the ideas of political equality, they will not need a party of their own, but will be strong enough to smash into the Democratic primary itself.

This thing can be accomplished only by the aid of those Negroes who have been blest with education and the correct environment. Exclusive of the

People's Favor of Hawkins Almost Amounts to Unanimous Vote; Jones is Nearest Competitor; City in General Gasps at McAdoo Defeat

. . . And the dry old sage who advised, "Don't bet on a horse or an election", today looked out over the California scene where Tuesday an election was strewn from end to end, and said, "I told you so"!

The old Ship of State still tremored today from surprise on top of surprise in the primary election of state officials.

A record registration was followed by a record vote, especially in Los Angeles county, and as capricious an expression of the will of the people has not been seen in these parts in many a moon. While the city and state in general gasped in surprise over the tremendous shellacking administered William Gibbs McAdoo, President Roosevelt's "Dear Mac", incumbent candidate for United States Senator, by Sheridan Downey, former stable-mate of Upton Sinclair, the Negro colony, in particular, hailed the almost unanimous re-election to the State Assembly of Augustus Hawkins for his third term.

While "if that don't beat all" was echoed over the Republican choice of the incumbent Governor Frank Merriam instead of Lieut.-Governor Hatfield.

Roberts was nosed out for the Republican nomination, however, by William D. Campbell, who will oppose the incumbent Thomas Ford, Democrat in the final election.

Nearest opponent to Hawkins, the Race's only representative in California administrative affairs, was Spurgeon C. Jones, Republican newcomer to Politics. Jones triumphed by a goodly number over Thomas Myles, also a Republican and Sidney P. Dones, the perennial Progressive. The people's favor of Hawkins almost amounted to a plurality.

Scottsboro Prosecutor Says Communists Plotted Riot

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 1. (ANP)—The highly effective "Red scare" was used by Melvin Hudson of Alabama, Scottsboro case prosecutor, in a letter sent the state pardon board last week opposing clemency for Ozie Powell, one of the original nine defendants, whose case was among those argued recently before the board.

Huston charged the Communists plotted to murder an Alabama sheriff and his deputies "for the purpose of starting a race riot" in the fracas involving Powell and Deputy Ed. Blalock in 1935. Powell is serving 20 years for stabbing the officer. The Communists, however, issued a statement last week calling Hutson charges "utterly fantastic."

In his letter, the prosecutor said, "I am convinced that this knife was slipped to this Negro by a white man for the purpose of causing a race riot, hoping thereby to promote the cause of Communists. It makes me shudder to think what would have happened to many of our good and faithful citizens, both black and white, had the nefarious scheme of these white Com-

Police Report New Angle to Old Story; This Time Man Bites Man!!!!

When a dog bites a man, it is too usual an occurrence to rate the headlines. However, when a man bites a dog, it is news. BUT, when a MAN bites a MAN, it is a super-scoop!—And when the parties involved happen to be a politician and a newspaperman, of repute, it becomes even more sensational.

For this week, this seemingly prosaic bit of information was recorded on the blotter of the Newton street station:

That one Lawrence LaMar, journalist, who gave his address as 1125 Central Avenue, was, at about 2 a. m. Wednesday morning bitten over the right eye by one Amos Black, politician ,address unknown, who can usually be found around the Dunbar Hotel.

The bite was the aftermath of a "kidding argument", (or maybe it was a kid argument), anyway, the motive for the bite was unknown by the victim.

However, according to Newton Street police, who laughed the whole thing off, the victim was in no condition to discern or ascertain motives, for he had been drinking . . .tsk, . . .tsk . . . ..

NEW PEONAGE CASE REVEALED IN ARKANSAS

FORREST CITY, Ark., Sept. 1. (ANP)—This section of Arkansas, scene of the case two years ago in which a city marshal was fired and fined $3500 for violation of federal anti-slavery laws is in the news again with charges that both white and colored men are arrested, fined, and farmed out to plantation owners to work out their fines in chains.

Principals in the current case are Toney Hicks, 25, of Helena, held as the prisoner; J. C. Cherry, white plantation owner, charged with peonage; K. T. Sutton, white Helena attorney who entered the case on Hick's behalf, and several local officials charged with collusion.

Sutton Wednesday won the first round in the fight for Hicks' freedom when he obtained an order from Chancellor A. L. Hutchins on a habeas corpus proceeding to remove the prisoner from the plantation. He was placed in the hands of Sheriff J. M. Campbell until a trespass fine of $100 could be appealed. After bond was posted, Hicks was released from custody.

According to Sutton's petition for a habeas corpus writ, Hicks was arrested at Hughes for trespass after leaving a freight train. When a Hughes justcie of the peace refused to hear the case, he was brought to Forrest City in another county and tried and fined before Justice of the Peace J. E. McCutchen, who afterwards turned him over to Cherry, the plantation owner, in a third county. The fine was $100 and the court costs $39.10 which included the expense of movement about three counties before being farmed out. He was to work out this fine at the rate of 75 cents a day.

Chancellor Hutchins in court said Arkansas law permitted sheriffs to hire out prisoners "to reputable citizens" and added

THEY SHALL NOT PASS!!

By Dr. H. H. Towles

Another effort to retard the progress of sensible government is being made by a clique of "reformers" who are attempting to take over the reins of government of this fair city to satisfy their narrow prejudicial selves at the expense of the people.

It is this dastardly thing called a "Recall Election" which is being saddled upon the shoulders of the taxpayers that should be beaten by the voters in such a manner as to convince those responsible for the recall movement that the people who voted to elect the Mayor in 1937 elected him to serve them for four years, according to the provisions of the Charter and will go to the polls and vote to guarantee their pledge made in 1937 and retain MAYOR SHAW in office.

Recall elections are dangerous, especially when promoted by "mal-contents or dissatisfied" and are not willing to accept the will of the majority. To recall Mayor Frank L. Shaw would prove disastrous in many ways to the City of Los Angeles, for it would jeopardize all the programs promoted by him and his administration, especially the Federal Aid that he has received and also that which

Spectacular Three-Hour Parade Through Jam-Packed Streets Highlighted by Maryland Governor's Address; Tells of Police Appointments

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1. (By T. W. Anderson for ANP)—With traditional pomp and pageantry and musical and oratorical acclaim, highlighted by welcome addresses by Maryland's Governor Nice and Baltimore's Mayor Jackson, colored by a spectacular, three hour parade through jam-packed streets of cheering spectators and featured by the re-election for his 17th consecutive year of J. Finley Wilson as Grand Exalted Ruler, the 39th annual conclave, I. B. P. O. E. of W. ended in a blaze of glory here last Saturday night. Fourteen special trains and 300 buses brought the delegates here from all sections of the country.

Mrs. Abbie M. Johnson was also re-elected grand daughter ruler and the entire lodge cabinet of G. E. R. Wilson was again returned to office despite the rumored opposition of Roy S. Bond, grand esteemed loyal knight, by Joseph James, Jr., of Daytona Beach, Florida.

50 BANDS, 300 MARCHING AND DRILL UNITS

Over 200.000 Baltimoreans and spectators from all parts of the country lined the streets, and witnessed a parade which took some six hours to pass a given point. Some 50 bands, over 300 marching and drill units kept the throng in one cheer after another as the year's most brilliant fraternal display was launched. Brilliantly plumed drum majors, gaudily dressed and beautiful girls; briskly stepping junior boys and girls; nattily attired band units, helmeted legionaires, high-stepping policemen; swift riding motorcycle patrols, daintly-stepping horseback units; hot swing bands, and a final touch being added by scores of the loveliest of Negro womanhood, ensconced on huge floats, gave a grand touch of color, as the Antlered Herds marched "for Finley" and old Baltimore, which for twenty years had not seen the Elks.

Welcoming the Grand Lodge to the State of Maryland Governor Rice told of having appointed for the first time in history Negro policemen in his state and told his audience that he did it "not to gain the affection of the Negroes of Maryland, but because I felt that it was the best

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

WE ARE developing FINE ACTRESSES and ACTORS in our group by the dozens these days and I am WONDERING where they are going FROM HERE. During the run of "Run, Little CHILLUN" now at the MAYAN THEATRE I have seen more of my group nightly as AUDIENCE than at any time during my TEN YEARS here. Proving to me that OUR GROUP is interested in the theatre and is SERIOUSLY interested in COLORED ARTISTS. On checking the receipts as nearly as possible I find they HAVE paid in an EQUAL or larger share for the MAINTENANCE of this play. Which also PROVES there is a possibility of our GROUP supporting a GROUP of COLORED ARTISTS. Still that does not satisfy this new crop of ARTISTS; they want to be in MAJOR attractions that reach out to the world to all GROUPS and ALL RACES. And they are RIGHT. "Art has no color line".

CLARENCE MUSE

So again I ask, where do they go from here? There are very few YOUNG ARTISTS that would not like part of their career exhausted in PICTURES. And they should be in PICTURES when they have something definite to offer. I remember some time ago that I wrote, asking for more interest in COLORED ARTISTS and the people of LOS ANGELES have proven that interest in the WAY they have COME TO SEE "RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN" three and four times. NOW, to my point; IF THIS SAME multitude of people began a regular CAMPAIGN of letters and WIRES to the STUDIOS, to the head men, that this play would make fine SCREEN MATERIAL, would make money because it has proven its BOX OFFICE appeal here and NEW YORK, I think we WILL MOVE UP ANOTHER ROUND of success. WE MUST send these great NEW ARTISTS to the TOP. Let's start a CAVALCADE of letters TODAY. "SOMETHING is just GOT TO BE DID", says one of the CHARACTERS of the SHOW, and that is the GOSPEL TRUTH. Stones watch the sea like eats, yet they can't move; they are there, ever watching. We can move and still WATCH the sea of progress; let's ride out with the TIDE and bring in the FLYING FISH of success! (Copyrighted by Clarence Muse - 1938.)

Blodgett Own a Home Drive Opens

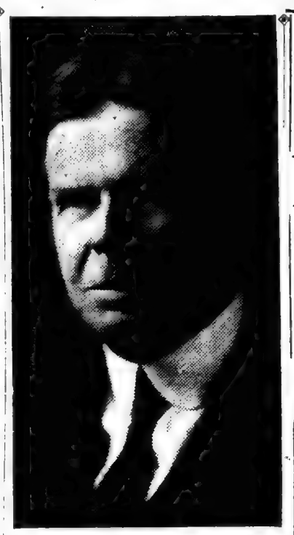
A drive, concentrated on the goal of every Southern California family in ten owning a home, was started this week by L. M. Blodgett, leading West Coast colored contractor. Blodgett's drive is a part of the program of "re-housing and better-housing", recently undertaken in Los Angeles upon assurance of a federal apportionment.

Blodgett is centering his attention on "Blodgett Tract", a potential community similar to Central Avenue Gardens, popularly called the "Hollywood of South Los Angeles. "Blodgett Tract" comprises 35 acres and is located beyond the Gardens on Wadsworth street at Imperial avenue.

Approval of the tract by the Federal Housing Authority was claimed by Blodgett and construction is already underway of a six room house on East 111th street under an assured FHA loan. The land and the buildings represents combined investment of $3550 and monthly payments will be only $18.72, Blodgett stated.

Assuring no prejudice or discrimination in granting Federal loans, Blodgett, who constructed the new home of Bill Robinson, famed dancer, pointed out that F. H. A. financing provides more liberal terms, convenient monthly payments and government appraisal and inspection.

"Home is where you place your future", he explained.



"When you invest in a home you invest not only money but the present comfort and future security of your family. Make certain that the house you build or buy is a good investment--that it will return dividends in comfortable living through the years. Make certain that it will not take unnecessary drops in value as time goes on.

"Homes in Blodgett Tract", F. H. A. appraised and inspected, insure you good design, sound construction and a desirable neighborhood."

NATCHEZ, Miss., Sept. 1. (By O.C.W. Taylor for ANP)—Here in historic old Zion church which still has the old balcony where slaves worshipped in pre-Civil War days, in a church purchased by the AME congregation in 1868 from the Presbyterian church, the twenty-seven presiding elders of the Eighth Episcopal District and the four hundred ministers under their charge together with eight or nine hundred members from the various churches united in a celebration in honor of the thirty-five years of service of Bishop S. L. Greene, the presiding bishop of the district.

The Eighth Episcopal District embraces the states of Mississippi and of Louisiana. Uniting with the local conference members were high church dignitaries from other sections and from other denominations. Among those who were present at the five-day celebration were Bishop W. A. Fountain of Atlanta, Ga.; Bishop E. W. Howard, Waco, Texas; Dr. S. S. Morris, Philadelphia; Dr. A. P. Gray, Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Lindell C. Ridley and Prof. Lampton Durden of Wilberforce University; R. S. Scott, president of Campbell college; Rev. L. H. Hemmingway, secretary-treasurer, of the Church Extension society and others.

Bishop Greene was the recipient of many letters, telegrams and donations of cash. A banquet was held in connection with the celebration at which Bishop and Mrs. Greene and Rev. S. L. Greene, Jr., and his wife were honor guests.

'Busy People Have More Time'

(To Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass)

Sheer idleness is like a snail,
Whose bashful head is grimy:
Who saps his strength from father time—
His tell-tale pathway slimy.

I have a lady now in mind.
Who's busy as a hornet.
Who maps a task from end to end.
The minute she has sworn it.

It matters not what winds may blow.
Nor what storm clouds are gaming.
She majors in achievements, point blank,
While other necks are craning.

While small men do their meager deeds.
With smaller inclination.
She launches in to greater fields,
With greater inclinations.

With no time for frivolities.
And little for bereavements.
Like famous Eleanor De Blue,
She majors in acheivements.

Time to help strangers who have need.
Thru her Eaglette, far-reaching
She too, finds time for practising,
Truths, she never tires of preaching.

And to her neighbor she finds time.
To appreciate his flowers,
To meditate with cultured breed.
And deed God many hours.

ELKS GIVE $500 TO SPANISH FUND

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1. (ANP)—The Grand Lodge, Independent Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World, convening last week at Baltimore appropriated $500 to the Negro ambulance fund for Republican Spain. Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson entertained the motion which was introduced by Dr. Lawrence Davenport, grand organist of New York City.

Wants to Enter Dixie Univ.; Whites Suggest Negro U.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 1. (ANP)—Application by Charles B. Bailey of this city for admittance to the law school of the University of South Carolina has caused some of this state's liberals, led by the Charleston News and Courier, to ask the establishment of a state-supported Negro University giving all the courses now obtainable at South Carolina U.

Commenting on this as well as on similar action in Missouri, Maryland and Tennessee by Negro students, the news and Courier said editorially:

"At this time a Negro is applying for admision to the law department of the University of South Carolina. It will not be so long before Negro girls will present the issue in Winthrop. A campaign to break down race separation in the South is in progress in behalf of Negroes; it is of course directed by Northern Negro societies and for the most part is financed by them.

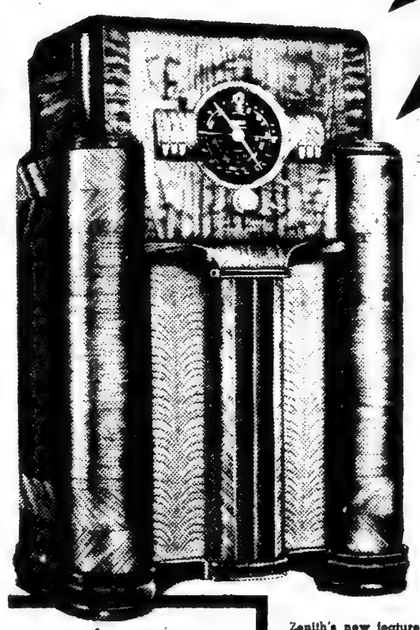
"What is to be done? How shall the issue be met? The News and Courier's guess is that the federal grants to the Southern state colleges have had the approval of Northern Negroes who are willing to bide their time.

"Assuming that the white people of South Carolina cannot be hired by money to tolerate mixed colleges, it occurs to the News and Courier that the way of safety would lie in grants by the Roosevelt administration of money for law, medical, pharmacy, all schools that the white colleges have in the state school for Negroes in Orangeburg. Soon or late the state will be compelled to provide the Negroes with a university (it may be postponed for a few years) or open the doors of the university in Columbia, the medical college in Charleston, Clemson, Winthrop and the Citadel to Colored students.

"Our people will insist on seperate white colleges and will have them at any cost. If the millions of dollars that have been allotted by Washington to colleges in the state had been given for the establishment of a state Negro school the white people would have been bettered served than by the building of dormitories and libraries for white institutions.

'Separate colleges have got to be provided. Otherwise the white people will turn to private and church colleges. ' and the News and Courier admonishes the white people that they would better cherish these private colleges, giving them for endowment every dollar that they can spare, for the day may come soon when they will be the only refuge of white students in South Carolina.

"A candidate for senator is saying that the Negro question was settled in South Carolina in 876. That is a measure of ignorance prevailing in South Carolina. The question is now more erious to the white people than it was in 1876. Then the white people united. Now they are divided. Every national political party is aggressively fighting the battles of the Negroes. The new Negro campaign is masked, insidious, resolute, adroit and ably conducted.



British Church Groups Plan Fellowship

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 1. (ANP)—The British Methodist Episcopal church of Canada, composed of colored people in this country, does not contemplate a merger with the African Methodist Episcopal church, as has been reported, the Rev. J. T. Dawson, general superintendent of the Canadian body, pointed out this week. Closer fellowship between the two bodies and to propose a method by which it might be put into operation. The Canadian Methodists separated from their American brethren some 80 years ago.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

BISHOP SARA BUTLER, founder and pastor of Zion Temple, whose fifth anniversary was celebrated Sunday night with a program given by the California Eagle staff. (See story.)

Eagle Program Honors Fifth Anniversary of Sara Butler

A brilliant program given by the staff of the California Eagle Sunday evening in the Zion Temple on East Vernon avenue honored the fifth anniversary of the religious pastorate service of Bishop Sara Butler.

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor-publisher of the Eagle was presented following the devotional service by Caldwell Jones, treasurer of the church and prominent realtor. Mrs. Bass recounted early experiences of the distinguished young woman when she began her church five years ago and paid tribute to the fine work she has done in establishing a beautiful edifice open to all throughout the week. She also recalled a brief history of the Eagle in comparison with other similar institutions of the city and in relation to Negro business and social life in Los Angeles.

J. Cullen Fentress, city editor of the Eagle, was introduced and spoke on the theme "Why You Should Support the Negro Press" He was followed by Mrs. Adele B. Ashford, business office lead, who pointed out the need for recognition of experience in business by youth.

Further remarks were made by Miss Helen F. Chapell, society and women's editor, and John Kinloch, newscaster for the Eagle's "Negro Newspaper of the Air".

A number of outstanding guests attended the services. Among them were candidates for nomination to various offices in Tuesday's primary election who paid brief tribute to Bishop Butler, and business leaders of the community including Mrs. Ruth Mosby of Ruth's Beauty School; Mrs. Faustina Johnson, chairman of the Women's Breakfast Club; B. B. Bratton of the State Board of Equalization; Mrs. Idell Bateman proprietor of the Community Store in South Los Angeles and a commendable number of other prominent citizens.

Mrs. Bass, at the close of the program appealed for a special offering for Bishop Butler in appreciation for her service.

has been promised to him and which would benefit the city and all its citizens alike.

Mayor Shaw has been one of the fairest City Executives, because he has dealt with all groups alike, studying their local problems and attempting to help them solve them to the best advantage. To us, he has proven that he has a desire to give to us all full representation in all types of work and a glance at his record will prove this statement, because of the things he has already done and expects to do in the future.

To protect all we have in the friendship and fairmindedness of the Mayor, it behooves every good thinking citizen to bend every effort to discourage the "mal-contents, disgruntled and self-seekers" after political prestige and power who are responsible for the recall movement, by voting and retaining in office our present Mayor—"FRANK L. Prisoner in Case is Released

"that seems to have been the method followed here," but sharply criticised the amount of the fine.

When Justice of the Peace McCutchen admitted to Chancellor Hutchins he had fined Hicks, Sutton asked, "Isn't it a fact there is conspiracy to bring men in here, both black and white, fine them the maximum fine and place them out on plantations to work?"

McCutchen denied any conspiracy on his part, declared Hicks had "a fair and impartial trial", did not seem frightened and pleaded guilty of his own accord. He denied court costs were excessive.

"The fact that this boy had never been convicted before and that he had a good reputation did not influence you at all, did it?" Sutton asked.

McCutchen said it didn't, and admitted his sole interest was in imposing the maximum fine.

Sutton, in his petition, also said that prisoners on private plantations were detained behind an electrically charged wire fence and forced to work under armed guards with chains on feet and wrists, and were housed together in complete disregard of color and race. He also declared that Sheriff Campbell "had nothing to do with the Hicks matter".

munists been successful in this plot."

After outling his efforts to uncover "the blackest conspiracy that was ever formed in Alabama" and saying "Powell refused to tell the truth about the knife," Hutson urged that Powell be required "to serve every day of his sentence". He also urged the refusal of executive clemency to Haywood Patterson, Andy Wright, Charlie Weems and Clarence Norris, the boys who are still in prison and who were refused the recommendation of a pardon by the board the previous week.

way to detect crime among the Negro people. Certainly Negro policemen would be much better to correct the criminal traits of their own people than white policemen." Governor Nice told his audience that he favored equalization of salaries of school teachers in his state, as well as elsewhere, "for", said he, "Negro teachers have to meet the same requirements of education before they are allowed to teach, and that being so, why shouldn't they draw the same salaries?" "When I go back into office this unfair and unconstitutional law shall be wiped off the books," he said as the crowd cheered, and gave him an ovation. --- --- THE GRAND TALKS

Dr. Smulsen Opens New Offices Friday

Formal opening of the new Central Avenue location of Dr. Smulsen, credit dentist with other offices on the westside, will be held tomorrow, it was announced today. For the convenience of his many customers, living on the South and East sides of the city, Dr. Smulsen has located over Alum's drug store, at 1067 E. Vernon Avenue, believed to be the busiest corner on So. Central Avenue.

Dr. Smulsen offers credit dentistry on easy terms and features his own personally designed plates. An eminent member of several dental organizations he calls his artificial plates "teeth that harmonize".

They reputedly fill in hollow cheeks, smooth out wrinkles and tell tale lines that give the wearer of false molars away.

For any type of dental work, from cutting to cleaning, those in need of such service are urged to visit the Central avenue office of Dr. Smulsen. Open evenings until 9 o'clock at 1067 E. Vernon avenue, upstairs.

RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

Folks, I am shaking like a leaf right now and if any of my readers are earthquake conscious I guess you can guess by this time that I am speaking about that terrific shock that happened so unexpectedly early Tuesday evening. Now folks, the last one of them things that happened here in Los Angeles come mighty nigh ruining me and the war department ain't through hollaring about the heavy washing she had to put out that fateful week. Here's hoping that I won't be here when the next heavy quiver of old terra firma decides to visit our fair city.

All men are worth knowing: The good, for your pleasure and benefit: The bad, for your protection.

Birthday Greetings

Many happy returns to the following readers who celebrate their birthdays during the month of September: Mrs. O. Hundley, former Pullman maid on the Union Pacific and a good one. Rosaline Monroe, and G. D. Smock. Congratulations.

Brotherhood Dance Grand Success, Elks Hall Packed

Just as the writer and many others predicted, the 13th anniversary dance given by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was a grand success and one of the greatest ever held in Los Angeles. The entire railroad elite was there in the very best and danced far into the wee hours of the morning to the classy swing music furnished by Benjamin's Ebony Serenaders. We take this means of thanking the public and all those who attended the dance as well as the many who sold and purchased our tickets.

Charles G. Mortimer Passes

The grim reaper took from the railroad world another veteran of the rails with the passing of Charles G. Mortimer last Friday at 1 a. m. The late Mr. Mortimer has been in bad health ever since he retired from the Pullman service some four years ago. He was educated in the city schools of Columbus, Ohio and attended Wilberforce U. Mortimer was a porter of fine character and in former years before entering the service was employed in the post office and the court house of Columbus, Ohio. He was a resident of this city for the past 21 years and was 23 years in the service of the Pullman Company, enjoying during all those years an unblemished and enviable record. The late Mr. Mortimer passed quietly in his home at 850 E. 52nd Place with his faithful wife at his bedside. He leave to mourn his lost: Mrs. Ella Mortimer, wife, Mrs. Hazel Carter, daughter, John Mortimer, son, and Mrs. Carrie Scott, aunt, of Columbus, Ohio. Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from the Angelus Funeral Home with the Rev. Rodgers of the Seventh Day Adventist Church officiating.

J. Bell, Sr. Retires From Pullman Service, Will Take Long Trip to Former Home

J. Bell, Sr., grand old veteran of the Pullman service and International Executive Committeeman of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, made his last trip for the company in active service on Monday of this week when he brought in his line from Calexico, one of the hottest runs in this district. Bell plans to leave immediately for New Orleans to visit friends of long standing and from New Orleans will travel to his home in Tougaloo, Miss. where he attended Tougaloo College. The veteran hired in the Pullman service in New Orleans under the late Superintendent J. C. Morrison, 38 years ago and transferred to Los Angeles in 1923. Bell is considered one of the most popular porters in the railroad fraternity and is highly respected by both old and young. He leaves the service with a clean record and the warm friendship of the Pullman management.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Celebrate 44th Wedding Anniversary

All of you youngsters who have been sitting back bragging about you being married five or six years without a cross word or an argument will have to take a back seat for Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, father and mother of Otto Johnson, after reading this article because this grand couple celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary last week like two little doves billing and cooing. Son Otto arrived in town off of his run to Seattle the next day and a grand time was had by all the family. Otto is very devoted to his mother and dad and we put him up as the model son of this district. The Clatter extends it's congratulations and asks HOW DID YOU DO IT?

Marie Milton Entertains Guests From Shriveport With Cocktail Party

One of the swankiest social events given this season was the cocktail party given last Saturday night by Miss Marie Milton in honor of her guests, Howard Sims of Shreveport, La., here on a brief visit ,the food was par excellence. The beverages were better and the angels were there in the flesh. Followin are the names of those who enjoyed the wonderful hospitality of Miss Milton: Arthur Scott, Clement Lewis, Clement Webb, Robert Kirkland, Joe Williams, Oliver Paul, Wilmer Smith, Willie Wilson, Gail Parsley, (Guests) Howard Simms, Mrs. Iona Parsley, Alice Moore, Ernestine Frasier, Cecil White, Pauline Paul.

Texan, 24, Asks $57,300 for False Arrest

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 1—A suit for $57,300 was led here this week by twenty-four year old Mickey Ricketts, against Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Newton, both white, and seven others including two policemen, charging false imprisonment, beating, kicking, starving and threatening.

The suit grew out of Rickett's being located by policemen in the attic of Dr. and Mrs. Newton's home in Highland Park here July 30. According to police, Ricketts had been imprisoned in the attic of the Newton home for five days, bound and gagged, because they suspected him of stealing jewelry from Mrs. Newton.

The Newtons, along with two servants, have been indicted by a grand jury on charges of false imprisonment, in connection with the kidnaping of Ricketts.

Youthful Inmate Escapes from Jail and Vanishes

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Sept. 1—This city needs an old-fashioned jail instead of the modern type to keep George Clark, a youthful prisoner, within its bars.

Housed in solitary confinement on the third floor of a modern type jail, recently erected here, Clark pulled a Dr. Jekyl-Mr. Hyde act somehow and is now nowhere to be found.

How he slipped the lock of his cell and got out without being noticed is a mystery the local Sherlock Holmes have yet to solve.

Appeals Youth's Death Sentence

CHICAGO, Sept. 1, (CNA)—Attorneys for Robert Nixon, condemned youth, announced this week that they would appeal the death sentence imposed by Judge John C. Lawe for October 21 following the 18-year-old lad's conviction two weeks ago on a charge of having murdered Mrs. Florence Johnson, white.

Louis' Mother Visits Church in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1. (ANP)—Mrs. Lillie Brooks of Detroit, Michigan, mother of Joe Louis, the heavyweight world's champion, was presented to an audience which packed Shiloh Baptist church here Friday night to hear the recital rendered by the Michigan-Canadian singers with whom she was traveling.

Mrs. Brooks stated she had served on a "housing condemnation jury" in Detroit before coming to Cleveland. When asked what she thought of the slum clearance projects she said, "At present only puts the poor people out of doors. They don't get any benefit out of it now, maybe later on it will do them some good."

Asked what she thought of the World Peace Movement, Mrs. Brooks said, "It would be a fine thing if it could be developed; but personally I haven't experienced much of it." She was elated over the fact her celebrated son planned to tour "Europe and Paris from London."

Golden State Promotes Jolly, Davis

Of particular interest to the Los Angeles and Pasadena vicinity this week is the announcement of the appointment of C. D. Jolly, Pasadena superintendent for the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, to the management of the San Diego district and of the promotion of Cecil Davis, Los Angeles agent, as superintendent of Pasadena. Both men will assume their new duties today.

C. D. Jolly

With his wealth of experience as special representative in the Riverside-San Bernardino district where he went in 1932, and later as traveling representative of the Company, Mr. Jolly's work in Pasadena since January 1 of this year has been watched with keen interest both by friends and executives. The calibre of service there coupled with his apparent versatility in all capacities warrants the appointment to the San Diego area which was formerly headed by A. E. Hackshaw who this week becomes assistant manager of the Northern California district.

Cecil Davis

The promotion of C. E. Davis to the Pasadena district is also very significant; in that Mr. Davis has been with the company less than eighteen months. Coming to Golden State in May 1937 fresh from insurance experience with a Pennsylvania company, the young man has distinguished himself in the agency field as one of the ace producers in every instance; furthermore, he has proved a capable all around insurance man with an insight grasping problems peculiar to the business.

Royal Few Entertained

The monthly social meeting of the Royal Few Social club was held in the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Jannie Lyons and Mrs. Clark, 815 East 28th street on Saturday, August 13.

Six tables of bridge, two of whist and one of fiddle sticks were played. Bridge winners were Mr. Allen, Mmes. Smart and Gertrude Harmon.

Announce Pageant Plans for 'Frisco, New York Fairs

In celebration of 75 years o progress of the American Negro, Claude C. Honeybuss, local citizen, announced this week a plan for a pageant to be presented at both the San Francisco and New York fairs scheduled for 1939.

Individuals from all over the country will appear in the pageant, the plan proposes. Those will be selected by a series of elimination contests to be held in key cities throughout the nation.

Mr. Honeybuss says the proposition is a $10.000.000 project, and his method of financing the undertaking is based on the sale of votes at a price within the reach of all. At the same time the purchase of a ticket will make the person share in the profits by giving hi ma chance on the valuable prizes to be offered, it was pointed out.

75 YEARS OF PROGRESS

The purpose of the pageant, it was revealed, is to place before the thousands of visitors to the two fairs the achievements of the Negro during the past three-quarters of a century. A unique feature will be that exhibitors selected will not only incur no expense in presenting their product at the fair, but will also be paid for their time while away from their respective business.

It was further claimed that the plan will give employment to more than 5.000 persons throughout the country for from six to nine months at good salaries and commissions.

The plan assertedly has been endorsed by many local citizens including Mayor Shaw, Norman O. Houston, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, Mrs. C. A. Bass, Attorney Thos. L. Griffith and Bill Robinson.

Local headquarters have been established at 4608 Central Ave.

Girls Crowd Griffith Park YWCA Camp

The second week of the Griffith Park Girl's Camp under the auspices of the 12th street branch of the Young Women's Christian Association found the counselors and camp staff searching for cabins and cots for the more-than-capacity crowd of girls applying for a chance for vacation and recreation in the mountains. There were seventy-three girls accomodated the first week and the second week there were even more.

The benefits of life in the open air were evidenced in the ruddy and tanned faces of the departing campers and the educational phase of camp life were manifested in the beautiful ornaments: rings, necklaces, book covers, and works of art which they wore or took home with them.

Miss Ruby Jefferson, general camp chairman and Girl Reserve Secretary, said that the campers were among the finest she has had in the five years of camp history.

The counselors assisting in the program this year were: Anna Rosa Broyles, Jean Wright, Edith Jones, Jewell Watson, Esther Turner, Cleo Kensie, Frances Curry, Lois Driver, Violet Aldridge, Evelyn Weemes, Hilda Allen, Juanita Blocker, Gwendolyn Valentine, Gwendolyn Duseau, Gladys Moore, Shirley Curry, Earline Edwards, and Mary Lou Roberson.

Charges Fly at Meet of Supervisors

At the meeting of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors held last Tuesday, Andrae B. Nordskog, President of The Southwest Water League, hurled charges against the board, as Supervisors of the County Flood Control District, for having unlawfully settled the claim of the board against the contractors on the San Gabriel Dam at the Forks Site for only $737.986.90 instead of $2.676.932.69 the total amount for which the board sued under direct orders from the 1933 Los Angeles County Grand Jury.

Fraud Claimed by Grand Jury

On September 7, 1933, the Grand Jury adopted a Resolution in which it set forth its findings following an exhaustive investigation into the contract entered into between the Board of Supervisors and the contracting firm of Fisher, Ross, McDonald and Kahn, Inc., in December 1928, and into the causes for the failure to complete the concrete dam in San Gabriel Canyon at the Forks Site. The Grand Jury set forth in that resolution that Supervisor Sidney T. Graves had received a bribe of $80.000 from the contractors for having approved illegal payment to the contractors as final settlement for work that was of no benefit to the Flood Control District, and that therefore such settlement was void and of no effect.

Nordskog Points Out Embezzlement

Mr. Nordskog pointed out to the Supervisors that our California Supreme Court has held that "misappropriation of public funds" is the same as "embezzlement", and that the crime of embezzlement of public funds does not outlaw.

He also revealed that a new State law, effective August 14, 1929, prohibited construction of any dam until the site for same had been approved by the State Engineer; but in spite of which the Supervisors authorized--contrary to that law--continuance of construction on the San Gabriel Dam at the Forks Site, and had made payments to the contractors for same. It was shown that this law provides for a fine up to $2.000, and imprisonment in jail up to six months or both fine and imprisonment; and that each day such violation continues constitutes a separate offense. The violations having continued 75 days makes possible a total fine of $150.000 and 37½ years in jail for each Supervisor who voted in favor of continuing work on that ill-fated dam site after the date of August 14th, 1929.

J. Anson Ford Asks Question

Supervisor John Anson Ford asked Mr. Nordskog if it was his contention that the Supervisors who voted for the continuance work on that dam after August 14, 1929, were guilty of embezzlement of public funds. Mr. Nordskog stated that if the Supervisors were duly apprised by the County Counsel that the new State law was effective August 19, 1929, and had proceeded with full knowledge that they were violating that law, then most certainly they were guilty of embezzlement of public funds.

Famed Poet Passes Suddenly

PASADENA, Sept1.—Dr. Homer Clyde House, widely known poet and professor of English at the University of Maryland, College Park, Baltimore, died early Monday morning in the Huntington Memorial Hospital, Pasadena. He was 67.

Death struck swiftly. Visiting in Pasadena at the home of a nephew, T. Virgil Truman, Pasadena Junior College professor and Pasadena Evening High School. Dr. House was seized on Saturday night with an abdominal ailment and was rushed to the hospital. His condition grew steadily worse.

The body was taken to Peru, Nebraska for last rites.

Two years ago, at a reception given by the Pasadena City School teachers, to honor Dr. House, arrangements were made with George Garner, also present to have Dr. House present his famous works in collaboration with the Garner Chorus.

The musical and literary event took place last Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist Church, Pasadena; but unfortunately Dr. House was unable to appear—having been stricken on the preceeding Saturday.

George Thompson Added to Music Foundation Staff

PASADENA, Sept. 1.—Announcement was made today, of the addition of George Thompson, professor of music and U. S. C. alumnus, to the musical staff of teachers at the Garner Music Research Foundation, 470 Blake Street.

Mr. Thompson, a graduate of the Santa Rosa High School, received his undergraduate training at the College of the Pacific. There upon completion of work, he received the bachelor of music degree. Having received his Master of music degree at the University of Southern California, he is now doing work toward his doctorate.

A former director of music for Rho Lambda Phi fraternity, Mr. Thompson is especially qualified in a capella, chorus and glee club training by preparation for vocal training he pursued under the direction of Professor Welton and Dr. Arnold H. Wagner of the University's school of Music.

While doing research work at the Foundation, Mr. Thompson came upon four comparatively unknown Negro spirituals: "After 'While The Lord's Goin' To Change My Station", "Four and Twenty Elders", "Sun Do Move" and "Didn't Ole Pharoah Get Los". These he has arranged from the original melody to be sung as a four part work for chorus and a cappela.

During the summer session of classes at the Foundation, Mr. Thompson has been giving evidence of his splendid capabilities as an instructor by taking a portion of the Garner Chorus through its paces.

Prominent Real Estate Dealer in City

Leon A. McCarty of the People's Realty company, Phoenix, Arizona, is among summer visitors here, a guest at Hotel Dunbar. He believes that Los Angeles is one of the fastest growing cities in the country. However, he also believes that there are wonderful opportunities for real estate investors in his home state and city.

"Phoenix has a population of 110 more or less, is an educational center and is in an area of one of the largest citrus producing sections of the country. Phoenix also offers attractive real estate values at minimum rates.

Phoenix and the Salt River valley, once a desert waste, is now a paradise of green, growing life, he said. Like the forty-niners who came West in search of gold, wise men come to Arizona seeking health as well as wealth.

Mr. McCarty's slogan, "Own your home and one to rent to your neighbor", is going over big and newcomers are taking advantage of the opportunity to invest in real estate in this growing city in the "Valley of the Sun".

Colored Drivers Add Fire, Dash to Midget Races

The long expressed wish of midget racing fans to again see colored drivers in action was fulfilled last Friday night as a special feature of the second big racing event since the auspicious opening last week.

Mouse Fuller who will be remembered for his daring but precise driving in 1936 during which he was undefeated, faced Bill Scott in a special 25 mile match race for the colored championship. This week the winner is billed to race against the best white driver in the coterie now contesting in the White Sox Park series of these exciting features.

Bill Scott a daring manipulator of the little powerhouse, will be remembered as having won the Club Alabam trophy during the same series in which Mouse won and held the Bill Robinson Gold helmet.

MASONS AND K. OF P. TO SUPPORT LIBERTY BUILDING & LOAN ASS'N

Extending that spirit of cooperation that has always permeated the fraternal organizations throughout the United States, members of the Free and Accepted Masons and the Knights of Pythias banded themselves together recently to show the real way to prosperity.

In a meeting held at Riverside recently the members of the Masons decided to invest their money with the Liberty Building and Loan Association and two weeks later at San Diego, the Knights of Pythias decided also to reaffirm their faith in Negro enterprise by opening an account with this organization which has one of the finest records of any financial organization on the Pacific Coast.

Continuing their policy of being leaders in placing their faith in the ability of Negroes to do things, these two organizations have again shown the rank and file of the colored race that they believe that colored men and women have the ability, foresight and trustworthiness to handle the most important thing in world progress--money.

In speaking of the transaction, Mr. L. M. Blodgett of the Liberty Building and Loan Association said, "We are glad that such well established organizations as the Free and Accepted Masons and Knights of Pythias have chosen the Liberty Building and Loan Association as a safe place for the keeping of their funds and the earning of interest that is comparable to any other banking institution in the state.

"We have noted their progress in the acquiring of members, the construction and maintenance of edifices and the building of character of members of our race and goodwill for us within members of other races and have pointed with pride to their many accomplishments. The selection of this institution by the elected leaders of these two organizations make me believe that each day the faith of colored men and women in each other is getting stronger and stronger."

Leaders in this affirmation of faith in colored people were Mr. Theo Moss, Grand Master and Mr. J. B. Frierson, Grand Treasurer of the Most Worshipful Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Free and Accepted Masons of California and Jurisdiction; Mr. J. Allen Reese, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias; Mrs. R. Beatrice Sellers, President, Mrs. Myrtle H. Taylor, Secretary and Treasurer of the Court of Calanthe of the Knights of Pythias.

"The Liberty Building and Loan Association", Mr. Blodgett further stated, "is insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Loan Corporation of Washington, D. C. This organization insures the money of all investors and was created by an act of Congress. The paid in capital was provided by Congress and amounted to $100,000,000 and more than $13,000,000 reserves have been accumulated. This means that $113,000,000 is held in reserve to protect your savings in the Liberty Building and Loan Association and like organizations. Never before has any organization among our people had such assurance for the protection of our savings.

"In groups and individually, we have been increasing the number of depositors at the Liberty Building and Loan Association and this is evidence that the confidence placed in this company back in 1924 has not been betrayed and with greater safeguards to the money deposited, we believe that it will grow to undreamed of heights in savings among our people."

Interracial Vesper Services Heard in First Baptist Church of Pasadena

Music lovers thronged the auditorium of the First Baptist Church in Pasadena last Sunday afternoon at four o'clock to hear the fifth annual vesper service of the Pasadena Sing Association. The service was made interracial through collaboration with the First Literary Success Convention which met last Saturday afternoon at Sierra Madre.

Aside from the brilliant program offered by the Garner singing ensemble with Mmes. Morrow, Alice Stoard-Bugg, Drucilla Bryant, sopranos, and T. A. Rollins, tenor, as soloists, the program offered the works of two poets. T. Virgil Truman, principal of Pasalena J. C., read a short poem by his uncle, the late Dr. Homer C. House, head of the English department of the University of Maryland and Mme. Lucia Trent-Cheyney read an original epic poem, "Toward the Valley of Light".

The welcome address was delivered by Mrs. M. Grand Edmands and preceded with an organ prelude by Mrs. Laura Chesnut. Dr. William D. Carter, pronounced the invocation.

Other features of the program included compositions by the violinist, Miss Martha Berry accompanied by her sister Mrs. Margaret Berry-McAfee and the presentation of a silk American flag and standard to the sponsoring association by Thomas D. Watson, editor-publisher, the Glendale Star, who is a veteran of foreign wars and a member of the American Legion.

Platform guests were Mmes. B. Corinne Carter, Thomas D. Watson, Lucia Trent-Cheyney, and Messrs., the Rev. Ross of Japan; his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross; and T. Virgil Truman.

CHRISTIAN WARFARE

Jesus gave the basis for right action in what has become known as the Golden Rule (Matthew 7:12): "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them." This rule obeyed, promotes brotherly love and understanding. Love is mankind's surest defense. It frees, enlightens, and inspires confidence. Lack of an understanding of Love causes fear, greed, contention and bondage.

To abide by the Golden Rule does not mean merely giving something material or expressing a kindness which one would like to have reciprocated. It involves far more than that; it signifies seeing our brother man, in his real, spiritual being, as Jesus did; seeing him free from sin, sickness, deformity, fear, and all that irritates and annoys. It means being compassionate, ready to forgive, and to refrain from unjust criticism and condemnation. It is to see the true man as God's image and likeness.

As one changes his thinking from a material to a spiritual basis, his attitude instinctively becomes more loving and considerate. He then has no desire to take unfair advantage of another. As one realizes true joy and happiness, he is protected from the effects of fear and hate, and he encourages his neighbor to seek the source of happiness and freedom in Truth.

The welfare and hatreds of various factions are primarily mental. The battle ground between right and wrong is in individual consciousness. Reliance on material power, position, strength or wealth is of little or no avail. God is All. "He is the governor among the nations" (Psalms 22:28), and His love is universal and impartial. His spiritual ideas enlighten human consciousness, revealing peace, health security, at hand for all.

Pure, loving, good, unselfish thoughts benefit those who entertain them, and all with whom they come in contact. The tendency to indulge in adverse criticism will thus grow less, for tender, loving, trustful thoughts help to advance the betterment of home, business and national relationships. If everyone loved and trusted God, no one would hate his neighbor. . . .

We read in Proverbs (16:7) "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him." What an encouraging statement! But here, too, we see that only as one's thinking becomes Godlike and pure does he see the good, the real, as the true selfhood of all, and thus is able to live in peace. The false belief in enmity as real must be ruled out of human thinking, if enmity is to be ruled out of experience.

Jesus taught (Matthew 5:8), "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." Purity is that which enable one to see his brother men alright. Mary Baker Eddy says (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 194), The lens of Science magnifies the divine power to human sight; and we then see the supremacy of Spirit and the "nothingness of matter." Thus we learn to magnify good; to bring out the good and overcome the hatred and misunderstanding, thus leading to friendliness instead of enmity. Mrs. Eddy writes (ibid.,) p. 10): "We have no enemies. Whatever envy, hatred, revenge—the most remorseless motives that govern mortal mind—whatever these try to do, shall "work together for good to them that love God." . . .

Universal good will and peace will come about as individuals learn to love and obey God, and to let divine Mind govern their every thought and act. Then one will no longer be tempted to bow down to or fear other, suppositious gods, for he will have learned the unreal nature of evil, and will love his neighbor as himself. Mrs. Eddy writes in "The First Church of Christ Scientist and Miscellany" (p. 279) "The First Commandment in the Hebrew Decalogue—"Tho shalt have no other gods before me'—obeyed, is sufficient to still all strife. God is the divine mind. Hence the sequence: Had all peoples one Mind, peace would reign."—The Christian Monitor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist. The Golden Text is from the Psalms: "Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will be still praising thee. . . . O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee."

The Lesson-Sermon includes these words of Jesus, from John: "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand."

Among the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are these statements: "If Life or Soul and its representative, man, unite for a period and then are separated as by a law of divorce to be brought together again at some uncertain future time and in a manner unknown,—and this is the general religious opinion of mankind,—we are left without a rational proof of immortality. But man cannot be separated for an instant from God, if man reflects God."

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Society Editor

It is very hot. It was hot Thursday afternoon. I was not only hot because of Sol's relentless reign . . . Failure to receive pecunia due from one "pay you tomorrow" customer further contributed to irritation from the heat. Waiting for the street car with my temperature still rising, I looked around for some shade . . . there was a ribbon of it occupied by a young man of immaculate and cool appearance.

He is a gentleman. So I move nonchalantly into the shade . . . he doffs his hat and moves over ever so slightly remarking on the heat and begging my pardon for reminding me . . . and then, proceeded to sell me some insurance . . . YE gods, I have more than I'm worth. But I ruefully say, "Not today".

The gent turns out to be one Mr. Blair . . . seems as though the handle and Blair is intercepted by Paul or John . . . can't recall just now. The thing that makes me remember him is the fact that he's from Chillicothe, Ohio. You can't appreciate that if you've never been to Chillicothe . . . it's a pretty little town in spots with lots of pretty girls. If you spend a night there, you learn never to swear again. For Chillicothe puts your vocabulary to shame . . . It's got plenty of intestinal fortitude. Even the pretty girls can cuss in perfect rhythm and win their points. But everybody there gets what he wants . . . it's a town of born fighters. Anyway, after you've been there when you are sufficiently aroused to the point of using dignified four-letter words, you just say "Chillicothe" or "Go to Chillicothe". I'm sure Mr. Blair will make good here and will understand the foregoing to be nothing but a compliment . . . he must have the stuff if he comes from Chillicothe and can take it . . . Gosh, it's hot. Chillicothe!

NO MORE NONSENSE:

Thursday evening brought a pleasant jaunt with the Frank Armstrongs (Chrystabel Hunt) to the cozy home of Clarence Johnson, new labor relations appointee, who left Saturday for his post in the nation's capital. 'Twas to meet his reason for success, Mrs. Johnson, who is one of those unusually lovely ladies in whose presence you are certain that you've known her for years . . . to play "pick up sticks" with their son, Bobby, and pretty niece, Azalia Allewyne, who complete the family . . . and listen to tall stories between bridge rounds from the host himself . . . Los Angeles will miss the Johnson family, but we wish them well. Scores of citizens honored Mr. Johnson Friday evening . . . in a reception at Avalon sponsored by Urban Leaguers and the National Negro Congress.

At the same time, the Golfers' Dance got underway at the Vogue where champions were awarded beautiful trophies and prizes for performance during the recent tournament . . . George Brown's orchestra did the music section proud . . . While at home, I basked in the scintillating personality of Kathleen Pico from San Diego who spent a week here . . . taking her girl-friends' heartbeats in easy stride and making them like it. Kathleen, officially, came to attend the conference of the Sedalian Society of the Catholic diocese where she did some speech-making that caused no end of comment. She stopped with friend chiropodist, Lois Evans, on the Westside.

Many thanks to J. Davis for tickets to the Cudahy Puritans' barbecue and dance Saturday evening . . . We came a little early, but enjoyed one scrumptious plate of barbecued ham. And got to meet some d'lovely folks . . . decorations were colorful with rainbow shades in the canopy over the tables . . . Thanks a million.

DAY FOR SURPRISES:

Feeling less like getting out of bed than ever Sunday morning, imagine something bordering chagrin when the doorbell buzzed at the ungodly hour of eight. The ringer, Jean Thompson, was quite composed and unruffled for the tidings she brought. Sprightly lady Jean first gives the beautiful day as the reason for her early ride . . . finally admits that she and Bob Parrish have decided to end their engagement—wait a minute!—at the altar. So Sunday near five, it was quite exciting to join a few close friends and relatives of the pair to trek to Pasadena where Rev. J. M. Brown united them in a very impressive ceremony . . . Both are swellegant people and there's little doubt that the years ahead will be as happy as Bob's broad smile when he presented Jean to his mother as "my wife".

Back in time Sunday evening to attend the anniversary celebration of Bishop Sara Butler, very young and attractive religious servant, at Zion Temple . . . when the EAGLE presented a program paying tribute to her five years of success . . . and wish her many more.

Sorry to have missed Sadie Louise's Beauty Salon anniversary tea Sunday afternoon . . . but time and a book prolonged a stay in the park and with no timepiece . . . 'twas just impossible. Reports have it that it was very gracious and grand just as we all knew it would be.

RETURNS TO CITY

MISS MYRA MORRIS, Los Angeles school teacher and Delta Sigma Theta soror, who returned to the city this week. (See opposite social page.)

Style Notes . . .

Style Notes this week bow to one of our infrequent personality chats in which style is included, but not predominant . . . It's what we term the lift. Like this . . . if your day has been filled with people demanding constant talk and smiles . . . demanding that you stay at a high pitch then a let down is the thing you'll need for a lift . . . a letdown to soft lights and quiet music . . . or an evening with one of those rare communicative individuals that understands the volumes silence can speak . . . or a ride in the country, a stroll on the beach . . . only when it is unavoidable can you gain your lift from people at the end of the day when they've been hedging you in for eight or nine hours . . . Persons, yes, . . . but not crowds or the kind that won't demand wear and tear on the verve you must take time to reinforce.

On the otherhand if the day has been with books or over long columns of figures, with little talk to interfere, with few, if any, people to listen to . . . then for your vacation whether it be a week end or day, you want and need people, bright lights, and high laughter to lift you out of yourself and reinstate your vitality.

Then, too, there's nothing like physical surroundings to change your mood . . . if you've been in a drab sturdy office, then the room at home has to be bright and light with a lean toward the fragile to really mean anything. No sober negligees and durable oak desks to remind you of the boss that's hard to suit, or of the figures that make your head swim.

When you're feeling particularly tired of it all . . . for a lift, we suggest that you do something that you've always wanted to do . . . some little luxurious nonsencial thing that no one expects you to do . . . Buy a saucy hat that you probably won't wear more than a dozen times or an orchestra seat at one of the good plays.

MANAGER

Two Events Heralded By W.P.S.C.

Two events held in August of which the Women's Political Study Club is justly proud, are the opening of headquarters at 4107 So. Central Avenue August 16, and the scholarship tea held at the 28th St. Branch YMCA last Sunday afternoon.

Sunday afternoon, another goal in their progress, was reached with the awarding of the eighth annual scholarship, $100 this time to Miss Willianna Coleman, a senior and honor student at the University of California at Los Angeles. That Miss Coleman is majoring in foreign languages, and has had the honor of being elected to the honorary Spanish Society of her school, was announced by Mrs. Clarissa Matthews in her presentation. A scholarly analysis of Negro Education was given by Miss Marjorie Bright. Choice vocal numbers were rendered by Mesdames Evelyn Warren and Ethel Thomas. Mrs. Blanche Vincent was in charge of the refreshments.

The August meeting of the Council, had as its guest speakers, Dr. Edward Hauck, of the Adult Guidance Service of the Los Angeles City Schools, and Mrs. Edwin Selvin of the Women of the Pacific. Dr. Hauck told of the work of his department, and Mrs. Selvin gave an interesting account of the origin and progress being made by the Women of the Pacific. Chicago Teacher Ends Visit in Santa Monica

SANTA MONICA. (By Willie Louise Gilmore)—After an extended sojourn in Santa Monica and vicinity, Miss Antoinette M. Christian, school-teacher and socialite of Chicago, is journeying homeward to resume her school work in the mid-western metropolis. Miss Christian received her formal academic training at Chicago Normal College and University of Chicago, has been teaching in the public schools of that city for the past ten years; and is actively affiliated with the Chicago Teachers' Union. Miss Christian has traveled extensively in the United States and Canada and has just terminated her third sojourn on the Pacific Coast.

While vacationing in the Bay District, Miss Christian was feted by many well-known local citizens including Miss Edna Rosalyne Heard, Alden W. Anita Beverly's crowning glory brought forth much comment . . . Another noticeable foursome were Mr. and Mrs. Robb Brown, III and Daisy and LaVert . . . "English" Courtney's dances went to a winsome co-ed from the Eastside . . . "Fat" Mitchell came with his cousin, are you slipping Fat?? . . . Many hot numbers found older cats on the side lines while younger ones got in their jive . . . Esq. Parks played big brother act and brought his lovely little cousin . . . Eve Wilder looked like a "Gone With The Wind" character . . . Ralph Tucker escorted a lovely Miss . . . last but not least those two sharp stags Robb Wre and "Slickum" Tucker looking comfortable in beach comber shirts.

Sees New Use of Drug for 'Venereals'

CHICAGO, Sept. 1. (ANP)—Sulfanilamide may be successfully used to treat lymphogranuloma, a venereal disease, it was reported in the August issue of the Illinois Medical Journal by Dr. George Shropshear, head of the department of proctology at Provident hospital and Municipal Social Hygiene clinician. Lymphogranuloma is often more destructive than gonorrhea.

The disease was not identified as distinct from other venereal ailments until 1931, Dr. Shropshear said, and its cause is still unknown. While not as common s syphilis or gonorrhea, cases are frequently seen in venereal disease clinics, the article set forth, and previous methods of treatment have failed to halt the disease's gradual destruction of tissue until the patient is disabled or dead.

Dr. Shropshear is considered one of the most brilliant young physicians in the country. He finished the medical school of Illinois university in 1931, obtained an M. S. from Illinois in bacteriology and has taken other advanced work on Rosenwald and General Education board fellowships in addition to being currently engaged in clinical research under a University of Chicago grant.

"First Lady" Scores Dixie Exploitation

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt took a slap at the South's exploitation of the Negro in her syndicated column, "My Day".

"The South has so many potential riches but it always seems to me that many of its advantages go for nothing because of habits and customs which have grown up and been injurious to the land and people. The people who have been forced to the lowest standard of living and have a minimum of education and the lowest cash income are the Negroes, and I think it has always been felt by the South that, in some mysterious way, this is an advantage. During the last few years some question has arisen in the minds of many Southern people as to whether a backward group is ever an advantage."

No. Carolina Mutual Enters Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 1. (ANP)—The North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Co., has qualified to write insurance in the state of Pennsylvania, been duly licensed by the state and will poen an office in Philadelphia within the next 30 days. The announcement was authorized by W. J. Kennedy, Jr., vice-president and secretary of the company from the home office of the organization in Durham.

The honor of being admitted to Pennsylvania is one which has long been sought by Negro insurance organizations and the success of North Carolina Mutual, the largest company within the race, is being commented upon favorably in Negro insurance and business circles throughout the country. The state requirements of Pennsylvania are unusually rigid and the only colored company which the colored residents of the state have been able to patronize is The Keystone Aid, a mutual assessment organization in Philadelphia which has operated for a number of years.

POLITICAL POT PIE . . .

It is interesting to note that those candidates who ignored the community newspaper in this district fared considerably less than "fair" at local polls. How long will it be before politicians realize that the neighborhood newspaper has a very definite position in the publicity and advertising set-up of any campaign. While metropolitan sheets of necessity deal with state and national affairs, the community paper renders a highly specialized, personal service to its readers. This contact is essential to the success of any political aspirant.

It's good for brethren to dwell together in peace and harmony and thus it has been throughout the primary campaign. For once, chisler, hustler, panhandler, "fluence" salesman and what not, reached a common ground and all cussed in unison as they sought the hiding place of the "sack". It just wasn't produced and for once, at least, no friendships have been severed because of a white man's fight to secure luxury and ease for he and his family. The guinea tinkled but far from the reach and touch of the chislers.

There's heaps cooking in the tents of those who do things in politics. Wait till the .44's swing into action. Only the .22's have fired thus far.

It's amusing to hear Negroes say, "I'm a democrat, and we must organize and demand jobs and recognition from the party." Fifty years he and his kind have stood on the corners and damned the Democrats and now "for a few few hours "service", expect that party to give them wholesale recognition. Wrong brothers! Those who have born the expense and burden of defeat for all these years just won't stand it. As democrats, you're on probation. Prove your sincerity and you may get to be a janitor.

It's over, that is the primaries, and candidates for the final election have been selected. The only thing in the making just now is a meeting of the "Grand United Order of I Told You So" scheduled for some avenue headquarters. "The if" association will also pow-wow sometime during the week.

Girding the finals, switches and changes were numerous Tuesday. Many black, baremouthed, revenue-seeking democrats were seen sneaking under the sidewall of the Republican tent. Democrats were tight and Republicans were tighter. Root old hog. You're doomed!

Scandal sheets were conspicuous in the campaign by their absence. Many hungry birds who have reaped a harvest from this nefarious business are seeking a job or houning relief agencies. Candidates and the voters have learned that papers issued the year around with real money invested get results.

Mrs. Faustina Johnson and Curtis Mosby, whose Political Theatre Party at the Tivoli on election night is the talk of the town, are all smiles as they perceive every candidate supported by them sweeping into victory. From Olson to Bonelli, Mosby-Johnson selections have been flawless. Wonder if they could do the same in a horse-race? If so, they could both retire, millionaries after one session at Del Mar.

Theatres Re-Screen 'Life Goes On'

Surpassing eve ntheir highest expectations, the members of the Production Department of Million Dollar Productions have been busy during the past week mailing out contract in answer to requests for repeat runs of their three all-colored feature releases released during the year.

These were "Bargain With Bullets", "Life Goes On" and "The Duke is Tops", released on last June 10th. The most recent order for a repeat screening was for "Life Goes On" which goes back to the Garden Theatre in Indiana Harbor, Ind., the first week in September.

"Bargain with Bullets" is billed to show at the Gem in Kansas City, at the Globe in Chicago, and also at the Garden in Indiana Harbor, during the first week in September.

According to Halley Harding, young production manager of Million Dollar Studio glowing reports continue to pour in from all three of the pictures revealing that Negro audiences all over the country are anxious to see more all-colored cast pictures.

Cradle of Essayist in Pictures

A famous 300 year old cradle that rocked Charles Lamb was introduced to motion pictures recently by its current owner, Edith Fellows, who is one of the noted essayist's ancestors.

"I always wanted to use the cradle in one of my pictures", explained Edith, who volunteered to lend the studio the cradle when they needed one for a scene in her new starring picture, "Thoroughbred", which Ross Lederman directed for Columbia.

Lamb, who was a bachelor, died at the age of 60 years in Edmington, England, more than 100 years ago. Martha Lamb, an aunt, used the cradle in her family, and then handed it down to William Lamb, her son.

When Lamb came to America 40 years ago to settle in Newark, New Jersey, he brought the cradle with him. After his death it went to Mrs. Elizabeth Lamb Fellows, Edith's grandmother who raised the young star from babyhood.

Randolph Lodge Sponsors 'The Blackguards'

"The Blackguard", famous melodrama in five acts, which has been playing successfully for seventy weeks will be sponsored by the A. Phillip Randolph Lodge of the International Workers' Order on September 8 at the Play Tavern, Wilshire Blvd. and Flower street.

Sponsorship of the play will be more or less a "coming out party" for the lodge, this being their first effort in supporting drama productions. Tickets for the stellar production are in charge of Mmes. Estelle Sherwood, Meredith Hatcher; Sarah Wallace, Helen Duncan and Irma Dorothy Snow.

Ted Friend, Daily Mirror, night life columnist writes of George Dewey Washington in his breezy style: "Washington wanted to become a Pulman Porter, but a singing teacher heard his voice two days after he got his Pullman job and made a concert star out of him . . ."

Hundreds Pack Dedication of Saints Church

Hundreds of enthusiastic members, friends and visitors packed the dedicatory services of the Saints Home Church of God in Christ last Sunday from five o'clock in the morning to two o'clock Monday morning. Founder and pastor of the beautiful sanctuary is the Rev. E. R. Driver, well-known religious leader.

The cornerstone ceremony was conducted by Bishop J. L. I. Conic, who also preached the didication sermon at three in the afternoon. The morning sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Driver. Music was supplemented by the choir of Bethel Church of Christ (Holiness) of which Bishop William Washington is pastor.

The successful run of "Run Little Chillun" is a distinctive milestone in the Negroe's theatrical progress.

As you know, the play, hailed by leading West Coast critics, has attracted more attention than any legitimate offering seen West of the Rockies this year. More than thirty thousand have viewed it, and strangely, the presentation grows more popular as the weeks roll by. In fact, such spectacles as the Max Rhinehardt "Faust" have been somewhat dwarfed by this Negro Unit production. When a prominent critic dubbed the opus "this year's theatrical experience", "Run Little Chillun" took prominece over Helen Hayes' "Victoria Regina, "Roberta"—with Bop Hope and a host of New York celebrities. Tallulah Bankhead's "I Am Different", and many other brilliant private productions.

However, artistic success is nothing new to the Negro. White America has long attributed a wonderful entertainment talent to our Race. "Shuffle Along", "Blackbirds", and "The Green Pastures" all attest this fact. However, "Run Little Chillun" is unique among all of these; for here there has been no white man in the back-ground attending to the difficult task of direction and executive guidance. Not only has the Negro reaffirmed his artistic value, but exhibited a new organizational and directorial prowess.

The life-blood of any successful theatrical production is an astute and expert pulicity campaign. Miss Fay M. Jackson's brilliant administration as publicity-head should be hailed by all. Through her clever management. "Run Little Chillun" has been given more free mention and wide-spread publicity by famed writers and columnists than any other legitimate production on the West Coast in the last decade.

So let's hope that "Run Little Chillun" will continue to run and run and run.

THE returns of the election support a contention which I have held over the years.

In many, many cases candidates who ignored the community newspaper as a medium through which to reach their constituency have failed. One candidate for the governorship, given backing by several organizations in a certain district, chose to ignore entirely the neighborhood press. His complete up-set was one of the major surprizes of the balloting.

Some argue that political advertising carried in metropolitan papers is sufficient. In this they are mistaken. A metropolitan newspaper of necessity concerns itself with national and state affairs. The community publication as none other represents a highly specialized, personal contact with its readers. Although national issues are treated, these papers often reduce the policies of a candidate to the point where their effect on the local population alone is seen. And while the great papers rave and rant in the world of generalities, a small sheet divorces from its columns all but the essential affairs pertinent to its own readers.

The fact that several politicians fail to recognize this truth is perhaps explained by an incorrect sense of "importance". To many candidates, the support of some great far-flung organ has been regarded as a zenith of attainment. O how sad, they think, to be endorsed by that handsome publication which runs huge, flaring head-lines anent China, Europe, and the nations. Correspondingly, they feel, how unimportant the backing of this lowly rag which makes such ado over Mrs. Brown's twins. And here is seen a very flagrant and common fault in thinking, for it is not considered that "importance" is purely relative.

That war is imminent in Europe becomes vital in the publication which serves an entire country, since that nation might easily become involved. However, in the sheet which serves Mrs. Jones and her friends, the fact of her dubious blessing in the matter of twins is of equally prominent importance. And, because Master politician does not deem Mrs. Jones breed of particular interest, he does not advertise with the publication heralding their advent, and ignores a great hidden power. For one printed word against him in that periodical, with its close, personal influence upon readers, may undo the work of a hundred assorted full-page advertisements with the state's grandest publications.

Among community newspapers the Negro publication occupies a unique position. It possesses probably more power than any other type of "class" periodical. With the Church, it stands as the Negro's principal bulwark against injustice in the economic and social order. More than any other paper in the world it deals with a particular and exclusive brand of news. In its columns the wars of the world are virtually ignored. National politics are considered only as they concern the Negro. Corrigan may fly an ocean backwards, Vesuvius might erupt, Chiang Kai-Check may surprise the world, but the Negro publication stubbornly clings to the Scottsboro Case, or some other like story. Nor is this attitude out of line. The Negro and his achievements are so thoroughly ignored by the great white publications that a singleness of interest in black papers is not only necessary but desirable. And it is because of this very centralization of interest that the Negro paper becomes the most vital community sheet. It is not alone a newspaper, telling of Mrs. Jones twins, but an institution dedicated to the progress of the race.

But our politician's capacity for lack of vision is a boundless and wondrous thing. With this tremendous weapon laying dormant at their feet, many have failed to take advantage of it. Somehow, the pervading attitude of the American public concerning the Negro saturates the thinking of all. A colored endeavor certainly could not be powerful, it is believed. With even a lurking knowledge that they act in vain, many have chosen to pay-off cheap, button-hole politicians rather than utilize the great press. Many delude themselves that a bill handed a solitary hat-in-hand stooge will have more effect than a bona fide advertisement with a periodical serving thousands of aroused voters.

Nor do we speak half-cocked or from self-interest. The returns of this election, as we stated, bear out the contention. Those who used as a medium of publicity Negro papers received handsome support from sepia districts, others more frugal in this regard failed by a wide margin.

But here, again, let us make a distinction. Equally small in effect with the pay-off system, is an advertisement in a parasitic over-night election sheet. It is amazing how supposedly intelligent candidates tumble for this sort of thing year after year. A newspaper might function over a half-century--with an auditted circulation high in the thousands, yet it is passed by often because some political opportunist has started a brief political special. What possible advantage can be seen through purchasing space in an unknown paper, without circulation, power, or prestige, we do not perceive. But it seems that the slang-word "sucker" must have some basic relationship to the other word "politician"--for so often the one may be substituted for the other.

THE James J. Hines trial in the city of New York has attracted nation-wide attention. By all present indications the case will terminate in a jail sentence for politician Hines, a plug at the New York State governorship by Thomas E. Dewey, and

Mosby is Quickly Released When Charges Proved Without Foundation; Victim was Taking Beautician-Wife to Catch Train

Hurling the epithets "nigger" and "shine", two officers of Central Police station severely beat Curtis Mosby, prominent local citizen, last Saturday evening, in a traffic jam at the Union depot. Taken to Central station, the well-known musician was quickly released when it was discovered that there were no legitimate charges against him.

Mosby, able to leave bed only yesterday, was given a blow which necessitated five stitches in his lips, while others inflicted minor bruises about the head and wrenching of the shoulder.

The incident occurred in jammed traffic in front of the Southern Pacific station at Fifth and Central. Mosby was taking his wife, Ruth, the distinguished beautician, to catch a train. Officer Roy Gudat, bellowing "shine", blamed Mosby for the tangle and demanded his license.

"I'll give my license to any officer, but not you. You're prejudiced," responded the Eastsider.

Gudat then summoned radio car 11, commandeered by Officers John Elfink and W. H. Kesterson. In seizing the musician, they assertedly wrenched his arm. When he protested, the officers beat him severely.

Finally arriving at Central station, the desk sergeant immediately released Mosby, since there were no charges to be filed against him.

The case was taken to Chief of Police Davis, who referred complainants to Captain Doyle. If the charges can be substantiated, Captain Doyle guaranteed the suspension of Officers Kesterson and Elfink. Police Department investigators interviewed witnesses yesterday in the Mosby residence.

Local groups moved into action swiftly with protests heard from several quarters. It was estimated that visitors in the excess of seven hundred called at Mosby's home Sunday alone.

When the musician threatened action Saturday night, Officer Elfink opined:

"Regardless of what a nigger says, nothing will be done about it!"

By all indications, Policeman Elfink is guilty of a distinct error in judgment.

A program of constructive force is promised.

Re-open Night Watchman Murder Case; New Arrests

Reopening of a case that rocked the Eastside eight years ago, occurred this week as Deputy District Attorney George Stahlman announced that a new lead on the murder of John Stockman, Negro watchman, might implicate one of the city's most important cleaning plant operators.

The murder occurred when three thugs attempted to saturate clothes in the Fairchild Cleaning plant at 1550 East Adams, with acid. Surprised by Watchman John Stockman they killed him and fled.

Deputy D. A. Stahlman said he had evidence to prove the three men who murdered the Negro were carrying out acts of sabotage in the pay of an outstanding cleaning plant operator.

Trial of Alfred Lushing, city water and power commissioner; Frank Scovel, deputy fire marshal and 12 others scheduled to appear before Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke this week on indictments charging labor terrorism in the cleaning business, was postponed until September 19 on motion of District Attorney Buron Fitts as his men delved into the old murder case.

Chicago police were asked to pick up Eddie Rollins, arrested here several years ago on extortion charges, as a suspect in the case. Stahlman said he is prepared to prove Rollins and two men now in California prisons were in the cleaning and dyeing plant at 1550 East Adams boulevard, where Stockman was killed on December 15, 1931.

The other two suspects, Stahlman said, are Frankie Fisher, now serving time in San Quentin prison on a narcotics charge and Edward Freedman, confessed accomplice in the Mae West jewel robbery, now in Folsom prison.

Stahlman said investigators

SWING BAND MARCHES IN LABOR DAY PARADE

Under the direction of Fess White and Ed Garland, a 31-piece military and swing band marched in the Screen Actors Guild unit of the annual Labor Day parade last Monday.

The band, all-colored, was dressed uniformly in white and black and was accorded great applause when it passed in front of the reviewing stand, serenading the occupants with the popular song, "Rosalie".

CORAL JOHNSON NAMES EASTERN SOCIALITE IN DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

Defendant Accused by Wife of Beating Her in Vain Attempt to Seize Damaging Photographs Snapped Aboard Family Yacht

In one of the most sensational divorce suits of recent months, Mrs. Coral Johnson, wife of Elliot Johnson since 1923, filed divorce proceedings this week which involved one of the city's most prominent visiting socialites.

Mrs. Johnson alleges that her husband has caused "great humiliation and embarrassment" thru his asserted attention to the "Lady X". She further charges that the snap-shots accompanying this story were shown by her husband to many friends and gave her much mental distress. The pictures reveal Johnson and his friend aboard the family yacht. Mrs. Johnson holds that he also has taken "Lady X" driving several times and to public places.

"Scene on deck"

The assertions, on public records, yesterday shook Los Angeles' higher society. Mrs. Johnson, who received her master of arts degree this summer, has taught since 1923 at the Grape Street school.

"Johnsons' palatial yacht"

Accusations further hold that Johnson beat his wife during the month of August in an attempt to seize the mentioned photographs. It is said that the assault forced her to bed, and caused severe physical suffering.

Over the years it is alleged that Mrs. Johnson has supplied her husband, a postal employe, with funds to engage in several businesses, among which—a chicken store, radio shop, and a Haitian Coffee establishment.

Plaintiff asks alimony of $75.00 per month, possession of the yacht, sedan car, and the property situated at 1435 East 48th place.

Hides Hen How? Under Rug!

Under the rug is no place to hide a chicken, so Mrs. Sammie Kennedy, 50-year old housewife, learned this week to her sorrow.

Mrs. Kennedy was arrested Tuesday on complaint of Mrs. Gussie Martin, 1364 E. 23rd St., that she had been caught stealing chickens from Mrs. Martin's coop and furthermore that a total of 15 chickens had disappeared in the past two months.

Mrs. Geneva Johnson and Sam Martin of the East 23rd street address, appeared as witnesses for Mrs. Martin and told police they saw Mrs. Kennedy in the hen-house, a fat fowl under her arm, and later discovered that same bird, its neck wrung, under the rug in Mrs. Kennedy's home at the rear of the chicken coop.

Now De Scripture Sez:

That "The Lord preserveth the simple," but my Aunt was always saying that "it would be a mighty good thing to know just what the Good Lord was preservin' 'em for."

Yours until the ways of the Good Lord will no longer be past poor stupid man's understanding." (Copyrighted—1938 by Eugene Henry Huffman).

Druggist Held Up By Lone Bandit

The second attack of a lone bandit in the vicinity of Adams and San Pedro occurred Saturday night with the victim this time getting off a bit more lightly than the previous one, an Armenian store-keeper, who was murdered.

Fred Rivlin, druggist at 2532 San Pedro, reported to Newton Street police that he was held up at the point of a gun by an unidentified bandit about midnight Saturday and robbed of his wallet, containing $12 and the contents of his cash register, amounting to $30.

He described his assailant as being approximately 25-years old, five feet, six inches tall, and weighing about 140 pounds. The bandit was wearing blue coveralls and a blue slouch hat.

SHAW BANQUET HELD

Sponsored by the local committee to retain Mayor Frank L. Shaw, a monster banquet was given last night at the Y. M. C. A., 28th street branch. Attended by outstanding political figures and theatrical celebrities the affair was one of the most successful the Eastside has seen in the last decade.

Tune in on Station KGFG tonight and hear Mrs. C. A. Bass, in her weekly report of happenings on the "Sidewalk".

NAACP Sets Debate for Sunday

Debate Will Feature Sunday Afternoon Meet at Hamilton M. E.

On Sunday afternoon, Sept. 11, 3:30 o'clock at Hamilton M. E. church, 18th and Naomi streets, the local branch of the NAACP will present a debate as the main item of the meeting.

Four of Los Angeles' leading citizens will give a critical and educational analysis of the service the NAACP has rendered the members of the race. In a critical and constructive manner, Attorney Loren Miller and Clarence Muse will show wherein "The NAACP Has Not Lived Up to Its Opportunities to Fully Serve the Colored People". J. Cullen Fentress and Hon. Frederick M. Roberts will continue the discussion and will show wherein "The NAACP Has Lived Up to Its Opportunity to Serve the Colored People".

Mrs. C. A. Bass, Mrs. J. Terry, Geo. A. Beavers, Mrs Sam Brown, and Attorney Ivan Johnson will serve as judges for the debate. The successful debators will be given subscriptions to The Crisis magazine for one year. The Crisis subscriptions will be donated by the Golden State Life Insurance and the Angelus Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hazel Whitaker, chairman of the program committee, presents the debate speakers as friendly rivals and it is the desire of the officers of the association to bring about new interest in the work of the association as a result of the debate.

Fay M. Jackson, brilliant young journalist, will give a vivid account of world-wide news events. Musical numbers for the afternoon will be presented by the choir of Hamilton M. E. church, the Four Daughters of Zion quartet, Marlene Jones, Valgene Smith, and Anna Griffith Morrow. The public is invited to be present.

Young G. O. P. Forum is Hailed

The Young Republican Forum, recent organization of aggressive young people, is hailed this week by older Republican leaders as an indication of new life and vigor of the party.

The new club, composed of young men and women prominent in several fields, proposes to maintain a permanent checking system, by which politicians' stands on pertinent issues may be traced. With a future heralded by many of the past leaders, the organization has been called an "incubator of sound principles in government".

Headed by militant J. Cullen Fentress, EAGLE city editor, as temporary chairman, the organization has grown at each of its meetings and is instituting a determined membership drive. Dedicated to a reawakening of political thought and action, the campaign has been assured of success.

TO GREET CORRIGAN

Monday afternoon will be set aside for the reception of Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan. School will close at noon to permit all students to see the famous flyer upon his arrival in Los Angeles.

Let's Think It Over-- Then Vote

By MRS. BETTY HILL

Politics as played today is oftimes confusing to the mass of voters for so often the real purpose is beclouded with false issues and the public is misled by speeches made over the radios and printed articles in biased newspapers that more often are promoted for the purpose of developing chaos and confusion.

Such a situation exists just now in our fair city because after 18 months of wild rumors, suggestive innuendos, flagrant charges without proof, a group of bigoted, would-be reformers have induced a sufficient number of people to sign a petition and bring about an election to RECALL the fine, upstanding chief executive of our city, MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW.

I read a statement made by a successful nominee at the recent Primary Election, to me it was most significant because it answered one of the many questions relative to the action of some of these bigoted groups. It reads like this: "People want to experiment with new things".

The Record is the Best Evidence

By THE COMMITTEE

When the citizens of the Eastside formed the committee to fight the RECALL MOVEMENT against MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW, they opened the campaign with a stirring article entitled "THEY SHALL NOT PASS".

Most significant was this title, states Dr. H. H. Towles, committee head, for it was directed against the backers and promoters of the RECALL, as their movement was directed directly against MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW, who was unjustly charged with the responsibility of the action of every individual in the City's employ and such actions were so grossly magnified to the extent that many people lost sight of the multitude of good that had been performed under MAYOR SHAW'S administration.

Therefore the committee in order to justify their stand in defense of the present administration have produced the following record which has been stated to the public many times before.

During the five years that FRANK L. SHAW has served as

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

IN NEARLY every issue of the DAILY PAPERS, we find remarks of praise for the show, "RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN". E. V. Durling thinks so much of the idea of colored attractions, ESPECIALLY when they have BOX OFFICE ability, that he writes that an all-Negro picture entitled, "THE DARK-TOWN STRUTTERS BALL", would be one of the best BOX OFFICE bets of the year. And when over 30,000 people have expressed HIS OPINION, by coming to see this Mayan attraction, I can't understand why our MAJOR STUDIOS have refused to date to purchase this piece of property THAT WOULD GIVE HUNDREDS OF NEGRO ARTISTS WORK; THAT WOULD GLORIFY NEGRO ARTISTRY. Instead of doing something that would renew THE INTEREST at

CLARENCE MUSE

Motion Picture Box Offices. I am told today that the FOX STUDIOS cancelled Eddie Cantor's contract, and some other stars, along with Bill Robinson. As you understand, HE WAS THE ONLY COLORED ARTIST THAT HAD A FILM CONTRACT DURING THE PAST YEAR. Am just mentioning these facts to further emphasize the importance OF ORGANIZED MAIL and, if needs be, organizations throughout the United States, both white and black, who are interested in colored artists. It is APPARENT that the economic condition OF NEGRO ARTISTS IN PICTURES IS GETTING WORSE DAY BY DAY. The Motion Picture business HAS ALWAYS been guided by PUBLIC OPINION. CRITICS, FANS and the ENTIRE POPULACE, many of whom have seen "RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN" four and five times, acclaim this as the magic attraction of Los Angeles' theatrical history. NOW IS THE TIME TO STRIKE AND STRIKE HARD with MAIL and I hope every NEWSPAPER EDITOR in the country will aid the Negro at this junction to prove his BOX OFFICE strength. How many of you WROTE LETTERS LAST WEEK, AS I REQUESTED? HOW MANY OF YOU WILL WRITE THIS WEEK? This is just as IMPORTANT so far as the Negro is concerned, as spending nights and days TRYING to recall our Mayor. BILL ROBINSON has proven his BOX OFFICE ability and we should PROTEST against his DISMISSAL. And we must protest until we get more ARTISTS CONTRACTS!

Home Picketing Chance Arouses Ire Against No. 2

Picketing of homes, which is made permissive by Proposition No. 2 to be voted on September 16 has roused the ire of 130,000 women members of the Neutral Thousands, according to today's statement of Bessie Abbott Ochs, executive director.

Consequently, the women mobilized today to campaign for Proposition No. 1, which regulates picketing. District organizations were perfected and arrangements made to induce all favoring picket regulation to vote for No. 1 at the special election September 16. This action placed them in alliance with practically all business and industrial organizations and the majority of the electorate not members of labor unions, surveys showed.

"Deprivations forced on wives, mothers and children are bad enough when picketing is confined to business and industrial districts," Mrs. Ochs said.

"But the idea of having an unlimited number of pickets infesting a residence neighborhood parading back and forth and sitting and standing about is just too much. And yet that's what No. 2 provides for.

"What we women want is sensible picket regulation such as No. 1 assures. It is largely based on the British Trade Disputes Act, which was so highly praised by President Roosevelt's investigating commission. It will lead to what not only the President, but all of us want. That's a co-operative spirit coupled with re-astarint' in dealing with labor disputes."

POPULAR FEATURE

Bank money orders, offered for the first time locally by the California Bank late in July, have proved to be a popular and successful innovation, according to J. G. Maulhardt, vice president and head of the bank's 8th and Central office.

"While accurate figures on the total number of bank money orders sold by the fifty-four offices of the bank are lacking, a telephones survey indicates that more than 15,000 of the new type checks flowed into trade channels during the four weeks following their introduction on July 25." said Maulhardt.

The new California Bank money orders are issued in any amount at a flat fee of ten cents, show the name of the purchaser on the face of the instrument and provide him with a receipt, explained Maulhardt.

Tells Plight of Italian Workers in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 8. (ANP)—How Italians are faring in this remote former kingdom of Emperor Haile Selassie was told in a recent letter written by a skilled worker and sent to his father in Italy. The son had the letter posted at Djibuti to avoid censorship, which is very severe here.

Translated, the letter says in part:

"I must tell you that the situation here is very bad, for everybody hates us. Imagine what is the condition of Italians in the provinces. The soldiers are all disgusted and tired of this life; food is bad and there is great illness among them . . . Everybody here says that we shall have to start the war once more because of constant sniping and guerilla attacks by Ethiopian natives.

"A friend has told me that in the Gojjam our forces have been surrounded and that no further news comes from them. Much worse than ours is the fate of those in the interior. Altogether there are about 25,000 people sent here by the Government to work, but everyone of them is in despair. They cannot get acclimated, except those near Addis Ababa and the greater sufferers are the women, who soon get one or the other of the trophical disease of which there is a long list; the more common being that called enteroclitis. At Afriadie all the Italian garrison had to withdraw because the dysentery among them could not be checked.

"Even the traders and business men who came here to make a fortune quickly are disheartened. Those who used to send goods by lorry (auto truck), have stopped doing so, because the Ethiopians capture everything before it reaches its destination. All food for Addis Ababa now has to come by rail from Dibuti, consequently the French shareholders of the line make tons of money.

"No Ethiopian will sell anything to us. They export a lot to other colonies around Ethiopia, but do not deal with us. Believe me, the disillusion is great. Why send so many people to be killed here, to produce debts only? . . . As soon as my time is up I shall return home. It's far better to suffer poverty in Italy than to risk life here for nothing."

L. A. Fireworks: Mayor LaGuardia To Open Forum!

Employment On WPA Projects Gain

Employment on projects of the Works Progress Administration for the week ending August 20 was 3,038,908, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins announced today. The report showed an increase of 22,133 in one week.

In commenting on the report, Administrator Hopkins said:

"WPA employment declined from the previous peak of approximately 3,036,000 reached in February, 1936, to a low of 1,448,000 in early October, 1937, at which time decreasing private employment caused a rapid increase in the number in need. Between October, 1937, and June, 1938, there was a net increase of 1,320,000 in WPA employment. During July and the first three weeks of August an additional increase of 270,000 occurred, bringing the rolls to 3,038,908.

"Although the rate of increase in unemployment has slackened during recent months, large numbers of workers who lost their jobs during the winter and spring months are being forced to seek public assistance for the first time, as their savings, unemployment compensation rights, or other personal resources become exhausted.

Grand total of employment on WPA projects in California is 110,514, with 59,944 of the number of the Northern part of the state and 50,570 in the South.

Exonerate Church Worker in Murder of Ex-Sweetheart

Brilliant defense by Lloyd Griffith of the firm of Griffith and Griffith was responsible for the complete exoneration of Marjorie Lois Foreman, 20-year-old church worker in the murder of Walter Lindsey, her erstwhile fiance. Miss Foreman shot Lindsey in self defense, August 15, on the porch of her home at 725 East 32nd street. Lindsey died the following morning at the General Hospital.

Attorney Griffith, in a brilliant questioning of Miss Foreman before a well filled courtroom at the preliminary hearing last Thursday, proved to the court that the young woman shot only as a last resort, with intent not to kill, but to stop the youth's advance. He had previously threatened to kill her unless she agreed to a reconciliation.

A sensational aftermath of the case was rumored about the court and among the dead man's friends, that as he lay mortally wounded on the lawn of the Foreman home, he pleaded with authorities not to arrest the girl, taking full responsibility for the tragedy on himself.

Jamaica Chief Abdicates; Cause: Revolt

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 8, (ANP) —Brokenhearted because revolt had broken out among his tribesmen, Col. H. A. Rowe, hereditary "black chief of the Maroons" announced his abdication last week.

The Maroons, who live in the heart of Jamaica, are descendants of runaway slaves who took to the woods 300 years ago. They declare that 200 years ago their ancestors were promised 1,500 acres of land by the British government. Because 280 of these acres had not yet been handed over many of the tribesmen raided a railway line recently and seized a quantity of sleepers.

While officials hurried to the scene to negotiate a new treaty Col. Rowe decided to abdicate and left a message telling the tribe it was at liberty to appoint any successor it might choose.

Bomb Goes Off in Medic's Yard

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8. (ANP) —An ear-splitting explosion shattered the stillness of the night as a misdirected bomb narrowly missed bringing death to the family and several friends of Dr. L. O. Baumgardner, well known surgeon, at his home in Wilmer road in Cleveland's Heights, last Sunday night.

The bomb fell on the lawn of the home near the front entrance. Had it been hurled a few feet farther it would have possibly brought instant death to the two Baumgardner children—the youngest is nine months old—and to the wife of the doctor, her father, and the medical man himself. Ten minutes before it would have met a party of white friends of the doctor walking out of the door after a visit.

The bombing, was considered to be a part of a plan that has been under way to keep the doctor from moving into the swanky Wilmer Road section. Police have in their possession a rough note that warned the Baumgardners that "if they moved in the house would be blown to bits."

Provident Physician Demonstrates Instrument to Gaze into Stomach

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (ANP)—A new instrument which permits a physician to look directly into the living stomach was demonstrated before the medical section of the National Medical Association convention held recently at Hampton institute by Dr. Leonidas H. Berry, Provident hospital staff physician, it was learned on Dr. Berry's return to the city.

This instrument, known as the flexible gastroscope, is constructed partly from special rubberized tubing containing many hand ground lenses and prisms, and is built on the principle of the periscope. It reveals disorders of the stomach which previously could not be diagnosed by x-ray and other known methods, and is considered especially valuable in the fight against cancer since it permits discovery of the disease in its earliest stages as well as forerunners of cancer.

Real Blue Ribbon Kitchen Now Easier to Own, Claim

Beginning August 15, over 230 electric dealers in Los Angeles will cooperate in an extensive drive to bring local home owners the opportunity to own and enjoy a modern "Blue Ribbon" kitchen at a cost within the reach of even the most modest budgets.

Plans for this great event were recently approved by 15 of the biggest electric range manufacturers. Each 15 lending full support by selecting the one electric range in their line which is most popular with housewives throughout the country, labeling it a "Blue Ribbon" range and supporting local effort to make it available to all on low, monthly terms.

During the Campaign, everyone can own a "Blue Ribbon" kitchen by simply paying 5 per cent down, and making monthly payments of as little as $2.98. From then on every advantage of modern electric cooking will be theirs—cleaner kitchens, freedom from insufferable heat, simplified cooking, better foods, low cost, and safety.

To Keep Dixie Univ. Safe for Whites

BARNWELL, S. C., Sept. 8—(ANP)—The action of Charles S. Bailey, Columbia, S. C., in filing application for admission to the law school of the University of South Carolina, has stirred a "tempest in a teapot" in educational circles throughout the state.

Latest repercussion came last Wednesday when a statement was given out by Solomon Blatt, member of the University's Board of Trustees and chairman of a committee of three lawyers appointed to pass on Student Bailey's application. Trustee Blass sounded off:

"Considerable interest has developed among the people of South Carolina in connection with the application of a Negro for admission to the law school of the University of South Carolina.

"The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is taking an interest in this application and I am informed that similar applications will be made at Winthrop college, The Citadel and Clemson College.

"The matter of this application has been referred to a committee of three lawyers representing the university of which committee I am chairman. The white people of South Carolina need not have any fear as to what the outcome of this application is going to be. The board of trustees will do everything in their power to maintain the University of South Carolina for white students only and in so doing, will protect the other institutions for white students supported by the state."

Coming Up! Ham and Eggs

The Primary Election returns prove that the people want more purchasing power. Those candidates who most vigorously and viciously assaulted and denounced the so-called "Ham and Egg" Pension Plan were the ones who received the fewest votes of all the candidates; while those who strenuously supported the California Pension Plan, with its $30 a Week for Life to all retired senior citizens past fifty, in each and every case received the largest number of votes. The people now are on the march and are going to get what they go after.

The Supreme Court of California backs up the people in their right to legally go after this $30 a Week for Life pension plan. They have unanimously declared that this Retirement Life Payments Constitutional Amendment is entitled to a place on the November ballot. Then we can all vote ourselves more "ham and eggs". (Adv.)

RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

Well folks, now that the smoke has all cleared away from that first political skirmish, let's check up and make the roll call and see how many wounded we have. First, we must account for General C. A. Bass and her army and next we must check up on General Betty Hill and her army. After making the roll call, we find that General Betty Hill's army is pretty well shot up. It seems as though the enemy completey surrounded the Haight camp and forced him to surrender. General Betty was badly wounded in this battle and her army completely routed. We have received various reports from the many Republican study clubs and all we hear is wait till the finals.

Well, we know that General Betty Hill is a fighter and won't give up until the last shot is fired. Still all of us non-combatants will have to admit that General C. A. Bass is a political genius. Unknown Dr. Franklin who was first introduced to the colored people came through with flying colors. And by the way our faithful old friend, Mr. Campbell, apparently is knocking on the White House door under the fearless leadership of General C. A. Bass. An entire Red Cross unit was dispatched to Fort Fred Roberts. Great Scott how that woman can fight. Gus Hawkins carried his own cannon and shot his way through. Gus says "I made a lot of friends while I was in Sacramento and it's a damn poor guy who won't fight to keep his friends." Spurgeon Jones says--after all, I'm still the tops with the Eastern and I'll fight the whole gang for a dollar down and a dollar weekly. Sidney Dones read the reports and grabbed his dictionary, He was looking up the word Progressive.

HINT TO POLITICIANS: The more mud thrown, the more ground lost.

Monument Inspired By Pushkin

ERIVAN, Armenia, USSR, Sept. 8. (ANP)—On the spot where Pushkin unexpectedly met an ox-cartman which was the body of his close friend, Griboedov, greatest dramatist of the time, the government here is erecting a monument to mark the place of this sorrowful meeting on a crooked and lonely mountain pass. Griboedov is best known for his famous satirical comedy, "Woe from Wit".

One hundred and nine years ago Pushkin made a trip to Erzerum in the Caucasus mountains and it was while riding a Caucasian charger that he met the ox-cart with the body of his literary contemporary who, next to Pushkin was the greatest writer of the generation.

Pushkin, besides wishing to participate in real battle, was anxious to find his brother. Leo, who was then in the tsarist army in a war against the Turks. The records show that Pushkin was reckless of danger in battle with the result that the commanding officer, Paskevich, had to order that Pushkin be not allowed too near the line of battle.

The young sculptor, Murze, has been commissioned to make the monument, which will be in the form of a large plaque inlaid in basalt. Beneath the state seal of Soviet Armenia will be a bas-relief showing Pushkin meeting the ox-cart and the body of his friend. Under the bas-relief will spout jets of natural spring water

Safety of Pupils Motorists' Duty As Schools Open

School bells calling children back to classrooms for the fall term also sound an appeal to motorists for safe and slow driving near schools.

Throngs of youngsters at crossings near schools before and after hours place upon motorists an extra responsibility of careful driving in such areas, cautions the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

State law limits speed to fifteen miles per hour when passing a school building or grounds during recess or while children are going to or leaving school, or while playgrounds are in use, a club statement points out.

Autoists are urged to cooperate with school saftey committeemen in their work of safeguarding schoolmates from traffic dangers. These student officers are stationed at curbs to control the movement of children across streets. They do not direct traffic, but the alert watchfulness and help of motorists is necessary to aid them in directing youngsters across pedestrian zones with the "Stop" sign at signalized intersections or at non-signalized corners.

'Y' Executive at Institute

Baxter S. Scruggs, executive secretary of the 28th Street branch YMCA, has returned to the city from a one week's stay at Asilomar, where the summer institute for YMCA executives was held. Officers of the various Associations in the Pacific southwest area were in attendance.

Mr. Scruggs was one of the featured speakers for the Institute appearing on the program daily. He was selected as chairman for the Committee on Organizations and Nominations, which resulted in his election to the executive committee of the Association of Secretaries for the ensuing year.

2 Whites Engage in Fatal Clash Over Domestic

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 8, (ANP)—An unusual interracial love affair came to a tragic ending last Monday when Walter Kobasa, 28 a white printer, was arrested and held without bail in connection with the fatal beating of Joseph Abidor, 50 years old, also white, during a brawl in a Hammels, L. I. boarding house. Police say the men had fought over the affections of a domestic, Miss Beatrice Stewart who is being held under $10,000 bond as a material witness.

Reconstructing the tragedy, Miss Stewart, according to police, was "visiting" Abidor in his room, when Kobasa appeared and insisted on spending the evening with the domestic, who, neighbors say, spent most of her time with Abidor. The elderly suitor was beaten about the head with a kerosene lamp and otherwise pummeled. He is said to have publicly boasted of his love for Miss Stewart.

Electric Stores Offer Bargain to Los Angeles Housewives

Today, on the fronts of more than 200 electric stores throughout Los Angeles, giant banners announce a bargain opportunity to the housewives of the city. In one of the largest cooperative campaigns ever undertaken, these dealers, together with 15 different electric range manufacturers, offer blue ribbon model electric ranges on terms so easy they bring these modern cooking appliances withing the reach of practically every budget. Placed end to end the announcements banners would stretch one mile accross the city.

Blue Ribbon model electric ranges, explained a spokesman for the e lectric industry, are for the electric industry, are manufacturer makes a number of models. But the model which is tops with most women is the Blue Ribbon Model. All blue ribbon model electric ranges have six features every woman wants—oven insulation on six sides, automatic clock control, convenience outlet, fast service elements, acid-resistance top, ample oven capacity.

A blue ribbon kitchen is one which is cooler, cleaner, easier to work in. And since an electric range keeps a kitchen cooler and cleaner any woman can have a blue ribbon kitchen simply by installing a blue ribbon electric range.

Low municipal electric rates made possible by low-cost Boulder Dam Power makes the cost of cooking electrically far less than the average woman thinks, dealers declare. Actually the average cost of electricity for an electric range connected to Bureau of Power and Light lines is less than 50 cents a week.

Blue Ribbon ranges may be purchased on easy EHFA terms for as little as 5% down and only $2.96 per month. Further information can be obtained by telephoning your city owned Bureau of Power and Light. MIchigan 4211, Staton 2644.

Maj. Wright is Still Optimistic

Wright Sr., 83-year-old president of the Citizens and Southern Bank of Philadelphia, rated the richest Negro in Pennsylvania, stopping two days here on his vacation motor trip to Bar Harbor, Me., said he was never more optimistic about race progress than he is now. Although the country is in the midst of trying times, the Major said he is confident the Negro will find a way out.

The Citizens and Southern Bank, which Major Wright founded in September, 1920, after he had spent more than thirty years as a schoolmaster and was considered an "old man" and ready to quit active life, has recorded $735,000 in resources, and is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, every depositor being insured up to $5,000

DEPRESSION HITS MISSISSIPPI NUPTIALS

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 8. (ANP)—Apparently the "depression" has finally made its way into Mississippi for marriages among Negroes, slightly more than half the state's population, decreased from 17,689 for the last five months of 1936 to 15.145 or the same period in 1937, according to Dr. R. N. Whitfield, director of the state bureau of vital statistics.

The Major is the active president of the bank, being on the job daily at his advanced age.

And to further prove that he is not yet through, five years ago the Major visited Haiti, and conceived the idea of organizing the Haitian Coffee and Products Co., and became a large importer of Haitian coffee to large white concerns in Philadelphia and other cities. Last year he led a delegation of prominent colored citizens to Haiti on a goodwill tour.

The Major recounted his lifetime activities. While a schoolmaster in Georgia he promoted a State Fair, which was a huge success, having the support of state officials. Since he has been living in Philadelphia he has promoted various "Progress Expositions", one of which drew 14.000 people who paid for admission.

Wilkins' 25th Recital Big Success

By The Critic

Proud parents, friends and music lovers enjoyed a rare musical treat August 16th, at Zion Hill Baptist Church at the presentation of pupils of the Wilkins Piano Academy.

The event marked the 25th Annual recital of the pupils of the Academy and was by far one of the most successful and outstanding of recent years.

No little credit is due Prof. Wm. T. Wilkins and his able staff of teachers for their untiring efforts to uphold the high standard of music for which the Academy is known, in face of the jazz and swing music of the present day.

The difficult compositions of Dett, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Reinhold, and many others of the great composers were the offerings of ambitious students.

The two vocal selections beautifully rendered by Mrs. Ruth Jenkins, and Mrs. Louise Hudson spoke volumes for the newly added voice department under the efficient signorina Adelina Dossena Formosa.

But best of all, and the treat of the evening was the masterly rendition of the Boskovitz and Wm. T. Wilkins arrangement of Verdi's Le Misere from Il Trovatore, played by Prof. Wilkins. There was no denying that the Teacher evidenced his great genuality in this rendition, as well as his own arrangement of "Some Times I feel Like a Motherless Child," two very difficult compositions that clearly established him as a Master in his own right of the Art that has brought him fame and enthusiastic praises from the hearts of all music lovers, and undying gratitude from the hundreds of students that have studied with him.

He truly electrified the audience with his unusual stlye and dynamic expression, and had to respond to an encore. We should hear him play in public more often.

315,000 Students Prepare to Return to Classrooms

Approximately 315,000 students will return to classrooms of Los Angeles City schools on Monday to resume study of the three R's, and of the newer three C's—designated by Superintendent of Schools Vierling Kersey as Character, Citizenship, and Courtesy.

On the opening day, junior and senior high schools will open at 8:15 a.m. Students in the elementary schools must report present by 9:00 a.m. Classes will be dismissed after a minimum four-hour day.

Registration for old students at the Los Angeles City College will begin at 8:00 a.m. Monday and Tuesday of the first week of school. Registration of new students will begin Wednesday at 8:00 a.m.

1500 school custodians are now busily engaged preparing classrooms and equipment for the opening. Likewise 103 school busses are being tuned up to meet the transportation requirements of children who live in the outlying districts.

Teachers are returning from vacations; principals are organizing their faculties; the superintendent's staff is busy on new curriculum improvements. Vacation activities are at an end and the serious business of education is once more to be resumed.

At the close of the school year, June 30, the certificated staff, consisting of superintendents, directors, supervisors, principals, and teachers, and the non-teaching employees numbered 15,511, This is the approximate number with which the educational machinery will swing into motion Monday.

The tremendous growth of Los Angeles in the past 63 years is exemplified in a comparison of enrollment figures. Ttoal enrollment is 1875 was 1,3?6 as compared with that for the last school year which was 432, 931.

Included in the 1,095 square mile area of the Los Angeles School district are 392 schools consisting of 293 elementary, 27 junior, 40 senior, 6 for handicapped children, 23 evening, and the Frank Wiggins Trade School, Metropolitan Continuation High, and the Los Angeles City College. Housing facilities consist of 2,578 buildings and 15, 669 classrooms.

U. S. Military Experts Sent to Haiti

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. (ANP)—At the request of President Stenio Vincent of the Republic of Haiti mde several weeks ago, War Department officials said a military mission was being sent the Island Republic, presumably to aid in training Haitian military forces.

News of the mission became known with the issuance of special orders by the War Department assigning Lieut. Col. Samuel J. Heidner, infantry, to duty, "with the United States military mission to Haiti at Port au Prince." Another order issued asigned Capt. Douglas B. Smith, infantry, to duty with the same group. Date of sailing was announced as on or about Sept. 6, Heidner, as chief of the delegation will report to the American Minister at Port au Prince, for duty "under the direction of the President of Haiti."

No expense will be incurred by the United States government in connection with the mission, the special orders stated.

S. J.—Will I be successful this year?

Ans.—This year holds much in store for you in the way of good news and money. You will have an opportunity to better yourself financially and will meet many new people. Venus being the ruling planet after the moon changes in the fourth month, will bring you many unexpected changes.

E. M.—Will I have better luck if I rent out my home and move to another town?

Ans.—It would be advisable that you rent out your home, although it will not be necessary that you move to another town. You will be able to enjoy success where you are. After the tenth month of this year, there will be a change and you will be better off financially and socially.

Z. B.—Would it be wise for my husband and I to get a divorce?

Ans.—Under the circumstances it would be the best move. You both don't get along and will continually separate. You will enjoy more success through a second union.

Druggists Applaud Nadinola

Nadinola Bleaching Cream, originally developed for a lovely Tennessee gentlewoman, has grown into national popularity and now, after forty years on the American market, is ascending to new heights, according to local druggists. These same druggists have sent letters of congratulations to executives of the National Toilet Company, Paris, Tennessee, this week in recognition of the firm's fortieth anniversary.

Since the day Nadinola was first used by a charming Southern woman it has given complete satisfaction to millions of users. This young lady for whom Nadinola was originally developed, was the daughter of a well known physician. Seeing what wonderful results she had with the preparation, she urged friends to use it. From that time on the fame of Nadinola, as it was later called, began its steady growth.

A group of business men in Paris formed a small company and began the distribution of Nadinola Bleaching Cream on a nation-wide scale. The price was kept low—50 cents for a large jar—and distribution throughout the country of this new, safe and delightful cream was quickly obtained. Today Nadinola is undoubtedly the most popular bleach cream in the world; it has strengthened year after year while lesser products have come and gone.

Nadinola is especially appreciated by women who have used it to lighten dull dark skin, to counteract excessive oiliness and to remove freckles. Thousands of letters from delighted users testify to the remarkable results of Nadinola in bleaching the skin to fresh clear loveliness. It acts quickly and safely and promotes the vivacious, vibrant beauty all women crave. It has become a stand-by preparation relied upon by successive generations for completely satisfactory results.

Following the wide demand for Nadinola, The National Toilet Company elected to introduce other beauty products. Face powders, talcum powders, cleansing creams, vanishing creams and soap soon took their places upon druggists' counters beside the Nadinola jars. These products are shipped from the Company's headquarters in Paris to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries, so that practically wherever cosmetics are sold, the names of Nadinola and Nadine are known and liked.

By Miriam Matthews

The past few weeks, the Vernon Branch Library has had an unprecedented increase in the registration of new borrowers, both juvenile and adult. Are you among the seventy-five hundred borrowers listed in these files or have you failed to discover the valuable service offered to purposeful readers at this free public institution?

As the high school and college doors swing open to admit another class of freshmen, many individuals who cannot hope for the privileges of more formal education are resolving to acquire learning under their own driving power. These persons are already planning self-directed tours in books, hoping in this way to reach higher cultural and utilitarian levels.

More than ever it is possible for the self-directed reader to peruse worth-while works because many more volumes are now within easy access through a rapid inter-library loan system. There is available also, for those who need direction, the "Reading With a Purpose Series" prepared by the American Library Association on a multitude of subjects, giving a thorough introduction to each subject and a suggested list of reading. This series will prove an aid to those who already have a favorite subject and wish advice on the selection of material and also to the individual who has no choice and is tempted to ramble all over the surface of an attractive reading field.

A little self-discipline may be necessary to achieve a regular number of reading hours per week but the habit once formed will prove very worthwhile. It may establish a new sense of values and change the point of view. It may even change the entire course of a person's life for while extending his interests, one enlarges his sympathies as well as his understanding and opens new doors to opportunity.

Visit your nearest branch library and get your pass-key to further knowledge. The staffs of the Vernon Branch Library, 4504 S. Central Ave., and the Helen Hunt Jackson Branch Library, 2330 Naomi Ave., are ready to serve you.

Independent Church Home for Boys Opens in 2 Weeks

Announcement by Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister, of the completion of plans for a home for homeless colored boys in Los Angeles was enthusiastically received at the morning service last Sunday of People's Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma.

The home, which is sponsored by the church, is a modernly appointed building located in Watts, and has accomodations for more than two dozen boys.

Work on the project was begun by Rev. Russell about a year ago in connection with juvenile authorities. The idea received a unanimous endorsement from the officials of the church and the congregation. Final plans were worked out by Arthur Wells in connection with both county and state probation authorities.

When Rev. Russell said the home would begin operations within the next two weeks, and asked for voluntary donations, a large number responded to the appeal.

AME Church to Enter Cuba

KITRELL, N. C., Sept. 8 (ANP)—Officials of the AME Church are looking forward to the establishment of the church in Cuba. At the recent Bishop's Council held here an invitation was received from J. H. Devereaux, Deputy Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Havana, asking that representatives from the council be sent to the island with a view of establishing churches there. The following commission was named and will visit Cuba in December; Bishop R. C. Ransom, H. Y. Tookes, D. H. Sims, E. J. Howard and J. A. Gregg.

The Council planned for 1939 meetings and will convene in Dallas, Texas, February, 1939; in Philadelphia, June, 1939 and in Atlanta, February, 1940.

The question of merger with other colored Methodist bodies was continued after conferences with representatives of other Methodist bodies who met with the AME bishops on the subject.

Asks Training for the Clergy

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (CNA)—Pointing out the lag of Negro theological schools behind the advance of other schools of education Dean Mays of Howard University writing in the Crisis, advocated the need for progress in what he called "The Most Neglected Area of Negro Education."

Pointing out that during the last twenty-five years millions of dollars have been contributed by philantrophists to the creation of over forty Class A and B colleges, little has been done to improve Negro theological and religious schools in that time, "notwithstanding the fact that the Negro ministers as a group have lost prestige, it is still true that the Negro minister is the most significant leader of the Negro masses" Dean Mays wrote.

The Senior choir of the Second Baptist church was presented in concert Tuesday evening, Septemebr 6, by the Peoples' Independent church, 18th and Paloma Streets.

Mrs. Mozelle Te Outley, chorister of the performing group, was assisted by Mrs. Luvenia Harper Dones at the organ. Outstanding among the artists and renditions were Phillip Waite, tenor soloist, who rendered "My Hours"; the Quartette from "Rigoletta" sung by Bernice Ellis, Ethel Miller Thomas, James Miller, and Septimus Silas; "Italian Street Song" with Anna Griffith Morrow as solist rendered by the chorus.

Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, director of Independent choir, was official hostess to the entertaining group.

Among the artists cooperating are Jester Hairston, Jess Lee Brooks, James Miller, Clinton Roseman, Ruby Elzy, Eugene Henderson, Roy Glenn and Clarence Hargrave who had charge of last years' affair.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sept. 8—The Government's $8000,000,000 slum-clearance and low-rent housing program was launched because "America has decided to subsidize good housing instead of subsidizing slums," R. M. Little, a consultant of the United States Housing Authority, declared last Friday at the dedication of the Brand Whitlock Homes in Toledo, Ohio, in which 264 families, mostly Negroes, are housed.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Jesus' words, "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled," are the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

One of the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon presents these verses from the Proverbs: "Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice?... Unto you, O men, I call; and my voice is to the sons of man....Hear; for I will speak of excellent things; and the opening of my lips shall be right things....I lead in the way of righteousness, in the midst of the paths of judgment: That I may cause those that love me to inherit substance; and I will fill their treasures."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy state: "Man walks in the direction towards which he looks, and where his treasure is, there will his heart be also. If our hopes and affections are spiritual, they come from above, not from beneath, and they bear as of old the fruits of the Spirit." "Things spiritual and eternal are substantial."

Boy Injured in Fall from Cliff

Elwood Williams, 10-year old son of Mrs. Georgia Greene Willimas, 742 East 31st street, furnished excitement for a Labor Day picnic staged at Sycamore Grove by the Second Baptist Sunday School.

Scaling the side of a high cliff, Elwood lost his footing and in the fall suffered a scalp wound that required several stitches at Receiving hospital.

His brother, Hank, and cousin, Val Smith, had the dust brushed from their trousers in the garage after returning home from taking Elwood on the perilous journey.

PUTS 'COLORED' AFTER NEGRO MEDICS' NAMES

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The American Medical Association despite numerous complaints registered by physicians all over the country, continues to place the word "Colored" beside the names of all Negro physicians appearing the Medical Directory, a national publication put out by the Association for the use of salesmen, medical supply companies, etc., it was revealed here this week.

"Sunset Royal", that hails all the way from Florida, moves back in the Harlem area . . . a finer organization than before. When we say this about Ace Harris and his hard working group of youngsters, we are but adding our voice to the many fine things commentators have said during the past two seasons. Harris, the most versatile of all piano players and band leaders, has added that great singing star, Arthur Lee Simpkins of Chi.

Gus Hawkins Thanks Supporters

A statement of gratitude to his supporters was made this week by Augustus Hawkins, incumbent assemblyman from the 62nd Assembly district, after the smoke had cleared away and he found himself the choice of all parties.

The statement reads:

"With the close of the primary election in which I received the nomination of all parties for re-election to the Assembly, I take this means of expressing my most sincere thanks to the many friends, workers, and groups who supported me in my campaign. I trust that I shall live up to the faith which you have placed in me and merit your continued support. To that end I again pledge my unfailing interest in your welfare and the continuation of a sound, practical, and progressive program.

Signed:
AUGUSTUS F. HAWKINS."

Reopen Night Watchman Murder Case

had been sent to San Quentin and Folsom to question Fisher and Freedman. He forecast the arrest of Rollins would "break the case wide open".

Stahlman said his investigation of the case had developed evidence to prove the three men had gone to the plant to throw acid upon the clothes there, had been surprised by the watchman and then shot him to death.

The murder gun and the bullet which ended Stockman's life are now in Stahlman's possession. Identity of a mysterious key witness who put Stahlman on the trail of the evidence is being closely guarded as the state expects to obtain convictions upon the testimony of this witness, it was learned.

In preliminary investigation of the murder eight years ago it was brought out that W. J. Fairchild, employer of Stockman, had resisted efforts of organizers at his plant. Fairchild claimed to have received numerous threats before the murder was committed.

Six months after the slaying, Morris Malter, 41, cleaning shop operator, was arrested on suspicion of the muder but he was later released without trial.

Stahlman was out of his office most of the day, Tuesday, engaged in taking statements from persons active in the cleaning business in the wave of terrorism.

AN OPEN LETTER TO RADIO FANS

Dear Radio Fans:

(Those of you who read this column)

I am sadly disappointed in you. I felt certain that after all these months of laboring over the tid-bits of radio gossip for you, I would receive a greater reward than these frazzlin' contributions I have had in the past month or so. When I issued a distress call for readers, I thought I would be caught in a deluge of letters calling attention to interesting local radio talent and good programs featuring Negro stars, but instead all I got was an oppressing silence. Well, you'll be sorry, 'cause I'm going on my vacation after just one more of these columns, and then what'll you do? Again I repeat, I'm sadly disappointed. (Boo-hoo).

Sincerely,
Sallye Bell, of ANP

As Told to J. CULLEN FENTRESS

FORTY-EIGHT-year old Samuel Knight is a sand blaster in the employ of Washington and Eljer Foundry in Los Angeles . . . engaged in the making of plumbing fixtures, such as bathtubs, sinks, etc., Knight's job is to clean the casting before it is enameled . . . so that all streaks are eliminated from the finished product. . .

He has been employed by his foundry for the past seven years . . .before that he worked as a blacksmith and horseshoer . . . served in the latter capacity for the Griffith Paving Company and the City of Los Angeles . . .before entering his present work, he served as an apprentice for six months.

Knight sees a great future in the business . . .most necessary qualities are preparedness and willingness to work . . .he entered the industry when an opening occurred for a sand blaster . . . applied for the job and got it . . .

His work in which beach sand is used is confined to the cleaning room where the wares are cleaned before sent to the enameling department . . .his production per day runs anywhere from 12,000 to 18,000 pounds . . .this depends upon efficiency of machinery and condition of weather. . . . damp weather presenting greatest obstacles to such an output . . .

Including himself there are seven blasters employed by the Washington and Eljer Foundry . . . representing four racial groups . . . There are other foundries that employ Negroes as blasters, pourers, moulderts, etc., Knight says . . .Included among these businesses are a car wheel company and O'Keefe and Merritt. . .

Married and the father of five children, Knight lives at 5618 Compton Avenue and hopes for an awakening as to the possibilities of this field which plays so definite a part in present-day life. . . He is past grand lecturer of the Masons, church member and belongs to the Moulders Union, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

the undoubted death-knell of the "policy-racket".

Those who have not visited the great metropolis for the past nine or ten years perhaps are not aware of the tremendous influence this immense racket holds,--or held--over the Negro population of the city. Originated in Harlem by Negroes, the game was reputedly taken over a few years back by the notorious Arthur Flaggenheim--or Dutch Schultz. It is stated that Mme. Stephanie St. Clair, unofficial numbers-queen, had been deposed by the late Dutchman.

At any rate, the racket held sway like some great gnawing disease over hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers--mostly Negroes. Housewives prepared their morning list of numbers along with breakfast. Poppa neglected the purchase of necessities if he chanced upon a "hot-hunch". Five cents played on the winning number--one out of a thousand--netted twenty-seven dollars. On a dollar, the amount payable approximated five hundred and fifty dollars.

In late years the practice of "playing numbers" had invaded every strata of Harlem's divers social order. Leaders in society patronized well-dressed "runners"--competent in the art of eating, actually eating, evidence when apprehended; while the lowly migratec each day to a corner cigar-store or grocery to make their selections. Like a colossal funnel the elaborate organization of the racket served to conduct millions from the empty pockets of Harlem's teeming population.

Today the inaccessible "big-shots" are, in turn, on the spot. Hail and Farewell!

But wait, is the problem really solved? A gigantic strain on the Negro's economic reserves has been removed. But, isn't there something else?—Yes, the "policy-racket", vile and parasitic as it was, freely gave employment to thousands of Negroes. From "runners" up to real "big shots", members of the race had shared in the profits. No job was too big if a Negro could handle it better than others. While the Reformer's screamed, Negroes evolved and executed one of the most efficient business organizations in the history of the nation.

Now, what shall they do? Escaping jail, must they return to legal industry in the old, future-less, common job. Probably so. For the reforming righteous are often entirely too good to tolerate colored people except in menial positions. True, Mayor Fiorello Laguardia and Thomas E. Dewey are singularly free from recall prejudice, but WE refer to the great legion of private business-men in whose hands the Afro-American's employment status really lays. How strange it is that the criminal considered the most ignorant and worst of Americans, is sometimes the ONLY American capable of conceiving a Negro divorced from a Porter's can!

If this is true, we have arrived at a very dangerous point in our present day civilization, especially when this program of experimentation takes too long chances with the safety and welfare of our splendid government as it is being administered at the present time by our most efficient and experienced executive MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW.

The right to recall any duly elected public official belongs to the majority of the people, but like many other laws can prove to be a dangerous part of our splendid government when it is being used by the narrow-minded, prejudiced, self-seeking malcontents and would-be reformers just to satisfy their selfish desires and unwarranted prejudices.

I must point out this one undeniable fact, that the spleen displayed by the RECALL group, the invectives released by their propogandas and the poison rumors and innuendos designed to destroy all that is good in the man upon whom they are leading their attack, goes to prove that such a group could not govern a city like ours fairly and fearlessly because of their warped minds and distorted vision or select a leader capable of measuring up to the job.

After reading this article if you agree with it, vote NO on the RECALL and vote YES to retain in office the champion of all people, MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Society Editor

The thing that un-makes a holiday until the next one comes around is that drag of the day after . . . Everyone who isn't fighting sleep is carefully avoiding back-slaps that might irk that sunburn or claiming stiffness from riding a contrary horse . . . Of course, everybody vows the next morning that come the next holiday, "I'm spending it sanely" . . . that vow lasts until the morning one rolls over and realizes that he doesn't have to go to work.

For once, I'm not in your camp, for I know nothing about what anyone did ('cept what I'm putting in the paper) . . . and care just about as much. A more lackadaisical day I've never spent. Ridding out dresser drawers, hogging the phone . . . and then leisurely breakfasting at noonday followed by a chat with everybody's protege, Vincent Williams, who breezed in town for a week-end with the folks and the heartbeat . . . Maybe I'd better add an "s" to that. At any rate he's as entertaining as ever and as keenly awake to literary opportunities . . . In the afternoon there was dinner at "home" . . . And an evening that ended in the corner drug store . . . where there was no news 'cause everybody was with the right party . . . Even some men with their wives. Doggonit.

Which reminds me that pretty AKA soror, Carol Johnson, has come to the parting of the ways with her her husband, Elliot. Carol's charging cruelty and the usual run of reasons for divorce . . . oh, well, such is life.

SUNDAY IN GRIFFITH PARK:

Guess it must've been some hours before the semi-finals that we streaked through the sun to view some of the polite sports matches in Griffith Park where the North vied with Southlanders for some of the most beautiful trophies of the meets. The bronze one for women given by Golden State Mutual was one of the most imposing and won by comeback champion, Juliette Harris . . . after pretty Gwen Roberson put up a very creditable fight. (Of course, that happened Monday.)

Getting back to some observations: Fans who've watched her a long time decided that Mrs. Mamie Stewart of Oakland has put on a few pounds . . . but she still played a brilliant game. Otis V. "Babe" Wiggins' shorts were some four or five inches longer than in the Southern Cal tourney in July . . . and very becoming, too. One of the smartest outfits was one donned by Lula Chapman, YW exec-seck, of Oakland . . . beautiful white sharkskin cool-outs with pleated front and a kick pleat in the back . . . she made it . . . Among the very proud spectators were Mrs. Colquit Fisher and wee one who watched her husband play one of the best games of the tournament in a doubles try with "Lefty" Johnson against the northern duo—"Schoolboy" Mitchell and Dempsey; Mrs. Ethel Jones and Mrs. Ruby Johnson (Lefty's wife) . . . quite sure that all the worthwhile men are taken . . . course, they have the last two good ones.

Sunday night, for the second time, "Run, Little Chillun" was food for thought and laughter . . . Saw there the Rev. and Mrs. Clayton D. Russell. She was very chic in black and white.

JOTTINGS:

You ought to read—make it a weekly habit—the column "Occupational Sketches" appearing in this publication by our city ed . . . Methinks it the best feature of many moons. "The Blackguard" out at the Play Tavern on Wilshire tonight is being sponsored by the A. Philip Randolph Lodge of the I. W. O. . . . probably a sell-out. One of the very prominent society matrons almost had a "coming out" party in her bathing suit (that's grown a few sizes too small) . . . Sunday at Elsinore. Careful, ladies, careful.

Thursday's getting to be a good day . . . so, I wasn't surprised to meet very attractive lady Inez Robinson, Zeta soror from Louisiana claiming Southern as her alma mater . . . and flashing a diamond from L. A.'s Jimmy Lassiter . . . She was guest of the B. H. Rogerses in Dewey avenue while here and promises to return next summer . . . There'll be wedding bells, likely . . . and we're waiting for the scoop.

The C.U.C.'s are planning another big broadcast for the 25th of September . . . Clarence Hargraves is in charge of the program. You know it'll be stellar . . . promises cuttings from major productions of the year . . . "Porgy and Bess", "Run, Little Chillun", etc. We're offering orchids to Fay Jackson for the fine bit of publicity work she did on the latter . . . it brought more than 30,000 out . . . and they're still coming. It's quite the thing now for ermine of the top flight stars to rub shoulders with that of sepia players . . . and just plain, everyday folks.

Speaking of Fay reminds me of a story . . . from the recent YWCA Girls' camp in Griffith Park. Joan Robinson, Fay's daughter of eleven, won the prize for stunt night for a skit she presented with Fay Hopkins, Cornelia Lear, Jerry Jones and herself in roles . . . The title: "What Next?" and the theme: domestic entanglements. These children!

Sure it's a bum column . . . but you'll be back next week . . . s'long.

AMY LANDRY-SMITH BECOMES BRIDE OF BENJAMIN M. GILMORE

Gowned in yellow chiffon and wearing a shoulder-length veil swirling from a chantilly cap, Mrs. Amy Landry-Smith became the bride of Benjamin M. Gilmore Sunday afternoon at four o'clock in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Landry, 752 East 18th Street.

The ceremony was read by the Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the Peoples' Independent church of Christ who used the impressive ring service.

The bride's boquet was of bergonias ranging in colors from orange to sunset and her only attendant, Mrs. Marie Jenkins, matron of honor, carried yellow roses and gardenias to complement a gown of gray chiffon. The bridal aisle was formed by a guard of honor composed of members of the London Bridge club who wore pastel gowns enhanced by headdresses that carried out the Spanish mode in bergonias and bouvardia.

Those forming the guard were Mmes. Mattie Jefferson, Maurice Landry, Helen Wright, Willie B. Johnson, Verna Branch, Gwendolyn Russell, and Miss Ella Matthews.

The groom who is vice-basileus of the local chapter of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity was attended by Jay Douglass Jenkins as best man.

RECEPTION FOLLOWS WEDDING

A brilliant reception followed the wedding with Mrs. R. J. Landry, as hostess in black satin with silver tunic and wearing a corsage of gardenias. Assisting her were Mrs. James Boutte in old rose lace and Mrs. Thompson in beige lace.

The cutting of the wedding cake was superintended by Mrs. Marguerite Young in peach chiffon. A color scheme of green and gold was carried out in chrysanthemums and gladiolas.

After a brief honeymoon trip, the pair will be at home, temporarily, at 752 East 18th street.

PRINCIPALS IN RING CEREMONY

MR. AND MRS. BENJAMIN M. G$LMORE (Amy Landry-Smith) who were married Sunday afternoon in an impressive ring ceremony i nthe bride's home at 752 East 18th street with the Rev. Clayton D. Russell officiating.

ON THE AIR

Though this is not unadulterated radio material, if you asked me what recordings have to do with radio, I might point out to you that a lot of the music we hear during the early hours of the day before the "swing cats" assemble for their nightly pam sessions is "canned music"—records to you. And some day you may her the record I'm about to tell you about, and then you can say with a knowing eye that you have some inside information on it.

I take this round-about method of referring to Decca record "Oriental Swing" which was composed by Onah L. Spencer (one time ANP correspondent) and featured by Lil Armstrong's hot swing band. It was listed in last week's "Time" news-magazine first among popular records released for the month of August. And, as you know, "Time" lists none but the best, so that if it's first among these, it's really sumpin'.

Lil Armstrong is the wife of trumpet king Louis (Satchmo), and Onah L. Spencer is the lad who composed Louie's first recorded swing feature, namely "Hobo You Can't Ride This Train" (Victor record) and is also co-author of "O Sing a New Song," great Century of Progress pageant held at Soldiers field in Chicago in 1934.

RADIO RAVES

Barber came to radio by way of the stage. He was born in Lincoln, Nebraska, and grew up there and in Colorado. He began singing when he was eight years old, but his real ambition was to be a great electrician and he paid for a comprehensive training in electrical engineering with fees his voice won for him. He studied in Denver and at Polytechnic College of Engineering in Oakland, but his fine beautiful voice brought him so many engagements that he found himself touring the vaudville circuits with the Plantation Four instead of pursuing a career of sparks and batteries. He sang for several years with the Plantation Four then joined the Southern Harmony Four, and with his quartet he went on the air.

Saunders S. King, first tenor, started his singing career at the age of eleven, as a gospel singer in Staple, Louisiana. His father is a bishop in an Evangelical church, but King's earliest ambition lay in the fighting ring instead of the pulpit, and he did box for several years before he turned back to religious work and gospel singing. He became a licensed singer and preacher in his father's church and was active in this work until he joined the Southern Harmony Four and made his microphone debut.

Alvin David Nurse, baritone of the quartet, was born in Franklin, Louisiana, where he studied music as a boy. He attended New Orleans university where he sang with the university quartet, then came to the Pacific Coast and attended the University of California, singing there with the Aeropagus Quartet for three years. When he was graduated from U. C. he became a life insurance salesman, but singing engagements came so fast that he was literally forced into maknig his voice his vocation, with life insurance as a side occupation. He has been with the National Broadcasting company for several years, as a member of the Quartet.

Eugene Wadsworth Anderson, director and second tenor of this quartet, was born in Dallas, Texas, and educated in California. He wanted to be a dentist and attended the University of California, paying his way by acting as chauffeur in an Oakland household. He had always sung, in choirs and in amateur theatricals, and it was not long before his voice was bringing in a better salary thn he could earn at the wheel of an automoblie. By the time he had completed his preliminary training as a dentist he was so well known as a singer that he went on into concert work instead of tooth-grinding. He was a member of the Plantation Four for several years, and he and Barber came to radio and the Southerhn Harmony Four together.

Dr. Garrott, house-guest of Captain Garrott, will leave the city Sunday evening for San Francisco where he will be the guest for a few days of his brother, L. E. Garrott, and from there will return to his home.

Surprise Dinner Precedes Rites

Among the affairs complimenting Mrs. Amy Landry-Smith prior to her marriage to Benjamin M. Gilmore was a bridge and breakfast party at which the bride-elect was showered with lingerie by thirty-two guests responding to the invitation of Mrs. J. Douglass Jenkins. The affair was held on Wednesday, September 1, in the Jenkins home at 763 East 53rd street.

Another very smart affair was a dinner party given by the London Bridge club whose gift to the bride was a set of breakfast pottery.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Edgar Johnson, Augustus F. Hawkins; Atty. and Mrs. Edward Jefferson, Dr. and Mrs. Warner Wright, Mrs. Verna Branch and Mr. Hilliard, Miss Ella Matthews, Charles Lavington, and the honorees, Mrs. Smith and Mr. Gilmore.

Luncheon Honors Wife of Bishop A. P. Shaw

Mrs. Ruth Williams, of 41st place, entertained last Wednesday with a luncheon honoring Mrs. A. P. Shaw, wife of Bishop A. P. Shaw, a former resident of this city, and Mrs. Lorena Wilson of So. Los Angeles.

The home was filled with flowers and the table was beautifully decorated with American beauty roses.

Guests who shared honors were Mesdames C. Ashcraft, E. W. Rakestraw, Edward Horton, Catherine Gott, Geneva B. Ford, M. C. Spann, Geo. Patterson, James Brown, Ethel Sweat, Ida Roberston, Etta Dagget, Elizabeth Edwards and Miss Lottie Shaw.

Another studio (Columbia) sought Dick Powell's son for role of "Baby Dumpling" in the picturization of the "Blondie" cartoon comic strip.

In declining the contract offered Normie, the Powells said there would be no acting for him or his new sister Ellen until their education had been completed.

BLACK AND WHITE HAIR PREPARATIONS

Los Angeles and Pasadena Society . . .

By George Garner

We go into September . . . and fall . . . with a glorious, breathless summer full of reminiscences not far behind . . . of pleasant glens of seaside cabanas . . . of lake retreats . . . of teeming, Eastern metropoli where the zest and zoom of life goes on apace . . .

These things we take into these first uncertain days of autumn . . . and already I've seen the first, thick fog roll in to rout all idea as to the time of morning . . . and the lingering coolness that it brought was an exhilarating foretaste of other days to come . . . Now, already snatched from the final laze-away hours of the Loliday week-end just past, we'll turn to job and school . . . each excitement in its turn . . . Fashion, too is seasonally on the move . . . though, as always, just a little ahead of things . . . However, already milady has become versed in its newest foibles . . . the precarious perch of her hat . . . the handbag of saddle-bag proportions . . . the strange, new colors . . . And entertainment will take a turn from the al fresco to the interior, to find that Southlander hostesses have cooked up new canapes and hors d'ouevres to correspond with change from outdoor to indoor living . . . while a few of us will play host and hostess to those lucky Easterners who yearly follow out to recreate amid this mountain-vistaed land of ours . . . opera tires of its Hollywood Bowl site and seeks out the be-jewelled and be-furred atmosphere of the Shrine, the Philharmonic . . . All is poised, expectant . . . awaiting the more definite signs of this "turn of a season".

Mrs. Marie Gillem, whose pleasant green and white house in Lincoln avenue is one of the gems along that stretch of imposing abodes . . . entertained at luncheon on Tuesday as a farewell social gesture to Miss Laura Rice of Baltimore, Maryland . . . Mrs. Gillem's recently built home is without doubt one of the most interesting that Pasadena boasts . . . furnished as it is with rare Chinese teakwood pieces . . . all brought by Mrs Gillem from her New York apartment . . . guests were Mmes. Pearl Fairfax, Gertrude Wiggins, Roy Turner and Carolyn Moore-Blodgett.

Prior to her departure last Monday for Baltimore, Maryland, Miss Laura Rice, Mrs. Gertrude Wiggins and Audley Cole jr. motored to San Francisco for an over the week-end respite . . . there is little doubt that the recent visitor from Maryland will have many a fond memory of the Southland as she takes up the threads of her "school marm" duties once again.

And the Robert Keys . . . whose lovely home out on Forest avenue way as shown in the recent "Silhouette" magazine . . . have returned to their pleasant abode after a trip to scenic Mount Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth William Mack entertained at dinner last Sunday . . . preceded by cocktails . . . in their Pasadena, Glorietta Street house . . . with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McNeely, Miss "Jo" Williams, and Messrs. William Long jr., Clarence Mack and Stan Williamson joining them around the refreshingly beautiful board . . . there were cards later . . . with not a little repartee and badinage . . . incidentally the Macks chose this form of divertissement for the Sunday of the holiday week-end, in lieu of former plans to make the exciting trek to the "Y" camp at "Little Green Valley".

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson L. Taylor . . . who maintain an arresting green and white stucco manse in Sunset avenue . . . entertained informally last Tuesday to honor Mrs. James Hulbert of Detroit, Michigan . . . games at cards followed dining in the sumptuous manner with which Mrs. Taylor invariably entertains . . . thereby adding her own charm to a Southland hospitality that will doubtless find Mrs. Hulburt very shortly returning to our Pacific shores . . . and on last Friday evening the Taylors again opened their home to a dinner company . . . honoring visiting Denverites Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lightner . . . sister and brother-in-law of the Thomas P. Eubanks of Cypress avenue . . . rounding out a veritable deluge of entertaining before departing . . . the Taylors packed bag and baggage to hie off, in the company of Mrs. Walter Carter and Mrs. Maud White for a ten-day stay in San Francisco . . . where they will see and be seen . . . and perhaps do a bit of shopping.

PROCESSION SOUTHLANDIA

It's a Southlander goodbye to Laura Rice . . . Nieces of the T. A. Rollinses of Westside will return to New Orleans shortly following visits in San Diego and fashionable Coronado . . . A charming Westsider issues invitations for what promises to be a very interesting bit of divertessement . . . and more later . . . Miss Paullyn H Garner returning from camp just in time to be whisked away to Lake Sequoia for an over the week-end addition to an already exciting vacation . . . Socialite sports fans making ready for the impending tennis tournament . . . and becoming patrons and patronesses for the scheduled brilliant event . . . Les Aiglonnes members, Sammye and Lula Mae Yarborough, Helen White, Freida Bigby, Margaret Lackey, et al . . . making ready for their dance . . . "Bootsie" Collins, going incognito with dark glasses, along with Tommy Long and about four other young Westsiders whom I failed to recognize . . . all about to climb aboard Tommy's "Model A" . . . "Jo" Williams, proudly displaying a snazzy new pair of riding boots . . . her thoughts, meanwhile, turned toward the ensuing fall term at college . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Carolyn "Chappie" Blodgett, Stan Williamson, returning, shortly after noon, from the Sunday services in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Pasadena . . . in the Moore's new motor car . . .

Alabama Daily Wants Gov. to Free All Scottsboro 'Boys'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 1.—In a lengthy editorial appearing in the paper August 18, the Montgomery Advertiser takes issue with the recent unanimous decision of the Alabama Board of Pardons which denied pardons to two of the remaining five Scottsboro youths and calls upon Governor Bibb Graves to use his power to free all five defendants still in jail.

Reviewing the paper's own stand in the case as a consistent supporter of the Attorney General's position of fighting for the death penalty for the boys, the editorial, entitled "O Scottsboro!", says in part:

"The Advertiser, for itself, and it has no doubt that it speaks for the majority of responsible Alabamians, resents the indignities heaped upon our people in connection with this revolting affair, but for the beginning nearly 7 and a half years ago The Advertiser has been interested primarily in seeing that Alabama had its way without intimidation from the outside in these cases--it has never wanted to see the full penalty of the law executed.

". . . The State of Aalabama has at last had its way. It has repeatedly convicted 'the boys', some of whom are now growing old in the service of our prisons; Alabama has been repeatedly taunted by the Supreme Court of the United States and by agitators in two hemispheres, with the result that Alabama has been given a bad name the round world over . . . We need not blink the fact, because we know it is so.

". . . How can the State of Alabama, now that at last it has had its way, face a jeering world and explain why it still presses the case against four men and ing five, when all of them are plainly equally guilty or innocent?

". . . Without prejudice to the intelligence or the integrity of the three gentlemen who compose his advisory committee, the Pardon Board, the Advertiser appeals to Governor Graves to broaden the perspective that has been drawn, to consult, not so much his warm heart as his ample imagination as the leader of a people and the exponent of a civilization! As we said more than a year ago, 'Let Alabama Throw Away This Body of Death' that is 'Scottsboro'."

Mexicans Seek Division of Hearst's Ranch

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 8 (CNA)—Mexican peasants of Babicora, in the State of Chihuahua, insisted here this week that the federal authorities expropriate the vast Hacienda de Babicora, belonging to William Randolph Hearst, American newspaper magnate.

The demand was voiced by more than 150 peasants from lands bordering on the Hearst estate, when they appeared before state officials and insisted that the federal government take action to take over the hacienda and transform it into an ejide (communal farm). The men presented the necessary data, showing that they could not effectively operate their small plots of land and that the public welfare of the entire region calls for division of the Hearst property.

A small part of the immense estate of the American publisher was expropriated about six months ago by action of the federal government.

"Everything under control" was the word of Newton Street Detective Captain Homer Garrott to the Eagle police reporter who was faced with a scanty police blotter yesterday.

The detective claimed that the Eastside had settled down this week after experiencing the worst crime wave during the past three weeks of the year.

Only one minor cutting, outgrowth of a quarrel, embellished the assult with a deadly weapon records where dozens, three of them resulting in death were reported in the past three weeks. No shootings and only minor robberies, thefts or burgularies were there to keep the police officers busy.

POLITICAL POT PIE...

The sidewalls of political tents are besieged on all sides by wrong guessesr endeavoring to sneak in and steal the sop from the faithful who "put their man over."

Chiselers of all makes, kinds and descriptions were put into use in the primaries but to no avail. No easy money or slush fund was put on top. Headquarters, etc., were financed from the pockets of their operators—men and women hopin', trustin', and prayin' Mr. Bill will remember them when they place him into the house of merchandise where ofttimes graft and greed rule the roost.

John (Spreading Joy) Fowler has paraded and now its up to him to show. His man Olson has been nominated. John preached that Merriam would be a cinch to beat and urged his nomination. It's yours, John—we'll watch results.

Talk about Arabs folding tents and quietly stealing away. Those ancient beings are pikers compared with Bob Strother and Emory Craine. The boys broke all records in clearing and closing the McAdoo hearquarters.

Roosevelt blessed Senator McAdoo on his visit to California and the Senator loomed up like a sore thumb. Seemed as though the Chief had placed the toga around "Dear Mac's" torso. All err and Roosevelt in particular. The President kicked over Mac's dope bucket when he said the California Pension scheme was "fantastic." Mac seemed to think the same way but the 800,000 who signed petitions and their friends believe otherwise and decided that home is the best place for Mac.

Jim Brooks at the Harlem accuses us of trying to inveigle him into the game of politics. The Boss, Priest Henderson said "Let him work Ira, we're stringing along with the old Bird, 100 per cent.

Think it was bad taste and poor political judgment to inject the racial issue into a fight where one of our group is involved. Men and women of all groups are striving to eliminate the issue in the 62nd District. Unfortunately, the whole think was dragged into the limelight by one of the prominent candidates. However, the overwhelming vote by all parties given Assemblyman Hawkins helped to relieve the situation a little.

The Union "bug" on printed matter seems to have so charmed some of our colored brothers that they insist upon seeking print shops for their work that carry it. Well, the "bug" union refuses admission of black printers to their Klan, nor do they permit Negroes to sweep their floors or wash their windows. We have yet to see a "bug" paper fighting discrimination against the many ills suffered by the group (with the exception of the far left periodicals). We fight your battles while you march up and give your dollars to your oppressors. Talk about race solidarity! It's a joke!

All is quiet along the political front. Victors in the primaries have come up for a brief breathing spell and get an ear-full of the Recall slush being dished out for September 16.

William (Pop) Penson is wearing a smile that won't come off. His man Raymond Haight won the Progressive nomination for Governor and according to Pop is in line for ultimate victory. Pop is head of the headquarters at 47th and Central.

William D. Campbell, attorney war veteran, and statesman won the Republican nomination for Congressman in the 14th. Outspoken friend of adequate pensions for the aged, equality in distribution of patronage without regard to race or religion, he's looked upon by Republican leaders and political forecasters as successor to the Democratic incumbent, Tom Ford.

Charges are heard on the Avenue that a certain publication led (fooled) Fred Roberts into placing his neck upon the chopping block. The story told says the aggressive publisher, fishing for a "scoop", brought Fred "out". Falling for the line, Fred yielded, only to have his sponsor desert and fall in line for Tom Ford. Believe it or not, files of the paper tell the story, say ardent Roberts supporters.

"I'm taking no part in politics other than a voter," said Titus Alexander. "However, you are at liberty to say I'm for Frank L. Shaw. Can't see how any thinking member of the group could be otherwise. He's played ball with us and if all others vote for Judge Bowron, mine will go into the box for Frank L. Shaw."

Labor Day, primaries over, politicians and candidates resting and mixing medicine for the finals. The pie is short on filling and shorter on shortening. We bake again next week. Be patient, there's something good coming up.

Prominent L. A. Barrister Tells of 'A Terrific Vacation'

By WILLIS O. TYLER

Vacationing is always a problem to people with very limited means, but with an automobile in reasonably good repair, Mrs. Tyler and I solved the problem this year, in a manner low in cost of dollars and cents, and very high in educational value and in pleasure.

We left Los Angeles, Tuesday, August 9, and reached Chicago, Saturday, August 13, after having spent a delightful time in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, the Undertakers there, who were formerly Los Angeles people. I was pleased to find a photo of Neal Bradford on their piano, and this opened up the conversation about Los Angeles folk, which made the evening more than delightful; and, too, Bishop Fountain's daughter, Susette, is doing Y. W. work in Cedar Rapids, and she added much to the evening we spent there.

In outline, the trip was from Los Angeles to Chicago (2,220 miles); from Chicago to Ann Arbor, where my wife's niece and her husband were attending Michigan University; from Ann Arbor to Idlewild, Mich.; from thence to Detroit; from Detroit to Chicago, and from thence to Cincinnati, then on to Wilberforce, and tsraight through to Indianapolis, back again to Chicago, thence to Gary, Ind. and from Chicago to Los Angeles, stopping one night in Omaha, Nebraska.

In all, we covered 5,000 miles at a cost of less than 1½ cents per mile,--to be exact, .0136c per mile for the two of us, or .0068c for one person. We used 340 gallons of gasoline and 14 quarts of oil; the motor was drained twice, and this took 10 quarts of the oil that was consumed. We had the car cut, or rather, should we say, hinged, so that when occasion demanded, we could sleep in it, and in the whole period we were away from home, which was 23 days, we bought 8 meals, and 6 of these were breakfasts. A thermos box or food cooler with a compartment for ice, made the cost of eating a very small item, because always a few miles further on were friends and warm meals.

Our country has at last reached the age of good highways throughout, and we saw so many California cars, even in the northern part of Michigan and elsewhere, that we thought some major disaster had happened here and that all the California people had left the State.

Perhaps the highlight of our visit is contained in the following newspaper article, which we reproduce from the Chicago Defender of August 27. We quote:

"Lawn Fete Honors Guests Of C. Tavernier"

Gay Crowd Greets the Willis O. Tylers

The home of Atty. and Mrs. Clifford H. Tavernier, 5041 Michigan avenue, was the scene of a beautiful reception and lawn fete Sunday evening, August 21, given in honor of Atty. and Mrs. Willis O. Tyler of Los Angeles, Calif., who were their house guests the previous week.

Among those present were: Atty. and Mrs. Zedrick Braden, Atty. and Mrs. R. A. Harewood, Atty. and Mrs. James T. Lorick, Prof. and Mrs. Booker, Atty. and Mrs. Huggins, Atty. and Mrs. Benjamin Clanton, Atty. and Mrs. William Temple, Atty. Alva Bates, Atty. and Mrs. W. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anderson, Mrs. Lula Lawson, Mrs. R. R. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. King Cole.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Livingston, Rev. and Mrs. Ward and the Miss Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edward, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Abernathy, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Trice, Mrs. Leon Motts, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, Miss Marietta Hall, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Howe, Mrs. Willa White, Mrs. Clayton Abner, Mrs. Edward Richard and Miss June Richard, Fred Link, Prof. Wilson, Atty. Barbara Goodall, Dr. and Mrs. Richardson, Miss Elizabeth Ledgemon.

One must feel in the last analysis that favors of this sort are expressive of the appreciation one's host has for the city from which you come, and for the reciprocal social and business relations that your friends and acquaintances enjoy, and for the relationship that many, many people have had a hand in making. It was of course delightful to meet these fine Chicago people, for everyone had an inquiry about some acquaintance in Los Angeles, and this letter would be a fine means of conveying their messages, if time and space would afford it.

Among the fine people we met were, of course, our host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tavernier, of 5041 Michigan Avenue, and Father Oxley, Rector of the Episcopalian Church in Cincinnati, and Dr. Valentine, treasurer of Wilberforce, and Father Bellboda, Rector of the Episcopalian Church at Dayton, Ohio, and Trustee of Wilberforce University.

A feeling of mingled pride and sadness overcame me at Wilberforce, in contemplation of the marvelous enterprise and vision of those of our Church fathers with great vision a generation or two past. The sadness lay in the fact that one sees that the School needs a million dollars to modernize it and to give it a place in the great educational system of Ohio and the Nation.

When one thinks of our Central Avenue and then comes suddenly into the great Negro centers of Chicago or Detroit, one can realize that Los Angeles is out o fthe line of immigration, for multiplied thousands upon thousands of our group have migrated into Chicago and Detroit, and thus created a housing problem and a relief problem of staggering proportions. In Detroit, the solution has begun with a stupendous housing project now ready for occupancy, and ground has been cleared for such a project in Chicago.

The day we arrived in Detroit, the Ford plant put 24,000 men back to work, 1/10th of whom were colored; there were 80,000 men at work at the Ford plant when we went through, 1/10th of whom were colored, and we went, as did all the visitors, through the process of making a Ford automobile complete in 55 minutes.

In our trip through the Stock Yards, too, the enterprise in modern methods were astounding, and one's confidence in the ability of the American manufacturer and producer, to keep modern hygenic methods apace with the most advanced practices of production, is secured.

The proportion of colored men in important labors in the Stock Yards, was very reassuring.

Along the highways, through Michigan and northern Indiana, there were provided road-side tables with appropriate sign boards calling attention to them. I don't think of anything that would add more to the enjoyment of our California highways than the installation of these tables with benches, where the pleasure-seeking autoist may find a retreat and spread his lunch and spend some time at them; this would greatly enrich the Sunday afternoon and Holiday trips.

In Chicago, the Negroes are politically minded, and everything hinges around the precinct or ward committeemen or some other political party official. We found the list of occupations participated in by Negroes, very, very large, and in the public service, a very sizable number of Negroes are employed. The overcrowding is noticable on every hand, and this forces house rent figuratively to the sky; but inasmuch as the south side is the best part of Chicago, and since the Garfield Blvd. portion reaches almost to the Lake, one is obliged to fee that these thousands of Negroes are after all right about it in sitting themselves down in a land which to them is flowing with milk and honey, and letting the Municipality work out the problem of their coming and of their existence. This is also true of Detroit.

A little of the conceit is taken out of one when he sees the way Chicago has handled her traffic problem, with her indescribable outer boulevard and Wacked Avenue, and the extension of Michigan Blvd. and the underground traffic system of these great highways. With the Lake as the ultimate source in the building program, Chicago is indescribably beautiful and has a Skyline and a Park System, and a business air in the way of going about things, that make it not only comparable to New York City, but in our opinion, it surpasses New York.

We attend Bethel A. M. E. Church in Chicago, and were more graciously received at Church and in our stopping place, by the Pastor, Rev. Wayman Ward. From what everyone said and from what we could see, Rev. Ward is the most popular Minister in Chicago, and has a grip on the imagination and hearts of the people, similar to that enjoyed by Father W. T. Cleghorn here some years ago. Rev. Ward is a sort of universal Pastor for all the people of Chicago.

We paid particular attention to the Seat of the next General Conference of the A. M. E. Church, which will be Detroit.

We should have mentioned in our exceptional people, Rev. W. H. Peck of the A. M. E. Church in Detroit, who, to all appearances, is the leading man there. He organized the Business Alliance, which is an adjunct of the National Negro Business League, and it has in a way, restored the business outlook and efforts of the nearly 200,000 Negroes in that city.

Ebenezer A. M. E. Church is the finest church property owned by Negroes enywhere in the world, and I'm told they bought it at a cost of $40,000.00; its original cost was more than half a million. Time forbids any attempt to describe the appointments of this glorious edifice.

And lastly, we are deeply indetbed to Atty. Dudley of Detroit, whose guest we were while there, for his gracious hospitality and for his pains in seeing that we missed no point of interest in that City.

At Idlewild, Michigan, we found 3,000 people on vacation. Here is a heavily wooded section with a great lake in the midst, and with more than a thousand well-built and fashionable cottages, the front lawns of which, extend down thereto, and the most amazing example of self-help is carried on, that we think can be found anywhere in the world. The site of a Pleasure Resort could not be better chosen, and the Negroes of the Midwest, especially of Chicago and Michigan, have taken full advantage of their ownership of Idlewild.

We are enlightened, inspired, and refreshed; and this can be had by anyone owning an automobile, and having friends to board with, at a cost, for two people, of less than a hundred dollars.

GUEST EDITORIAL . . .

Within the past few years, many of the alert and more progressive companies have discovered that there is a real financial field in the Negro market, and they are giving it serious study.

Many of these companies that are seeking Colored patronage, are advertising their products in the Negro press, and are employing Colored representatives to promote the sale of their products in this market.

The amount of advertising these companies spend in the Negro press, and the number of Colored employees on their payrolls, depends solely upon how well you and I support our own newspapers, and their advertised products.

In a recent article, this column pointed out that the Colored people in this country were pending over $240,000,000 a year for liquor, wine and beer, and that the Colored race was not getting the full benefit of this huge purchasing power. They were buying brands of those companies who made no special appeal for Colored patronage.

Some years ago, a survey was made of the liquor stores, bars and grills in Harlem. It was found that certain brands, such as Royal Box Gin, Gold Cup Whiskey, and White Horse Scotch, were the best sellers. Since that time, the Schenley Products Company and the Calvert Corporation have come into the Colored market. Both these companies advertise their products in the Colored newspapers, and the Calvert Corporation has appointed Mr. E. Simpson as their National Negro Representative.

In a recent survey of the liquor stores, bars and grills in Harlem, it was found that the best sellers were those brands that advertised in the Colored newspapers. This shows that the people in Harlem have awakened to the fact that they must support their newspapers, and buy only their advertised products, if they are to create new employment for the race.

Since the appearance of my first article on "Liquor, Wines and Beer", another liquor company has come into this market. The Hiram Walker Company has appointed a Colored representative, and they are planning an extensive advertising and promotional campaign for the Negro market. Also the Calvert Corporation has added another Colored representative to its staff. Mr. Jesse Owens, famous Olympic Champion, will promote sales for this company, in Ohio.

When Colored consumers in other sections throughout the country, give their full support to the advertised products in their own newspapers, they, too, will open up new employment opportunities for the race, in their communities.

Tuskegee-'Force Game to Go Under Arcs

CHICAGO, Sept. 8. (ANP)—The Tuskegee-Wilberforce gridiron feud is on again. The game will be at Soldier's Field in Chicago the evening of October 14. Deserting tradition the game will be played at night this year under the glare of the same calcium lights which saw the All-Star-Washington Redskin struggle last week.

Night football has proven so successful in Chicago this season, with the practically ideal conditions which Soldier's Field offers, that the promoters feel confident of one of the largest crowds which has ever seen the north-south struggle. The two teams are expected to arrive in Chicago about ten days before the game for practice under local conditions.

Fletcher Henderson and his band will be in Detroit at the Graystone ballroom for two days next month . . Erskine Hawkins and his orchestra, whom you have been hearing from the Savoy ballroom over the NBC network, will begin a tour soon.

My Garden of Friendship

By Ethel Coleman Garner, 1938.

There's a growing garden of friendship,
Planted deep in my heart I know,
Some day I hope to transplant it,
Into the Earth so you can also watch it grow.

It consists of old and new friends,
Oh! so many of them;
And most every day I add a new one,
I don't think it will ever end.

And each morning when first I awake,
To thank God for all of them.
Do you know He brings to my memory!
So many kind deeds of my friends.

Now there's a deal little lady.
She's not very old I'd say,
But so many nice things, not only for me,
She's done in so many ways.
(Mother Bass)

She's never too busy to listen,
To any ambitious person today.
She's always willing to help them.
In many, many ways.
(Rev. Russell)

Then there's a very young man,
An inspiration to every one he meets.
He makes you stop and wonder,
If you haven't been asleep.

And there are my dear forget-me-not friends.
Those who cheer me when I'm sad.
And at the darkest moment,
They'll say, oh! it isn't so bad.
(Mother Pool)

Then that lovely old lady,
That said to me in her sweet way,
Don't mind moving away from your old frineds dear,
For you'll make new ones each day.

Now I must mention my new friends.
Those I haven't known very long,
But if you could see us together,
You'd think it was since I was born.

I do pity those selfish people,
Who limit their friends to a few,
And those that say they don't need any.
I wonder what they're going to do?

Have they ever stopped to realize
That old age will come on some day,
I know they say that they have money,
With which they can pay their way.

But I say to them keep their money,
For money in no way can pay,
For that understanding sincere feeling,
From a friend when all isn't so gay.

Now I'm not trying to make you jealous,
By telling you about my friends,
I'm showing you what you're missing,
If you've let your friendship garden end.

For when I plant this garden into the earth,
There's going to be a flower to represent each of my friends,
I want you to come and see it some day,
My friendship garden that will never end.

There will be violets, poppies, and daisies,
Zeanias, dahlias and marigolds too,
Geranium, Begonias, ammarillas, hyacinth,
Gardenias, roses and orchids too.

Now don't you think I'm luky?
To have so many friends,
I hope each of you will begin today,
Your friendship garden that will have no end.

"MINIATURE BALLROOM" ATTRACTS DANCERS

Fast becoming one of Southern California's most important entertainment spots, the Royal Palm Cafe, pride and joy of Long Beach (1000 Anaheim) hosted a record crowd ovre the holiday.

Much of the fashionable trade which the up-and-coming "rendezvous" enjoys comes from Los Angeles. Both a beautiful drive and excellent service await those who motor to the Long Beach Cafe. Host Owens, considered one of the state's most progressive young business-men, bubbles over with plans for the night-spot's expansion. At present enhanced by the most beautiful neon sign on Anaheim, the place soon will be embellished by garden tables and other innovations. The much-discussed "miniature-

The LAUNDRYMAN

I happened to run across a very interesting item in the magazine section of the Examiner a few weeks ago. It was about a species of tiny animal called Lemmings. It is a cross between a squirrel and a rat, I believe, and is peculiar to the country of Norway.

Anyway this animal apparently has only two objectives during its brief span of life; to breed, and to eat. They multiply very rapidly, are voracious foragers, and in most ways are as common-place as the average one of us humans. They possess one peculiar complex which is of great interest to scientists. Ever so often, when the species has increased to such an extent that their food supplies are inadequate for their number, these little animals suddenly develop a suicide complex.

In mass formation it is related, they march over hill and dale, scale mountains, swim rivers, stopping for nothing, until they reach the ocean. Once arrived there they swim boldly out to sea and keep going until they finally drown from exhaustion. A sort of mass Hari Kari that the Japs might possibly understand better than we westerners.

Shortly after reading about the Lemmings, I perused the news concerning European affairs, and remarked the feverish preparations being made for war; which, if it does take place on a major scale, may set European civilization back two thousand years. And I began to wonder whether Man, in spite of his so-called superiority, is after all much higher in the scale of intelligence than the poor Lemming.

Had a very unusual experience the other day. An old man who had borrowed ten cents from me for carfare almost two months ago, came to my house and paid me. He said that he had been there three times previously but had failed to find me at home. His old fashioned integrity touched me deeply for I had entirely forgotten the incident. In fact, he was such a perfect stranger to me that I didn't even know who he was, or what he wanted until he made himself—and his errand—known to me. But it did my heart good, to discover that there are still people in the world whose pledged word is their bond. If there were only more of us younger folks who possessed the sterling worth and integgrity of this elderly man, I believe our modern world would be a much more congenial place to live in.

Picture: "Pearls of the Crown"
Place: Grand International Players: Sacha Guitry

"Pearls of the Crown" is a French importation. It also has scenes wherein the Queen of Ethiopia is seduced by a young Italian. The love scenes between the dusky lady and her white suitor are some of the "hottest" Poppa Hayes has let by in years. On this basis alone, "Pearls of the Crown" would be interesting, anyway.

As it is, the film, in addition, also is one of the oddest, most sompelling of recent cinema outputs. Without a blush, it skips back and forth through the centuries in recounting the story of the four precious pearls which adorn the crown of England.

Written, directed, and principally acted by one Sacha Guitry, the whole affair is a tribute to his genius and versatility. Among historical characters presented throughout the picture are the Queen of Ethiopia, Napoleon Bonaparte, Catherine de Medici, Mary Stewart, Mary Tudor, Queen Elizabeth, Francis First, Pope Clement, Cardinal Woolsey, Henry the Eighth, Titian, he painter, Barras, Josephine, the Empress, George, his incumbent majesty of England, Victoria, and many others.

The picture is told in four (4, count 'em) languages: English, French, talian and Ethiopian. It is also precedent-breaking the frequent duplication of the same actor in several roles. However, the make-up is so perfect that this is hardly annoying. The best acting of the piece is performed by Guitry in his several roles—from Francis First to Barras, while many of the bits shine. Particularly the young man who portrayed Napoleon, young, thin, with dangling hair, was excellent. An outstanding performance is that of Madame Guitry who essayed her majesty of Ethiopia and Queen Elizabeth. The latter was remarkably forceful and the former certainly worth seeing (with a capital SE(X)).

Often there are places in which a bit of cutting could have been used to good advantage, but, on the whole, the film vaults centuries with an ease almost unbelievable. Although a bird's eye view of European history is of inestimable value, the uninitiated also could have a field day skipping lightly over the ages with Guitry.

Picture: "We're Going to be Rich"
Place: Tivoli
Players: Victor McLaglen, Gracie Fields, Brian Donley.

There once was a very important English comedienne who earned enough British do-re-me to turn Garbo and Gable green with envy. One day she was approached by Hollywood. They offered her so much that she decided to "jolly well hop over and look the blinin' place over." One glance and she came to the decision that the whole Hollywood area was populated by psuedomaniacs. Back to England she skipped. But so anxious was the American company to filimmortalize milady that they moved studios, actors, et al, clean across the Atlantic to do it!

"We're Going to be Rich" is the result. Miss Gracie Fields appears to great advantage, while tremendous support is given by Victor McLaglen and Brian Donlevy. The picture is sound, rousing drama concerned with the fortunes of shiftless McLaglen, always on the verge of "making millions," and his loyal wife, steadily "making the living."

Time is the rip-roaring boom days in South Africa. While McLaglen, consequent to a lusty street brawl, occupies the town bastille, Miss Field's finds work in Brian Donlevy's "joint"—biggest in Johannesburg.

Donlevy falls in love with the True Blue little woman, perceives however that she adores husband McLaglen, and cleverly patches up their separation.

Among the best scenes are those in which Victor appears in a great pugilistic encounter with "The Capetown Killer." The pompous snortings and poses of ye boxers appear like some old prints coming to life.

EUROPEAN COMMENTS

By Rudolph Dunbar for A.N.P.)

CANNES, France—ADELAIDE HALL, who seems to be endowed with perpetual freshness of youth, is now in London ascending the ladder of fame and fortune under the careful guidance of her husband, Mr. Bert Hicks, who acts as her manager and who cannot be easily outwitted. Adelaide, unfortunately, had a short run of "The Sun Never Sets," which was playing some time ago at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane, London. The show will, however, begin a provincial tour of England at the end of August. Prior to her arrival in London, Adelaide had achieved unrivalled success in "The Big Apple" Paris Cabaret, of which she was part owner.

GARLAND ANDERSON and his wife are the subject of unusual attention in London from noble and distinguished people. They are enjoying an exceptional round of social engagements. They are personal friends of Lady Simon, wife of the Chancellor of the Exchequer of England. Garland Anderson was recently at a gala party given at the overseas Club in honor of the Maharajah of Kapurthala and Princess Duleepsingh.

ALTHOUGH I am on the Riviera, news has reached me that quite a number of American Negro scholars are visiting London. For example, there is Reed Peggram, Fellowship Scholar from Harvard University and, on my way through Paris, I was informed that Langston Hughes was just about to go to London. Then there was Mr. Aden from the Art Department of Howard University. There are several others about whom I have no space to write at present. If they make the right contacts, they will serve a useful purpose in breaking down some of the prejudice against our race. I am sorry that I am not in London to be of service to these distinguished scholars.

I HAD a most delightful afternoon with the Robesons recently and they informed me that Paul junior, who is studying the piano, shows signs of creative ability. It is quite likely that he may turn out to be a composer despite the fact that, at the moment, he has intentions of becoming an engineer. Paul senior has a stupendous program for the near future. He will probably visit America in October, chiefly for the purpose of taking to London Dr. Dubois' play "Haiti." If such a scheme materializes, it is sufficient to predict a phenominal success for the run of this play in London, because the name of Paul Robeson has a tremendous box-office appeal in England.

THE BRITISH BROADCASTING CORPORATION is mindful of the potentialities of the American Negro collectively and individually. For example, the Corporation expressed poignant grief at the tragic death of Mr. Weldon Johnston. On the day prior to my departure from London I was speaking to a British Broadcasting Corporation official who informed me that he could not find words great enough to express his sympathy at the death of so great a scholar as Mr. Weldon Johnsto. He also reminded me of his famous Negro sermon "Go down, Death," which was broadcast by Alistair Cooke some time ago in a program called "The American Negro in affairs of Literature and Music." I am myself robbed of the pleasure of meeting this distinguished gentleman of our race, pleasure which I had hoped to have when I visited America in October.

FOOTLIGHT FLICKERS

(By Al Moses for A.N.P.)

NEW YORK—PAUL ROBESON, one of the world's outstanding actors, has been recently starred in two motion pictures. His work as a concert singer and picture star is on a parity with his prowess as an all around athlete while matriculating at Rutgers college. Next week, Harlemites will get a chance to view this truly great performer when his picture . . . "Dark Sands" will be on dispaly. Paul plays the role of sergeant in the American army who has been falsely accused of murder. He manages to escape to Egypt and as the picture goes along, becomes a powerful sheik. His incomparable voice is heard to great advantage throughout the stirring drama.

JIMMY MARSHALL, manager of the popular Apollo theatre, uncovered a splendid singer last week in the person of . . . LORENZA ROBERSON.

Blessed with a winning stage personality, Lorenza captivated the audience we've often referred to . . . as the most difficult to please in greater New York. In his rendition of "Chloe" for a moment we thought we were listening to . . . GEORGE DEWEY WASHINGTON, which is praise enough for a newcomer.

LUIS RUSSELL, for years one of the leaders in the orchestral field, was back with us once more last week and that meant . . . "SONNY WOODS," singer with the "golden voice," and "Red" Allen, also appearing on the bill. No matter whether Sonny appears at Broadway's famous Paramount theatre or before wildly cheering local audiences the verdict is just the same. They'll take WOODS against the field when it comes to sweet crooning.

To Suspend 'Run, Little Chillun' September 19-23

Owing to prior committments of the Carlyle Scott Federal Music Project singers, currently heard in "Run, Little Chillun," to appear in "Gettysburg," George Gerwing, director of Federal Theatre Projects for Southern California, announced this week that the Negro folk play by Hall Johnson will be suspended from September 19 to 23, inclusive.

A gala reopening of the sensational drama that has proved to be the greatest box office attraction ever offered by Federal Theatres, is planned for Saturday, September 23.

Nina Mae McKinney Here for All-Colored Cast Film

The old adage that "the third times's the charm" worked out well for the perserving fujends, reporters, cameramen, and Million Dollar Studio officials who last Saturday morning welcomed in Nina Mae McKinney famous movie star after two previous attempts. A large crowd awaited her on the Sunday morning previous to her arival, and she was looked for again in vain on Thursday but when they cheerfully tried again at 8:30 A. M. Saturday they were rewarded by seeing her pretty smiling face framed in the door-way of the U. P. train from Chicago.

Tommy Tom, crack young Chinese photographer, who had remained up after sun for the occasion after filming the start of the Transatlantic plane race from United Airport led the race among several photographers who sprinted up to get the first shot. While flashlight bulbs were popping, the glamorous celebrity, trim of form and beautiful of feature alighted among the welcoming throng. Dressed in the latest traveling costume, with a wide black hat, and two long expensive fox furs completing the picture, she was the cynosure of all eyes, both of colored and whites.

Among those who formed the welcoming party were Ralph Cooper, star of the 'Duke is Tops' and General manager of the company, who with Walter "Buck" Jones has beaten her train here after seeing her off in New York, due to a stop-over she made in Chicago. Others were Halley Harding, sales manager of Million Dollar, Lawrence Criner, and Edward Thompson contract players, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Clark, proprietors of the Clark Hotel, Eddie and Charlie Beal prominet musicians, Rena Gonzales, talented entertainer, and the Associated Negro Press representatives and others. Among the white officials and friends was Henry Spitz who is one of the directors for her first Million Dollar film, "Gang Smashers".

Shortly after her arrival she was escorted to the offices of Harry M. Popkin executive producer where contracts were signed and the preliminary steps for the debut of Miss McKinney in all-colored cast Class-A pictures was taken. As an interesting sidelight, of her arrival Rev. S. M. Beane, brilliant, popular minister was photographed giving the star a welcoming hand to the city.

'Jitterbugs' to Take Over Gilmore

Heralded as a colorful prelude to the national American Legion convention which opens next week in Los Angeles, scores of Hollywood's ranking motion picture stars will join with thousands of "jitterbugs" from all parts of Southern California in a gigantic "Swingeree Under the Skies" at Gilmore Stadium next Sunday afternoon and evening.

Staged under Legion auspices for the purpose of raising funds with which to entertain uniformed Legion bands and drill teams during the national convention, the Gilmore Stadium "Swingeree Under the Skies" is the only event of its kind being given with official sanction of the Legionnaires, it was announced by John R. Quinn, past national commander of the Legion, who will act as master of ceremonies.

Commander Quinn said that a group of professional promoters are endeavoring to stage several similar events under the misrepresentation that they have Legion support. He asked that the public support only the Gilmore Stadium event in order that the proceeds will go toward Legion benefits, rather than into the pockets of private promoters.

DOWN IN FRONT

By ALMENA DAVIS

JAMES (Slick) STOCKS, for nigh on ten years kingpin of Pacific Coast tennis, was fighting more than the tall, slim youth, Jimmy McDaniels, last Monday when he lost the championship. Someone in the bleachers said, amidst appreciative guffaws, that he fought youth and speed and was beaten by them. Some said he was weighted down by age, he's 29 years old, and was bitten in the back by that. But to me, Jimmy McDaniels' youth was a comparatively small factor with which to be reckoned in his defeat of Stocks. Nor was he better than the "old master". However, those that sensed that Stocks had more than one competitor on the opposite side of the net were right. He had. He had the whole gallery and sidelines of peanut-eating, wise-cracking, gum-chewing fans.

God help a champion, especially in America, and especially in the clutches of the Negro public. This country and "your people" have not the proper respect for them. Of course, that doubtless comes of being a democracy and we pride ourselves on this contempt of dynasties. Why should we cherish the blue-blood of top-calibre-anything in this country where every sniveling brat that's born, provided he's the right color, has an equal chance to be president, where the mixture of green-backs with common red blood gives blue blood and consequent aristocracy.

I couldn't help thinking of the out-worn simile "crab-like" in observing the attitude of the fans as Stocks and McDaniels fought it out, man to man, racquet to racquet. The crowd seemed to have an uncanny faculty for applauding at the wrong time. Seeking the reactions of these sports enthusiasts, I got up and walked about. I got the reaction, all right, and it was anything but sporting.

One gentleman, sitting, in the capacity of base-line referee, in earshot of the players, would rear back in his chair whenever McDaniels got an advantage over Stocks and gloat.

"I wonder what excuse Stocks will have for that one," he said on one occasion. The speaker was probably one of those who had tasted the sting of Slick's gut—and guts— on numerous occasions and was getting a vicarious satisfaction out of McDaniels' victory.

Twice when the ball hit the net, then miraculously bounced over, a break for McDaniels, the crowd roared as heartily as had the youth won the point by sheer merit, instead of luck.

I paused in my hapless search for a bit of true sportsmanship behind three women, who seemed possibly the most enthusiastic of the rooters.

"Oooo," one of them squealed. "I do so want that young boy to win. He needs a break."

Another, this time a man whom Stocks doubtless had trounced, said "Stocks has held the championship long enough. He ought-ta let someone else win."

All of it is, to say the least, damn-fool logic. Why should McDaniels have won for either of the seasons given, because he is young or needs a break? — or because Stocks has more trophies than he has mantlepieces on which to display them — or because Stocks might have a swell-head and need taking down a button-hole or two, or because he is "old" and has had his share of the spotlight!

McDaniels won and should have won, for only one reason, because he played better tennis. And better tennis that is based, not on youth, though that is often the case, better tennis based on better strokes, better form, a better-back-hand and the good fortune of having an excellent fore-hand on a southpaw, which spells a fit for any man.

I doubt sincerely if his own age or McDaniels' youth licked Slick Stocks. He had taken the measure of a boy, younger than McDaniels, earlier that day. He had smashed his way through a doubles victory over McDaniels and his older brother also that same day. He came back a scant half hour after going three sets with McDaniels, and with Paul Ford, washed "Schoolboy" Mitchell and Dick Dempsey, both younger, from the court. Through it all, he bounced, leaped, kicked and did everything imaginable with one of the most agile bodies I have ever seen outside of Tanya, the Bone-less Brown Beauty of acrobatic fame.

I made one mistake in the course of this article. I said my search for one good sport was luckless. It wasn't. There was one, Slick Stocks. He played with composure in earshot of the most offensive type of gloating. He put all he had into it, even to the point-set. Innumerable times I saw him pause and shake his head in absolute admiration of his competitor's strokes, calling, "too good, boy" or "that's a beauty, Jim".

I don't mean to say McDaniels wasn't a good sport. He probably would have done as Stocks did, had he been in that position. Champions are usually tops all the way through. But he wasn't tempted to be a bad sport and bat some loud-mouthed ninny over the head. The crowd was with him and above all, he had the assurance that his game had at last become better than Stocks'.

Anyway, don't get me wrong—too wrong. I wanted Jimmy to win. I picked him to win many weeks before the matches were played. For proof, I refer you to me Emuel Collins, one of those who aspired and perspired in vain. Impartiality is impossible in sports, in life, in fact, and it's undesirable. Yes, I rooted in the silent recesses of my soul for Jimmy. He's a Los Angeles boy and Stocks is a Pasadena product. That's natural. But I wanted him to win by himself and to fight by himself. Because I know that the same crowd that was cheering him on to the top will be dragging him back to the bottom again if he stays up there too long.

JIMMY McDANIELS TOPS STOCKS TO WIN PACIFIC COAST SINGLES TITLE

The king is dead. Long live the king!

At the close of three grinding sets of tennis, a new king of the Pacific Coast was crowned on Labor afternoon at Griffith Park. The new ruler, who hugged the beautiful, bronze Bill Robinson trophy triumphantly to his breast, was Jimmy McDaniels, a Los Angeles boy, playing under the Ross Snyder club banner, and bearer of the winning standard to his home town for the first time in nearly ten years. The vanquished ruler was James (Slick) Stocks of Pasadena, champion for nine summers.

A record crowd, for Southern California on a holiday, witnessed the 17th annual Pacific Coast Tennis tournament, commencing on Saturday and closing with the dust of Labor Day declared by all the most successful affair in the history of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs, under whose auspices the tournament was held.

Much the same players who have dominated West Coast tennis for the past five years were on hand, and with the exception of Stocks, finished in the accustomed order. There was, however, an entry of approximately 60, topping all previous tournaments.

In the second round Slick met Jackie Robinson, brother of Mack Robinson, famed Olympic runner. Robinson rallied after dropping the first set 6-0 and drove Stocks to a 7-5 win. Dick Dempsey of Oakland, a veteran of many tennis wars, met his nemesis in the third round, going 6-2 6-0 to defeat.

Semi-finalist in Stocks' bracket was Harold (Schoolboy) Mitchell, Oakland's pride and joy, boomed for two years now as the probable Waterloo of the El Centro school teacher. Mitchell had progressed to the semi-final round over stiffer competition than either Stocks or McDaniels had encountered. In the first round he took the measure of Edgar Foley of the Ross Snyder club, 6-0, 6-3. In the second he defeated Paul Ford, formerly of Pasadena, now of San Francisco, 6-1, 6-2. The next victim and a difficult one, was Bill Deane, former number one man on the Ross Snyder courts, score 6-3, 6-4. At that point Stocks stepped in and blasted the hopes of the Northern youth, 6-3, 6-0.

Mitchell, perhaps the youngest of the current crop of men players, being barely out of his teens, put up a gallant fight to stop Slicks' almost infallible march. He played brilliant tennis, characterized by artistic form, falling short of the perfection of Jimmy McDaniels' strokes in his erraticism. Brilliant in all quarters, his net game is perhaps better than the new champion's. An all-around athlete he is a student at the University of California at Berkeley, fresh from tennis, track, and basketball triumphs at San Francisco Jaysee.

NO TROUBLE

McDaniels' progress to the finals was never seriously impeded. Drawing a bye in the first round, he met his elder brother, Al, no match for him, result, 6-2, 6-1. Lionel Wilson, San Francisco stylist, was his third opponent, 6-3, 6-1, n Harold Wildy he found a real warm-up for Stocks. Wildy of San Francisco, put up a gallant fight in the finals against Stocks last year, and was playing in almost better form this year. After two troublesome sets, Wildy bowed to McDaniels, 6-4, 6-2.

Attendance at the three day series of matches reached a peak Monday afternoon as the two finalists, one a reddish brown youth of 22, modestly confident, and the other a fat, stubby man, with keen features and the same modest confidence, took their places on the opposite side of the net. Bob Fisher was referee.

McDaniels took the first set with as much ease as anyone could experience facing James Stocks. The second wore on to an 8-6 finish with both players fighting valiantly for a two-game lead. The third was as closely contested, ending 6-3.

Those who have followed James Stocks through the years he has led Pacific Coast tennis were of divers opinion as to the calibre of his game. Some claimed it was as good as usual, while others said he was off form. John Henderson, chairman of the Tournament committee, said after the first set was taken by McDaniels, that Stocks had lost his first finals set in six years.

A champion certainly never went down fighting harder than Stocks and no new champion more difficult route than did young Jim. Deep base-line drives were the order of the day, with McDaniels concentrating on the corner just beyond Stocks' back-hand. Almost invariably this was the source of his points, a fairly easy source for him as he is a south-paw. Both players' composure and concentration on the game were perfect. They were well aware of each other's deficiencies and with deadly precision aimed for them. McDaniels' over-hand smash is his sore point, almost to non-existence. Instead of smashing he lets the ball drop to the side. Several times Stocks attempted to fox him into smashing, but to little avail.

On the other hand the former champion has a penchant for over-hand smashes. Although he is well nigh perfect on those shots they almost proved his undoing, as McDaniels', an excellent lobber, fed high lobs to Slick until the erstwhile champion was worn down or thrown off balance retrieving them.

WINS DOUBLES

Scarcely a half-hour after he had played the three grueling sets that lost him his long-held championship, Stocks was back on the court with Paul Ford, his boyhood chum and unfailing doubles partner, facing Schoolboy Mitchell and Dick Dempsey in the finals of the men's doubles.

As per usual that event was highly contested. Stocks and Ford, last year's champions drew a bye in the first round, eliminated Emuel Collins and H. Dillon in the second round, Edward Toppins and Lionel Wilson of the North in the third round and trounced Dempsey and Mitchell, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5.

Dempsey and Mitchell had been surprise winners over the McDaniels boys in the third round, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, after defeating Lefty Johnson and Colquit Fisher, last year's runner-ups, in what was really the most interesting doubles match of the tournament, on Sunday.

Dempsey, a newly-wed, was playing in better form than in several years of tennis competition. His serving, if a bit erratic, was brilliant and his ground strokes and net play the same. Lack of a steadying force, as both are erratic, more than anything else defeated him and his partner.

TO START IN CHARITY GAME

One of the greatest backs ever developed, Ozzie Simmons, who set Big Ten gridirons afire while attending Iowa University, will be one of the starters when the Colored All-Stars play the Chicago Bears in a charity game at Soldiers Field, Chicago, the night of September 23. Bernie Bierman, Minnesota coach, once described Simmons as the "best defensive back I have seen in 15 years of football" and said "with Minnesota's line in front of him, Ozzie could run from coast to coast." Many others described him as even "greater that Red Grange." The Bears are reconciling themselves to a trouble-some night when they meet Simmons and the All-Stars.

Juliette Harris Tramples Women Netters of Coast

"They don't come back" is one corny expression that meant nothing to Juliette Harris, holder, for six consecutive years, of the Pacific Coast women's singles title, as she shuffled about the Griffith Park Courts last Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day in pursuit of her championship, lost by accident, two years ago.

"She always comes back" is what observers began to say about Juliette last July when she won the Southern California title at Pasadena. When she culminated this past week-end's activity, vanquishing Gwendolyn Roberson, defending champion, the old axioms about dead-and-done-for-champions were flung on the scrap-heap.

Playing a return engagement, one might say, of the duel that resulted in Miss Roberson's victory at Oakland last year, Miss Harris emerged top o'the heap on Labor Dayw, score 6-2, 6-2. Frankly, the match was as dull as tennis ever can be, the only glamour attached to it, coming out of the remote possibility of a grudge between the two evenly matched women players. Both play similar games and it is just a matter of the one possessing the greatest determination emerging the victor. Mrs. Roberson made several attempts to break away from the dull, semi-lobbing tenor of play that had the spectators leaving the stands in twos and threes, but so difficult to manage is the spring to Miss Harris' drives that her safest chance lay in returning the ball in the same fashion.

A new woman champion, however, does loom, though Father Time will hold her in check for several years. She is tom-boyish Gloria (Jackie) Price. The young Miss, about fourteen years old, would give any of the women players a fit at this stage of the game and if she keeps up the good work, should make short shift of the existing femme players in a few years. She trounced Myrtle Tevoill and E. Peters in one-two order fo ra rather hollow victory. This reporter suspected she much rather would have played with the boys.

DOUBLES MORE LIVELY

The women's doubles event was a bit more inspiring, witnessing the return to tennis wars of Miss Carriebelle Scott (Deane), the first woman to take the title from the invincible Juliette. Miss Scott teamed with Mrs. Cecil Ward and vanquished Otis V. Wiggins and Mrs. Mayme Stewart, the latter of the North, in a rather interesting set, 8-6, 2-6, and 6-0.

In the first round the match between the North-South team of Miss Lulu Chapman and Miss Elyse Buie and the Ross Snyder team, Miss Roberson and Eloise Jackson, was possibly the most stirring feminine set-to of the day. The match went three sets at an even pace all the way, the gals playing with all the ferocity of tigresses, score: 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, favoring Roberson and Jackson.

A sun-down doubles match saw Mrs. Gwen Roberson and Paul Ford retain their mixed doubles title, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, defeating Mrs. Stewart and Wildy of the North.

Also still a winner is young Jessie Scott, brother of Carriebelle Scott, winner in the boys' division.

2 Atlantans, Detroiter Win Golf Titles

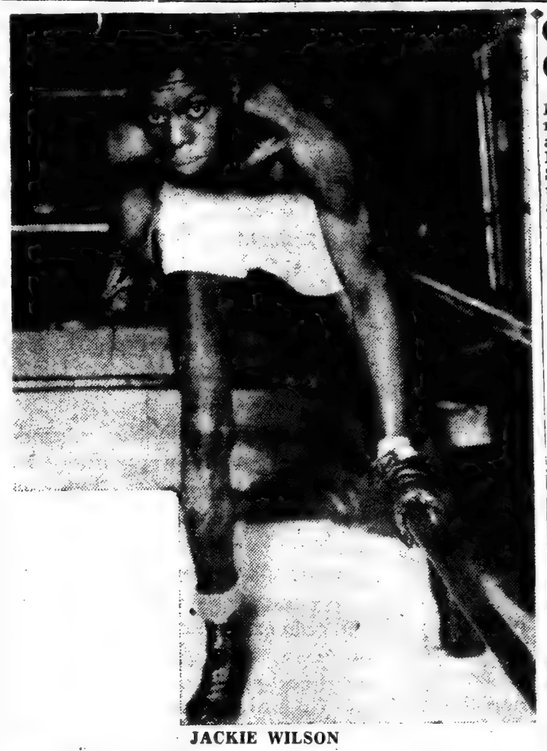
CHICAGO, Sept. 8—(A.N.P.)—Two Atlantans, Harold Wheeler and Miss Mel Moye, and a Detroiter, Dr. Remus G. Robinson, were returned champions in the 13th annual National Negro Open Golf tournament held last week at Palos park which brought 138 entries from all over the United States and Bermuda.

Wheeler, champion in 1933 and runner-up the last two years, jumped off to an early lead, carding a 68, two under par, in the opening round, then turned in a 73, 72 and 71 to total 284 for the 72 holes. He won the $200 cash first prize, a leg on one cup and three sun gold trophies Thursday. Friday, playing with friends, he established a new course record with a 65, five under par, to beat by one the old record of 66 established by Pat Ball, a member of the host organization, the Chicago Golf and Social club.

Runner-up to Wheeler in the open class was John Roux of New Orleans who carded 290 and won $120 prize money. Close behind was a fellow townsman, Ben Green, who totaled 291 with sensational play in the final 36 holes. Green cut two strokes off the par 70 course and then went around in 69.

Johnny Ivency of Asheville, N. C., defending champion, could not cope with the pace set by the leaders and was nine strokes behind Wheeler after the first 36 holes. Pat Ball, three times winner, also finished back of the leaders.

To win the ninth women's national title, Miss Moye beat Mrs. Clac Ball of Chicago, wife of Pat, three up. There were 16 women contesting for the championship.



Increased interest in Negro golf was evidenced in the many of the country. Atlanta sent a delegation of 20, and seven came from California. The 1939 tournament was awarded to Los Angeles.

Newly elected officers of the United Gold association, sponsors of the tournament, are Ralph Chilton, Chicago, president; Arthur Miller, Atlanta, first vice president; C. Ferguson, Indianapolis, second vice-president; Dr. Adams, Washington, D.C., third vice president; John Buchanan, Los Angeles, fourth vice president; A. D. V. Crosby, Atlanta, secretary, and B. Pennock, Detroit, treasurer.

JACKIE WILSON

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Jackie Wilson, 1936 Olympic Games' boxing star, made his debut in the main event class at the Olympic auditorium Tuesday night and scored an easy two-round technical knockout win over Babe Brandelli, Ocean Park gamester.

Wilson had Brandelli on the canvas six times before the towel saved him from an unnecessary beating at the hands of the lean and tall Wilson.

It was Jackie's first appearance here in about a year. He spent last year finishing his high school education. Now that he has made his debut and because it was so convincing over an opponent like Brandelli local fans are in for a siege of interesting matches with Jackie Wilson as the stellar attraction.

CROUCH TUESDAY

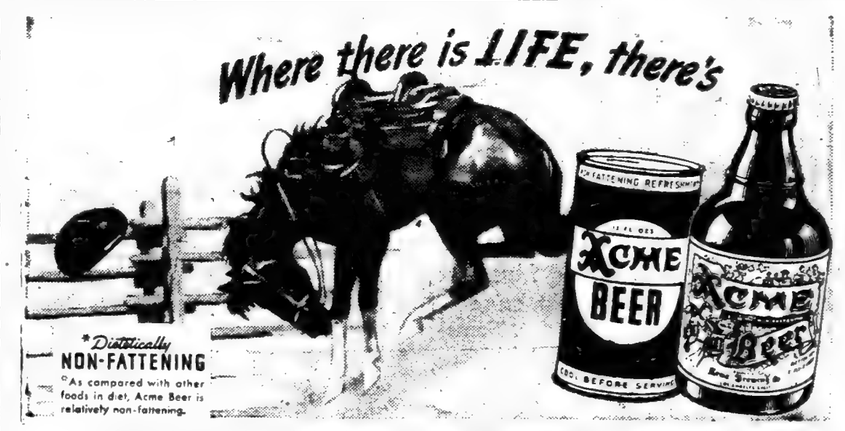
Georgie "Cobra" Crouch headlines next Tuesday's card at the downtown swatatorium, meeting Nick Peters, the Greek. Crouch, on a sensational victory spree, figures to find a lot of opposition stored in the fists of Peters.

The preliminaries found Kui Kong Young knocking out Pee Wee LaSalle, a substitue, in the second round of a scheduled 10-rounder; Jimmy McDaniels had no trouble with Joe Torres in four; Bernie Reyes and Phil Ortiz fought to a standstill; and Al Smith won the opener from Carmen Georgino.

Oakland Gets '39 Coast Net Meet

The Challengers club of Oakland was awarded the 18th annual Pacific Coast Tournament after a meeting of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs last Sunday night. The tournament will be held September 4th, 5th and Labor Day, possibly on or near the site of the World's Fair, it was announced.

Under auspices of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs, sanctioned by the American Tennis association and hosted by the Ross Snyder club of this city, hte 17th annual tournament was held here at Griffith Park last Saturday, Sunday and Monday.



Racquet Star to Attend Xavier

Jimmy McDaniels, newly crowned king of West Coast tennis, will attend Xavier University in New Orleans, La., on a scholarship, it was learned here this week.

Arrangements were made for the young athlete who will take a general coaching course an "go out" for the basketball and tennis teams by Ralph Metcalfe, track coach at Xavier, who is studying at the University of Southern California here on a year's leave of absence.

Editorial Comment

NO. 1 SPOT

The only thing that can make banner-lines in the news these days is Communism, and in case of a lull, war is brought to the fore to furnish excitement to an already restless people.

As we write, war holds spot No. 1 in the news, while spotlight seekers are forced to the rear to wave their scarecrow of Communism.

England, France, Germany and Italy are massing troops, making faces through the fence, while the peace-loving sit and wonder, sit and think "What shall we do to be saved?"

Some condition prevailed in the case of poor, little, peaceful Ethiopia. They looked to England and France who met, debated, and watched the Italian butcher dance in ghoulish glee around women and babies wounded by war machines, and dying from the fumes of poison gas.

Their skins were swarthy and why should we, England and France, halt a war of conquest or seek to avert the white man's greed for gold and empire, when black, brown or yellow are victims.

The League of Nations stalled and the Italian murderer marched triumphantly to victory as he shook his fist in the face of his pretended opposers.

The tables have been turned. White hides are being slated for the tan-yard. If Hitler and Mussolini get away with this latest crusade, England and France are next. Something has to be done, these blood-thirsty monsters must be stopped. Hence debating and stalling have been cast into the trash can. Guns, planes, gas and what have you are called into play. Men, young men, the flower of manhood, have been massed on all fronts waiting the call for a thing that doubtless could have been averted had England and France taken a brave bold stand in the case of defenseless Ethiopia.

All is peaceful in America, but we fear not long. Uncle Sam is dipping here and there; talking when he should only be a good listener, but keeping his powder dry for defense against all intruders.

We paid enough in blood, tears, and dollars to have learned to mind our own business. Protect America and Americans, and let the fellows on the other side of the lake furnish the money, blood and suffering in ironing out their differences.

We protest against war and the only way to keep out is a closed mouth. Let's stay in our own backyard, and—let 'em fight.

STAY WITH THE SHIP

The primaries are over. The voters of the several parties have already spoken as to whom they desire to carry their respective party banners. Because the candidate preferred failed to be nominated, poor sportsmanship is revealed if we turn our guns on the choice of the majority. Such procedure is un-American, un-democratic and would place government by majority into the hands of a dictator. It's not what we like but what the majority of our party wants.

Republican comeback depends upon the loyalty of party members. Without that, the G. O. P. just as well throw up the sponge.

Conditions in the parties, as the home, oftimes arise wherein this or that is unsatisfactory and meets stern condemnation. We fight it out as a family and woe be unto he who horns in and tries to sever those sacred ties!

THE RECALL

It's not many days until we'll be marching to the polls to say "Yes" or "No" as to whether Frank L. Shaw shall be retained as Mayor of Los Angeles.

City or community misunderstandings are the worst things that could possibly happen. Such fights retard progress, hinder growth, and breed an enmity that oftimes takes generations to stamp out.

We cannot see where Los Angeles can gain or keep apace with the fine business strides we are now making by changing to a government that will take at least a year to reshape and get underway.

Judge Bowron, who opposes Mayor Shaw, is a high-type American—fair in his personal dealings and a jurist that is an honor to the legal profession and the county which he serves.

No one questions Judge Bowron's ability to administer the affairs of Los Angeles, but we feel at this time to change in the middle of an administration because of dissatisfaction of a few, would be unfair not only to the city, but also to Judge Bowron.

We want every man and woman to go to the polls on the 16th and vote his or her sentiments. And when it's over, let's all join hands, bury the hatchet, and forward march to build a greater and better Los Angeles!

REMARKABLE THUMB-STICKING

The thumb-sticking in which the Mexican government has been indulging recently in the general direction of the United States Department of State is remarkable. We have the ridiculous situation of a great and powerful nation being summarily spanked by a "weak sister". American property in Mexico has been confiscated; the United States has protested. The United States has demanded payment for seized property. The Mexican government has said, "Go chase yourself".

Here we see one of the prime weaknesses of a democracy as practiced today. In Europe, all-powerful France and England have allowed financially unstable Italy and Germany to conquer nations, hurl epithets at themselves, their women, their government and anything else. Strong America has permitted little Mexico to place her foot firmly in its rear mid-section. Would Mexico have dared if we were Italy—or Germany?

LABOR DAY

Gradually organized, labor is waking up to the fact that nothing is to be gained by eliminating the colored brother. It was a colorful sight Monday when 75,000 sons of toil paraded the streets, and more black faces were seen in line than ever before in history.

Organized labor is going places now and we're for 'em when they cast aside the word "race" and insert "ability"!

THE BUNGLING HUNTER EXPLAINS

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

RELIEF PRODUCERS

Production for use on a large scale is going forward in California among the unemployed, but it hasn't made California self-supporting. Between April 8, 1935 and June 30, 1938, it required some $558 million in Federal funds to hold up California's emergency relief activities, despite a production for use program. Though the latter, in practice, hasn't ushered in Utopia, within the field where it has been applied it has served a good purpose. In Los Angeles and San Francisco, sewing projects have been making clothes for relief families. Produce gardens in Los Angeles, employing several thousand workers, have helped reliefers and diminished relief costs. And now approval has been given a plan whereby other relief workers will can the produce of these gardens for consumption by relief clients, achieving a saving of $250,000 monthly. Production for use has far from proved widely practicable, but here it has helped save taxpayers' money.

"TOO YOUNG TO DIE"

To the disheartened and weary-spirited the story of Thomas Lloyd, 35-year old electrician, should bring a reminder that to those far less fortunate than they, life is tremendously worthwhile. Eight months ago doctors gave this Akron, Ohio, man two years to live. A victim of an extremely rare disease, his bones are slowly dissolving. Buoyed up by the prayers of his wife and three sons, he voices only scorn today for his scheduled date with death, now, according to doctors' predictions, less than a year and a half away. "I'm going to be late for that little date," he affirms. "I'm going to be plenty late. I'm too young to die." And because he is otherwise the picture of perfect health, Lloyd is confident he can avoid that cheerless rendezvous. Such firm resolves have defied the prophecies of medical science before this when the imminent specter of death proved, beyond all doubt, that life was tremendously worth fighting for.

NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS

There's no place like home to native Californians. Recently completed Chamber of Commerce reports tell us that of native-born Californians, all but 8.3 per cent are living in this State! But their enthusiasm is naturally shared by so many others that the native sons and daughters are a minority. Only 44 per cent of San Francisco's population is native-born, and the proportion in Los Angeles is only 20 per cent. All this indicates that to natives of other states there's no place like California.

NEW UNIVERSE

Man's conquest of naw worlds advances unabated. On two fronts his triumphs have been recorded withi the week. Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard Observatory, announced the discovery of an immense new star-cluster some 300,000 light years distant, wile in Berlin two young scientists made visible to human eyes a vast, new universe — not in the star cities of the heavens — but in the tissues of the human body. With a super-microscope, using electrons instead of light rays, they have achieved a magnification of 100,000 times. Because electrons are millions of times shorter than the smallest wave length of light, they reveal the structure of plant and body tissue with infinitely more detail than light. Here may be found clues to the nature of viruses which burden man with physical ills and of the bacteria which lay waste to his crops. This vast universe which the electron-microscope has revealed is well worth exploring for the enemies — and friends — of man that may be hidden within it!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mrs. C. A. Bass,
California Eagle Publishing Co.
Los Angeles, California.
Dear Editor:

This letter comes to inform you of the whole-hearted support of this organization for your militant efforts to have placed in the curriculum of California schols courses in Negro history.

The late Dr. James Weldon Johnson, who served so efficiently as chairman of our Advisory Council before his very tragic and untimely death, had said that a great need of the race was a truthful portrayal and adequate knowledge of the activities of the Negro population of the United States.

This organization has as its fundamental purpose the creation of an interest in journalism, through which medium we are hopeful of making the world conscious of the Negro as a dominant social force.

We are in complete accord with your movement and if we can, in any way, be of service to you, we welcome the opportunity.

Respectfully yours,
V. Trenton Tubbs, Jr.

NOT IF WE KNOW IT

My dear Mrs. Bass:

Is it true that you are giving up your business. If so, I should like to know so I can make arrangements for the printing of the Daily Thoughts magazine.

You have handled our magazine since February and we have been well pleased. We sincerely thank you for the interest and courtesy in which you have handled our work.

If it is true that you are closing your business, we want you to know that you will be greatly missed. Take with you our loving thoughts and blessings for your continued success.

Sincerely yours

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Is it true, the report that was in the Sentinel saying that the California Eagle had been sold? I can hardly believe that after all these years of hard work and sacrifice you have put into making your paper what it is today, that you would sell it without letting the public know.

I have heard various comments on this subject and remarks to the effect that if you are going to give up the Eagle certain people would stop their subscription.

I have always had an interest in the California Eagle and enjoy reading it and would hate to hear you had really given it up. If you need a rest, take a vacation for a while. You have run the Eagle so long and so well it would not be the same without you.

Think of the people you have helped both young and old, and in so many ways I have not time to numerate them.

Hoping to hear or see a denial in the next issue of your paper. I am

Sincerely yours.
EVA N. HOLDEN

APPRECIATION

My dear Mrs. Bass:

I certainly appreciate your giving me a space in the paper for my write up. I am hoping you will have all the success that life has in store for you and that you may spend many more happy and useful days here on earth.

Sincerely.
MR. and MRS. JUDSON PAYNE

TO MUCH NEGRO

Dear Editor:

Congratulations on the achievements of your radio hour. We listen every evening and enjoy the program very much. It is a pleasure to listen to the different guest speakers and we love to hear your educational talks.

However, there is one point I should like to call to your attention. When your announcer says "for the Negro population of Los Angeles" it sounds rather narrow. To succeed we have to be broadminded and leave this fine educational program for all who care to listen as I am sure it is beneficial to all. In the beginning he says the California Eagle Negro Newspaper of the Air" and that is enough to let everyone know it is a Negro program.

A friend.

SURPRISED AT LOYALTY

Dear Editor:

While at the court, I picked up your paper in Dept. 31 and was astonished in your editorial and because Mayor Shaw, as you thought, had favored you people you are advising your readers to stand behind him. The Shaw click nearly put an end to Harry Raymond with a bomb when he started his car.

Is that the kind of Mayor you believe in? If you feel he has favored you people, why can't the new one do the same and you can have a more clear conscience to back up an honorable judge.

The First Methodist Church here is strongly in favor of the recall and I have often heard splendid singing choirs at our church by the colored people and we have helped the colored people along with money on their churches. Dr. Roy Smith is one of your best friends and we hope you will do your best to favor the recall of the Mayor. You will find Fletcher Bowron an honorable man and will give you people all the favors you are entitled too.

Hoping your next issue will come out favorable to him.

Yours very truly.

THE GENERAL HOSPITAL

An open letter:

In your last two editions, I have read the articles written by Miss Chrystalee Maxwell and Mrs. Mildred Suggs regarding Miss Maxellw's statement that she does not see "much opportunity for advancement for Negro nurses at the Los Angeles County General Hospital."

In reading the article containing the above statement, I tried to be broadminded and interpret Miss Maxwell's statement with the proper thought, I felt she was endeavoring to convey to the public; but, some of her statements, questions and answers to such, and veiled insinuations, are too much, for any broadminded person who can speak with intelligence and personal knowledge, and for one who has stood and fought for the highest in nursing standards to go unchallenged.

As one, of the many, "Registered Nurses", employed at the, "General Hospital", and one amongst the first to enter the training school when opened to, "Negro Nurses", I repeat, I too take exception to her statement regarding, "Opportunities for Negro Nurses", and others she has ascertained in the columns of the "California Eagle".

With all due respect to Miss Maxwell, who has just completed her, "Nurses Training" and entered the ranks of the noblest of professions, regarding this one topic, I will have to class this young woman with, "The Laity". Her very apparent lack of information, indicated by her last article regarding the General Hospital, with its many and numerous departments, its huge in and out patient ratio, the system utilized by the, "Nursing Department," is too manifest, for her even to attempt to discuss so momentous a subject. Even one spending a few days within its portals would not be qualified to intelligently discuss this subject.

Miss Maxwell contends that, "As a citizen she has a right to her personal opinion regarding public institutions. She states, that Negro nurses are not amongst those nurses in the highest salary brackets, and that to her the sky is the limit, not to be reached by a single bound, but superior service, that there are Negro nurses content to just be in the profession alone, that she is not looking backward, and many other statements too numerous to take time and space in your very fine paper to repeat.

I agree with Miss Maxwell, that she, as every other individual citizen, does have a right to express her opinion, not only on public institutions, but also any other subject. The proper way however, is to voice it with the knowledge which comes as a result of at least, elementary fact-finding and investigation.

Now for her edification there is no such thing as, "highest salary brackets??" The salaries received by the nurses in the employ of the General Hospital, black or white, are regulated by the Civil Service Commission. There are three classifications of nurses General Duty, Head Nurses and Supervisors. All salaries received are the same according to one's classification. We obtain, and maintain, our positions thru competitive and promotional civil service examinations. I, myself, have received the three promotions granted any nurse regardless of status, as well as many other Negro nurses at this institution; which signifies three raises in salary. Each and every individual working in the "Nursing Department", is graded daily on appearance, and efficiency which record is kept by a, "Personal Office". Every six months we are given a "Civil Service Efficiency Rating," which must come up to a certain standard, if not it means instant dismissal. White nurses are being discharged daily regardless of their years in the service, while to date, not one Negro nurse has been let go, which we are very proud of so you see there is no such thing as "higher salary brackets". Sometime in her leisure moments if Miss Maxwell will visit the Hall of Records, they will gladly give her data regarding this institution and the salaries paid.

The "Registered Nurses" at the General, realize perhaps as well as Miss Maxwell, that the sky is the limit and not reached by a single bound. We have forged steadily ahead, overcoming segregation on every side, obstacles of all sorts, odds on every hand, establishing and maintaining a standard ("Superior Service she calls it) which has no parallel; with our hearts and minds looking constantly toward a higher goal (Head Nurses, Supervisors and even Superintendent) some day. Maybe there are a number of years behind some of us, yet we can look back and appreciate the trail we have blazed (in other words opportunities thru diligence we have created) in the past ten years, and advancement that has taken place amongst the Negro nurses, and look froward with anticipation and pleasure to what the next ten years holds, realizing our patience and toil has not been in vain, for as she states it is not reached in a single bound, neither was Rome built in a day. She should not for one moment allow herself to think the, "Registered Nurses", at the General Hospital are either looking backward or standing still.

True, officially we do not have Head Nurses or Supervisors yet, but daily we have Negro nurses placed over white nurses, issuing orders and so on--and vice versa; "senority", is adhered to in our work, days off and vacations, and we do have Negro nurses in every department in the hospital--again, space and time are too limited and valuable to try to educate one through the columns of this paper, as to the system employed at the General.

I would like to offer a word of advice to Miss Maxwell. Though she finished from a "General Hospital" and a very fine institution, there is no comparison between Kansas City General, a segregated hospital, and Los Angeles General Hospital, a mixed hospital and the only "White Hospital" in the United States that trains and employs Negro nurses (an opportunity itself), for the circumstances under which nurses train and work and problems arising daily with other issues are too totally different. So to this young woman I would like to say, adhere to Dr. Jefferson Fowler's advice (who interned at the same institution) and who told her in my presence before she wrote her first article, that she was in no position to discuss the General Hospital and until she was better informed to cease doing so--as her so evident ignorance regarding our hospital routine and phraseology is very pathetic.

Sometime in the near future I would be glad to arrange a visit to the General Hospital for this young lady. Hoping this open letter offers a little enlightment to Miss Maxwell. For the "Registered Nurses" employed at the General Hospital who definitely see "Opportunities for advancement for Negro Nurses" daily.

Sincerely,
LOIS E. TOWNS, R. N.

FROM THE ASSEMBLY

Dear Editor:

I take this means of expressing my gratitude to you for the fair manner in which you permitted me to convey to the people through the columns of "The California Eagle" the issues of the recent campaign in which I received the endorsement of all parties as Assemblyman from the Sixty-second District.

It was a pleasure for me to find the people of our community so united and willing to cast aside "all save those principals which make for a progressive program." I cannot help but believe that we are living in a new day and will now see the clouds of disorder disappear.

Thanks again for your cooperation and please accept my personal best wishes for your continued success in the years to come.

Very truly yours.

◆AN ITEM in yesterday's edition of a local daily reads:

"Out of a traffic jam at Jefferson avenue and Orchard St., Bill Robinson, 60, world famous Negro tap dancer, went to jail last night, and Paul Moffat, 21, center of the University of Southern California football team, went to Georgia street receiving hospital.

"Arrest of Robinson by Det. Lieuts. W. A. Gilliland and W. E. Huston probably saved him from rough handling by an angry crowd, observers of the affair reported.

"Attempt of Moffat, who lives at 3795 Menlo street, and companion, Barney Marshall, 21, manager of the USC track team, to edge their car across Jefferson avenue through the jam roused the wrath of Robinson when they came near bumping into his new sedan.

"Robinson is said to have cimbed out of his car shouting and the fight started, Moffat believing what he saw in Robinson's hand to be a blackjack.

"It was a gun, to carry which Robinson had a permit. With it he began belaboring Moffat, police said.

"The 200 pound football player stood up under the blows and belabored the black man with his fists though his own face was streaming blood."

Two statements in this article are particularly interesting, for they represent typical examples of a great journalistic code in America. Whenever an issue is interracial such editorial tactics are employed. The sentences referred to follow: "Arrest of Robinson by Det. Lieuts. W. A. Gilliland and W. E. Huston probably saved him from rough handling by an angry crowd, observers of the affair reported"; the other, "The 200 pound football player stood up under the blows and belabored the black man with his with his fists though his own streaming blood".

The "angry crowd" mentioned is standard in such stories. No matter what the provocation, a conflict between the races brings the bugaboo of an avenging mob. The statement, far from an unbiased reported fact, is a calculated appeal to race prejudice and violence. Years ago, the Hearst press attempted, through its editorial columns, to bar the presentation of a Eugene O'Neill play in which Paul Robeson married a white woman. The appeal was identical.

It was held by the New York American and Evening Journal that the presentation would certainly stir riot and probably a major revolution. Horrors of bloodshed and violence were painted. The play, it was said, should be barred for the public good. The mere fact that a courageous playwright had seen fit to dip into one of America's most vital social problems, write his findings, and present them to an intelligent public was held to be identical with inciting rebellion.

Ignoring the frantic newspaper lambasts, O'Neill's play was shown—it remains one of Broadway's greatest and most historic successes. No friction was visible at the opening or at following presentations. The "angry mob" was revealed as the product of some journalistic imagination. We feel that a similar effort is embodied in the Robinson story above quoted.

Again, there is the statement that "the 200 pound football player stood up under the blows and belabored the black man with his fists thought his own face was streaming blood". The martyr-like picture of the football hero here shown is nothing short of ridiculous. Much is made over the fact that a husky football player managed to return the assault of a man several feet shorter and generally smaller than himself. Then too, Robinson is referred to as the "black man". The words "actor", "dancer", "performer", or a host of others could have been used—in fact, would have been more appropriate. However, the important fact was not that a world-famed cinema star was in a brawl, but that he was a "black man".

This story should be greeted with a hail of protests from aggressive, fair-minded citizens of the city.

◆PIONEER SOULS blaze their paths where highways never ran. And that is as it should be, for it is to them God has given the triple blessings of ingenuity, initiative, and character. They must penetrate the fog that tends to obscure the thinking of an oncoming generation.

Some years ago the California Eagle went after the policy of the Southern California Telephone Company of refusing to hire Negroes in any department of its service. As a result of the EAGLE'S incessant bombardment, Negroes were employed. Even this signal victory, however, was regarded as only a primary step in a great employment crusade. This, we humbly believe, was real pioneering.

Today, though, we find that others have taken up the telephone fight. At first glance, this seemed a commendable procedure. Intelligent citizens, perceiving our gains, had come forward to consolidate them and aid in a greater battle.

But upon investigation, it was revealed that these newcomers, far from possessing any real desire for advancement, were merely "making a play for the limelight". They were not functioning under the principle

Rylva Easter was on Way to University

Brakeman's "Error" is Given as Reason for S. P. Train Wreck

The 20-year old daughter of William Easter, supervisor in the California State Department of Education, was one of 11 persons killed in a head-on collision of trains, occurring at 1 a. m. Tuesday morning in Imperial valley.

The Rev. A. Lively, pastor of Los Angeles' New Hope Baptist church, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Lively, were injured, as were more than two dozen Negroes among a total of 100 victims of one of the most disastrous rail accidents in California's history.

The collision occurred on a siding at Tortuga, an isolated desert water stop, eleven miles east of Niland. Authorities claimed a brakeman assertedly went beserk and threw a switch, sending the Argonaut, crack Southern Pacific train, enroute to Los Angeles from New Orleans, crashing into the California Limited, enroute to Chicago.

At least four other Los Angeles Negroes were among the injured and close to forty, including porters and waiters, were on the train.

Easter's daughter, Miss Rylva Easter aboard the Limited bound for Wilberforce University in Wilberforce, Ohio, was asleep in the chair car, directly behind the engine when the impact occurred. The car was completely demolished and the girl pinned beneath the wreckage, both legs and her back broken.

The extent of the injury of Rev. Lively and his wife had not been ascertained at press time. Believed to be suffering from back and head injuries, the couple was removed to a Yuma hospital. Mrs. Mary Hold, 1210 East Washington blvd., Los Angeles, reputedly a member of the Lively party, suffered bruisis and cuts about the face.

EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT

Two Los Angeles youths, Ossie Walton and Porter Mann, Jr., also Wilberforce-bound, were traveling companions of Miss Easter. Walton, son of Mrs. Tabtiha Walton of 1210 W. 36th street, returned to Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon and in an exclusive statement to the Eagle, told of the tragedy.

THE LATE RYLVA EASTER

Others killed: Mrs. Lulu Jordan New Orleans, La., left side, back and leg injuries, and Mrs. Ella Mitchell Shreveport, La., undetermined injuries.

"Porter and I and a colored sailor were the only Negroes in the chair car for men, directly behind that of Miss Easter. We were all asleep. I was thrown about b ythe jar, but not seriously hurt. Mann became a bit hysterical.

As soon as I could collect my wits, the sailor and I went forward to Miss Easter's aid. She was crushed in her seat, the debris mangling her legs.

"She asked us to straighten he out, to ease her discomfort. There was nothing further we could do for her.

"She asked me to hold her hand and I stayed beside her until daybreak when doctors came and removed her to another car."

TREATMENT FAILED

There, it was reported, medical treatment and hypodermics were administered. Before she reached the hospital, however, the girl died.

The complete list of injured Negroes was still unobtainable yesterday. Known to have been hurt, however, in addition to the Livelys and Mrs. Hold are:

Newspaperman Visits Eagle's Plant

Visitor in the Eagle offices at press time last night was Robert Schiele newspaperman from Natchez, Miss. Schiele arrived in the city with the Legionnaires, although he is not a "comrade", and will leave, after a pleasant stay, on Monday.

Plan Funeral Rites for Rail Victim

In charge of the local Angelus Funeral Home the body of Miss Rylva Easter daughter of William Easter, prominent figure in local educational circles, will be returned to Los Angeles possibly this afternoon or early tomorrow, to lie in state at the Mortuary until funeral services are held Monday, it was learned today.

Inquest into the tragic train crash that claimed the life of the young University student and ten others besides injuring 100 colored and white men, women and children, will be held Friday afternoon in Brawley.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. at the Hamilton M. E. church, 18th and Naomi, the Rev. S. M. Beane, pastor of the church officiating.

It is expected that school chums of Miss Easter will participate in the services. A graduate of Jefferson High School on the Eastside, she had attended Los Angeles Junior college and during the summer, the University of Southern California.

Eagle Editor's Airing Popular

Tomorrow night at eight-fifteen several thousand Angelenos will cock their ears at the family Radio, turn to Station K. G. F. J., and hear Mrs. C. A. Bass, EAGLE publisher, continue her assault on the popularity of all local editorial commentators. Mrs. Bass' sensational popularity rise— as seen through the tremendous mail received weekly from listeners—has attracted the attention of the city's outstanding radio critics. Letters, phone-calls, and telegrams of comment and commendation flood the California Eagle office weekly.

Dancing of Victim Angered Man

Witnesses Say Fatal Shooting Results When Victim, Woman Dance

The Eastside's 17th murder since January 1st, and the first in almost a month, culminated a drinking party Sunday night at 962½ East 22nd street. The victim, John Jackson, 37, of that address, died of gunshot wounds in the abdomen at Georgia Street Hospital at 1:50 P. M. after doctors had fought for two hours to save his life.

Arrested and charged with the murder was Sam Cunningham, 40-year-old painter, 962 E. 22nd street. Arrested also and held as material witnesses are Viola Anderson, Alberta Harris, and Fay Benbo, all of the 962 address.

Witnesses told detectives Washington and Steven, who found the dying man lying in a pool of blood just inside his own front door, that Miss Anderson was the cause of the argument which ended in the shooting. During the course of the evening, Jackson had danced with the young woman, the action angering Cunningham, who was slightly intoxicated.

An argument ensued, whereupon Cunningham went out returning a few minutes later with a sawed-off shot gun. Clarence Cole, 1220 E. 22nd Street and Russell Fullbright, 1227 E. Adams said they struggled with the enraged man, but to no avail, he fired one shot into Jackson's stomach.

Cunningham then left the house, went into his own home and hiding the gun under the bed, got into bed, fully clothed, where police found him.

The officers said in their report that explanations gotten out of the man were inconsistent and incoherent.

"I shot him because he tried to rape my sister," he began.

"I shot him because he tried to break into my house . . .I was protecting my mother and sister."

"I never saw him before in my life."

"I never shot anyone . . .but I'll cut his throat."

All of this he allegedly told officers in an outburst.

At the coroner's inquest he was ordered held to answer.

Material Evidence Stumps Cops This Time: "Goods" Happens to be 2 Chickens

What to do with material-evidence in the form of two chickens, their necks freshly wrung, was a problem facing Newton Street police who arrested James Whitsel, 35, 1326½ E. 27th street, Wednesday evening of last week.

Whitsel was interrupted by Mrs. Annie Lewis, housewife of 2116 Naomi avenue, while in the act of decapitating her hens. Slamming the door of the coop Mrs. Lewis called neighbors, Nathaniel Young and Louise Mosely and the three combined weights held Whitsel prisoner until the arrival of the police.

Whitsel's explanation was heartrending, out of work hungry . . .but the irate Mrs. Lewis insisted on his arrest and the dutiful cops complied.

What to do with the be-headed biddies, however, remained the question. The comlaining witness, Mrs. Lewis furnished an answer, SHE ATE 'EM!

DRIVER NOT HELD IN JAYWALKER'S DEATH

Not held responsible by investigating police was Robert E. Gnn, 52, of 680 E. 47th street, whose automobiie struck and killed aged William Smallwood, 659 E. 52nd Place, last Sunday night.

Now De Scripture Sez:

Metropolitan Life Not After Negro Business in N.Y. State

NEW YORK, Sept. 22,—The Metropolitan Life Insurance company, which has written millions of dollars of insurance upon Negroes in this country, is not soliciting any business from Negroes in New York State.

Charles G. Taylor, Jr., second vice president of the company has written the National Association for Advancement of Colored People:

"We do not solicit applications for insurance from colored persons in the state of New York, but . . .such persons may apply at any one of our district offices where they will receive fair and courteous treatment when they so apply . . .This practice has been made necessary in New York, because of the law passed at the instance of Assemblyman Stephens. This law was calculated to, and did in fact, make it impracticable for us to conduct our business as formerly in the State of New York. This situation pertains only to this state."

In a previous letter, later clarified, Mr. Taylor had written the NAACP, stating its change of policy.

Christian Recorder Editor Enters 34th Year of Service

Rev. J. H. Wilson, editor of the Western Christian Recorder, officail organ of the A. M. E. Church, entered his thirty-fourth year of service in the connection with the close of the Southern California Conference here last week.

Rev. Wilson came to California in 1905 and began his work as a presiding elder with fourteen charges under his jurisdiction which place he held until 1928. He established two annual conferences, The California Conference and the Southern California Conference, the latter in 1924 under Bishop H. B. Parks.

In 1928 he was elected editor of the Western Christian Recorder at the General Conference in Chicago and was re-elected in 1932 in Cleveland and again in 1935 in New York City. Under his efficient leadership the Western Christian Recorder has become a regular periodic of high editorial merit and the Western Christian Recorder Publishing Company a community institution. He is known for his willingness in aiding small churches and the frequent encouragement of young men in the ministry.

Topping the list of sensational Eastside legionnaire activities Sunday was the reception held at the Masonic Temple, 1050 East 50th street, under the sponsorship of the Eastside committee of the National Auxiliary of the American Legion, headed by charming Mrs. Malverna Allen.

Featured by addresses from Chief of Police James E. Davis, National Auxiliary Chairman Miss Patterson, and Mrs. C. A. Bass, EAGLE publisher, the affair attracted multitudes of visiting legionnaires and local citizenry.

Mrs. Bass held that "the next time the Negro fights for democracy, it will be a democracy for black and white alike!", while Cheif Davis officially "truned the city over to visiting legion members". He related how legion men had ordered him, Cheif of Police, from three routes he attempted in conveying National Auxiliary Chairman Miss Patterson to the meeting.

Under the efficient mistress of ceremony hand of Mrs. Buelah Wyndon, the program moved quickly and smoothly. Renditions by the Ben Bowie Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Fay Beal, were doubly effective in beauty and simplicity, observers stated. A prominent pupil of Mme. Ethel Brooks, prominent musician, rendered two vocal solos. The young man recently won a $1,200 Hearst contest prize.

Ben Bowie post drum and bugle corps and drill team thrilled audiences with both audible and visual demonstrations of coordination and exact military control. The Col. Young Post of Oakland, California contributed a colorful march, (this Post delegation also won outstanding recognition at the Colisuem Tuesday when the stadium announcer heralded the Col. Young as the greatest Negro militarist and told how his maps were employed during the World War).

Following the upstairs presentations of performers and the grand march of distinguished past auxiliary presidents, a reception was held on the ground floor of the Temple. Hostessed by leading Auxiliary ladies, the reception was highlighted by milling crowds and "delish" refreshments. Among Legion celebrities present were Mrs. Aserna Brown Pinn, of Wash., D. C., employee of the Navy Department for twelve years, who is the only known Negro woman legionnaire (not auxiliary member); Mrs. Lula Boydston, only Negro gold-star mother in Cleveland, Ohio, who is a member of the Boydston Post No. 94 in Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wormley, of Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Marguerite Knox, of San Francisco; and many others.

Cavalcade Chugs Along Avenue

Chugging along the Avenue yesterday came the cavalcade. Eight—or maybe nine—coaches of crack B. B. R. specials drawn by that fire-eating sensation of the Legion—Locomotive Robinson.

Yessir! Bill Bojangles Robinson special shot up the Avenue between Jefferson ad Vernon, at approximately three to six o'clock. Almost matching the speed of a wayward snail, the train boasted any number of legionnaires and a fellow by the name of—what is it, now? —oh yes, Bill Robinson.

Clarence Muse— A-TALKIN' TO YOU

AMUSEMENT has a MAD WEEK. LEGIONNAIRES take the city by STORM but they put a HUMAN earthquake on CENTRAL AVENUE. Day and night this calm street of the PAST is like BROADWAY during the DAYS of "FORTY-FIVE MINUTES" from BROADWAY. Gay crowds wander feverishly along the STREET OF EVENTS, laughing and shaking hands with the old PALS from "over there" and EVERYWHERE. And in the midst of all this EXCITEMENT the BEN BOWIE POST rigs up a SHOW BOAT CAFE and TENT of JOY while permanently, the OLD TIVOLI Theatre establishes the "BILL ROBINSON THEATRE". An important opening, while thousands of visitors were here to carry the STROKE OF progress back home. And what a price BILL ROBINSON had to pay for this great honor. The same day, in fact the afternoon before this GREAT event in his life, he was confronted by a BIG CRACKER FOOTBALL PLAYER and, according to eye-witnesses who saw the WHITE MAN ATTACK and HIT HIM FIRST, he is a LUCKY MAN to be outside of a hospital. He fought courageously in his OWN CAR, mind you, until he landed a SELF DEFENSE blow that saved him. Then, ever the SHOWMAN, he had his arm bandaged and CAME ON TIME to the MIDNIGHT show to greet his friends at the BAPTIZING of the "BILL ROBINSON THEATRE". Of course, to my WESTERN SELF, I call this excitement. And, of course, this is not all of the EXCITEMENT of this MAD AMUSEMENT WEEK. The "RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN" company, of which I am the "PAPPY", opens SATURDAY NIGHT for another long run, having crossed the 50,000 mark of persons who have seen this opus. Of course, the lower floor SELLS out in advance; it is always a chance to see the play, because there are 500 unreserved seats sold at the window nightly. GET THERE early and you who have BEEN TRYING to see it, MIGHT HAVE A CHANCE. And you don't know how grateful I am for your GRAND cooperation and as FAY JACKSON might say, if you ADVERTISE in colored papers and YOU MAKE the COLORED PATRONS feel that they are WANTED, they will come. Even Mr. WOLF of the LINCOLN theatre, is a regular FAN of "RUN, LITTLE CHILLUN" and agrees with FAY JACKSON. What a MAD WEEK, and what a fine PROOF that the COLORED trade is worth something. DID YOU WRITE A STUDIO THIS WEEK? You promised!

Electric Ranges Preferred, 1938 Kitchen Survey Shows

According to a report submitted to a meeting of the National Electric Manufacturers Association at Atlantic City, N. J., preference for the electric range is being shown in the present widespread kitchen modernization movement. In a recent Better Kitchen Contest conducted by Better Homes and Gardens, there were 30,000 entries. About one-half of these were for remodeled kitchens and one-third definitely for new kitchens. As indicated by a large sampling, the report shows, 46 per cent of the new kitchens installed electric ranges as compared to a 37 per cent installation of gas ranges. Furthermore, the 1938 survey of "What 10,000 Chicago Families will Buy Next", conducted by the Research Bureau of DePaul University indicates that 7½ per cent more families are planning to buy electric ranges than are going to buy gas or other ranges. Also a recent survey among employees of a large combination electric gas utility, not now promoting electric cookery, showed a majority poll for electric ranges.

Said Mr. Mangen, Chairman of the Electric Range Section: "The rapid increase in public acceptance of the electric range has been indicated in many other surveys. For example, the Ladies Home Journal interviewed 1,000 women in eleven different cities in 1936. More than 38 per cent said the next range they would buy would be electric. In 1935 another survey in a typical Michigan city disclosed that 29 per cent of the women would buy an electric range for their next range, and in a large Chicago suburb, 22 per cent of the women expressed themselves in favor of electric cookery."

A city-wide campaign is now under way to bring within the reach of each family's budget a new "blue ribbon" electric range. Over two hundred Los Angeles electric dealers, in cooperation with fifteen leading range manufacturers are feautring the one model in each of their lines that women like ebst. Called "blue ribbon models" they represent the finest in electric ranges possible to buy, and may be purchased on low EFHA terms for as little as 5 per cent down and $2.96 per month. Further information may be had by telephoning the Bureau of Power and Light--MIchigan 4211, Station 2644, or see your nearest electric dealer.

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

I am not permitted to express my political views in the Railroad Clatter, so please don't ask me to tell you the low down on the Re-call election. Brother Bowron is our next Mayor and so as good law abiding citizens, it is up to us to back him up. Mayor Shaw says he is glad to shift the burden from his shoulders and Brother Bowron says it is the will of the people that he be the man to take it and do the best he can with it. What he will do it remains to be seen, and if we wait long enough we will see. Whatever he does as a good citizen, I, for one, am with him. It's now up to the Judge.

Oblivion is full of people who permitted the opinions of other folk to overrule their belief in themselves.

Guy Houston, Veteran So. Pacific Railroad Man, Succumbs After Long Illness

One of the grandest veterans in the service of the Southern Pacific Railway passed quietly away last week after a stubborn battle to conquer a long illness which carried him back and forth from this city to San Francisco for expert medical attention from the best surgeons and physicians the Southern Pacific Hospital has on the staff. While they were able to prolong his life for a considerable time the station master from far up above the crashing rails and mile posts along the route he had traveled so often sent the last call to lay down and rest in peace. Guy Houston followed his train orders like he had done always during the 28-years of his service on the company's crack limited, "The Lark". The story of this grand veteran of the rails is a long one and requires plenty of space and black ink to give the credit that is due him as an example for younger railroad men to follow. This being the case the Clatter deems it necessary to devote next week's issue to the story of the late Guy Houston.

Mrs. Lena Daniels Returns From Oaklahoma, Bonnie Daniels All Smiles

Mrs. Lena Daniels, wife of Bonnie Daniels, arrived in L. A. this week from Oaklahoma City after a much needed vacation which she spent with her father and relatives. Mrs. Daniels was gone for about a month. She spent most of her time in Oklahoma trying to find another dog like the trained animal Bonnie had for several years. This dog used to come down to the Brotherhood office and pay Bonnie's dues. His name was "Snootsie" and could do everything but talk. I guess if Bonnie had of taught him to do that he would have had to leave home. Mrs. Daniels reports that she found no hairpins any where. Atta boy Bonnie. In next week's issue read all about Otto Johnson's Romance!

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune To Speak to Brotherhood Ladies' Auxiliary

Saturday morning will mark the congregation of all ladies' auxiliaries from coast to coast in the national convention in the headquarters fo the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters for the purpose of establishing the first National Ladies' Auxiliary to an international union organized and controlled by Negroes among the Negro people anywhere in the world. Various forms of entertainment for the delegates to the convention have been planned under the supervision of the local arrangement committee of Chicago. Mrs. Halena Wilson is president and chairman of the ladies' auxiliary in the Chicago division of the Brotherhood.

Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, director of Negro affairs of the National Youth Administration will be the principal speaker at the public mass meeting of the convention to be held at the Church of Good Shepherd. Fraternal delegates from all the Negro women's organizations in Chicago, plus those of white women in the trade union movement have been invited to attend.

The story of the development of the ladies' auxiliary, as well as that of the Brotherhood, is one of sheer courage and grit through the stormy days of oppression economic and otherwise. It traces its growth through an attitude of fear on the part of the women afraid their husband's employment may have been menaced in the process of organization, but the anti-brotherhood attitude of some of the women who were persuaded to accept the way of the union is an adventurous march of the ladies' auxiliary to the Brotherhood.

Beginning with only one auliary in New York in 1935, the Brotherhood can now pride itself upon the existence of thirty or more. A question of bread, butter and home security has been put squarely to the women of the Brotherhood in order that they may feel a definite challenge and responsibility to take hold of the ground they have covered in their fight between the Brotherhood and the Pullman company.

In the early days, parties, teasdances and various forms of entertainment were sponsored to raise funds to help the porters in their heroic attempt to build a trade union organization for their own salvation. Many times the ladies' auxiliary came to the rescue of the Brotherhood in different sections of the country.

True, all the women were not cognizant of the advisability of the organization of Pullman porters into a bona fide union, but today as the time nears for one of the first conventions of its kind, there is not one who is not convinced of the power and the strength of this unique association which fights for economic rights and the continued preservation of its membership.

RACE TRACK & Gossip

By JAY GOULD

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 22—Bill Boykin of Santa Barbara, was quite busy moving van loads of horses to Pomona, after Del Mar faded out. Mex, well known sportsman and biggie has opened a social club with over 500 charter members, minus his partner, Black Dot. Mrs. Essie Levy, widow of the late Piney Brown of Kansas City and well known thru the east, seemed to enjoy the races nite spots and shows while in California.

Tom Gordon, Tim Steen and Montgomery from the valley, made a flying trip to San Diego, sightseeing and looking-on. Hugely Bradley of Chicago, is in San Diego today and expects to visit his mother at Richmond, Ky. on his return to Chicago. Mrs. Dixie Steele and Mrs. Mickey Roman were seen daily in the club house at the Del Mar races. Kid North has gone east to buy horses for the Edgemont Stables.

The very charming Blanche Mays, formerly of Muskegan, Mich. and P. R. Price popular Douglas Hotel clerk, will middle aisle it Christmas Day. Madison Jock Glover, is giving San Diego its first "Jitter-Bug" Swingeree, Oct. 16th is the date at the Beautiful Cafe of the World in Balboa Park.

Pomona Fair fades out after 17 days of racing and Bay Meadows steps in Nov. 8, for its 25 days meet. Julian Black who is smart on all games, never signs his name to letters; he either wires calls long distance, so there is no chance for evidence.

Asks Arkansas Governor to Free Prisoners on Plantation

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 22, (ANP)—Declaring that all the prisoners working out fines on the private plantation of J. C. Cherry, white, near Parkin in Cross county were living in "virtual slavery", K. T. Sutton, white Helena attorney, filed an application Monday with Gov. Bailey for a discharge of every prisoner on the farm.

The governor ordered an immediate investigation by State police.

Sutton is the attorney who, a few weeks ago, obtained a release under an appeal bond for Tony Hicks after charging that peonage existed on the Cherry plantation. Hicks was serving out a $100 fine assessed in a justice of the peace court in St. Francis county for trespass on railroad property.

The attorney said that county judges neglected to see that the prisoners were cared for properly and that the prisoners were not given adequate food, sanitation or medical attention.

"Some prisoners are chained and others are required to work are equal to, if not worse than, the condition of slavery and serfdom during the reign of Louis 14th of France."

Attaches of the governor's office said they know of no previous applications filed in the history of the state seeking wholesale pardons for a group of prisoners.

Under state law, counties may lease prisoners to "responsible landowners" who agree to pay the fines and court costs assessed against these prisoners. The landowners work the convicts from sunup to sundown for 50 cents a day. Thus if a prisoner owes a $100 fine, he must work for 200 days for the plantation owner before he wins his freedom.

The system once prevalent throughout the South, has been outlawed in the more progressive states.

Girl, 18, Enters Law School

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (ANP)—Already the possessor of one degree obtained at the June commencement of the University of Chicago, Miss Dorothy L. Sutton, 18, has enrolled this fall in the law school of the same institution. She is one of the youngest students in that department at the university.

Besides making a reputation as a brilliant student, maintaining a B average while working for the degree received earlier this year, Miss Sutton is considered one of Chicago's most promising young poets and has contributed verse to several periodicals.

Dr. Franklin Denounces $30 Every Thursday Pension Plan

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 22,—Denouncing the "$30 every Thursday" pension plan as a sample of "the dangerous quackery of visionaries and radicals who have gained control of the Democratic party in California," Dr. Walter Scott Franklin, Republican nominee for lieutenant-governor, smashed across party lines in his keynote speech here last Thursday.

"Four years ago "Dr. Franklin told a cheering audience at the Republican State Convention, "a desperate attempt was made in California to overthrow American principles of government and establish a half-caste Socialistic-Communistic state under the personal dictation of Upton Sinclair. "And four years ago, hundreds of thousands of thinking Democrats, recognizing the proposed spurious Utopia as a threat to sound government and sound Americanism, joined hands with their traditional political adversaries to administer an overwhelming rebuke to visionary redicalism at the poll.

PANACEAS

"Today again, the issue is clearly drawn. The catch-phrase panaceas, the cure-all patent medicines offered from political platforms are different from those of four years ago. But they are no less dangerous and they are doubly insincere. Upton Sinclair was at least frakly a Socialist writer and propagandist who sought to use the Democratic party as a vehicle to ride into power with his EPIC followers.

"I am opposed to the "$30 Every Thursday' pension Plan because it is unsound and unworkable, because it would end in disaster and bring tragic disillusionment to those who have been misled into believing in it. But let me make it plain that I have every sympathy for the cause of adequate old age pensions. I am soundly convinced that the only workable solution, however, is a uniform national old age pension plan, which will protect this state from becoming the poorhouse of the nation and permit sane financing that will pay pensions in American dollars instead of imitation money of little or no value."

Plan to Stimulate Health Activities Among Students

A project to stimulate development of health activities among 40,00 students in 104 Negro colleges throughout the country will constitute a first step in the national campaign in syphilis control and social hygiene to reach an ultimate 35,000,000 young men and women, it was announced by Dr. Walter Clarke, executive director of the American Social Hygiene Association.

Action on the proposal was taken today by a committee comprising Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association; Dr. C. St. Clair Guild, field representative of the NTA; Dr. Paul B. Cornley, associate professor of preventive medicine, Howard University; and Dr. Clarke.

Dr. Cornley who has had extensive experience in Negro college health work will supervise the program from Washington. He will leave early in October for an extended field trip through Florida, Mississippi Louisiana, Texas, Missouri, Arkansas, West Virginia and Pennsylvania visiting Negro colleges and enlisting the cooperation of their officers.

FUTURE TEACHERS

Emphasizing the importance of 104 work in this field, Dr. Clarke said, "it is estimated that fully 90 per cent of all students in these 104 institutions become teachers. By grounding the students in the fundamentals of sound public health practice, we are equipping future community leaders with knowledge that is bound to enhance public health in hundreds of towns in years to come."

ADDRESSES PORTERS

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 22.—Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, Director of Negro Affairs for the National Youth Administration, will speak at the public mass meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliaries to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in Chicago, at the Church of the Good Shepherd Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Bethune is the President of Bethune-Cookman College, which is a result of a merger, at one of the schools of which, Cookman Institute in Jacksonville, Fla. A. Philip Randolph, President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, received his early training.

INDIANA GOP NAMES WOMAN TO BUREAU

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 22 (ANP)—Indicative of the hot fight which is expected in this state between Democrats and Republicans this year, is the announcement that Mrs. Grace Wilson Evans of Terre Haute, would head the Negro Bureau with headquarters in Indianapolis.

HARLEM SCHOOL TO TEACH NEGRO HISTORY

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. (CNA)—Special courses on the Negro Question, the Colonial Question and American history, stressing the role Negro people have played in the development of the United States, will be taught at the Harlem People's School this fall and winter, it was announced this week.

N. L.—Who is the party that took my purse?

Ans.—I vision this purse containing $4.25 as being taken by a tall dark man from your home Saturday. This person doesn't live in your vicinity and it is hardly likely you will ever hear of it.

J. E. W.—Should I keep the job I have or change positions?

Ans.—Continue working where you are at present as a change would only prove a setback to you. You will have an opportunity to move in the early fall. Take this move as it will profit you.

A. F.—Will my husband do better in this business he is going into than he has in the past?

Ans.—By all means encourage your husband to start this business. This will enable you both to better yourself socially and financially.

A. E. B.—Which of these two men really care for me?

Ans.—I vision the gentleman bearing the initials of A. B. as being the one for you. He is very much sincere in his affections and will make an ideal mate.

A. R. W.—Will I ever have a baby?

Ans.—The stars indicate a future marriage which will prove more successful than the first. Thru this marriage you will be blessed with motherhood. This will be a means of bringing you both closer together.

E. H.—Will you please tell me where my father is and if he is living or dead?

Ans.—Your father appears to be in the vicinity of Florida. He is working and well. You will hear from him sometime in the future when he contacts you.

M. D.—When will I meet a good companion?

Ans.—I see where you will make a trip sometime in the coming year. This trip will bring you in contact with many new people, among them will be your future mate. He will bear the initial of L. or H.

D. L. K.—What will the end of this affair with a certain party be?

Ans.—This man bearing the initials of F. M. appears to be already married, and your continued friendship with him will only cause trouble for you both. His wife is not home at present but she is returning the first of next week. I would suggest that you break off with him before then.

H. V.—Will I be able to make my trip successfully?

Ans.—This trip to New York will be postponed until the second Sunday in September. However you will be able to make it then in the company of others and will enjoy your vacation very much.

S. C.—When will this case in court be settled?

Ans.—This case already being postponed for five years will be postponed again. It would be wise of you to call it off as you are only wasting money in hopes of a settlement.

Tuskegee Tigers Drill for Saturday Opener

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala., Sept. 22.—The Golden Tigers plunged int othe second week of preparation for the LeMoyne college game which will be played in Alumni Bowl at Tuskegee, Saturday. Practice has featured vigorous body contact work, signal drills and long defensive drills against the expected aerial attack of the Yellow Jackets.

Men who have shown to advantage so far in the Tuskegee drills are Allen Scisco, end, and third place winner in the U.S. decathlon championship held at Randall Island this summer; Louis Duncan, senior, halfback, and Louis Slade, sophomore, end, and triple-threat deluxe.

The Tigers' coaching staff will undoubtedly take to the air this year with Albert Frazier shooting the ball to Scisco and Slade with his usual deadly accuracy.

Coach Abbott has also begun to eye the Wilberforce-Tuskegee annual football game, which will be played at Soldier Field, Chicago, Friday night, October 14, and is also building his attack with this game uppermost in his mind.

Youthful Photog Appointed WPA Consultant

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—Robert McNeill, honor graduate of the New York Institute of Photography, has been appointed to the position of photographic consultant in the Federal Writers' Project of the Works Progress Administration.

Official announcement of the naming of the twenty-year old youth to this post has just been made from the office of Sterling Brown, editor Negro Affairs, Federal Writers' Project. Mr. McNeill is the first Negro to receive an appointment as consultant in photography on any of the Federal-directed projects. He has already begun work on an assignment in connection with pictures for the "History of the Negro in Virginia", one of the Guide Series publications of the Works Progress Administration produced through the Federal Writers' Project.

Harlem Boxing Season to Open

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Harlem boxing fans who reasoned that with the passing of Bob Douglass the chances of local sepia ring stars went a-glimmering, need entertain such fears no longer.

Billy Brown, prominent in boxing circles for more than two decades, and Bill Heydorn, promoter and matchmaker, respectively of the New Queensboro arena in Long Island City, have leased the "Harlem" temple of swat, and will present mixed attractions every Saturday evening commencing with Sept. 24, until May 15.

Established ring stars who have made the Negro's name in ring circles something to conjure with, as well as rising youngsters, will be seen against white opposition of equal calibre and class. It will be strictly "open house" with no particular stable of boxers catered too, nor "clique" favoritism evinced as it often occurs in the fight game.

An interesting fact in this connection is that an agreement has been signed by which the Athletic Fund of the Elks will share substantially from the net receipts of the weekly presentations.

Lewis Decisions Jimmy Adamick

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22. (ANP)—Although he was badly jarred in the last two rounds, light-heavyweight champion John Henry Lewis had piled up such a commanding lead in the first eight rounds that he won a decision over Jimmy Adamick of Midland, Mich., before 12,000 spectators in a nontitle bout at Convention hall Thursday night.

Lewis, 184, clearly outboxed the white fighter who recently drew a year's suspension in Illinois and states associated with the National Boxing association because of a "queer" bout with lanky Jack Trammell. The light-heavy champ scored frequently with both hands to the face and body of 188-pound Adamick.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The words of the Psalmist: "Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre," constitute the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

Among the Bible citations in the Lesson-Sermon are these verses from Luke: "And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him. And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them. But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities."

A passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, includes the statement: "Let discord of every name and nature be heard no more, and let the harmonious and true sense of Life and being take possession of human consciousness."

Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, Wesley M. E. church at Eighth and San Julian, will preach from the subject, "The Mystery of Godliness" Sunday morning. In the evening, his subject will be "Renewing Our Salvation."

Divine Turns 'Revenge' Heaven Down

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 22. (CNA)—Father Divine reportedly turned down this week the offer of Mrs. Irene Warren white, of her Glen Ridge, N. J. property for a new "branch heaven" site.

"It seems to me", said the cult leader through his attorney, Charles Becker of Newark, "that the lady wants to use me to seek revenge on the people of Glen Ridge. Neither I nor my followers will lend ourselves to such a scheme."

Mrs. Warren's property became famous in 1932, when she began a spectacular "spite war" with the borough council. Offered rent of $200 a month for ten years by an oil company, she asked officials to rezone Bloomfield Ave. to permit the deal.

When the council refused the permit for a gasoline station on her property, Mrs. Warren painted her house red, white and blue. She drew Mitzenjammer Kids and Mickey Mouse on the outside walls. She hung red flannels on a clothes-line on the front porch.

Inspired by Howland Spencer's "spite" deal turning over his Krum Elbow property, opposite President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home, to the cult, Mrs. Warren offered her property to Divine, assuring him that no borough council could be "so presumptious as to attempt to bar a heaven from within the gates."

Baptists Fail to Restore Support to Nannie Burroughs' School

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22. (ANP)—The Baptist convention held here last week adjourned without changing the status of the National Training school of Washington, D. C. This leaves the institution which was closed temporarily several years before the 1937-38 term without the support of the convention.

Retention of support for the National Training School was one of the few controversial questions expected to come before the convention and Miss Nannie Burroughs, the able president of the school and corresponding secretary of the Woman's Convention auxiliary to the National Baptist convention, made a stirring plea that the school continue to receive the support of the church. The matter was not acted upon, however, by either convention.

At the last meeting of the board of directors of the convention, held at Tuskegee last Spring, it was ordered that all support be withdrawn from Miss Burrough's school. This action was taken, it was explained, because in spite of the fact that the National Baptist convention and the Women's auxiliary had been the principal factors in raising funds for the institution, it was not a Baptist institution. Title to it is held by a separate board, it was pointed out, dominated by Miss Burroughs.

The issue was an old one. For 10 or 15 years the convention had been urging Miss Burroughs to bring the school definitely within the province of the Woman's Auxiliary convention to the National Baptist Convention, Inc. Frequently it appeared that she was to do so but her control was never relinquished. The convention has already established a Woman's Training school at the National Theological seminary, Nashville.

'Chi' Pastor Slain, Robbed in Mystery

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (ANP)—Local policie this week sought to unravel the circumstances surrounding the murder and robbery early Monday morning of Elder William L. Hill 39, pastor of the Church of God in Christ. Found lying in the street at 49th and South Parkway suffering from multiple stab wounds he was rushed to Provident Hospital where he died.

police investigation of the crime revealed that shortly before finding of the body, Elder Hill, while driving a member of his congregation home, had side-swiped another car at 49th and South Parkway. Mrs. Hill, who was with her husband at the time of the auto accident, said both parties stopped to check the damage, and finding it only slight, dismissed the matter and drove away.

At the inquest, held Monday afternoon, John Madison, proprietor of the garage where Elder Hill kept his car, testified that when Hill drove in to put his car up for the night, two men were waiting for him. Madison says the three discussed a "collision" 'at length, after which they all agreed to return to the scene and "straighten out the matter".

They left, and that was the last seen of Elder Hill. His wife said that $60 he had in a wallet was missing when he was taken to the hospital, as a result of which police are investigating the robbery angle. Inquest was continued until October 6 to give police time for investigation.

AUTUMN FASHION SHOW OPENS AT POPULAR FURNITURE STORE

Always anxious to provide the best service to their patrons, the GOLD FURNITURE CO. at Washington Boulevard and Central Avenue has completed another improvement. These progressive steps have elevated this popular local firm in twenty years to the honored position of the largest and fastest-growing furniture and appliance store in Southern California outside the high rent district.

GOLD'S have installed scientifically designed display rooms in keeping with the most modern display methods. These enable the patrons to make their selections to their complete satisfaction. Room arrangements and color combinations are presented to allow the customer to make the correct selection.

GOLD'S announce these improvements with their AUTUMN FURNITURE FASHION SHOW which opens today. This new season brings important innovations in design and fabric and offers new interpretations and adaptations of the modern and period styles. Favored creations of the leading local manufacturers and those of the East and South are represented in GOLD'S AUTUMN DISPLAY.

POLITICAL POT PIE...

By IRA

The Recall served as a rest period in the coming election. Candidates rested upon their arms while many lieutenants and workers flanked by chislers devoted their time to the recall. Following the recall, the American Legion swooped down upon us, giving the tired candidates and windpammers several days more to rest and think (assumption).

It's fun for candidates, but h— on a poor scribe who hsa to scout for political copy.

Mayor LaGuardia says the $30-.00 a week plan wont work. Perhaps not, but petitions are being circulated to put it on the ballot in New York.

It cost William Gibbs McAdoo $12.615 to lose the Senatorial race while Senator Olson paid $150.000 to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. We wonder who got the Olson dough. His Eastside headquarters said the committee had no money and were obliged to finance their headquarters by taking hat collections, selling empty bottles, etc. No money was spent with Negro papers and very little with the dailies.

Cullen Fentress, columnist and sports commentator, really means business. He has his organization of young Republicans all arranged for battle.

We're sory to see Deputy City Atty. Bert McDonald worked so hard. City Atty. Chesboro loaned Bert to the Shaw publicity man who used his picture as a Shaw appointee. Three years hence, he'll have to appear on the billboards as Cheseboro's appointee. Just who owns Bert is a muddled question in our mind, but if a Mayor makes appointments for the city attorney who is also elected by the people, we admit we've learned something.

LAS AMIGAS' FIRST ANNUAL DANCE IS SOCIAL TRIUMPH

The first annual dance of the Las Amigas Social Club of Pasadena opened the Crown City fall social season Thursday night in the Civic Auditorium to the tune of Ollie Jackson and his orchestra. The five hundred guests included members of various clubs and members of the Pasadena and Los Angeles younger set.

The auditorium was decorated with potted flowers of pink and white and lovely palm trees marked the orchestra stand where the hostesses were presented during the intermission.

Club members were dressed in their club-colors—pink evening dresses with silver accessories—the president of the group was distinguished in a silver evening dress with pink accessories and each lady wore a gardenia in her hair. They were presented by Leroy Mims and include: honorary members Misses Priscilla Simpson and Vivian Snow; members, Mmes. Lula Mae Hill, Savannah Reid, and Rosebud Mims; reporter, Lucille Velma Turney; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frances Gooden, and social chairman, Rosa Lee Turney.

Also, treasurer, Mmes. Lorena Mims; parliamentarian, Ruth Johnson, general maneger, Viola Jones; recording secretary, Miss Edith McDonald; vice-president; Mrs. Essie C. White. "Blue Hawaii" the club song was played softly preceeding the introductions.

Mississippi Legionnaire Tastes Reverse of Mason-Dixon Procedure

This one would do Ripley proud!

But there's a catch. The incident occurred in the downtown streets of Los Angeles, quite a few miles distant from the Mason Dixon Line.

Accosting a Negro youth, Clarence Banks, of 1143 E. 21st street, he told him to step back. Banks refused, saying there was a small child behind him and he would crowd him.

"Don't you talk back to me, N-----," the Legionnaire, whose name was not learned, cried, and seizing his cane beat the youth about the head.

Sidewalk...

of equality for Negro citizens—their idea was establishment of a separate, independent telephone company branch on the Eastside—from which glory, in great quantities, would be reflected upon themselves. In the first place, there is no necessity for such a branch office. The Avalon-Vernon center is located centrally on the Eastside and fully cares for local service needs. In the second place, the existence of some two-by-four branch, employing at the most, two or three clerks, would establish the precedent of recognized segregation and forever bar Negroes entrance into all phases of telephonic employment. The people must not be fooled!

THE EDITORIAL stand of the California Eagle and this column during the recall campaign was a definite one in favor of deposed Mayor Frank L. Shaw. Now, as then, we feel that this man gave the Negro greater economic recognition than any other ever to occupy our city's highest office. His record of appointment for Negroes is unequalled in Los Angeles' civic annals. The charges hurled against him, we believe, were grossly exaggerated. When all is said and done, we feel confident that the record his administration has established in civic improvement will stand as one of the finest we have ever known. In short, the California Eagle feels pangs of neither chagrin nor regret.

However, the will of the people has been shown clearly and sharply. The American way is a frank recognition of and deference to the will of the majority. We congratulate Judge Bowron upon his victory and tender our full cooperation. As we stated thruout the campaign, a sincere clean-up is both necessary and desirable, but in no way is the particular and peculiar duty of new civic administration. If clean-up is to be successful, it must be aided by every citizen and not waved aside as something removed from individual responsibility. No mayor and no government agency can possibly effect a moral right-about-face without the wholehearted cooperation of citizens SINCERE in their convictions. Political opportunism cannot do it. Those who have supported clean-up only for the sake of personal gain or petty revenge cannot be depended upon to institute any effective anti-vice campaign. You cannot clean soiled floors with a filthy broom.

In conclusion, we heartily endorse CLEAN-UP, if it starts HIGH-UP and works down.

Speeches at Legionnaires' Breakfast Reveal Progress

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

It was American Legion Day last Sunday morning on the occasion of the regular monthly breakfast meeting of the Los Angeles Fellowship league.

Meeting in the gymnasium of the 28th street branch YMCA, Benjamin J. Bowie Post and the 92nd and 93rd Division Officers' Association hosted visiting Legionnaires and league members and friends.

From the moment master of ceremonies Norman O. Houston took the gavel from league president Dr. A. J. Booker the Legionnaires paraded the sterling stuff of which they are made.

QUINN SPEAKS

The Honorable John R. Quinn, past national commander of the Legion, was the speaker of the day, and in a stirring address cited tolerance, liberty and equal opportunity to all, as the principles upon which the Legion was founded.

Capt. George M. Allen, of the Eighth Illinois, presented the eight-year old Officers association, made up of Negro officers who served in the World War. Approximately 18 officers stood to be applauded by the assemblage.

From 15 veterans, organized in 1922, Comrade Jerome Hubert told how Ben Bowie Post to its present membership of 338. Taking part in the festivities of the morning were the post's Auxiliary Glee club, and the drill team and bugle corps, the latter coming in for especial commendation from Past Commander Quinn.

The specialty dance team of Myrtle and Vi, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Charles Diggs, added spice to the doughboys' program.

SKETCHES PROGRESS

Comrade Baxter S. Scruggs briefly sketched the latest achievements of the Post highlighting his remarks with the establishment of the CMTC camp at Fort McArthur, where Negro boys are given training in coast artillery. It was made public also that the state convention, held in Santa Monica a few days previous, to which Comrade J. Howard Scott was a delegate, passed resolutions calling for the setting up of a Negro National Guard in the state, more CMTC camps, and cadet units in high schools. It was brought out that these military benefits were included in the program of the Post for which its Citizenship committee had fought for the past several years.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Society Editor

My patron muse allows me to do something that Father Time would decree impossible--and does--but with your kind acquiesence, I'm forgetting it's a hot sultry Tuesday afternoon . . . hotter still for the legion of Legionnaires that are with us . . . and turning the hands of the clock back to Saturday . . . or rather Sunday morning at 2:30. All the words that could be said have been said about that particular morning, I believe, but there are some in me to be written . . . and I ask you to lend me your eyes . . . for how many paragraphs I don't know.

I choose to begin at 2:30 because that's the hour we--Artie Young, Lillian Singleton, yours truly, J. D. Crawford, Charlie Martin and Never-could-remember-his first-name Bryant--sprang lithely from Charlie's car into converging shafts of light that marked the entrance to the Elks main floor ballroom after several stops en route . . . for reasons sundry.

Here's Crispus Wright receiving guests with a more than welcome smile despite the bar exam that's coming up . . . Into the dance where George Brown's Collegians are "grooving" "Music, Maestro, Please" . . . to be met by co-worker Almena Davis done up in a sophisticated gown of white moire taffeta with twin gardenias in her black locks and one Vernon Spaulding dancing attendance; to whirl into a handful of confetti from an unexpected quarter and in the same breath receive a bag of the stuff for ministering unto.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

OUIDA WHITE

He's proudly conducting his mater, gracious in black, and before I know it I'm being elbowed from a chat with Odessa Harris, attractively gowned in white, and my model escort into a round of introductions by the same gent . . . and meet Kenneth Mack, the Herbie Joneses . . renew acquaintance with Perle Bratton Smith who wears a novel check, Edythe Jones in sheer white printed with black flowers, Marion Brown with the complexion that anyone envies; Vivian Boswell in black with a gent on each arm . . . Marvilyn Matthews as pretty as a picture; Tillman Thomas chuckling with his tongue in his cheek; Louis Andrews having a ball; Dunbar Hunt and his reason for being gay, Joyce Dancer, with her hair brushed up, up into a regal mass and gardenias nestled in the bosom of her black drop shoulder gown.

And here's an effervescent girl in black whom I've seen before coming across the floor with hands out in a friendly gesture . . It's Kathleen Picou from San Diego declaring she didn't come up "just for the dance" . . . Tripping around with pal Lois Evans to meet this handsome flame of hers must be stopped because there's music and a dance promised . . . to a favorite who does and unprofitable job of probing for unanswerable questions . . . and gives it up to barge through the crowd where the good fraters are going into the Kappa truck . . . or what have you!

INTERMISSION:

It's a pleasure to greet Mr. and Mrs. George A. Beavers; to peer around a post at Mrs. Bill "Bojangles" Robinson in black tailored formal and one of those doll hats with a jet feather adorning the top; to nod at the Norman O. Houstons, he in uniform, being a Legionnaire of rank, and she in swirling gown that sets off her natural charm . . .

Mrs. Houston

Surprise of surprises Wilbur Ashford and Eunice Patterson are being congratulated for just a few hours ago they exchanged vows in a quiet ceremony read by Rev. Baxter C. Duke . . . Eunice is in white and flashing two of the prettiest rings I've seen and shyly swinging to Wilbur who's grinning a little tremulously in his new happiness . . . Everybody's glad and wishing them all good things.

By now you're tired of me, so to a little aftermath: Leonard Thompson, former Jeff athlete and amateur boxer, is engaged to Ruby Chappelle (not a known relative of mine) and Eddie Spates, formerly of Chicago, will be leading Ruth Spaulding to the altar . . . Much luck, brave children!

Sunday, Maxine Sullivan was honoree at an afternoon of bridge given by La Maxine Sullivan Cere

Charmante, so named in her honor . . . Sorry, I was too sleepy to make it especially after having made church services Sunday morning . . . The same afternoon, Garner Van "Buddy" Grayson III won the Assistance League Better Babies contest . . . and Wendell Green reported World Youth Congress along with other delegates in a reception at one of the swankier homes on North Dillon.

This Sunday, the CUC's second annual broadcast at Eighth and Towne will hold the spotlight . . . with stars from all the major stage productions participating . . . and cinema lights like Louise Beavers and Clinton Rosemond among the special guests.

Scoop! Thurston Lomax was host to NINA MAE McKINNEY for last Tuesday night's fight card at the Olympic . . . Tsk . . . tsk.

MIDNIGHT-TO-DAWN FRATERNAL FORMAL HOSTS 500 SOCIAL ELITE

'BLACK AND WHITE' BIDS FOR PERMANENT PLACE ON ANNUAL FALL CALENDAR

From half after midnight to four-thirty o'clock Sunday morning more than five hundred guests responded to invitations issued by the Alumni and Upsilon chapters of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity to attend their second annual black and white formal dance in the Elks ballroom at 4016 Central Avenue.

The affair, initiated last year, will probably become a permanent function on the Los Angeles fall calendar coming as it does at the end of summer and at the opening of the collegiate schol terms.

If there was any leaning over backwards to include a few not in the upper social brackets, it was due to the cosmopolitan spirit that marks the popular fraternity.

HOSTS CONGENIAL

The congenial hosts were officially led by the committee in charge of the dance, namely: John Brewer, Upsilon chapter polemarch, ex-officio head; Tillman Thomas, chairman, Atty. David Williams, polemarch, Alumni chapter; Percy Williams, John Randolph, Dunbar Hunt, Jack Bratton, Robert Green, and Leon Coleman. Musician for the affair were George Brown and his Ebony Collegians".

BLACK AND WHITE FACE POWDER

Los Angeles and Pasadena Society . . .

By George Garner

Mrs. Mary Isaacs . . . of 119 West Green street, Pasadena . . . entertained recently to honor Mrs. James Williams, who is visiting in the Southland . . . out from her native New Orleans . . . and here to be the guest of Angeleno Mrs. J. M. Robinson . . .

. . . Mrs. Isaacs' social courtesy took the form of a buffet supper party . . . her charming house overflowing with the riotous colors of huge dahlias and vari-hued asters . . . among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith, the Fletcher Smiths, Mrs. Carrie G. Credic, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Redgray, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson, Mrs. Archie Woodyard, wife of Captain Woodyard, and Captain Woodyard's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Austin, visitors from Tyler, Texas; Mrs. Viola Butler, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Cora Harding, Mrs. Bertha Fountain, Miss Jane Earl and Mr. James Harris . . . and Mrs. Carrie G. Credic is planning a supper party for sixteen to also honor the visiting New Orleanian together with the Douchauds, also of the Crescent City.

From Mrs. Ione North, who maintains a lovely home at 1114 Forest avenue, Pasadena, I learn that Mrs. Ressie Kelly entertained recently with a charming luncheon party to honor Mrs. Ladesta Geary of Wewoka, Oklahoma . . . Mrs. Geary is the mother of Mrs. Betty Martin . . . also of Wewoka . . . covers were laid for eleven about the table schemed in pale yellow and green . . . an informal reception followed afterward.

Fall plans are now under way . . . for members of the separate units to the Pasadena Community Sing association . . . whereby a programme of varied activity will ensue . . . planned to interest all of the association's many friends and patrons.

Back from an exciting trip to San Francisco and points north . . . where entertainment and divertessement is always on the "grand scale" . . . come Pasadenans Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Taylor . . . to be immediately plunged into a whirl of Southland fetes . . . planned to celebrate their return . . a breakfast given by the Laffon Fords in their Hammond Street house on Tuesday . . . a luncheon for eight given by Mrs. Pinky Armelin . . . and yet another and another . . . both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are prominent in club and Legionnaire affairs in the Crown City.

PROCESSION SOUTHLANDIA

Off to Xavier . . . in quaint Creole New Orleans . . . went a contingent of Southlanders . . . last week-end . . . to pursue a scholastic career . . . and so are many other youngerset members . . . Though content to stay at home and peruse Plato and Ethics at the Pasadena Junior college West Campus . . are "Jo" Williams, the lovable Jean Carroll; Frances McReynolds, Aker "Buddy" Valley, Ernest Cunningham, "Babe" Heard, Ada Keyes, Audley Cole, Paul Harris, Percy Mae Crawford . . . to name a few of the ones who are knowledge bent for the ensuing school semester . . . Among the things I have enjoyed recently is: accompanying Mrs. Anna Baptiste and the Missus to the thrilling Pilgrimage Theatre production of "Faust" . . . ADD to cleverly furbished domiciles that white and green apartment of Paul and Lillian Payne's . . . out Kingsley Drive way . . . Bernice Townsend and Elmo Scott exchanging soulful glances across the former's veranda in Westside . . . Bernice in a becomingly belted black dress with brilliant blue at the throat . . . "Jo" Williams and William Long jr. downing more and more fried chicken at a Westside cafe . . . Esther Mack doing likewise . . Youngsters, near and afar, making ready for the then forthcoming Kappa Alpha formal, the Las Amigas, club of young Pasadena matrons, making merry this Thursday at their semi-formal . . . and very beautiful it was too . . . held, as it is, in the Gold Room of the Pasadena "Civic" . . . "Kay" Harris making plans to attend Chapman college this semester . . . as are also William "Six" Sharp and Reggie Williams . . . "Chuck" Burris, "Buster" Porter, James Scott, et al . . . enroute for places unseen and unknown . . . Woodrow Strode and brother . . . aiding friends in their "V8" from West to Eastside. Mrs. Gertrude Wiggins of West Washington Street . . . is expecting her husband very shortly to visit . . . and Mrs. Rhoda C. Harris will send along samples of her ecstatic fruit cake to the Pomona State Fair . . . and to judge by its taste, the confection will undoubtedly walk away with all honors in the culinary division.

NOTE: The writer of this column wishes to state that all news will be accepted until 12:00 o'clock noon on Monday of the week current with the issue of the CALIFORNIA EAGLE . . . at which time it will be forwarded to the Woman's Page Editor, Miss Helen F. Chappell . . . this announcement is effective now . . and will be in operation for the several weeks while the writer is on vacation.

POSTLUDE

Mrs. Helen Roan entertained on Thursday last . . . with an elaborate breakfast party to honor two Chicagoans . . . visiting in the Southland . . . in the home of Mrs. Maude White . . . with covers laid for twenty-four . . . or thereabout . . . Mrs. Pearl Hardwicke graciously assisted with the affair.

PROCESSION SOUTHLANDIA

Echoes of a brilliant ball . . . . of a surety Kappa Alpha Psi's black and white formal . . . with a steady stream of motors queuing up before the ballroom entrance . . . a crush of soignee olde and younger fashionables impeccably gowned and groomed, swathed in the rich pile of fur or svelte wraps . . . brilliant jewels and gay, laughing wit . . the ante-foyer crowded with leaders in our civic and social life . . . all and everywhere a melange of endless gayety and conversation . . . the staccato contrast of black and white . . . the inviting, polished floor . . . the rhythmaniacalism of George Brown's superb music . . . and so on and on . . I saw: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson, Mrs. Horace P. Clarke in a breathtaking white fox cape; Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius N. Bradford, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Allen, Dr. and Mrs. George Hurd, Dr. and Mrs. Hatchers the George Beaverses . . . and among the younger contingent: . . . Mr. and Mrs. Bob Trumbull, Mr. and Mrs. "Spot" Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Mack, Esther in a beautifully fashioned gown of black faill, two huge orchids to compliment her hair and shoulder; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J McNeely, Cecelia wearing black and white checkered taffeta, her Watteau hat trailing a cloud of white veil; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Ashford, Emmet and Willa Gene Ashford, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Rejuize Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grant, the lovely Lyra Larihue in chaste white; Betty Bratton, Nancy Harris, Lavinia Twyne, Vera Harris lissom in a strapless black gown; Anita Beverly, Emily Troy as ever gav and charming; Miriam Matthews, Lois Evans, Martha Waugh, Adele Matthews, Ouida White, Helen Brentley, Marvelyne Matthews, Marge and "Bootsie" Collins, La Rita Clariette in the romanticism of black velvet and white lace; Marzella Armstrong, Edith Jones, June Baker, Kay Harris, Edith Meaux, Marcia Mack. Anita Williams, Emma Ingraham . . . and Messrs. Attorney David Williams, Crispus Wright, Tillman Thomas. Virgil Williams, Ernest Williams, Conklin Brown, Donald Derrick, Cato Robinson, Stan Williamson, Bill Turner, "Hicky" Crozier, Ovid Pierce, Buddy Lockett, Alpheus Brewer, Marion Foresythe, Percy Williams. Cornelius Johnson, Clyde Porter, Paul Harris, Charles Burris, Woodrow Cunningham, Emmet Tabor, Theron Kirk, Frank Tilley, Victor Bostic, Jack Bratton, Jimmy Robinson, Ses McCoy . . . incidentally, the black and white ball, planned as an annual event gives fair promise to become the pace setter for ensuing things social during each fall and early winter season Southern Californian. . . . Bob and Thelma Trumbull played host and hostess later to a crowd of folk who had come on . . . with them . . . from the ball . . . Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Payne, Mrs. Bryce, Margo Collins, Marcia Mack, Cleo Lewis, Paul Harris, Clyde Porter and Gene Ware were there to down bacon and eggs . . . meanwhile the Kenneth Macks sped back to Pasadena for a change of clothing . . and later dinner with Mrs. Mack Sr., for it was Sunday . . . at the William Mack home . . .with "Jo" Williams, William Long, jr., Stan Williamson and Clarence Mack joining them at a groaning board . . . and so finis.

Plans are completed for the forthcoming October session . . . the Pasadena Fellowship Breakfast League . . . Pasadena Community Sing Association unit . . with a typical League program all set to start the fall season in a manner commensurate with former League breakfast sessions . . . a brilliant speaker has been engaged; and many Angelenos as well as Pasadenans are looking forward to the event following the September recess . . . Mrs. Anna L. Baptiste and Mr. Felix Woods are officers in the organization.

Members of Pasadena's Cosmopolitan Club . . . a group of our foremost civic minded women . . held their first get-together meeting of the season . . . last Sunday . . . the affair cleverly taking the form of a "Twilight Autumn Dinner" . . . and for which the J. W. Henderson's of West Claremont Avenue opened their beautiful gardens . . . . . members and guests enjoyed the pleasant surroundings, the lovely patio and the thoroughly delectable viands to the utmost . . what with the fall season already under way, the many Pasadenans, familiar with the club and civic activities by which the ladies Cosmopolitan have made themselves famous in seasons past, look eagerly forward to this year's eventful program.

Members of the Sigma Zeta Club . . .organization of young Pasadenans . . .will sponsor a fall dance . . .this Friday night . . .in the hall of the Garner Foundation . . .470 Blake Street . . .and members of the Gay Cavaliers are making plans for their first club social . . .to be held very shortly . . . .in the Foundation hall.

This is . . .at least to Pasadenans . . .a summer loath to leave. . .and so we take momentary advantage . . .and return for a brief re-engagment . . .to garden, to beach, and to already season weary summer clothes . . .and yet there as an air of finality about it all as we in to the season's entr' acte . . that few weeks' lull when socially things are either finishing up or have not taken on a definite color for the ensuing season . . .it comes again in winter . . .when Twelfth night festivities have been swept away with tinsel balls and festive hangings. . .and things social find themselves poised for a moment . . .as for the present . . .it seems that the "last" of things are upon us . . .the "last" of a vacation . . . the "last" of the collegiates who have bundled themselves off to Eastern campii.

And as for yourself . . .I take the "last" of your social comments with this latest bit of scribbling . . .the while I take "time out" . . .for a couple of weeks . . .meanwhile . . .perhaps you'll miss this weekly rendezvous . . .which will only serve to make more interesting our reaquaintance several CALIFORNIA EAGLES hence . . .again meanwhile . . .I'll make feature stories my dish . . referring your interest to the always avidly read Chatter . . .and some News . . .so ably conducted by Miss Helen Chappell and so . . .momentarily I'll say "plaisir de vous voir . . ."Vayan Uds. con Dios" . . .and the like.

Mrs. Della Gilmore, mother of the well-known Crown Citian, Mrs. James Woods entertained on Thursday with an elaborate buffet supper party . . .honoring visitor Mrs. Maude Rux, cousin of Mrs. Rosetta Stewart . . the handsomely furnished Vernon Avenue apartment was literally overflowing with the bloom of dahlias and asters . . .their gorgeous shadings of magenta, violet and old roses, a veritable poesy of contrast against the white decor of the apartment drawing room . . .at supper were Mr .and Mrs. George Harris, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gilchrist, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mills, Mrs. Wilbur Stewart, Miss Nannie Shephard and Mr. Homer Rowan Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Burton, Mr and Mrs. Thomas Durham, Mr. and Mrs. James Woods, Mrs. Ira L. Grant, Mrs. Viola Jackson, Mrs. Lucille Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, Reverend and Mrs. W. M. Prince Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore . . .all enjoying Mrs. Gilmore's elaborately planned courtesy.

Had dinner . . .recently amid the quiet evening shadows and the flowers of the George Harris' garden in Washington street . . . Mrs. Harris, as always the perfect hostess conversing with me . . . the W. D Carters, he, the capable head of the flock at the Friendship Baptist church, are off on their much needed vacation . . to return refreshed and re-invigored for the fall and winter sterenousness. Mrs. Ira L. Grant, daughter of the Harrises, commenting on her recent visit to the well known Mrs James (Kitty Shoecraft) Nelson. . . who is perhaps best well-known as the efficient co-manager of the smart Dunbar hostelry.

Patterson-Ashford Wedding Surprises Many Friends Here

Despite the fact that the Patterson-Ashford romance has been blooming since the days Eunice wore a middy and skirt and Wilbur short pants in McKinley Junior High School, and even though, their engagement ha sbeen known for approximately a month, no one was prepared for what took place Saturday evening. Because everybody was waiting for bids to the popular pair's wedding . . . excepting bridesmaids and all that. However, friends graciously accepted the news Saturday night at the Kappa Alpha Psi dance that Rev. Baxter C. Duke had joined Wilbur Ashford and Eunice Patterson in wedlock at eight o'clock in one of the anterooms of the Avalon Christian church.

Miss Patterson wore a dark tailored suit with a flat crown chapeaux and a smart black bag on one of the newer shoulder straps. Her corsage was of gardenias. Miss Elizabeth Mills, affectionately known as "Skippy", her bosom chum, was Miss Patterson's lone attendant. Miss Mill, also wore a dark suit.

The groom, who is the son of Mrs. Adele Ashford head of the Eagle business office wore a dark civilian suit and was attended by his brother, Emmett, in like attire. He is a Jefferson High and L. A. J. C. product while the bride attended Chapman College. They are at home at 721 East 42nd Street.

Few Race Problems in San Diego, 400 Told at Dinner

SAN DIEGO. (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—Credit was given to the San Diego Race Relations Society for the condition of harmony existing between the mixed races of this city, during the course of 14th annual dinner of the group held last Thursday night in the U. S. Grant Hotel.

More than 400 guests, including city, county and state dignitaries, attended and were introduced by Leland Stanford, after whom Stanford University in Palo Alto is named.

Pointing to strife and antagonism between races existing in other parts of the world, distinguished guests in the course of their addresses claimed that the Society, founded and headed by a colored man, Dennis V. Allen prominent Diegan is largely responsible for freedom from racial bitterness in San Diego.

A report of the dinner was given over 12 inches of space in the leading San Diego paper, the "Evening Tribune" on the following day, and excerpts from the remarks of the speakers quoted.

Good news to the group was contained in an announcement by Mrs. Esther Fiske Hammond Santa Barbara commission member, that the State Legislature has established a California Race Relations Commission.

Representatives of the Negro, Japanese, Honduras, Mexican, Netherlands, Chinese, Phillippine and Chilean races were present and spoke. In addition Hugh Macbeth, Los Angeles attorney, represented the Liberian Republic, for which he is consul at Los Angeles.

Famed Texas Kidnap Case is Settled

DALLAS, Sept. 22. (ANP)—One of the most sensational kidnap cases ever unearthed in Texas simmered down to nothing last Saturday when in the Civil District court, Mickey Ricketts, Negro kidnap victim, was handed a check of $500 in settlement of his $51,000 suit against Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Newton, wealthy whites.

Circumstances surrounding the case read like a page from a pulp thriller. A former chauffeur for the Newtons, Ricketts was accused by Mrs. Newton of having knowledge of an expensive jade ring stolen from her home and valued at several thousand dollars. When he denied the charge he said he was bound and gagged by the couple and taken to the attic of the house where he was tortured in an effort to make him confess.

Police, learning of the man's plight, raided the home and found Ricketts, his mouth taped to prevent outcry and his arms and legs bound with rope. As a result, Mrs. Newton and three alleged accomplices have been indicted by the County grand jury on charges of false imprisonment.

Say All-Negro Town Rising Community

CHICAGO Sept. 22. (ANP)—Consideration of the general problem of Negro housing turned public attention on this week to the all-Negro town of Robbins, Ill., to see what success residents there have had in solving their housing and other civic problems.

Located on the far Southwest side of Chicago, Robbins has an era of about two square miles. It runs North and South, from 135th street to 143rd, and East and West from Sacramento ave. to Central Park ave. The nearby village of Posen has 85 per cent Polish residents.

Philosophy of the town's civic, social and economic life is reflected in statements by Robbins' founder, Thomas J. Keller and by Mayor J. S. Richardson who is also president of the village Board of Trustees. In 1917, when he asked the County Board to incorporate the village of Robbins as a municipality of Cook county, Kellar said: "The real way to help colored people is to make it posible for them to help themselves. Give them transportation and housing and they will segregate themselves naturally."

Today, 21 years after its founding, Robbins, one of the four all-Negro towns in America, has a population of 2,500 98 per cent of them Negroes. All civic and community activities are directed by Negroes. They hold their own elections, collect taxes, operate schools, maintain the police and fire departments.

There are 11 churches, with the 12th now under construction. Most picturesque Robbins resident is 100-year-old Thomas Harton, the oldest citizen who lives in a little house constructed by himself. Most all of the homes in the village have small, well kept gardens and the citizens have great civic pride. For the past 15 years Leroy P. Thomas has been the postmaster.

Aside from Mayor Richardson, whose daytime job is deputy sheriff, other officials are: O. W. Moore, village clerk; Frank Griffith, Police Magistrate, and Trustees Robert Washington, Marcellus Jones, Edward Brown, R. L. Allen, David Fox and Frank Beard.

INTER-RACIAL NOTES . . .

Miss Elizabeth Parker, a modest and charming young lady, is at present residing in International House, at the University of California at Berkeley. Talking with her about past activities, we find that she has had many rich and lively experiences which she reluctantly relates to us.

"Although my child-hood days was spent in private school," I do not regret it; because, I had the pleasure of making contacts socially and intellectually which I could not have developed otherwise."

Miss Parker graduated from State Teacher's College at Montegomery, Alabama, receiving her Bachelor of Science degree in Education. During those years an honor student, her major is education, and at the end of this school year, she expects to receive her Master's degree in History.

"Concerning the conditions of the South—? Well," muses Miss Parker hestantly, "I really haven't established my philosophy about them as yet. Naturally, I don't approve of the hatred, hypocrisy and bigotry that exists there; but on the other hand, there are groups of liberal thinking people who are willing to experiment with new social plans and to set aside practices which they believe to be out of harmony with democratic ideals and humanitarianism. All I can at present say is--What is dilemma!

"One can safely say that the Negroes are rapidly changing their static ways of living; but, somehow I feel that the North and West are apt to exaggerate the amount of prejudice that exists in the South, in comparison with the two former sections. A study of inter-racial movements will show that the liberal educational leaders of the two major groups have been promoting organizations such as the Student Volunteer Movement and Emergency Peace Campaign drive for quite a few years. I have attended both movements as delegate with approximately forty or fifty race students and seemingly the group planning is carried out exactly like that of any Western or Northern inter-racial group.

Miss Parker, on the advice of Congressman Arthur Mitchell, of Illinois, came to California to learn as much as possible about Western culture; and at the same time turned down a Fellowship to Howard University.

"My ultimate aim is to return to the South and work among my people", she said.

"What about California?"

"I haven't been disappointed the least about California. Everything thus far has measured up to my expectations."

Third of U. S. Lives on $780 Yearly

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. (CNA)—The National Resources Committee reported to President Roosevelt this week that the one-third of the nation he described as ill-housed, ill-clad and ill-fed existed on annual family incomes of less than $471 in 1935-36.

The committee said that the lowest third of the population, which comprises the bulk of the Negro people, is supported by one-tenth of the nation's $59,000,000,000 income.

"The great majority of the nation's consumers are members of families of two or more persons, sharing a common income and living under a common roof," the report said.

The report stressed the marked dissimilarities in the income of Negroes and whites. In Southern rural communities, it said, the median income of the two groups was $1,100 for whites and $480 for Negroes. In Southern cities whites averaged $1,570, Negroes only $525.

The Committee submitted another chart indicating that in both urban and rural Southern communities the mean income of non-relief white families in 1935-136 was about three times that of non-relief Negro families.

Ninety-one thousand persons have seen the play since its premiere on March 2.

"Haiti" is one of the two survivors of the triumphant season the Federal Theatre has just completed, the other play being "One-Third of a Nation".

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

PRICE 5 CENTS — LOS ANGELES, CALIF., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1938 — VOL. 59—NO. 23

Surviving Girl, 5, to Tell Coroner How Smoking Blanket Took 3 Lives

One of Victims, 4-Years Old, Struck Match, Lighting Blanket and Dragged It into Closet; All But One Suffocate; Neighbor Rescues All Four

A child's uncomprehending story, told in a halting treble, over and over again, to neighbors, and to mama and to strangely patient police officers and firemen, at first excitedly and with an air of importance, then seeing the effect of her words, haltingly and finally tearfully, was the only explanation officials had today to the tragedy that snuffed out the lives of three babies, ranging in age from one to four.

The three died of suffocation in their modest little home in the rear at 1644½ E. 48th street Tuesday night at about 8 o'clock. No one heard their cries. No one saw the agony in their faces as they clawed with tiny fingers at the invisible hand that clutched their throats, as they toddled a feeble step or two in an attempt to escape the soft, smothering something.

This morning in the coroner's office little Helen Bereal, age five, will sit on Coroner Frank Nance's knee and, fingering his watch chain, tell how Betty Jean struck a match on her shoe and when the blanket on the bed on which she was perched, caught fire, dragged it to the closet and shut the door. Then she'll tell how she and Betty Jean went into the living room, leaving the baby sisters in the bedroom adjacent to the smouldering closet and how Betty Jean returned there after a while and sat down on the floor to play.

Helen will tell how she smelled smoke and coughed a bit when it choked her and pressed her face against the front window until Nathaniel James, who lives in the house in front, broke open the door and she ran out.

That's all Helen will be able to tell for neighbors picked her up and gave her water and stood by wringing their hands while James crawled on his hands and knees into the smoke-filled house and crawled out again three times, eahc time bringing a still bundle.

The baby was nude, her little face contorted and the tears barely dry on her cheeks.

Dr. C. V. Frederick and his wife, who live in the big house, further up front, worked over the still warm little forms, trying to bring back life, and the firemen and ambulance doctors, when they arrived, added their efforts but to no avail.

The most tragic part of the story concerns the 26-year old mother of the brood, who returned a few minutes later from a profitless search to find a store open where she might buy food for the following morning's breakfast.

She told investigating officers that she left the house at about 7:30 p. m. and walked over to the Safeway store at Vernon and Long Beach. Before going, she locked the doors and all the windows with the exception of that in the bathroom, as a precautionary measure, because the house had no screens. Finding the Safeway store closed, she walked as far as 33rd and Long Beach but, finding no place open, returned home.

The family is on relief she said. The father, Walter Bereal, living somewhere on Tarleton street, left them sometime ago.

THIS week we received a very interesting letter. It reads:

My Dear Mrs. Bass:

Having been ill for a year, I have listened to many radio programs in order to amuse myself, and among them one called--we omit the name--about a family named "Doe" who have numerous middle-class adventures. Working for this family is a colored cook named Martha who speaks a dialect that has never been used on land or sea and certainly one that has never been heard from colored people. One can take that since most white people who write about Negroes have advanced no further than Uncle Tom's Cabin. But on Monday night the program burned me up. For many years I have labored to make my race see the colored race as they are--American citizens trying to earn a decent living and live decent lives. Moreover, I am a one-hundred-percent worker for the rights of workers.

On this program, the colored woman, Martha, who does the cooking for six people, begs "her mistress" with sobs and wails to allow her to take care of a "little white child" who has been born into the family rather tha nemploy an outside nurse, all because of her great devotion to the family. I have employed a good many people in my time, but I have yet to find one, colored or white, who assumed double duties without pay out of devotion to me, nor did I expect such a silly sacrifice. What devotion does a hard-working servant owe that she would assume extra duties without pay when there is plenty of money to hire help? If the shoe had been on the other foot and the mistress had exacted extra work from Martha it would have been true to form. It is such programs that keep white people thinking that colored people owe them something—and what, in God's name! I feel that a group of colored people should sign a protest and send it in to these players. Such ideas are false to reality, false to organized labor, false to a race which the white people have wished an inferiority complex upon. They have painted picture of a colored maid which does not exist and has no right to exist. These players will be jolted into a knowledge of their short-comings if such a protest reaches them. I have wished to call attention to it because it is so manifestly absurd and smacks of race patronage.

Cordially,
RUTH SKEEN,
6350 Primrose, Hollywood

. . . It is heartening to realize that there are members of the white race capable of detecting the sort of propaganda mentioned in this letter. We certainly agree with what Miss Skeen has to say and consider the petition an excellent idea. All those interested in signing should correspond with the California Eagle at 4075 South Central Avenue.

The type character "Martha" portrays in this serial radio program is one with which the great mass of Americans is thoroughly familiar. Many of the nation's finest writers have seen fit to immortalize such individuals. With tearful sentiment Uncle Tom's devotion and unselfish sacrifice has been and is heralded throughout our literature. Surely, the character is appealing. It smacks of something old and elemental in the American way of life. A psychological reaction similar to the one sustained after reading a rousing cow-boy and Indian story is probably felt by many. However, few realize that this hat-in-hand domestic Negro has disappeared as completely as an Indian massacre at Devil's Gulch or a Lone Ranger round-up in Tombstone.

Perhaps these objections, however, are over-heated. Perhaps our white friends deem such a protest--though founded upon fact--premature and assuming a deliberate mal-intention that does not exist. We grant this. There is no doubt that the writers of this radio skit considered themselves creators of a great, glowing tribute to the American Negro. That maid Martha bears no resemblance to the typical or average colored domestic, of course, was a flaw. A protest might be made simply on the ground that the playwrites committed an abstract artistic error.

This representation of the Negro servant also is annoy-

Everything is in Readiness, Say Eastsiders

Eastside Committee Expects Larger Numbers Than During 5 Meets

Everything, from housing to first aid, was ready this week for the hosts on hosts of "Black Boys in Khaki", who already have commenced pouring into the city for the 1938 national convention of the American Legion.

"Take it away, boys"—was the word of the Eastside Activities committee, the auxiliary of the Los Angeles Convention Corporation, taking charge of the Negro posts of the legion, as they stood back and surveyed the results of months of work. Chairman of the committee is George W. Burleson, of the Benjamin J. Bowie Post. Members are Commodore Wynn, housing; Mrs. Malvenia C. Allen, auxiliary entertainment; George Johnson, registration; Harry Beale, reception; William Heflin, entertainment; Joseph Young, service; Morris Stapler, concessions; J. T. Green, future Legionnaires; Dr. A. L. Wallace, first aid; Edward Hawkins, street decorations, and Journee White, publicity.

"The boys" don't know exactly how many "comrades" to expect, but they said it would posittively be a larger number than at either of the past five conventions and they have housing facilities for several thousand.

Said Burleson, "We believe in preparedness, therefore our committee is ready for any onslaught that might occur. Ample housing and entertainment galore is waiting for our guests and there will be enough gaiety and entertainment on Central avenue for the entire convention's visitors and some more."

The convention proper opens Sunday and closes officially next Wednesday. But for many of the lads it is a two-week affair, beginning as early as last Sunday and ending as the last, tired, happy doughboy hops an outbound freight Sunday after next.

Official headquarters for the Eastside Activities committee is at 5111 So. Central avenue, but the committee also recommends semi-official stomping grounds such as the Benjamin J. Bowie Post clubhouse at 5115½ S. Central avenue, the 92nd Buffalo division clubhouse at 4117 S. Central avenue; the Clark hotel, Washington and Central; the Club Alabam, 42nd and Central; the Bill Robinson theatre, 43rd and Central; the Last Round, 41st and Central; the Dunbar hotel, 42nd and Central; and the Elks' Temple, 40th and Central avenue.

A Welcome Legionnaire breakfast will start things off, officially, Sunday morning at 8 at the 28th street YMCA with the Los Angeles Fellowship league as hosts. In the afternoon the Ladies Auxiliary reception will be held from 3 to 7 p. m. at 1050 E. 59th street.

A 92nd and 93rd division Officers' Association Reunion Mandarin dinner will be held at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Manshu Low cafe on East First street, and official doings will close on Wednesday night with a grand convention ball at the Elks' hall.

White Band to Battle Les Hite and George Brown at Vogue October 6th

News of sensational nature came this week when it was announced by the "Hi Hatters" Club that it would present the great "Kenny Baker's Orchestra" in a heated contest with George Brown and Les Hite at the Vogue Ballroom on or about Thursday night, October 6th. This will mak the first occasion that three orchestras have been presented in one night. Further details will be given in the very near future.

IMPORTANT DOCUMENT

NOW I'M THE LAW!

Faith in Shaw Indicated as Recall Election Time Close

Los Angeles will square off tomorrow in a two-round bout with the office of Mayor at stake. In one corner will be the forces against the recall of Frank L. Shaw, present Mayor, and in the other, the group that has waged a political war within Los Angeles county for the past year, culminating in the pending recall election.

Voters will be asked to vote twice, once for or against the recall and once for one of the men of the 11 E. Vernon avenue, whose name appears on the ballot.

Straws in the wind, according to political observers, indicate a definite display of faith in the rotund man who was elected to the office of Mayor in 1933, then reelected by a comfortable marjority in 1937. Chief opponent to Shaw is Fletcher Bowron, judge of the Superior Court.

2 Claim Friends Wanted for Law - Breaking

Police are questioning the altruism of two citizens, who this week informed Newton Street police of alleged criminal acts perpetrated by their acquaintances.

Answering a radio call to 1201½ S. Central avenue about 11:30 p. m. Sunday, police arrested Edward McCall of that address, on a tip from an unidentified man that McCall was wanted for the murder of two men in the East. Booked on suspicion of murder, the police have as yet been unable to find trace of any misdeed performed by McCall.

Floyd Troy of 4522 Compton avenue, not only informed the police as to asserted criminal activities of his erstwhile friend, Allen B. White, same address, but he held White until police arrived. He told officers Monday about 2:20 a. m. that White was wanted for a robbery in Long Beach.

ETHIOPIA MAY BE HAVEN FOR JEWS

ROME, Italy — Because the government's decrees expelling foreign Jews from Italy are so worded as to leave Ethiopia outside their scope, it is freely predicted here that the former kingdom of Haile Selassie will eventually become a place of refuge for Italian Jews.

Attempt to Take Own Life Success; First in Months

The Eastside's first successful suicide in several months was recorded on the police blotter at the Newton Street station this week with the death of Evelyn Stewart, 26-year old housewife of 11 E. Vernon avenue.

Mrs. Stewart died at the Georgia Street hospital Monday evening after having drunk a bottle of lysol in the bathroom of her home a few hours earlier.

Unrequited love was cited to investigating officers from the Newton Street station as the reason for the woman's act. Harry Armstrong, of 562 N. Claremont street, Pasadena, who accompanied the woman to the Receiving hospital in the ambulance, told police he had been keeping company with Mrs. Stewart, but had recently married.

When he informed her of his marriage, he said, while they sat, drinking in her home, she got up, went into the bathroom and drank the poison.

World's Biggest Check Cashed by AME's Today

The biggest check in the world will be cashed this morning at 10 o'clock at the California bank at Eighth and Central, by the treasurer of the Southern California conference of the AME church, which is now in session at the First AME church, Eighth and Towne avenue.

The check is 11 feet long and four feet wide and was especially made by the bank for this conference. It is for $2,150 "Dollar Money" and signed by Rev. H. Mansfield Collins, pastor; George City, secretary; and J. H. Joyce, treasurer of the church.

Presented to the opening session of the conference yesterday, the check caused a sensation in church circles and represented the largest amount raised for educational purposes by any single church. Bishop Noah Williams, presiding officer of the conference, accepted the unusual check.

Muse, Miller Win Hot NAACP Debate

Healthy Political Row Develops; Wide Interest Seen as Meet Result

The combination of Loren Miller, attorney, and Clarence Muse, actor, proved "too much" Sunday when the pair downed Dr. H. Claude Hudson and J. Cullen Fentress, EAGLE city-ed, in the widely-publicized debate at meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

That "The NAACP Has Not Lived Up to Its Opportunities to Fully Serve the Colored People" was successfully championed by Muse and Miller. Basing their argument on the assertion that "the NAACP has ignored the common worker", the debaters held that "there was lynching when the organization was formed; there is lynching today. The Negro was denied the franchise in southern states when the organization was formed; the Negro is denied the franchise now. The Negro was discriminated against in the North and South when the organization was formed; he is discriminated against today!"

THE OPPOSITION

The opposition replied, "Lynching has decreased one hundred per cent," the white primary in Texas was declared unconstitutional through the efforts of the National Association." J. Cullen Fentress, centering on the publicity accomplishments of the organization, stated: "The National Association has lived in the newspapers, white and black, of America!" Displaying the six-page publicity release distributed by the association, Mr. Fentress proclaimed, "See how Roy Wilkins has carried on the work of DuBois!"

The judges were Mrs. C. A. Bass, Samuel Brown, Atty. Ivan Johnson, Mrs. Jessie Terry, and Geo. Beavers jr., of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company. Prize to the victors was a year's subscription apiece to "The Crisis", National Association world-famed publication. The prizes were donated by the Golden State and Angelus Funeral Home.

POLITICAL ROW

While the judges debated, a healthy row developed when a speaker opposed the racall of Mayor Frank L. Shaw. "Dragging politics into a NAACP meeting was roundly protested. Clarence Muse presented a copy of the association's new set of regulations which, with involved phrasing, seemingly endorsed political discussion. Speakers from both camps were allowed the floor with Mrs. Betty Hill and Realtor Walter Gordon leading the forces against and in favor of the recall, respectively.

The large audience and wide interest in the meeting was seen as a tribute to Miss Hazel Whitaker, now program committee chairman.

UCLA BACKFIELD ACE ON 'SEPIA SPORTSCAST'

Williams, presiding bishop of the Fifth Episcopal district of the AME church, will deliver his annual sermon Sunday morning for the Southern California conference convening at the First AME church, Eighth and Towne avenue. Tonight (Thursday) will be observed as educational night and Rev. H. Mansfield Collins will speak. The conference closes Sunday afternoon with pastoral assignments.

William Green, AFL Head, Addresses Porters' Confab

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, will be the principal speaker at the opening meeting of the Fifth Annual Convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in Chicago, Sunday afternoon.

This meeting will take place in the Du Sable High School and is expected to be one of the biggest demonstrations of Negro laborers yet presented. All interests are centered on the deliberations that will take place in this national economic parliment of Negro workers, that won a signal victory over the Pullman Company, one of America's largest industrial corporations.

At the meeting in the Du Sable High school, A. Philip Randolph, International President who has been ill for a long time, is also scheduled to speak. Other International Officers that will be present includeC. L. Dellums of Oakland, California, Fourth Vice President.

This will be the last public appearance of Green before he sounds the gavel for the 56th Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor in Houston, Texas.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is one of the one rundred and four international unions of the American Federation of Labor. This is the 13th Anniversary of the organization and it will extend through September 23.

ROXBOROUGH SEEKS SEAT IN CONGRESS

DETROIT, Mich. — Attorney Chas. Roxborough is campaigning actively for congress in the first congressional district here. A former state senator, Attorney Roxborough has practiced for 25 years. He is president of the Plan Commission of the City of Detroit and is running on the Republican ticket. John Roxborough, manager of Joe Louis, the boxer, is a brother of Attorney Roxborough.

GAMBLERS' BLOOD UP

CHICAGO.—Raiding this city's race track hand books and policy stations by State's Attorney Courtney, highlighted a fortnight ago by his sensational invasion of the Southside colored district, has so aroused the gambling blood of local gamblers that bets—with varying odds—are being made on the number of places Fourtney will raid on a given day.

MAYOR PRESENTS BILL POLICE CAPTAIN'S BADGE

Robinson Made Honorary Police Captain at Y Fete

Flowers while they can be appreciated seemed to be the occasion Wednesday night of last week when over 250 friends and admirers of the world-renowned Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, gathered around a banquet table at the 28th Street Branch of the YMCA and witnessed the presentation of a solid emerald incrusted badge to Bill, making the dancer an Honorary Captain of the Los Angeles Police Department.

Mayor Frank L. Shaw, personally presented the badge to the "king" of tap dancing.

Norman O. Houston opened the meeting with appropriate remarks and introduced Dr. H. H. Towles, chairman of the Citizens' Eastside Committee supporting Mayor Mayor Frank L. Shaw in the recall election. In a short address Dr. Towles stated that he had aroused himself to the need of political guidance among our people and had therefore accepted the chairmanship of this committee, which is putting forth every effort "to retain in office a man whom all of us are or should be more than proud to have in the office of Mayor of our city". Dr. H. Claude Hudson acted as Master of Ceremonies.

A program from the talent of some of the best world-known entertainers was given before the presentation with Miss Jeni LeGon, dancer, acting as Mistress of Ceremonies and Louis Armstrong, Charles Andrews, Eddie Anderson, Johnnie Taylor, Little Rina and the Beal Bros. present.

Clarence Muse-- A-TALKIN' TO YOU

THE COLORED ARTISTS of the Screen Actors Guild won first prize in the LABOR DAY PARADE and that is what they went into it to DO. Making up your mind and COOPERATING for a certain GOAL is DEFINITELY a GOOD TREATMENT for success. Committees were formed AND CAREFULLY thought out plans were set in MOTION; EXPERT BRAINS were consulted, and the rest was a GRAND SPIRIT to do their BEST. In other words, the ACTORS were BOOSTERS for themselves, and a funny thing, this BOOSTING business is contagious. I am certain every GUILD MEMBER has a finer appreciation for the COLORED ACTOR when he can take first place in an affair as IMPORTANT as this one made up of the best ARTISTIC BRAINS in the world. Still ay WEEKLY argument, there is still ROOM at the TOP for those who have SOMETHING to GIVE and more can go o the TOP if we ALL BECOME boosters. WRITE a letter today to some STUDIO EXECUTIVE, and comment on SOME RACE ACTOR, or a type of picture you would love to see. THE campaign is n NOW! With the slogan, "MOTION PICTURES ARE YOUR BEST ENTERTAINMENT, SEE ONE TONIGHT", they want and need your DIMES AND QUARTERS, so tell them if you think more NEGRO artists should be included in good roles to SATISFY you, that MOTION PICTURES are the BEST ENTERTAINMENT. Pictures cannot and will not be a success if only a part of the AMERICAN public or only certain RACES are interested, but they WILL RETURN to their FORMER success if ALL people and ALL races are THRILLED at what they see on the screen. CHINESE, JAPANESE, INDIANS, MEXICANS, have just as much right somewhere in the pattern as JEWS, WHITE AMERICANS, ENGLISHMEN and all the other groups that get a great BIG SHARE of this INDUSTRY. NEGRO PAPERS must be included in the MOTION PICTURE BUDGETS. Paramount, M-G-M, Fox-Twentieth Century, RKO, Universal, Columbia and all the MAJOR play-houses patronized by NEGROES —12,000,000 of them—WHY not help by your mail to these studios in this campaign. Write your local managers; tell them WHAT YOU like and don't like. IT IS LIKE voting; cast your VOTE ALWAYS for a great cause. It is a bad precedent to allow a LOSING minority to interrupt a TERM; so VOTE AGAINST the RECALL OF OUR MAYOR, FRIDAY—VOTE!

CLARENCE MUSE

A New Color for Winter Window Shades

The color is as delightful as the blooms themselves!

A rich warm glowing yellow that does the grand trick of seeming to bring the sunshine indoors even on gray wintry days!

It is interesting to note how these new colors in cloth window shades brighten your rooms and give the entire house a well cared-for decorative air. Interesting too, to know that more and more housewives are realizing the importance of changing their window shades twice a year. They select a cool deep tone for summer, a rich warm tone for winter, and change them when they hang their fresh curtains and draperies.

Many women are using two cloth shades at every window. An inside color to harmonize with the decorative scheme of the individual room, a second outside color for street uniformity. They tell us by using two window shades they prevent heat loss through windows of as much as 43%. That's an important item to consider during cold winter days and nights.

Cloth shades seem to be the outstanding choice of thrifty housewives for they tell us these shades are woven on a loom, processed and colored to look well, hang well, roll well and last. And women are buying them on new spring rollers for quiet, smooth-working efficiency.

Outside Uniformity

The house at the right uses window shades in springleaf green, a tone lighter than the green shutters giving a smartly uniformed street scene. Inside the rooms have Chrysanthemum yellow shades.

REPUBLICANS of the state today were preparing to offer a solid front to insure the reelection of Governor Frank Merriam, above in the November general election.

Business is Good at Local Eastern

Official Lauds California Eagle as Advertising Medium; It's Best

Spurgeon C. Jones, sales manager of the Eastern, 45th and Central Avenue recently said, "It is just a little over a year ago that Eastern opened the store at 45th and Central Avenue. It does not seem possible that such rapid strides could be made in so short a period, however, the books disclose that we have made a tremendous increase.

"It is no wonder," continued Jones, "when one considers that we have the oldest publication in the state to advertise our wares; the California Eagle. We have advertised in the California Eagle exclusively since the opening. Others of our branch stores cannot show such progress as they have not such a thoroughly read newspaper as we have."

Jones further pointed out that those people who have accounts with other Eastern stores may make their payments and further purchases at the 45th and Central store if more convenient. He added, "Our store on the Avenue was opened for service to all. Do not hesitate to call on us for any type of service."

POLITICAL POT PIE...

By IRA

When politics reaches the place where Republicans, Democrats, or what not speak in whispers of "cut" the confab at the approach of the trusted pie-maker, things are really getting tight. Well, that's just what's going on. However, things seep through the lid. We have it all, but it's not worth telling. Wait. We'll tell when the big pull-off is slated.

Just now everything is "Recall' and while we have a fine, rich crust, there's no filling for the pie. Be ye patient and wait!!

That organization of young Republicans guided by the newspaper wizard, J. Cullen Entress, is really doing things. "Fent" is a fine boy and really has a following among the youngsters and many oldsters swinging on the tail of his kite.

Olson headquarters, 43rd place and Central, will be all democrats' from dog-catcher up. These birds are really together for once.

Tents have been folded. "Leaders". Democrats and Republicans who "guessed" wrongly are as mute as clams. My, oh my, how these big shots hate to "follow"

From way down 14th street way, the New Age Dispatch, worthy contemporary, owned and operated by Hon. Fred M. Roberts has moved within yelling distance of the Old Bird. You're welcome boys! Glad to have you.

Carl Gross, well known political cartoonist and advertising man, has "changed bases". You'll shortly see the work of his cunning hand in a real newspaper. Here's hopin', Carl!

In the Olson set-up it looks as tho John (Spreading Joy) Fowler will be in complete control of state organization since Clarence Johnson has been called to Washington for a big chair in the Housing Plan. Johnson and Fowler helped turn the Democratic tide for Olson and it is but fair that John be chosen to pilot the band wagon in the closing days.

The "Recall" lacks the dash and fire that dominated the city election a year or so to the wind ward.

Scanning all race publications, we fail to see where Clifford Clinton and his forces dignify you by asking votes through the columns of group newspapers. All have space for sale. Maybe they just don't give a da——— about you! You're the Judge and Jury.

Tomorrow (Friday) marks the end of a long drawn out battle of bitterness and muck-throwing—we vote and decide, once and for all, who shall drive the chariot of the City. Mayor Frank L. Shaw or Superior Court Judge Fletcher Bowron, Recall exponent?

Sensing the danger in recalling Mayor Shaw, Alfred J. Osterloch, strongly backed by a group of leading citizens in the religious and political life of the city, bowed out of the race with this frank statement:

"Events transpiring since filling my nomination petition indicate that there is a danger of a Mayor being elected by a minority group if I remain in the race. Being motivated entirely by my public interest, and to insure the election of a Mayor by a clear majority I hereby withdraw my candidacy in order to facilitate such public choice.

In so doing I desire to thank my many friends and supporters for their generous efforts on my behalf."

A resolution introduced by Joseph Scott, chairman of the resolution committee to which Mrs. C. A. Bass, EAGLE publisher, was appointed this week, was unanimously adopted by the County Central Committee of the Republican party Tuesday.

RECORD CITED

The resolution cited the fact that all the social justice legislation for which California is noted, such as workmen's compensation, wages and hours for women, old age, blind and orphan benefits, has been enacted under Republican administrations, and concluded:

"Therefore it is because of our concern for the wage earners, the State employees, the schoolteachers and all others who will be affected by the so called $30 Every Thursday proposition that we approve Gov. Merriam's forthright opposition to this measure as being economically unsound, ethically unjust and fraught with peril to the stability of our financial structure and our State, county, and city bonded indebtedness."

Mrs. Bass was also appointed to the State Central Committee of the G. O. P. this week. The appointments came as a testimony of the "Elephant's" new recognition of Negro leadership.

EASTERN CENTRAL AT 45th

ANOTHER BLUNDER!

By ANTI-RECALL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

A scurrillous newspaper appeared on the streets of the Eastside last week and according to its announced policy was out to recall our splendid Mayor. FRANK L. SHAW, and elect to that high office one, Judge Fletcher Bowron. This right belongs to every citizen and every group of citizens under our democratic form of government. We do not question this right but we wish to call to the attention of the citizens the methods employed by the editor and his cohorts in their attempt to elect their candidate. Instead of confining their argument to the virtues and ability of Judge Bowron, they have proven their calibre by following out the program of the C. I. V. I. C., slinging mud on everyone whom they believe opposed to their candidate; they have gone so far as to charge highly respected and representative citizens with unethical conduct in business because these respected gentlemen saw fit to exercise their personal privilege and support our splendid Frank Shaw. The editor admits that he had nothing specific upon which to base his charges but took advantage of the Freedom of The Press during political times to make a charge he could not prove, not even attempt to prove.

People of the Eastside who think, know a little something about the "little editor" and many of those who read the article smiled knowingly and commented thusly: "Well the old adage seems to run true, like father, like son; for the 'little editor' is a chip off the old block and you can't expect any good to come out of Sodom."--In other words, when the son follows in the footsteps of his dad, who has always been found in questionable company, you can expect to find the little boy who began as an urchin playing in mud puddles not only to be dirty outside but to have developed a mind filled with dirt. Vice is rampant in his mind, and so anxious was this "little editor" to voice his opinions and serve his MASTERS that he began immediately to sling mud at every body, even to the point of attempting to coerce citizens and if necessary destroy one of the foundations of our racial life. If the "little editor" did not have a distorted mind, he would have hesitated to attack splendid men who enjoy an unquestionable right to their leadership and would have thought in his attack on these individuals, that he was striking at an institution which is one of the cornerstones of our community life and one which we must continue to build.

Mayor Shaw has many friends on the Eastside who believe in him and will continue to support him, and resent their right to do so being challenged. Here are a few testimonials by some of our best citizens.

I feel that as a group we should support Mayor Frank L. Shaw for re-election, for during his administration we have received more recognition and consideration in this city than under any other mayor that I am able to remember. We owe it to ourselves to retain Mayor Frank L. Shaw.

Sincerely,
MRS. EDITH RICE
953 E. 46th Street

I will vote for the retaining of Mayor Frank L. Shaw, because I sincerely believe that he has the welfare of all the citizens of Los Angeles at heart. Large and small, rich and poor, black and white, gentile and Jew--all have benefited by his fair-minded, unbiased, affable execution of his duties.

Very truly yours,
MRS. M. DAVIS.

I intend to vote for Mayor Frank L. Shaw, because I know him to be a man!--a man of great courage, and one who is possessed of a sense of justice to all. He proved this fact to the entire nation when he sent a recommendation to the City Council that it memorialize the United States Congress to pass the Anti-Lynching Bill, which is now before that body for consideration. The Negro women of Los Angeles, I feel safe to say, are very grateful to Mayor Shaw for this great humanitarian act.

Sincerely yours,
DAISY P. WILLIAMS

I believe that Mayor Frank L. Shaw's record is worth many, many times more than all the promises his opponent might make. A man's record, and not his promises, is his only true recommendation.

Yours truly,
MRS. DORA W. PENSAR

You can count on me to support Mayor Frank L. Shaw for I have watched his political career for a long time, and in my opinion it is a laudable one. He has made good consistently, as Councilman, Supervisor, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and as Mayor of the City of Los Angeles. Such an efficient public servant is truly deserving of the only reward the voters of Los Angelesc have to offer--retaining in office.

Very sincerely yours,
TRUE L. APPLETON
912 E. 46th Street

I am for the retaining of MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW, because unlike most public officials who make promises before election and break them afterwards MAYOR SHAW has made good by keeping faith with those who had faith in him. We should keep this man for men of his calibre are much too rare.

Very truly yours,
W. H. COCKRELL, D. D. S.

I am in favor of the retaining of MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW, because I believe he is the most fair-minded, efficient and conscientious man it has been the good fortune of this city to have for its chief executive.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIE B. HARRISON
3901 Central Avenue

I believe MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW should be retained in office because I appreciate the fine work he did to relieve the citizens of Los Angeles, during the darkest days of the depression. Had it not been for the large appropriation he obtained from the federal government for relief purposes, conditions here would have been unbearable. A friend in need is a friend indeed.

Yours very truly,
WALTER BACON
3702 S. Central Avenue.

At the election in 1937, I voted for MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW. The reasons for my voting in this manner are too numerous to mention here; but they are all embodied in his record. I refer all public-spirited, fair-minded citizens to this record which I consider an enviable one.

Yours very truly,
WM. J. GLADSON
Echo Barber Shop
4300 So. Central Avenue

I will vote for MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW at the September 16th election, because I appreciate the interest he has shown in our race as a whole. He has not dealt with us as other public officials have in the past; but as American citizens with equal rights, deserving citizens of equal consideration.

Very sincerely yours,
NEW DEAL TAILORS
James W. Boykin

I am whole heartedly for MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW, because he not only has made good himself, but has YivaYtot thasn self but is GIVING OUR RACE A CHANCE TO MAKE GOOD! Never has any mayor of Los Angeles, in my recollection, given us such a chance before. He has faith and confidence in us, and as a race I believe the only way we can show our appreciation o fthis man who is BIG ENOUGH to recognize the ability of members of a MINORITY GROUP, is by retaining him in the office he no wholds.

Sincerely,
HARRY A. SUTHARD

MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW is still my choice for the Mayor of Los Angeles because among the many other fine things he has done, is the attention he has given to the prevention of Juvenile Delinquency. As a mother, I am particularly grateful to MAYOR SHAW for this, as I am sure are many other mothers, for juvenile delinquency has caused many of us many sleepless nights.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPHINE M. BROWN

Annual Picnic of Protective League is Held

The annual picnic o fthe Los Angeles Protective League was held at South Park, 51st and Avalon, last Friday according to reports. W. M. Bailey, President, put all efforts in the picnic to make it larger than ever. The janitors defeated the elevator operators in the ball game with outstanding players Jimmy Norman, J. C. Tate, H. Allen, W. D. Prater, R. Johnson, Stonewall Jackson, J. Hunt, and West Brooks, contributing to the victory. There were about 800 people in attendance including the janitors, their wives and children and friends.

Master of ceremonies was Sidney Mouton, who introduced the different speakers of the day. Capt. Reynolds, Assistant Chief Janitor, gave a brief talk regarding the department, lauding loyalty of the janitors and janitresses and the Time Clerk, Mrs. Maggie Stovall.

Plan Interracial Day at Church

In keeping with his policy of cementing the relationships of all racial groups through the medium of the church, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, minister of People's Independent Church of Christ announced this week that the fourth Sunday, September 25, will be observed as inter-racial day at the church.

Representatives of various races will participate on the programs at both morning and evening services. The choir under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew, will also be assisted with musical selections from other groups.

This special day will inaugurate a series of inter-racial programs to be sponsored by the Independent church on the Eastside.

Robert Smith Heads Golden State Illinois Office in 'Chi'

Robert W. Smith, assistant director of agencies of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Co., left this week to direct the Company's work in Illinois. Central offices for the area will be located in Chicago and Mr. Smith has been selected to head the work because he has proven his ability in every phase of the business. Announcement of Mr. Smith's appointment was made by George A. Beavers, Jr., Vice President and Director of Agencies.

C.; and also as a which he was district manager in former employee of the People's Finance Coporation in Camden, New Jersey. RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

Well folks I see by the papers that President Roosevelt told the press boys that as far as he was concerned there was no objections to Father Divine and his Good Angels being neighbors of his, that they were all good people and would make good neighbors for anybody. Thank you Father. And also Mr. President it only goes to show as well as demonstrate the type of man you are and that the evil plague of prejudice has no place in our make up. For many years they have preached to my folks that the Democrats are Negro haters. But now when the chief executive of the Democrat party makes a public declaration like you have made it makes me believe that we have been hoodwinked all these years.

Thank you Father.

Some folks get all the life kicked out of them trying to get a kick out of life.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

Delegates Leave For Chicago to Attend Brotherhood Convention

Well folks they're off at last for the International Convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, our esteemed delegates who will make the long trek is the largest group ever to leave the Pacific Coast since the Brotherhood has been organized and are the first accredited delegates to attend a Brotherhood Convention from Los Angeles. In other years Los Angeles has always been represented by proxy because of the heavy expense in sending delegates. With the writing of the new agreement between the Brotherhood and the Pullman Company, Pullman berths were gladly furnished by General Manager Armstrong and Supt. J. P. Leach as well as transportation rates. This fine gesture of the Pullman Company in co-operating with the organization in meeting them half way toward seeing that they attend the convention should leave no doubts in the minds of the skeptical as to the Pullman Company's sincerity in dealing with the Brotherhood and carrying out their part of the contract. The Brotherhod has nothing but the highest commendation for Supt. J. P. Leach and General Manager A. L. Armstrong for their splendid co-operation. Superintendent Leach has always been exceptionally fair in his dealings with the members of the Brotherhood and all that he has ever asked for is that the Porters meet him half way. Reports which arrived here in advance of his taking over the District were misleading and he certainly has proven this during his administration to date.

Scatter To The Four Winds

It seems as though the delegates to the convention are all hiding from each other. H. L. Armstrong will leave on the Golden State Limited Wednesday evening. Mrs. R. J. Murray will also leave on the same train unaware that Armstrong will be on board. W. B. Holland will travel on the Challenger by himself and I am very much alarmed at this because I had delegated Armstrong to look out after him in as much as it has been many years since he has put his foot in a Pullman Car, any way folks here's hoping that they all have a swell trip and arrive safe and sound in the windy city. Oakland is strong to bring the next convention to the Pacific Coast and all the Delegates have been so instructed. Here's hoping that they bring back the bacon.

Porters Feted at Farewell Party of J. Bell Sr.

Laud Veteran on Retirement

A number of porters and friends honored J. Bell Sr. veteran Pullman Porter lately retired from the service after 38 years, last Thursday night at his home, 742 East 33rd Street. The elaborate dinner party in Bell's honor was the idea of Mrs. Edith Pruitt, his daughter and was a complete surprise to her father. The following guests were among those invited: J. L. Hill, Manager of the Angelus Funeral Home, and former president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Wm. Thedford, member of the Executive Board of the Brotherhood, Dan Hood, charter member of the organization, Dr. Bailey, T. Robinson, Wm. Wyndon, T. Simmons, who met Bell 38 years ago in the Pullman service, J. Stafford, Jim Bell son. Mrs. Pruitt was ably assisted by Miss M. S. Woods and Mrs. F. W. Jeffries of Little Rock, Arkansas, W. B. Holland, Secretary-Treasurer J. W. Richardson, Chairman of the Executive Board and Chas. L. Upton, President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. The veteran left the city Saturday evening for New Orleans where he plans to have a family re-union and after a brief visit with old friends will attend the convention of the Brotherhood in Chicago as officer of the organization.

Angelus Funeral Home Adds to Cadillac Fleet

Adding to its fleet of Cadillac cars, the Angelus Funeral Home announced this week through its manager, J. L. Hill, the purchase of another custom-built V-8 Fleetwood Cadillac the second to be purchased this year by the Angelus Home.

The Angelus is known as one of the most beautiful establishments of its kind in the United States, and is regarded by the community it serves as an object of civic pride. Visitors from all parts of the country, the Hawaiian Islands, Canada and Australia have acclaimed it as an institution that is not surpassed in operation and appointment.

Memorial services in the beautifully decorated church chapel of the Angelus are an experience of eloquent beauty. The modern facilities, including air-conditioning, a Kimball pipe organ, a tastefully furnished family room adjoining the chapel, and attractively arranged reposing rooms are available for every service conducted by the Angelus Funeral Home.

Included in the modern arrangements of the establishment is a beautifully decorated drawing room chapel for private services. But Mr. Hill points out that the many advantages of the Angelus and its complete services can be had nowhere else at a lower cost. This is true, he said, because of the large number of families in the community that prefer the exclusive features of the Angelus, thus making it possible to provide its unusual services at costs as low or lower than any to be found in the community.

Besides Mr. Hill as vice-president and manager, the other officers of the Angelus actually belong to the community, and have been material factors in its development by their varied successful activities over a period of years. They include: L. G. Robinson, president, whose success in creating the department of janitors and elevator operators in Los Angeles County, and heading it for nearly 30 years has made him nationally known; Lorenzo Bowdoin, secretary, ranking postal employee, accountant, with many business and civic connections; E. G. Hill, treasurer, retired relator; and Mrs. Sophia L. Smith, known as the mother of all Los Angeles undertakers, and because of her sincere interest in community service and young and old, is popularly known as "Mother Smith."

Because of these prominent civic leaders in its personnel, the Angelus Funeral Home stands high in its profession, both for integrity and competent service. al Home yesterday with Rev. B. church chapel of Angelus Funer-

No Pushovers on Xavier Schedule

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 15. —Not one push-over is what the Xavier college football coaches, handsome Ted Wright and G. O. Wright claim their 1938 schedule does not include. From the first game on Saturday, Sept. 24, with Bishop College to the last with Knoxville on Dec 3, the Wright brothers football geniuses of the Southern loops, say Xavier Gold Rush will have a rocky path to travel.

All of this does not by any means pre-suppose a weak team this year. Quite to the contrary for the Wrights claim they'll come out top o' the heap this season.

V. B.—Should I break up with this young man?

Ans.—I vision this man going through a period of hard luck and consequently he is under a nervous strain. He doesn't mean to be rude to you only he cannot help himself. I see where after an argument he is always sorry. Try to understand him, he will get over this in time and will care for you more for staying by him.

E. C. H.—Will I be successful in finishing high school and going to college?

Ans.—By the proper study on your part you will be able to finish high school. You will then have an opportunity to work your way through college.

D. E. J.—Will I ever marry again and be successful?

Ans.—I see where you jumped into this first marriage and neither of you had anything in common to make a marriage lasting. However this union has given you much experience and you will be able to choose wisely in a second marriage which will turn out successful for you both.

E. W.—Why is it I have so much bad luck?

Ans.—You appear to be of a generous nature and are always thinking of others instead of yourself. Also you trust your friends too much. In other words instead of doing the wise thing you let your friends tell you what to do and believe their judgment is good. I see if you will use your own judgment and save your money in the coming months you will better yourself. After the moon changes in (November of this year you will do much better).

I. W. P.—What is the cause of me being so sick Is there anything wrong with me?

Ans.—Indications are that you have a tendency to over do things. You never stop work no matter how tired you are until a task is finished. Try to overcome this in the future and get as much rest as you can. Also I would suggest that you do not worry about your illness as this will only hinder it. A visit to a reliable physician will help you.

L. P. W.—How can I locate my brother?

Ans.—I vision your brother being in the north and working. He is married and has a little boy If you will get in touch with your relatives I am sure they can give you some information as to his whereabouts.

C. E. M.—Will my husband send for me to come to him or will he soon return home?

Ans. I vision your husband's finances preventing him from sending for you. However, he will return home in the near future and will bring good news.

C. A. S.—Dr. Raymon, please tell me about my future?

Ans.—I see where you have been very much unsettled in your family affairs during the past months. There is a change in store for you in the near future this will come about by your husband. I see where he has made a few mistakes in the past out this is nothing for you to hold against him as he really cares for you and needs you more than ever now. This other man you are interested in is only going to break up your home. Forget about him before it is too late.

F. B.—Does this man care for me?

Ans.—I vision this man whom you have gone with since you were children as being very sincere in his affection for you. This other girl in Hallendale, is only a friend and nothing more.

Owen Lovejoy, one of the great social service leaders of the country who is one of the kindliest of men, was talking about reformers who are capable of seeing but one side of the question. He told a story about an Irishman that reminds us of some editors we know.

The Irishman and his friend were discussing some political question. The fried asked: "Which side are you on Pat?"

" I haven't made up my mind yet," said Pat, "but I can tell you right now that when I have made up my mind I'm going to be bitter."

PERSONALITIES IN MUSIC

A Musical Nationalist

By Daniel I. McNamara

JOHN TASKER HOWARD, A.S.C.A.P., interpreter of current trends in American musical culture, occupies an outstanding position among contemporary men of music. Author, composer, pianist, lecturer, radio speaker, he constantly reveals a spirited nationalism born of pride in the achievements of native American musicians.

His zeal for historical accuracy has made him a storm-center of numerous controversies. It was his personal effort that finally settled the dispute over the birthplace of Stephen Foster, and indicated the restored musical shrine at Pittsburgh as the building that really cradled the great American composer. Similarly he dispelled the myth of Foster's having written "My Old Kentucky Home" in Bardstown, Kentucky.

His encyclopedic work, "Our American Music," and his biographies of Stephen Foster and of Ethelbert Nevin are permanent contributions to the library of American standard literature. His musical compositions include orchestral and choral music, organ and piano pieces, songs, the music for Percy MacKaye's folk-masque, "Wakefield," and many arrangements of early American songs used in his radio broadcasts and lectures.

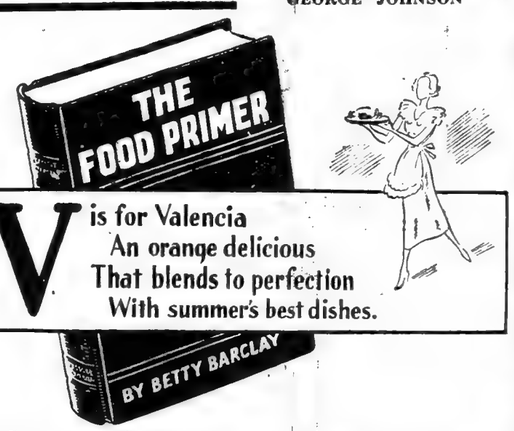
Born November 30, 1890, in Brooklyn, New York, grand nephew of a namesake who founded Plymouth Church of Henry Ward Beecher fame, Howard first studied music with his mother. He left Williams College after three and one-half years, before he completed work for his Bachelor's degree. In 1937 the College conferred on him an honorary degree of Master of Arts.

Brief experience in commerce convinced Howard that music was his life work. He occupied editorial posts with musical publications, then began lecturing and radio work, and the writing of books and biographical pamphlets.

His "Our American Music" is a standard reference work in schools and colleges. His library in his Glen Ridge, New Jersey, home is rich with rare historical documents bearing on the development of music in America.

Howard's enthusiasm for modern music is stimulated by his associations in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, of which he has been a member for many years. More than one thousand creators of music are included in this organization, founded in 1914 by Victor Herbert to protect the performing rights of its members' musical works.

Howard's writing and radio broadcasts are prepared with meticulous care. "Hard writing makes easy reading" is his motto. He has found that for each minute on the air, he spends an hour in preparation.



Howard has five enthusiasms—he lists his family first (he personally teaches his daughter piano); then come contract bridge, golf, cross word puzzles and his cocker spaniel, "Tucky," an abbreviation of "My Old Kentucky Home." But the driving force of his life is his nationalism, his work for recognition of American composers.

Fruit cups, garnishes, salads, cooling drinks or desserts—no matter which comes to your mind on a hot day, the summer or Valencia orange insists upon recognition.

Pile a dozen or two in your refrigerator fruit container. They will furnish you with ice-cold breakfast appetizers, juicy slices for flavor for the noon salad and a fitting ingredient for the evening dessert.

Best of all, the orange is decidedly alkaline in its reaction and is rich in Vitamins A, B and C. It tends to offset that acid condition so often resulting from eating too heartily when your favorite acid-reaction foods are placed before you.

Here are two recipes that may be tried by those whose refrigerator is stocked today with oranges—or by those who will take a minute to procure them from the nearest fruit or grocery store:

Jellied Fruit Salad
(Serves 6-8 in individual molds)
Gelatine Base

1 tablespoon granulated gelatine
½ cup cold water
Soak 5 minutes. Add:
½ cup orange juice, heated but not boiled
Stir to dissolve gelatine. Add:
¾ cup orange juice, not heated
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
Sprinkling salt

Salad

When beginning to stiffen, add:
1 cup orange pieces, drained
½ cup diced bananas
½ cup sliced peaches (or pears)
Pour into individual molds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Baked Orange Marie
(Serves 4)

4 Valencia oranges
With a sharp knife cut off tops and remove meat from oranges, leaving shells clean. Combine orange meat with:
8 dates, stoned and shredded
4 teaspoons chopped walnuts
4 teaspoons seeded raisins
4 teaspoons grated coconut
Sweeten to taste. Fill orange shells. Bake in a dish with ½ inch of water in bottom, in a slow oven for 45 minutes. Take out of oven and top oranges with a meringue made from:
1 egg white, stiffly beaten with
2 tablespoons sugar
Sprinkle meringue with coconut and return oranges to oven to brown. Serve hot or cold. A marshmallow may be used to top each orange in place of meringue.

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Society Editor

In friendly two's . . . all the way from six-years old to twenty . . . in three's and crowds parrying off friendly shoves . . . now and then a petulant one who'd like to thumb his nose at the whole business of "edjication" and who'd give anything for one more week to do the things he wanted to do all summer . . . It's school time again and the kids are for the most part as happy to get back to books as indulgent parents who've had them home for two months and more.

In the upper brackets, there're a few days of grace . . . Sunday, Alfred Norman leaves for Redlands University where he is transferring from Loyola . . . a very brilliant record has been made by him. Jimmy McDaniels, newly-crowned king of West Coast tennis, left Sunday for Xavier University in New Orleans . . . Ross Snyder tennis fellows presented him with robe and slippers as a going-away token. Jimmy'll probably have folks of the East watching him take tennis bacon to Xavier and we'll root right here as if it were on one of the favorite coast courts.

Rhetta Jean Boswell finishes 'Force next June . . . Porter Mann'll be returning for a second year and the pretty little Easter co-ed (her first name slips me) will bring a diploma home, too . . . next June. By the way, we're anxious for notes on all who're just starting or returning to school (of collegiate rank) for next week. Don't forget.

TO A WOULD-BE STOOGE:

Dear E. M. O.—So sorry that I can't take a chance on printing the gossip you prepared so nicely for this section . . . You see, I'd hardly know E. M. O. from Adam . . . and the folks who'd be barging in to blacken my eye or any convenient part of the anatomy would hardly care. Thanks, loads . . . How about coming in and letting me see just who you are and what you MIGHT have on the ball? (Aside to readers: Please excuse such slang in your polite section.)

A card from Clarence Johnson who has assumed his duties in Dee Cee says that everything's fine and he likes it very much . . . Sends regards to everybody. Dr. Lois Gibson of Monterey, who spent a week beaming around our sprawling city winning just scores of admirers, reluctantly left Sunday . . . Certainly was a refreshing person to meet. Her folks are Oaklanders and Lois is a case of girl makes good where no one thought she could . . . Met her at a soiree Tuesday evening of last week in the home of Lillian Jennings Fentress . . . who serves the best late suppers in town.

. . . "I choke, I gasp, I swoon, I die" . . . cried the villain as he staggered through the door to his chambers . . . "Virtue is triumphant . . . " tremored the maiden . . . "Not all the jewels gold can buy is worth the title wife", surrendered the rewarded victim . . . and down banged the curtain! . . . When I wrote bang, I meant just that . . . and if there ever was a bang-up evening it was Thursday night when the A. Phillip Randolph Lodge sponsored "The Blackguard", a real old-fashioned melodrama . . . where you boo the villain and talk back to the characters if you feel that way . . . guzzle beer and munch pretzels to your heart's content . . . and laugh until it hurts for more.

Between acts and at lulls . . . it was fun to nod at and chat with a number of the two hundred guests . . . Among them: Alvin and Margaret Brownlee, she looking very smart in early fall brown; Meredith Hatcher, Emily Larkin Thompson and her handsome hubby; Mrs. Earl Broady, the Loren Millers (Juanita Ellsworth); Ivan and Dorothy Johnson, and dozens of others . . . plus cronies Lois Evans, Sylvia Smith, and visitor, Dr. Gibson.

AWAY FROM IT ALL:

Just ten cents distance from the hubbub of things and yet . . . really away from squawking radios, telephones, and pussyfooting campaigners . . . for a week-end in Griffith Park YWCA camp . . . where 76 young women did some serious considering of the problems of business and professions between swims . . . and wholesome food. A campfire and a dreamless sleep was tantamount to a week's rest . . . and I'm looking forward to another such confab . . . in the outdoors . . . one of these days.

Ere that, Friday evening offered a treat in the Boswell home to bid adieu to Prof. and Mrs. Thomas Boswell of Tennessee State A. & I. College . . . pick up sticks, a new kind of racing game, and tall tales . . . kept glee feeling a welcome guest. Likable Lois Boswell, one of the honoree's nieces, was attractive in a red formal enhanced by one of those sequin jackets that are going to be one of the fall and winter rages . . . and Billie Cooper was sincere in trying for the booby prize. Florence "Tiny" Cadrez graciously presented her prize to the honoree . . . who's got one of those warm Southern smiles and voices that goes right to your heart . . . and is cinched by unassuming friendliness. MRS. KARL E. DOWNS MATRON OF HONOR AT KIN'S WEDDING RITES

JUANITA JACKSON BECOMES BRIDE OF CLARENCE MITCHELL, URBAN LEAGUE SECRETARY, ON PARENTS' ANNIVERSARY

Mrs. Karl E. Downs, wife of the pastor of the Scott Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Pasadena, was a matron of honor in the wedding of her sister, Juanita E. Jackson, former director of the youth division of the N. A. A. C. P., to Clarence M. Mitchell on Wednesday, September 7, at 6:30 o'clock in the Sharp Street M. E. Church, Baltimore, Maryland.

Approximately 1500 persons saw the bride given in marriage by her father, Keiffer A. Jackson at the ceremony read by Dr. W. A. A. C. Hughes who married her parents in 1910. The Rev. Robert F. Coates, pastor of Sharp Street Church, assisted. The wedding marked the twenty-eighth anniversary of the bride's parents.

Miss Jackson was gowned in white slipper satin with Schiaparelli sleeves a tight basque bodice which buttoned to a heart shaped neckline, bouffant skirt drifting into a sweeping court train. Her veil of bridal illusion which was worn by her sister, Mrs. Downs, last June was attached to a coronet of tulle. The bridal bouquet was of white Madonna lilies; her only ornament was a string of pearls with diamond clasp which was the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Downs, matron of honor along with another sister, Mrs. C. Lycurgus Kiah of Cambridge, Maryland, wore colonial frocks of Mexican turquoise taffeta, similarly fashioned to that of the bride, with hoop skirts and poke bonnets in the same color tied with rose tulle bows. They carried old fashioned bouquets of talisman roses. Little Lois Staples of Baltimore, the flower girl wore a ruffled frock, also of Mexican turquoise taffeta iwth hoop skirt and a poke bonnet.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 1216 Druid Hill Avenue. In the receiving line were the mother of the bride, mother of the groom, the newly wedded couple, and the bridesmaids. In the candle lighted dining room on a Venetian lace tablecloth stood a four tier wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom on the upper tier. The house overflowed with roomsfull of gifts of all descriptions. Miss Louise Smythe of Austin, Texas caught the bride's bouquet.

The couple left immediately after the reception for New York City where they will sail September 10 on the S. S. Monarch for a honeymoon in Bermuda.

The bride wore an English tailored suit of yellow shetland wool with chateau wine accessories. Her going away corsage was an orchid. After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in St. Paul Minn., where Mr. Mitchell is executive secretary of the Urban League.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is especially known for her leadership in youth movements. She organized the City-wide Young People's Forum in Baltimore and is a former vice-president of the National Council of Methodist Youth, an inter-racial organization of 350,000 youths.

The groom is a graduate of Lincoln University (Pa.) and studied at the Atlanta School of Social Work as an Urban League fellow. He was successively a member of the staff of the Afro-American, State director of Negro Work for the N. Y. A. in Maryland and his present post in St. Paul. STYLE NOTES

Style Headlines for this week borrow a word from the ice box and pass it on for your considefation . . . or maybe, we'd better make it a phrase . . because it isn't just enough to give you left overs . . . Let's call them warmed up left overs and see just what sort of wardrobe is forthcoming.

Consideration of what you have left over from last year's apparel will not only contribute to your smartnes but save a goodly sum for your budget . . . Let's begin at the top . . . with hats. If you have a durable Stetson of steeple crown you might try knocking the crown as far forward as possible with a bright felt band hiding the crease . . . or leave it bare except for a feather stuck at a giddy angle. If the hat will stand it have the crown tipped over to meet the brim and you're right up to the last Paris fashion showing.

As far as working girls are concerned, the plaids are the most welcome of left overs . . . for stylists have decreed that they stay and that combination outfits of plaid skirt with plain tailored jacket and vice versa will be further enhanced with brilliant accesories in pink and greens that border on flashiness. Dresses of subdued plaids can be brightened by the increasing numbers of novelty fastenings and scarfs or with plain white satin collars that seem to be popular on anything for the fall.

Helco jersey is apparently the leading left-over in materials in shades that were popular last fall--aquamarine, zinnerian rust plus the new blue you see in smart shop windows.

Friend of every season is the black light woolen dress that can be modified with a bright jacket or touch of color at the throat, waist or sleeve. If it's a satin or crepe dress, the metalic braid on loose range sleeves or bordering the neckline will be all the trimming you need to transform it and become the envy of your friends. Seude is the leading left-over in shoes with wine and green giving black amerry chase. Loud brooches of nondescrint shapes and colors that you might have hidden away in a drawer will stand you in good stead . . . but you don't relish wearing them at the neckline . . . you can get in line with the most novel of novel fads of the fall . . . by wearing them on the back of one of your gloves--that's a Paris tip.

Brother of Bert Ritchie Jim Crowed on Baseball Tour

SAN DIEGO. (By Mrs. E. B. Wesley)—Indignation was expressed in these quarters this week with the return home of San Diego Post No. 6's boys' baseball team which won the national title. Two Negro boys, one of them the brother of Bert Ritchey, former San Diego high school athlete, were members of the team, but met the usual jim crow in the South and in two towns were not permitted to play because of the expressed antipathy of the Southern "Sportsmen". The lads are John Ritchey and Nelson Manual, both excellent base and field players.

They reported that in Charlotte and Spartansburg, S. C., they were barred from the playing field.

Comments on the incident by the older Ritchie, now a San Diego policeman were printed in the San Diego Sun, white daily newspaper. Ritchie said:

"Although I'm happy about the kids winning the national title I'm also a little burned up about the way South Carolina treated my brother and Nelson Manual. They're both good players and I can't see why they were not allowed to play. I'd like to hear the straight of that. What if they were pitchers and the team absolutely needed them to win the games?"

Other than the discrimination the lads report a very fine time had on the tour. They are expected to go on to New York next month to attend the World's Series as a reward for fine playing.

Distinctive Recognition

The San Diego Constitutional committee, appointed by Mayor Percy J. Benbow, on request of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was honored at a dinner Monday night at the San Diego club. Among those awarded appointments on the committee were Mrs. E. W. Anderson and D. V. Allen. Ernest Ware, editor of a local paper, was guest of Mr. Allen. The committee will present a program in Ford Bowl, Balboa Park, on Saturday afternoon and will be honored at dinner that evening in the Home of Hospitality, Balboa Park.

RACE TRACK & Gossip

By JAY GOULD

POMONA, Sept. 15—Pomona Fair steps in tomorrow for it's 17 day meet. Half the world says it's the largest fair in California and the other half says it's the largest in the world. It should let 30,000 people through its turnstiles daily with eight running races each day and mutuals.

This column is for sport and fun and to keep names from getting lost to the public, so if anyone gets hinkty or sour grapes, we apologize.

Jim Hilt, former big shot of Chicago, who spent and tossed away ten thousand in five weeks, was heard to say, while betting on a longshot at Arlington Park, "If this wins I will get a million". John Willis and his charming wife, of 'Frisco, have been separated for some time. Warnings from his doctor that domestic worries may cause fatal heart attack may prompt her to return to Willis. Joe Campbell of Seattle, another new find who is just the right age. Visiting down San Diego way, and taking in the bull fights in Mexico were Mrs. Van Williams, Mrs. Marie Strathen, Mrs. Theresa Felton and Mr. Wm. Divoin. Mrs. M. V. Oriviss of 'Frisco. Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Bordens and daughter, June, of Ft. Worth, Tex., Mrs. Thelma Wickham of L. A. and Mrs. L. T. Moore, Dean of Paul Quinn College of Waco, Tex. were visiting and sight-seeing through Sunny California.

John Levey, now in Los Angeles, who is racing a stable of horses in the East and his friend Gardner, also of New York, put the okay on the land of sunshine and flowers. Katherine Majett of San Francisco, who takes her mail at Jack's Tavern, on Sutter Street, can't seem to decide between Les Hite and Floyd Ray of band fame. Willie Morhead of band fame is still trying to collect on a cancelled contract at San Diego. Jay Chavis of Tacoma owed Tommy Glass fifty dollars and couldn't sleep at night. Vernon Brown, a 'Frisco bartender, sang to the pretty and shapely Hanah Halah, "If I loved you more, I would need another heart. But since Vernon has had plenty dough, he doesn't sing any more."

Benny Ayers, who failed to make the grade as a handicapper at Hollywood Park, is far from being discouraged and will try again. Roy Cox and his pretty wife, Rosa Lee of San Diego, ought to get reconcilled and save rent, as they are seen together early and late. Society George Dean, San Diego's playboy, stood in the hot sun for six hours, waiting for a Miss Harvey of Seattle to show up, which she didn't. Charles Echols and his Wysinger Band, have just received the okay on their swing and will be lead-off band at the World's Fair in 1939 at San Francisco. John Cloud, ex-police officer, who retired on pension with his family has been traveling through every state in the union and will return home to San Diego, some time this month.

Santa Monica Singers in London Hit

SANTA MONICA, (By Willie Louise Gilmore)—Several local residents were quite fortunate in receiving letters from Santa Monica's own world famous Peters Sisters, who are performing in London in a musical comedy extravaganza "Anchors Aweigh." The girls, who are accompanied by their very charming mother, have been in Europe nearly a month following their sensational run as co-stars of "Cotton Club Revue of 1938" and a personal appearance tour that caused sell-out crowds in the big eastern cities of New York, Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia.

The choir members of Calvary Baptist church of this city entertained with a unique farewell tea in honor of Mrs. Geraldine Luvenia Lewis who has served as chorister and organist there for the past 18 months.

An enjoyable program was rendered, followed by a lovely repast. Mrs. Lewis was presented with a lovely scarf by the choir also a basket of flowers. A pink silk pillow was presented by Little Miss Doris Dudley . . . Women choir members entertained the men who raised the largest sum of money during the recent rally.

Those present were: Mesdames Clara Trotter, Ophelia Cook, Overton, Lynch, Mattie Thomas, Liggins, Juanita Waters, Georgia Walker, Lottie Woodrow, Emma Jones, Hazel Tippins and Miss Lillye Mae Linly. Chas. Fortune, Leonard, Lynch, Will Linly, John Moore, Liggins, Anderson, Trotter, E. Brown and Mr. Elliott.

The BYPU auxiliary of Calvary Baptist church gave a well patronized weiner bake, Labor Day at Inspiration Point. This affair was enjoyed by all. The 4th Sunday is to be known as Sunday School day, a pleasing program will be rendered Sunday at 10 a. m. James Holloway is Superintendent.

The Harlem Juvenile Revue which was an overwhelming success made its appearance at Miles Playhouse, September 1st under the auspices of the Cosmopolitan club of S. M. Mrs. Cecilia Allen, Gabaldon teacher and Director. Music by the Melody Makers orchestra of L. A. Costumes designed and made by Mrs. Louise Banks.

More talent and new finds were brought to the public. Because of a capacity house those unable to witness this performance will have the opportunity in December when the revue will return with a complete change of show. Barbara Gammage our ten year old blues singer won first prize by selling the largest number of tickets.

The Gumshoers . . .

S. M. will possibly witness its biggest wedding when Marion Silvey and Frank Barnes "will say it to the preacher" at A. M. E. church October 23rd . . . Last Labor Day found many La Monicans at the Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament where they witnessed the dethroning of Mr. Jas. "Slick" Stocks by Jim McDaniels who virtually blasted Mr. Stocks off the Court . . . Congrats to Chas. Morrah and Lloyd Courtney in their desperate efforts to represent S. M. in the Pacific Coast Tennis Tournament . . . 'Tis Rumored that Lucille Maxwell will wed in December . . . I guess we will have to buy Emmett Tabor a war tank to play with, because he is too hard on an ordinary car . . . Geo. Sim's face is long as Maud the Mule since Fay Meshach left town . . . After a brief illness Robb Ware is seriously staging a tennis comeback . . . Fan mail . . . Dear Snoopum: You seem to know every thing so answer this one, has Booker Allen our local shoe shiner tried out for modeling for photographic studies? . . . Mr. Allen admits that he has one of the best formed torsos and a very good photographic face . . . Fred Parks tellin gabout the swell chicks he's met . . . Have you seen Sid Whitley's swell page boy hair dress? . . . We hope most sincerely those rumors are groundless about Mrs. Bass selling out the Eagle . . . a certain white "sheet" down here would try to make front page stuff over an insignificant incident.

CHICAGO, THRU WPA, CHECKS JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Through the Works Progress Administration, Chicago, Ill., is shouldering its civic responsibility by keeping a check on juvenile delinquency. Mr. Horace Cayton, pictured in the photo to the top right, is co-director with Dr. Lloyd Warner, prominent sociologist, of a full study of "the cultural and social factors surrounding the problem of juvenile delinquency in the Negro community in the Illinois metropolis." The top center photo shows the urban life which exerts a pressure upon the youths shown at play in the next picture.

The other views show draftsmen mapping the trends of crime in the community, and the stenographic force making up records of investigators. The work of a total of 125 W. P. A. workers on this project will be used by the public and remedial agencies to prevent further crime among youths ranging in age from that of the youth shown in the lower right to young folk in their early twenties. LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By Miriam Matthews

The spiritual novels of Floyd Douglas are of great interest to many types of readers and the successive filming of his "Magnificent Obsession." "Green Light", and "White Banners" has greatly stimulated the demand for novels of this type.

We wish therefore to recommend "The Gardner who saw God", by Edward James, the inspiring and though provoking story of a young head gardener at a great English estate who saw and spoke with God among the flowers in his beloved garden just after he had suffered a great disappointment. Through the vision of the gardener the reader sees the futility, uselessness and absurdity of much of modern society and catches a glimpse of what life might and should be.

This leads us to mention "Greater Love." by John Ratnbone Oliver which illustrates the golden rule through the example of a mother and her son who is a Catholic priest. These two decide to dedicate one month of their lives each year to helping people in distress as a sort of voluntary penance for a third member of their own family who has committed a crime against society. The success of their efforts to bring happiness to many makes one of the best stories Dr. Oliver has written since his Pulitzer Prize Winner, "Victim and Victor". It will prove a real and unique experience for those who read it.

Another simple but dramatic volume is Owen Francis Dudley's "The Coming of the Monster", which relates the adventures of a monk in his struggles against the forces of evil. It is one of those novels which once started, cannot be set aside until finished. Most readers will feel better for having read it.

Although it is not a novel, "The Star Wagon," Maxwell Anderson's play about a dreamy inventor deserves mention here. Thinking his life might have been better had he married the rich girl instead of the poor one, this inventor made a machine to turn time backward only to learn that success, wealth and luxury do not necessarily spell happiness. It is not one of the author's great plays but you will enjoy the loving touch he has given to the story and the characters.

THIS CHANGING WORLD!

Millions of people would probably be startled half out of their wits if grocers published a list of their best-sellers.

In California, and the same probably holds true elsewhere, a current survey on where the money goes reveals that city-dwellers spend more money for beer at their grocer's than they do for eggs, and more for cigarettes than they do for either milk or bread.

The plain truth behind these amazing facts with that obviously the most essential items stand or fall by advertising. The makers of cigarettes and beer have never hesitated to tell the world about their products. The same cannot always be said about these runners-up on the best-selling lists. A protein without publicity, it would seem, has no more sales value than a proton. Which indicates that some of the lagging producers might take a valuable lesson from California's orange growers.

Thirty years ago, orange consumption per capita was 15 per year, and all that wasn't consumption. Scarcity and high prices made oranges something to put in the fruit bowl on the mantel-piece just to be looked at.

Today the per capita figure is 79. Advertising and mass distribution did it—proven factors in success ever since retail networks opened a new era with two prime discoveries. They found they could pass on to consumers some quarter of a million in saving yearly, and operate on an average net profit of little more than one half-cent of the consumer's dollar.

It's up to the hen to profit by the lesson she learned in May and June when a campaign of advertising by farmers and network stores multiplied the sale of her product and gave her something really to cluck about!

Ladies of St. Paul Give Musical Tea

The Ladies Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 666 E. 37th Street of which Rev. Paul Lehman is pastor, presented to the public their first Musical Tea at the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday which proved to be a splendid success.

The very charming Mrs. J. B. McLean acted as mistress of Ceremonies. She also assisted Miss Helen Edwards and Mrs. Lorena Lehman at the piano.

The program was opened with "America" sang by the audience after which Mrs. McLean presented her numbers.

Mrs. Cathrine Owens rendered a very beautiful piano solo, after which little Master Roy Spikes favored us with with a piano solo "Moonlight Sonata". One so young's talent was greatly appreciated by the audience. Mrs. Detta Grass and Mrs. Azerine Rodgers gave us a sweet musical number "The Perfect Prayer". Miss Orolia Nickerson played a well selected piano solo. The audience sang "I Need Thee Every Hour" Our own Mrs. Emma Howard composed and recited a musical reading.

The high light of the evening was a short talk by the Hon. Judge Georgia Bullock. Mr. Herman J. Saunders sang, that old familiar song, "Love Me and the World is Mine". Mr. A. A. Peters director of McCoy Memorial Chapel Choir gave the audience several lovely numbers assisted by a gentlemen friend. These numbers were an inspiration to every one who attended.

Mr. Walter Johnson splendidly rendered three piano selections which were highly appreciated by all lovers of music.

Mrs. J. Llewelyn, Mrs. Willie Johnson, Mrs. Douglas gave two lovely spirituals.

Last but not least, Little Master Donald Brown of Movie fame gave the audience two vocal selections.

The officers of the Missionary Society are Mrs. Ethel Batchelor, President; Mrs. J. B. McLean, vice president; Mrs. Lorena Lehman, Secretary; and Mrs. Mulvid, Treasurer.

Beauticians of Nation Meet in Windy City; Seek Laws

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (ANP)—Featured by the presence here of nearly 500 licensed beauticians, operators and beauty shop owners from all sections of the country, who listened to lectures, took part in demonstrations and explained new methods of hair and beauty treatment, the National Beauty Culturists League held the largest and most interesting convention in its history last week at the Savoy ballroom. Among those attending was Mrs. Ruth Mosby of Los Angeles.

Main objective of the League is to bring about standardized and approved methods of treating hair, scalp and skin; to elevate the standards of the profession; protect licensed operators and owners from the menace of 'bootleg' shops, inferior service and price-cutting, and to secure passage of state laws to protect the interests of all Association members.

Marjorie Stewart Joyner is president of the beauticians' national body. At Thursday's session election of officers consumed almost the entire day, with Mrs. Joyner again elected to head the organization. A gala ball marked the close of Thursday's activities with the big Savoy ballroom crowded to capacity by delegates and visitors. Newly elected officers were presented during the intermission.

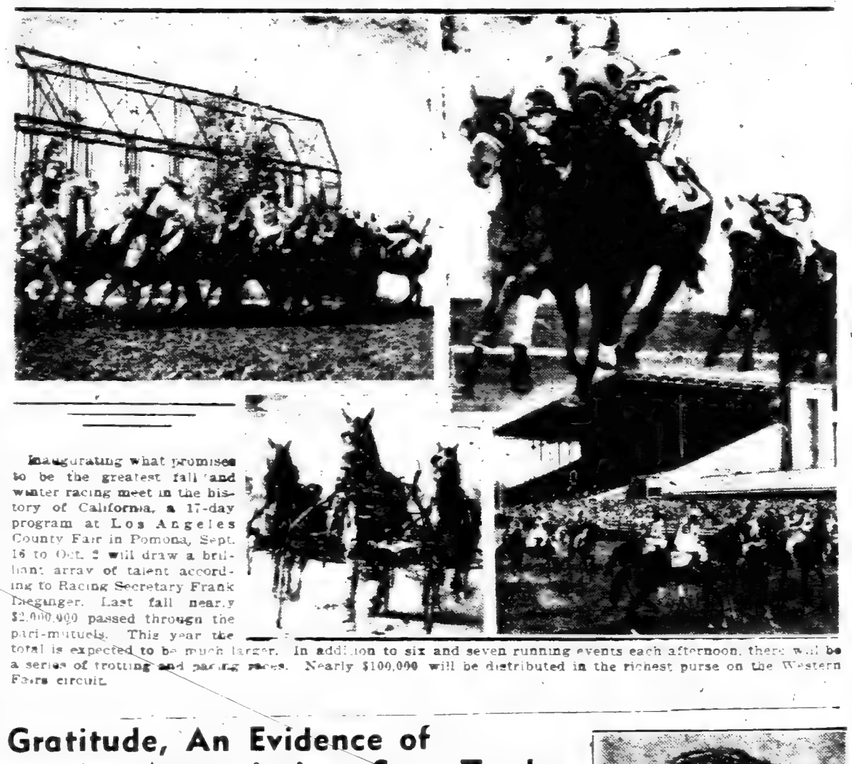
By ABLYNE LOCKHART



Is Social Service fascinating? Miss Edith Hanson answers this question in the affirmative. Just as we cross the tracks on Thirteenth Street, in Riverside, we meet Miss Edith Hanson, white who is Executive Secretary of the Settlement House. She possesses a fine, sincere personality and a great depth of understanding of all races.

Miss Hanson tells us. " In private agency work there is a whole new motive in child guidance, in case work, group work, and field work, which supplements the Public Agency. The general educational program that is carried out here, takes up the leisure hours of the unemployed and partially unemployed."

Miss Hanson has an outstanding background. She was born in California, and received her education in Chaffey and the University of California at Berkeley. In 1921 she was called to the beautifule isle of Hawaii to serve as Kauai County Director of the Y. W. C. A. for six and a half years. Her leave-taking was regretted by all the Islanders. She returned to the United States to work in the Oakland International Institute as Director for two years. Then she decided to study in England at the London University. Upon her return to the United States she came to the Riverside Community Settlement and spent five years working in the interest of the two major groups of the Eastside—Mexican and Negro and othe nationalities. Called back to Hawaii for another eighteen months, for three months she worked with the Kauai Y. W. C. A. and re-organized the County Welfare Work under Social Security.

TURF KINGS TO BATTLE AT POMONA FOR RICHEST COUNTY FAIR PURSE

Inaugurating what promises to be the greatest fall and winter racing meet in the history of California, a 17-day program at Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona, Sept. 16 to Oct. 2 will draw a brilliant array of talent according to Racing Secretary Frank Degenger. Last fall nearly $2,000,000 passed through the pari-mutuels. This year the total is expected to be much larger. In addition to six and seven running events each afternoon, there will be a series of trotting and pacing races. Nearly $100,000 will be distributed in the richest purse on the Western Fairs circuit.

Gratitude, An Evidence of Appreciation, Says Towles

By DR. H. H. TOWLES

Friday morning will be an important calendar date for the citizens of Los Angeles. You will be asked to make a decision that involves the future of our fair city as well as the destiny of two political groups who have come to the point where they differ on executive leadership. Our present Mayor, FRANK L. SHAW, is seeking a vote of confidence of the people who put him in office in 1933 and re-elected him in 1937. A perusal of his record entitles him to this vote of confidence, for despite the fact that he has been hampered and heckled by several disgruntled groups and would-be reformers, he has given to this city administration of which no particular group of citizens can complain. This type of administration, seemingly does not satisfy the rabble who are continuously howling at his heels, demanding that he be RE-CALLED from office and even showing thirst for blood, stopping short of nothing, but asking for the Mayor's life. He has given all of his time to the people, even the hours that he should spend with his sick wife. He is compelled to forego this pleasure and devote these hours defending his right to the office of the Mayor, to which office he was elected by the majority of citizens.

It has been charged that the Communists have joined the RE-CALL movement in an effort to destroy the Department of Safety known as the Police Department, and by their ringing appeals to the emotions and prejudices of a group of people who do not think for themselves, have developed a following that if allowed to increase to any preceptible strength, would be to encourage these rabid reds to attempt to bring about a revolution in order to attain their ambitions.

So prove yourself citizens capable of judging the good from the bad and retain in office, MAYOR FRANK L. SHAW.

HONORED BY LEGION

In recognition of the leading part he played in bringing the national American Legion convention to Los Angeles, Mayor Frank L. Shaw, aside, was presented with a special citation by members of the Legion at an impressive ceremony held last Sunday night in Gilmore stadium.

Thousands of spectators and several hundred Legionnaires witnessed the presentation ceremony. Mayor Shaw is one of the few recipients of the special citation.

Surprise Party

A surprise party was given to honor the seventeenth birthday of Lorenza Fagin on September 7 at her home by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson. More than a score of friends attended.

CATCHES ON

Los Angeles' Clarence Johnson newly apointed assistant for Negro labor relations in the United States Housing Authority has caught onto the intricacies of his work and is in the thick of the Washington scene, it was learned here this week. Johnson formerly was an officer of the Dining Car Employees Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

Working out of the office of Dr. Robert C. Weaver, special assisstant to USHA Administrator Nathan Straus, Mr. Johnson will direct his efforts in the interest of skilled and unskilled Negro labor participation in the Government's $800,000,000 low rent housing program.

The LAUNDRYMAN

Hello, folks! Well, It has actually come to pass. I seen it with my own eyes last Thursday past. What was it? I'm afraid I'll have to tell a little story in order for you to fully understand.

Many years ago in a certain college I was studying Cicero, Virgil and Horace, under the capable direction of Prof. William Pickens, with the unwitting aim—as I now perceive—of preparing myself to become an efficient wielder of the W. P. A. shovel. One day during class he told us about a vaudeville manager who had a closing act which never failed to bring down the house. He always introduced this act as follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen! You have heard I know, of the Seven Wonders of the World; of the Collossus of Rhodes, of the Sphinx, of the pyramid of Cheops, of the Temple of Karnak and so forth. But I assure you, Truly this is a New Day, you that in this act you are now about to witness, you will the same direction, on the same perceive something still more amazing, still more astonishing, still more incredible." At this point he would give the signal for the curtain to be drawn, and as it slowly receded he would shout "Behold the Eighth wonder of the world", and there, to the astonishment of all beholders would be three gentlemen of color pulling together on a grass rope.

That in short is exactly what I seen last Thursday with my own eyes. Two dozen colored Real estate brokers agreeing to organize, and pull together in the Day of Miracles. The only fly in the ointment to me however, was the fact that two white men had to furnish the rope for us to pull on. Somehow, during fifteen or more active years of service we had not been able to bring ourselves together for our own, and the public's good.

Howbeit, thanks to the energy and enthusiasm of a Young entrant into the real estate field, Mr. Frank J. Whitley, who secured the aid of the white Los Angeles Realty Board in his effort, the Colored Real Estate Brokers of Los Angeles have consented to form an organization along the lines established by their white brothers. This step if carried to completion, will make history in the future evolution of the East-side section with its rapidly growing colored population.

The benefits of the Colored Public will be two-fold. First it will enable the Colored Brokers to bring organized pressure to bear upon the problem of opening up new residential districts for the housing of our group. Secondly, through the efforts of an organized Board of brokers many obstacles which now bar our group from participating in the benefits of Government loans with their low rate of interest, can be removed. Both of these objectives are possible through the medium of organized presure. So let us hope and pray that the Colored Brokers of Los Angeles will press forward, and falter not. More in detail concerning the methods by which our group are barred from securing Government loans will be given in next week's column. So long.

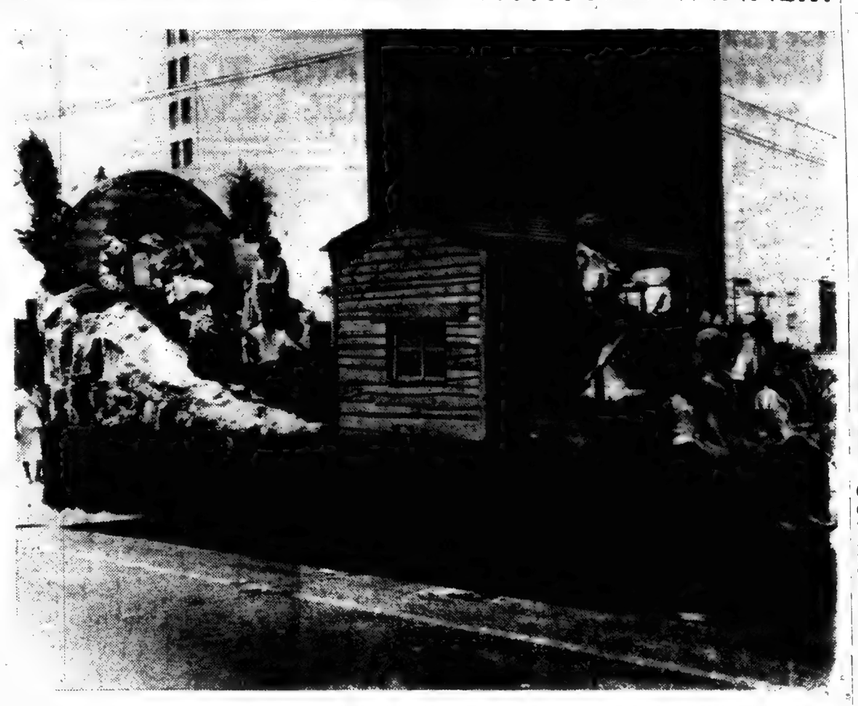
Picture: "Fast Company"
Place: Tivoli
Players Melvyn Douglas, Florence Rice

The Tivoli theatre's new policy of "fine features" swings into high with this fast-stepping, hilarious "Who Done It". The film is one of those rare things that presents an able cast working under the hand of a competent director—with an A-plus script.

Pardon our enthusiasm, but read any of the old reviews on "The Thin Man" and perhaps you'll note an identical strain. After the famed "T. M." every studio in Hollywood attempted to duplicate the smash M-G-M picture. All manner and description of detectives suddenly assulted the nation's screens—each one quipping cute witticisms betwixt murders.

Then of a sudden Universal released "My Man Godfrey" and a William Powell film once more had started a "Cycle". The dizzy, cracked, imbecilic little dramas quickly displaced equally dippy detectives. Carole Lombard rolled up the biggest salary paid an American woman by continuing "Godfreyish" performances. But now, in the midst of the present "homey" cycle (Joneses, Hardys, et al), M-G-M, studio which produced "Thin Man", comes through with its only successful imitator in the person of "Fast Company."



Made as Bee. "F. C." is one of those cinemefforts which did a nip-up on its creators by turning out smash entertainment. Melvyn Douglas hits the stride of "Theodora Goes Wild", while Florence Rice proves she's something more than an average ingenue. Sprinkled with fast dialogue and hilarious situations, "Fast Company" is a good as its "coming attractions" which boast shots of:

1. Melvyn Douglass: "Don't look at me; my skirts are clean."
2. Florence Rice: "Why I'm the heroine of this little opera."
3. Louis Calhern: "One never knows—does one?"
4. Nat Pendleton: "I ain't talkin'; cat's got my tongue", and 5. George Zucco: Don't be silly; I'm the murdered man!"

Picture: "Four Daughters"
Place: Warner Brothers
Players: all the Lanes in Pictures

"Four Daughters" is a precedent establisher. It presents two young gentlemen positively assured of stardom: Jeffry Lynn and John Garfield. It presents one Miss Pricilla Lane, hitherto only sung-in-the-face by Dick Powell and vice versa, in a tender beautifully executed performance. It presents Lola Lane acting as she certainly has never acted before. It presents Gale Page in one of the finest scenes ever photographed. It presents Michael Curtiz in an amazing duplication of the gentle nostalgic charm director Edmund Goulding achieved in ional group. Mr. Graham is Su- "White Banners"—without the incredible story. It presents the theatre going public a great picture.

AS THOUSANDS CHEERED .....THE WINNER!

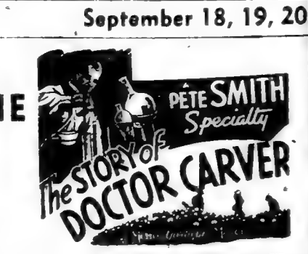
PLANS FEATURE

CHARLES EDWARDS, young cameraman and UCLA student, who last year walked off with an Academy award for a motion picture he produced himself, and this year has been assigned to the cameras of Million Dollar Productions, will aid the editors of the California Eagle in the production of a rotagravure section, entitled "What's Going On". Subscribers to the West's Greatest Weekly are cautioned to watch for the new full-picture section to appear in the very near future.



Edwards, who is reputedly the only local Negro owning complete motion picture equipment, received the Academy award for his work on the Little Green Valley boys' camoreel of two summers ago.

Ticket scalping, masquerading under the guise of "service charges," is the latest devolopment in the sale of Federal Theatre duc-at to "Run Little Chillun," Hall Johnson's deep South Negro drama now in its seventh smash week at the Mayan Theatre, it was learned today.

TO STIR A DULL WORLD

We wis it were possible for us to repeat over and over again to the young people who are readers of this publication these few sentences by David Grayson:

"Son many men in this world are going nowhere in particular that when one comes along—even though he be amusing and insignificant—who is really (and passionately) going somewhere, what a stir he communicates to a dull world! We catch sparks of electricity from the very friction of his passage."

If you, having read this paragraph, were asked to write down your life purpose could you do it? What is the contribution you want to make? How do you desire to make it?

DOWN IN FRONT

BY ALMENA DAVIS

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

It is no longer a secret that the writer of this column is a member of that particularly presumptious sex known as the female. Out of a feeling of timidity to invading the sacred, masculine realm of sports, an effort was made to cloak my identity behind the top-heavy figure that adorns this column. But, I reckoned without some people being able to understand Spanish and thus finding my name is the feminine gender of the word "batte". Thus gradually, the word has gotten around that "it's a girl."

The aforesaid timidity had root in other than awe and respect for the last stronghold of the male—I doubt my ability to write of sports. However the timidity, at any rate, has gone I found that brawny males like the idea of talking of their prowess to an obviously impressionable woman. The doubts as to capability, well—time alone will tell.

One athlete who has followed my efforts along this line from the start, told me in a confidential moment that natural feminine instincts stood in the way of my becoming a successful writer. He explained, where Damon Runyon or Sid Ziff write of an athlete's performance and base criticisms on cause and effect, I must inject my womanly intuition into the scene ever so often and read into the scheme of things that, which the masculine mind not seeing, swears is not there.

Nevertheless, I firmly believe that womanly intuition is an invaluable aid to sports writing if it hadn't been for my feminine instinct, I would never have looked twice at a tall, dark boy in tennis togs, who stumbled over my feet at the Pacific Coast Tennis tournament the other day.

I didn't note his muscular symmetry at first, nor the deference with which lesser males in that vicinity treated him. My attention was attracted to his eye lashes, long, thick and black, veiling very romantic-looking eyes.

Thus aroused, I asked to whom the eye lashes belonged and the answer, coming quicker than you can say--Jack Robinson--was "Jack Robinson."

To a portion of my brain Jack Robinson meant the brother of Olympic champion Mack Robinson, a particularly fine athlete, allied with Pasadena Junior college, of whom I had heard much, but had never seen close-up. At that point the feminine urge was over ridden by my peculiarly shaped nose for news and I was off.

I followed Jackie over to Court 8 where he and Marvin Wright of Pasadena were playing a doubles match. By now the woman in me was helplessly and resignedly submerged to the sport writer and I commenced to ask questions of two youngsters on the sidelines. The two happened to be Ruffin and Gordin, whirlwind PJC sprinters and buddies of Jack.

Jackie is rather a magnificent young animal. I gathere from Ruffin and Gordin, and from Jackie, himself, when after the match, we sprawled on the grass and talked . . . man to man.

He has 19-years of physical coordination, long muscles, loose grace . . . and slightly bowed legs. Possessing utter confidence in his ability along physical lines, and utterly contemptuous of more than the barest necessity of mental endeavor, he has no bothersome complexes, either of conceit or frustration.

Anything along the athletic line to which he turns his hand, he conquers. Almost every fan knows of his excellence as a broadjumped. Those who follow junior college sports know he is one of the best half backs in the Jaysee conference and as a basketball and baseball player, he is equally as good.

Every sport season that rolls around finds him in competition and on the top of the heap. And then when summer comes, he drops it all, takes a racquet in hand and by September and the Pacific Coast Tournament, is good enough to step out and give Slick Stocks a fit. (If the rest of you inept males lay off the racquet a week, your game is a sad affair.)

Young Jack's future looks something like this: graduation with a C average in February, gravitation, on a scholarship, to Oregon State, interspersing things there with the Olympics and European competition, then with a diploma in hand, a lifetime of teaching physical education.

His part of our idyllic interview, out in Nature's open, consisted of monosyllables and appraising glances in the direction of "chicks" that passed, dressed in shorts.

He warmed only to the subject of Bill Lacefield, UCLA broadjumped who recently returned from a European tour. Lacefield, he considers the best of the current crop of kangaroos.

About his brother, he was a bit laconic. He thinks Mack's about ready to be relegated to the ranks. He feels that marriage, the glory and travel that has been the older athlete's has rendered him incapable of working up any enthusiasm about amateur sports.

The interview broke up when I, forgetting my cue, led with my chin and the boys dealt it a healthy whack.

Ruffin and Gordon sauntered over and asked how we were doing. I got a bit petulant and said Jack was a most difficult subject to interview, whereupon Gordon observed, the atmosphere was not conducive to probing into the soul of a male and suggested a future interview in a setting embellished with soft lights.

Rumor Strode, UCLA End, Coach Spaulding on 'Outs'

WOODROW WILSON STRODE

The Iowa-U. C. L. A. game, and that only, will reveal the true status of affairs between Woodrow Wilson Strode, husky Bruin gridder, and Bill Spaulding, coach at the school, it was asserted today as football circles buzzed with rumors of a break between the athlete and the coach.

Doubt that Spaulding will start Bob Cress, blond sophomore in the big time competition that next Friday night's fracas will afofrd and doubt as to Cress' ability to stand the gaff, were expressed on all sides as the gossips seized upon Strode's demotion to the second team and Cress' promotion to the line.

Strode, star Bruin weightman in addition to his football activities, was in the "wost shape of his career" when he reported for practice Wednesday of last week. Spaulding reputedly told newsmen. In Saturday's scrimmage, the big athlete, who weighs 200 pounds and stands six feet, three inches tall, was placed on the second string line-up and Cress moved to the position of right end.

Exception to Spaulding's contention that the former Jefferson High school athlete was in poor physical shape was taken by several of the youth's friends.

"Woodrow has remained in condition all summer and in the past few weeks has concentrated on getting in even better condition for the grid season", one youth whose name is being withheld by request, said.

WORKED ALL SUMMER

Any possible of-form there might be, another claimed, "can probably be laid to the job he held during the summer as service man on the Warner Bros. lot during which he worked ten and twelve hours a day, standing on his feet at the beck and call of the stars the greater portion of the time."

It is known that the athlete submitted to a physical examination by the school doctor the week before practice began, and was passed as "never better."

Despite Cress' potentialities, Spaulding will find it hard to replace Strode's contribution to the strength and speed of the Bruin line. Last season the big athlete was the only man on the Pacific Coast to play the full 60 minute period in all games. His pass snagging and cooperation with Kenny Washington, his running mate, was branded almost intuitive by observers.

In yesterday's practice it was seen that small trouble Washington suffered in the early practice sessions with his passing arm had about been eliminated. In fine physical condition, a few pounds heavier and almost an inch taller, having passed his 20th birthday a few days previous, Washington has the right half position practically cinched.

It should be a great year for Washington, Spaulding has said as the Bruins frankly will be an aerial team this year.

Hank Gives Up Feather Title

Henry Armstrong, who recently, this week held three boxing crowns, announced the signing of manager Eddie Mead Tuesday that he was retiring from the New York Boxing Commission he was giving up the featherweight title.

"Hustlin' Hank" who is resting here before beginning training for his welterweight defense against Ceferino Garcia, November 2, suggested an elimination tournament to decide his successor. Chalky Wright has been named as the logical featherweight ruler.

Howard Gridders Prepare for Sept. 24 Game

—Howard University's gridiron hussies turned out 41 strong for the first pre-season training session last Saturday. Big registration day, September 24, it is expected more than 50 applicants for the Bison squad will have reported.

Head coach Harry Payne listed 9 lettermen, 9 veterans, and 23 promising candidates from spring practice. There is a liberal supply of experienced linesmen, but the supply of first class backs is not yet determined.

Bison gridsters will have an oportunity to see the big Blue and White eleven early this year for on Saturday, Sept. 24, Howard meets Miner Teachers college in the U stadium.

The Miner fray will be followed by an engagement with Morgan college at Baltimore Oct. 1. This year's schedule lists nine games, four at Washington. The annual "Home-Coming game will find Lincoln opposing Howard at Washington on Thanksgiving Day.

The average weight of the probable regulars is 175 pounds.

Tom Direaux Has Time Getting Set

Getting Big Tom Direaux champion school prep shot-putter and ace Jefferson High schoolinesman of last season, set for this school year, still occupied the attentions of Direaux himself, the Jeff Hi authorities and U. C. L. A. at press time yesterday.

Direaux, a summer '38 graduate, has been offered a scholarship at the Westwood school, has been reported, on the best of his performances on the gridiron and in the shot put pit. Generally known as a "good student" it was discovered this week that his scholastic standing during his four years of senior high school was up to the mark and the possibility that he might have to do work at the Extension school to the University, go to a Junior College loomed.

Direaux was said to be seriously considering Compton Junior College as a haven for a year at least.

Wilson Loses to Fontaine in Hair-Raiser

Georgie 'Cobra' Crouch Fights Nick Peters Next Tuesday at the Olympic

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Jackie Wilson, who made a sensational debut in the fistic big-time last week with a quick technical knockout victory over Babe Brandelli, was unable to withstand the bull-like rushes of strong and experienced Ritchie Fontaine at the Olympic auditorium Tuesday night and lost a 10-round decision in a hair-raising main event.

Starting as though he meant to end the thing as quickly as possible, Wilson shook Fontaine in the first round with those sharply thrown rights and lefts of his. From the second round on, though, Fontaine rushed the inexperienced, long-legged Clevelander to render the artist-fighter's best shots impotent.

Wilson was apparently content to let Fontaine back him up against the ropes and maul him, hoping that the Frenchman would wear himself out, something he didn't do. A rematch wouldn't be out of order.

LIDELL STARS

Frankie Hern stampeded Elmer Lewis in the four-round semi-windup to win an easy decision. Lewis was on the floor for a count in the third.

HOLLAND IN FINE SHAPE AT CORNELL

NEW YORK, Sept. 15 (ANP)—Cornell will again have the services of Big Brud Holland this year at an end post. Holland was the first Negro to make All-American in many a moon. He reported to Coach Snavely's squad in the best shape of his career.

Holland is now getting into condition. Among those are included the two famous Simmons brothers, Dan and Ole of Iowa, and Wilbur Wallace also of Iowa.

It was also announced that Ray Kemp, coach of Lincoln university, Missouri, would be one of the mentors assisting Coach Hurt of Morgan, whose teams have not lost a game in six years. Practice sessions are held in the American Giants Baseball park.

Lewis to Coach 'Force Gridders

WILBERFORCE, O., Sept. (ANP)—President Walter Wilberforce university Thursday appointed Gaston F. Lewis head football coach of the Green and Gold to succeed James L. McCrary. Coach Lewis has served his alma mater previously in this capacity.

More than 40 boys answered the call for initial practice, Wednesday morning. The schedule this year consists of six games with major opponents. October 8, Kentucky State, October 14, Tuskegee (night game); October 29, Tennessee State; November 5, Lincoln, Mo. University, Homecoming, November 12, Louisville Municipal college and November 24, W. Virginia State.

Al Norman, Star Athlete, Quits Loyola for Redlands

Alfred Norman, sophomore candidate for the Loyola University football squad, will enter Redlands University this week end on a transfer from the Catholic institution, it was learned today. Norman, a former Belmont High school student, entered Loyola in the Fall of last year on a scholarship awarded him for brilliant scholastic work and for equal brilliance in football and track and field.

The transfer of the 19-year old religious student from the local college to Redlands, came as no surprise to those "in the know" concerning the local sport situation. Rumors of dissatisfaction on the parts of the several colored athletes at Loyola have been current for the past year.

Discrimination, expressed in almost continual "benching" of the players, has been complained of privately by the youths concerned and reached the ear of the Eagle sport department early last Spring.

A letter, querying the University authorities on their attitude toward the colored athletes, was written by interested persons, reportedly invested with the proper authority, but as yet has met with no response.

Norman is reportedly not the only colored athlete to leave the school under a cloud of discontent. As yet the whereabouts of George Sims, Long Beach sprinter, who played a sensational half-back position whenever he was permitted in the game last season, are not yet ascertained. Sims, assertedly told friends he could not stand the gaff and was going to transfer his talents to another school. A junior, he had two more years of football competition before him.

Missing also from the roster of potential varsity players was the name of Walter Abels, a senior student, little heard of although he has been out for the Varsity several semesters.

At the concluding of spring practice last June Al Duval, now assistant coach at the school, told mer Loyola star guard, now an Eagle reporter that Abels was playing "good football" and should find a steady berth on the squad this year.

The only Negro player thus far accorded any consideration in the daily sport releases, sent to all newspapers directly from the University, is Walter McCowan senior student playing at the left halfback position. Because of his seniority and proven ability, McCowan can hardly be denied this season, it is claimed.

Bill Lacefield Back in Bruin Lair

Bill Lacefield, U. C. L. A.'s globe-trotting broadjump star, returned to the city Saturday and to the Westwood campus this week after an absence of three months during which time he has barnstormed through just about every European country.

Lacefield, a sophomore-A at the West Los Angeles institution was a member of the U. S. track team that took part in several European meets during the summer. Preceding the overseas jaunt, the former Jefferson High school athlete competed in the Eastern A. A. U. sponsored meets.

Contacted by the Eagle too late for an interview for this week's paper, the youth's exploits will be fully reviewed in the coming week's issue of the West's Greatest Weekly.

THINK! VOTE!

When this "Great Moral Guide" and "Christian Educator" again comes off the press, it will carry the story as to whom shall preside over the destiny of America's fifth largest city.

Rehearsal of the fine record made by Mayor Frank L. Shaw would not only be a waste of space, but an insult to your intelligence. The story has been told so often in all of the newspapers of the city that even the children have learned to love, honor and respect the man who has placed their happiness and comfort above all else.

Community Christmas trees, food, clothing, housing and shelter for the mn and women of the tomorrow has been and is now No. 1 on the Shaw program.

Race, creed, color and religion have no place in the fine, broad humanitarian program now being carried out by Mayor Shaw. All share and share equally in the benefits derived from an administration planned after careful study, to promote happiness among the people out of which will and is being generated a spirit of aggression to make Los Angeles the white spot of American cities.

Neglecting or denying no group recognition in his official family, the Mayor has brought about a feeling of one-ness in the city heretofore unknown in the long, colorful history of Los Angeles.

Vote, yes; by all means exercise your constitutional right, be it for or against the present Mayor — vote! But first of all, study the situation carefully. Make your decision upon facts now before your eyes as against promises offered by an unknown, untried opposition — men maddened by greed and lust to rule at any cost.

As we have stated before, personally, there's nothing against the fine, clean record of Judge Bowron as a citizen and public official. He represents the highest type of Americanism, and has been weak enough to "fall for" the lure of a minority who would turn their guns upon him should he be elected and balk at carrying out the mandates of their nefarious designs.

Sorry the judge has walked blindly into a trap designed and set by Clifford E. Clinton, young cafeteria magnate, maddened because the Health Department forced him to comply with sanitary laws or close his eating foundries. A vote for Shaw will keep an able jurist in a place where he's needed and save the city from a reorganization slump that will require at least three years before we can assume our present stride in the march of progress.

Vote by all means! Reason carefully with yourself, first of all, and let your conscience be your guide.

WORLD WAR VETS

When the next issue of The California Eagle greets you the city will be teeming with the boys of '17, now known as the American Legion. For months Los Angeles and the State of California has been preparing to receive and entertain this noble organization and pay fitting tribute to their valor, bravery and historic exploits on the field of battle for democracy and world peace.

With war clouds hovering over Europe and occasional shadows flitting across the horizon of this blessed land where all hope and pray for "Peace on earth, goodwill to men", there's grave danger that after 20 years their sons will be marched away on a similar mission.

Welcome — yes, a thousand times. Give 'em the keys to this great patriotic city and let 'em own it during their entire stay.

Boys of '17, The California Eagle bids you welcome, and may your proceedings be of profit to the nation and bring much joy to you and yours.

OUR HERO

Monday, Los Angeles locked up shop and paid a rousing tribute to California's world-famed hreo, Douglas (Wrong Way) Corrigan. Public schools were dismissed at noon to give the 750,000 youngsters an opportunity to cheer and view the man who took off from New York in his ancient flying wreck for his California home and several hours later landed in Ireland, thinking he was in Los Angeles.

It was a feat in aviation that will endure and be revered as long as time, and we stand up and cheer with the world for Douglas, and give him all the honor and glory due such a brave man. But that "wrong way" business; well, we think the air ace was aware of his course. Along with the rest and to be a good sport, we'll give him his title—"Wrong Way" Corrigan!

CALIFORNIA'S PENSION PLAN

The highest light in the November election is the scheme or plan to grant a retirement pension of $30 weekly to all citizens 50 years of age and over.

We haven't given the idea sufficient study to speak knowingly upon its merits or demerits, and our limited knowledge gained by hearing an occasional confab between individuals leaves us, at this time, unable to see wherein it is workable, and far be it from us to "knock" the idea when 800,000 voters signed initiative petitions demanding a vote of the people on the plan. If passed, workability of the idea can only be disproved by a test, and the constitutionality of the amendment is the worry of judges whom we pay $10,000 to $20,000 annually.

THREE MEN ON A HORSE

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

WELCOME HOME!

With the cheers of a nation ringing in his ears and bearing a hero's wreath, Gone Again Corrigan returns to the California he left two months ago as an obscure pilot with a nine-year old flying crate. But in the airship that took off from Los Angeles was a piece of map, a compass—and Corrigan. The combination worked. It not only got the one-man clipper to New York, non-stop, but toted it across the Atlantic over the Lindbergh trail to Ireland in 28 hours. The compass and clouds may have sent the audacious Irishman in the wrong direction, but nevertheless he landed squarely in the hearts of Americans — one bit of added proof that Corrigan and his clipper well knew where they were headed. Where else could a flyer hope to make a happier landing? So California extends a most cordial handclasp to her — and America's — likeable young hero, hoping he will find our airports as easily as he found Dublin's at Baldonnel on Erin's soil.

BLACKMAIL DE LUXE

"Look at Ireland!" the Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia have been saying. "She has complete sovereignty in internal affairs while remaining a member of the British commonwealth. That's just the kind of solution we want!" But the Sudetens blandly overlook the fact that autonomy for Ireland did not promise to destroy the British empire, nor did the Irish threaten to march one million armed Irishmen into England if they failed to secure their demands. These little details are of small concern to those bent on blackmailing democratic Czechoslovakia into committing suicide. What they seek is blood rather than justice, and before their clamoring is done they may get their wish — to the rest of Europe's sorrow.

AMERICAN LABORER

A Hollywood director undertook to explain to the National Labor Relations Board the other day why he was a "laborer" and not an independent contractor, though he earns $6000 a week. A laborer is worthy of his hire, of course, at any figure. But when the figure reaches $6000 weekly, is the worker still a laborer? If so — and it may be entirely correct — this should silence for good, all and any critics who deny the American laborer is the highest paid worker in the world!

THE DANGEROUS AGE

The dangerous age for men is fifty, reports a leading member of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. By then, a man knows that what he is — so will he remain. No longer can he turn easily to a new profession, begin another family, and attempt a new start. The crises arise when a man refuses to face the fact there is no turning back, and foolishly jumps into a new field of activity he is little prepared for, or divorces his wife to marry a much younger woman, or undertakes some equally drastic step in trying to escape the cold truth. If he is wise, he will stop mourning the fact that he does not find himself at fifty the fulfillment of the dreams he had at 25. He will calmly and sensibly confront himself just as he is, and perhaps interest himself in some worthy cause. This, in brief, is how the psychologist advises men to get safely through their dangerous age. In modern speech, it reiterates the wise maxim of old Socrates who urged upon us all, "Know thyself!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PROPERTY MENACES

Dear Editor:

"You get out of here!" shouted J. E. Cadden to Dr. Clinton J. Taft as he stood, addressing a group in the club room of the Los Angeles Echo Park Recreation Center on the evening of September 1st.

The occasion was a meeting of the Echo Park Improvement Club, so-called. They had really met to devise ways and means of excluding Negroes and Orientals from that part of the city. Several speakers had dwelt upon the menace to their property interests that the incoming of any except lily-white Caucasians would mean. A plan had been explained by which it was believed the exclusion could be made effective, and a map had been exhibited with marked portions showing how well the plan had succeeded already. Canvass of property owners, block by block, was being undertaken, and as fast as possible the property owners were being signed up to a pledge that they would not sell to colored races nor permit the use of their holdings by them for any purpose whatsoever.

The meeting was called to interest others in the exclusion process and pep them up to the point where they would actively engage in the canvass. All went well up to the point when Dr. Taft asked for the floor. As he stepped forward to speak curious eyes followed him.

He began by remarking that he was much interested in the proposition that was before the meeting, but had noted that thus far the discussion had been exclusively on the basis of property interests. He wished to raise it to a higher plane and speak of the moral issues involved.

Immediately a perceptible chill seized the crowd. It was quite evident that they did not want to hear anything about moral issues. A woman near the door who had been taking the names of people as they came in slipped up to the chairman and whispered something in his ear. Then the chairman turned to Dr. Taft and said, "Two minutes only". The previous speakers had been allowed all the time they wanted, and some of them had taken twenty minutes.

Dr. Taft continued: "This matter of race prejudice is pretty serious nowadays both here and in Europe. I have traveled through seventeen countries of Europe and know what I am talking about. Europe at this moment is on the verge of war because of it."

Dr. Taft said no more. He was not permitted to do so. A big burly fellow, J. E. Cadden, who had stood glaring at him from the rear of the room rushed to the front grabbed Dr. Taft by the arm, pushed him viciously down the aisle and out through the door, angrily calling out again and again: "You get out of here!"

Dr. Taft protested that he had been given the floor in a supposedly democratic assemblage and that such treatment was outrageous--a plain suppression of the right of freedom of speech.

Several others present raised their voices in protest at such a manifestation of intolerance, and immediately all not in sympathy with the race exclusion project were asked to leave. Three got up and went out.

Remember, friends, this happened in America, not in Nazi Germany. It shows how intolerance is growing here, how race prejudice is on the increase and how readily people obsessed with such views will resort to Fascist methods when they feel that they have sufficient power.

Similar campaigns of exclusion of hated races are being pushed in other parts of the city. They will certainly have dire consequences. Remember what happened in Detroit and other areas a few years back because of such activities. Those who have clear convictions along this line as to the enormity of evil growing out of race prejudice should do their utmost to combat the rising tide against color.

Attorneys for the American Civil Liberties Union are studying the case, and soon it is expected that a civil suit will be filed against Cadden for his conduct in forcing Dr. Taft to leave the meeting.

FEARLESS STAND

Dear Editor:

Please acecpt a word of admiration for the fearless stand you and your excellent paper have taken toward the support of Mayor Shaw in the coming recall election.

In this respect you show a fine sense of appreciation for the many outsanding benefits derived by the race during his term of office. It is my humble opinion that no man in the history of Southern California occupying a high office has benefactor to our group. If ever a candidate was deserving of our 100 per cent endorsement Mayor Shaw should be the one.

In view of the many appointments and promotions tendered the qualified by the Mayor, every individual should deem it a priviledge to cast his vote against the recall.

Surely we are all agreed that an executive in this position with a genuine sympathetic interest in our people is rare indeed, therefore for this reason no question should arise as to how we should be identified in this campaign.

The strength of your worthy publication combined with the power and prestige of the Citizen's Committee should prove an invaluable aid in the defeat of the recall. Wishing for you the greatest blessings.

Sincerely,
IRVING A. SMITH

ing from a stand-point of racial pride. However, it is on no such flimsy hypothesis that Miss Skeen or the Race objects, for we understand that these presentations inflict a severe--in fact, the most damaging blow to our economic status. More than the combined enmity of prejudiced state governments, business-men, or biased labor unions, the Negro's monetary standing in America is thwarted by the presence of Uncle Tom and Aunt Jemina in our films, books, and plays. Few realize the entirely contorted conception of Negroes that is presented in our moving-picture. The entire legion of Negro professors, doctors scientists, architects, and contractors are ignored. Not once do we see the Negro nurse or secretary, Newspaper Editor. And so America, which attends the movie-palaces, each week forty million strong, forgets all but the Afro-American's cinema conception. Of all the endeavors and profession in which the modern Negro has injected himself, he is depicted only in the exalted position of cook, butler, stable-boy, and maid.

Yes, Miss Skeen, we will petition. And if such protests follow every similar representation of a Negro throughout the nation, perhaps the portrait of George Carver, Roland Hayes, or Garland Anderson will replace a shoe-shine boy on the covers of our great, nationally-distributed magazines.

AND again in the mail basket yield a letter from T. M. Scott of 629 West 8th street. He says:

Dear Editor:

While at the court, I picked up your paper in Dept. 31 and was astonished at your editorial. Mayor Shaw, as you thought had favored you people and you are advising your readers to stand behind him. The Shaw clique nearly put an end to Harry Raymond with a bomb when he started his car. Is that the kind of Mayor you believe in? If you feel he has favored you people, why can't the new one do the same and you can have a more clear conscience to back up an honorable judge.

The First Methodist Church here is strongly in favor of the recall and I have often heard splendid singing choirs at our church by the colored people and we have helped the colored along with money on their churches. Dr. Roy Smith is one of your best friends and we hope you will do your best to favor the recall of the Mayor. You will find Fletcher Bowron an honorable man and will give you people all the favors you are entitled to. Hoping your next issue will come out in favor of him.

T. M. SCOTT
629 W. 8th Street

In this correspondence we note that Mr. Scott, as an aid to his argument, presents the fact that the recall election has been endorsed by the First Methodist Church. Precisely what effect this statement is calculated to have upon Negroes we do not perceive.

Tracing the religious history of Afro-America, we find that the white man's Christianity was thrust down its throat during the degrading days of slavery. This was accomplished with an eye to physical domination alone and with no intent of giving religion's true service of spiritual liberation. During this period, colored people were told simply that "The Lord loveth the faithful servant". Slaves occupied gallery seats in the churches of the whites and were allowed but little self-expression. This was actual domination by force.

However, the slave was too inately original to tolerate for long such a system. Soon he found that worship exclusive of his white brothers was more satisfying, and at the same time his song changed from one of submission into a stark cry for deliverance. In slavery's dotage, great free Negroes appeared and fearlessly blasted the injustice of domineering white churches; questioned a religion which paints a perfect heaven and sustains slavery, discrimination and segregation on earth. Among these leaders were Frederick Douglass and John Wesley.

Then, of a sudden, emancipation came, and the domination of the white church took on its garb. This great Methodist Episcopal Church mentioned by Mr. Scott, today hands out only crumbs of religious recognition and refuses to open its portals to all God's children. It elects, instead, Mr. Scott to do just what you have said in your letter, "helped the colored people along with money on their churches"--Are we then to marvel at this great generosity? Our friend neglects to mention that moneys collected in the Negro churches are turned over to the great general coffers of this sect. These same funds are then re-distributed to Negroes with much fan-fare and cry of white Methodism's extreme beneficence. I hold that it has been this so-called kindly attitude of handing out a few dollars to Negroes for Church buildings that is responsible for a school of religious hypocrisy within the group.

Leaving this question, our letter expresses surprise that Negroes are not supporting the recall movement despite the fact that Mayor Shaw has given Negroes recognition unprecedented in the annals of our great city. He argues that Judge Bowron will accord us the "same favors". Mr. Scott you mistake—We do not beg any administration's favor. We demand only our just rights of citizenship and employment.

The Race's economic advancement can be sustained only through a rigid political system of penalty and reward. We have found that a sense of justice is not sufficient to influence civic officials toward racial fairplay. Only a vigilant and active black electroate can inspire this result. It is vital to our progress that unfair or discriminatory executives receive the full penalty of our vote-condemnation. On the other hand, what a strange policy Mr. Scott advocates. He commands that we refute a Mayor who has given hitherto unknown employment opportunities on the ground-less assumption that his would-be successor will continue this policy.

No, Mr. Scott, You ask us to kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

SAGACIOUS SAYINGS . . .

A few of the wise saying of C. C. Spaulding, president of the National Negro league, during the course of his annual address at Houston.

BEGIN AT THE BOTTOM

"Our young people should realize that there are only two two things you can successfully begin at the top, a ditch and a grave.

"If a rabbit's foot is so lucky, why did the rabbit lost it?"

Our people should learn that they will find luck in hard work."

BUYER'S GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

This month thousands of Colored youths will return to schools and colleges to prepare themselves for business, professional and industrial careers. A recent survey shows that 3,079 Colored persons graduated from mixed and segregated institutions of higher learning in the United States during the academic years 1937-1938, according to the twenty-seventh annual education edition of the Crisis magazine.

Many of these people will seek employment opportunities in the industrial and business world. Seemingly the New York Negroes have found one answer to the general search for jobs. Their outstanding victory in forcing merchants to agree to give Negroes one-third of all the white collar jobs in the Harlem area was brought about by mass action.

Mr. James A. Jackson, Negro business expert and Special Representative of the Standard Oil Company reports that an increase of 130 traveling sales people representing seventy firms and more than 1200 sales people in neighborhood stores had been noted.

These firms depend upon advertising and publicity to sell their goods or services. Of course it is important to sell goods and services, for only thus are the resources acquired by industry for the employment of labor. These firms are seeking your patronage by employing Colored representatives and advertising their products in your papers.

Your support of the Colored newspapers and their advertised products will determine whether these new 130 traveling sales people and the 1200 clerks will keep their jobs and whether these companies will continue to spend money advertising in the Negro press. If all the Colored people throughout the country gave their full support to the advertisements in their papers, they could increase by ten time the present number of Colored sales representatives and sales people.

War and the American Legion, 1938 Model

REGARDLESS OF whether one approves of war in any of its phases or not, one must admit that the gathering of convention-minded Legionnaires here does something to one.

For utter abandon this 1938 convention must, of necessity, be tops! In fact, it seems that any convention held in California is the best in any organization's history. This fact, of course, makes the job of the Chamber of Commerce much easier.

We have been in one gathering of Legionnaires and heard Past National Commander John R. Quinn, who, by the way, is also quite a figure in local governmental affairs since except when the Legion convenes he is the county assessor.

The extremes in fun, for these one-time doughboys, are just commonplace occurrences. Likewise, the serious aspects of fundamental American liberties and national defense are everyday topics of thought and action.

Hell-raisers, both on the comical and serious sides, give them credit for facing issues squarely.

Past Commander Quinn expressed, we thought, the spirit that best typifies a Legionnaire when he told a gathering about an incident which occurred on a battlefield in France during the World War.

He told how he emerged from a forest one day and faced a clearing of disabled tanks and dead bodies which, if placed end to end, would have served as a bridge for a quarter of a mile. Among all of this, however, was one lad, of whom Quinn had heard from the principal of a New England school.

And with dead bodies strewn everywhere, this lad was bemoaning the fact that the only wound he had to show for the preceding engagement with the Grim Reaper was a bullet-hole through the foot! That, said the past commander, was an example of the almost maniacal desire to make the supreme sacrifice, characteristic of the boys who went "over there".

STORY OF THE WEEK: Douglas Corrigan, the young man who became the darling of the world's press because he allegedly flew the wrong way to fame, met another young man the other day who gained fame (quite the undesirable kind) when he ran the wrong way.

The latter wrong-wayer was Roy Riegels, former University of California star center, who in the 1929 Rose Bowl game with Georgia Tech, picked up a Tech fumble and ran toward the "Rambling Wreck" goal line. He was tackled from behind by a teammate a yard short of his objective.

The Bears' attempted kick was blocked and Georgia Tech scored a safety which was the margin of victory. Riegels was confused when he picked up the leather oval and the play went down in grid history as one of the freakest bits of football ever seen.

Wrong-way Riegels is regarded, nevertheless, as the best center California ever had and the year following his "mistake" he was made Bear captain. He is now a successful high school coach.

Wrong-way Corrigan is an expert in his field and when the receptions for him come to an end he will probably make a success, like Riegels, out of his "mistake".

CLIPPED NOTES: Floyd Ray, who has increased the personnel of his famed swing-band to 18, is due to go back to New York next month . . . That front that now graces the old Tivoli theatre is the neatest job on the avenue. It's the "Bill Robinson" theatre now and does that famous name proud . . . Fred Smith is the monicker of a giant end on the University of Iowa's Hawkeyes who play UCLA's Bruins at the Coliseum under the arcs tomorrow night . . . George Brown, maestro of the Collegians who bear his name, is headed places—definitely, if one lends an ear to the town's dance-lovers . . . That program "A Capella in Bronze" heard each week over station KMPC is class in every respect It may not be long before it is heard over a larger network . . . which reminds us of the fact that a lot of credit should go to the small stations who give those with broadcasting talents a break. Their products leave them in time for bigger fields, but they learned the art of the air in the small, less ballyhooed station . . . Shoving off for New York this week were Earl and Frances, prominent dance team. In private life Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robinson, the duo goes into the Roxy for two weeks. Frances is a member of the theatrical Turnham family.

Maxine Sullivan, who swung "Loch Lomond" into a new popularity, has been signed by Warner Bros. to sing "Mutiny in the Nursery" and "Say It With A Kiss" in Dick Powell's latest starring picture, "Going Places".

PREDICTIONS: That minority which has been conducting a never-ending battle against old man Jim Crow in all walks of human activity, may well do a little "crowing" of their own today for this weekend at Soldiers Field, Chicago, 11 Negro all-star collegiate footballers match grid science with the nationally famous professionals, the Chicago Bears . . . Locally, USC is rated even with the Crimson Tide of Alabama, and UCLA is given an edge over Iowa's Hawkeyes . . .

Our small-sized penny goes on Big Boy Bray to turn the tables on Chuck Crowell at the Olympic next Tuesday night in a 10-round re-match . . . it's a pretty good penny . . .

The LAUNDRYMAN

Hello, folks! The air is full of news, and rumors, and inpropaganda this week. The British Premier bemoans a fruitless call on Hitler, the Czechs have called for Hitler's Hole-card, and Mayor Shaw has been re-called. Truly, Calling seems to be the order of the day.

A word about the Re-call. One thing it shows beyond a doubt, is that the public conscience has been aroused which is a good sign. For only when the Public realizes their responsibility as voters is good government possible. One distinct benefit I hope may be derived from it: and that is the elimination of Protected Vice. No one expects Los Angeles to be a Lily-white city. But we can expect and demand that all law breaekrs be placed in the same category.

LORD CHAMBERLIN AND HITLER

One peculiar phase of Lord Chamberlain's visit to Hitler last week is the fact that he, as the head of the world's supposedly most powerful empires felt it imperative to leave his kingdom and seek an audience with the ruler of a lesser power. Vassal kings have done the same things times immemorial. His intentions may have been good, but I believe it was a great mistake, one that will distinctly damage British prestige.

THIS MAN HITLER!

Whatever his critics may say about him, this man Hitler is undoubtedly the most colorful figure to appear upon the European horizon since the days of Napoleon Bonaparte. Revile his methods if you will, laugh at his bombastic Aryan propaganda, deplore his ruthless treatment of the Jews, but the fact remains nevertheless that thus far, he has done for Germany exactly what Napoleon did for France back in 1780. In less than twenty years he has brought Germany from the prostrate position of a conquered nation to the commanding position where the diplomats of the world's greatest powers are fluttering around like a flock of sparrows, anxiously awaiting his pronouncements, hanging feverishly upon his words. Every time he speaks they withdraw and go into a new huddle. That, my friends is accomplishment, regardless of what anybody says. There is a wide gulf between House-painting and Diplomat baiting, but Hitler seems to have vaulted the chasm in easy stride.

THE AVENUE

Despite the colorful presence of the Legionnaires in their natty uniforms, a pall seems to have fallen upon our Central Avenue. Its denizens seem to have lost their usual elan: their faces wear an air of settled gloom. A keen observer is able to detect an attitude of watchful waiting, of anxious uncertainty as to what the future holds in store, as to just what steps the new administration will see fit to take. My humble advice to them is "Cheer up, the worst is yet to come."

3 Coast Athletes Go to Xavier

Southern Loop athletes will be invaded by several Westerners, it was learned today, with revealation of the departure for Xavier College in New Orleans, of Wince King, former Jefferson High school high jumper and basketball star, William Mills, Manual Arts football player and Edgar Reeves, Jefferson hoop star.

King will be lost to the semi-professional casaba loop in which Bill Robinson's Bojangles played. On that team he was a promising forward.

BIGGEST CHECK EVER CASHED

THE CHECK in the above picture is proportionately as large as it seems—eleven feet long by four feet wide—and has the record of being the largest check ever made or cashed in any bank. Shown presenting the check to be cashed is Dr. H. Mansfield Collins, pastor of the First AME church, Eighth and Towne avenue, for whom the check was made; Dr. R. S. Jenkins, secretary of the General conference; Dr. John Adams of Omaha, Nebraska. The huge check is for $2150 "Dollar Money", the largest amount paid by any single church in the entire connection of the African Methodist Episcopal connection and won for Dr. Collins the title of "Dollar Money King" for the second consecutive year. Added to last year's record is also the name of "Easter Money King" for the largest Easter offering received for the work of missions. Dollar money is for education and general church purposes.

Dr. Collins is one of the leading candidates for the bishopric at the General conference in Detroit in 1940. He read his report on the opening day of the Southern California conference last week and the check was borne to the rostrum for presentation by church stewards George City and J. H. Joyce. Rev. Collins enters the third year of his pastorate here Sunday morning when Dr. Carl F. Flipper, pastor of the Ebenezer AME church, Kansas City, and son of Bishop J. S. Flipper, will preach.

By Miriam Matthews

We have noticed a decided improvement in the general type of article on the Negro now being published in magazines with a national circulation and especially recommend two recent articles by Stanley High called "Black Omens." If you have missed reading these and similar articles, you may ask to see them in the file of clippings now available at the Vernon Branch Library.

People who liked Mr. High's articles will be interested to know about this book, "Roosevelt—and Then?" in which he considers in a seperate chapter the importance of the Negro vote to the Democratic party. The book itself is concerned with the President, his policies and his future, and is written in a very good spirit considering the author is an Ex-New Dealer. It is thoroughly readable and should be welcome alike to supporters and opponents of the New Deal. Of equal interest is Hulbert Footner's chapter on "Harlem" in his book titled "New York City of Cities." Very rarely is a book of this kind written by a man of culture, maturity and wide-ranging travel. He is a superb reporter and has written this tribute to his beloved Manhattan with a quiet competence and great charm. We are obliged to quote from his Harlem chapter: "There is only one way to deal with the Negro problem and that is to see that the black race gets what our constitution guarantees it: equal opportunity . . . When a Negro gets a chance he makes good in any walk of life—two are now serving successfully on the city bench in New York and one is a magistrate. Besides there is no attempt to limit them to Negro cases; they make the whole circuit." We are tempted to go on but realize that you will want to read and appreciate for yourself this delightful informal book on the sights, scenes and people of New York City from Battery Park to Fort Tryon.

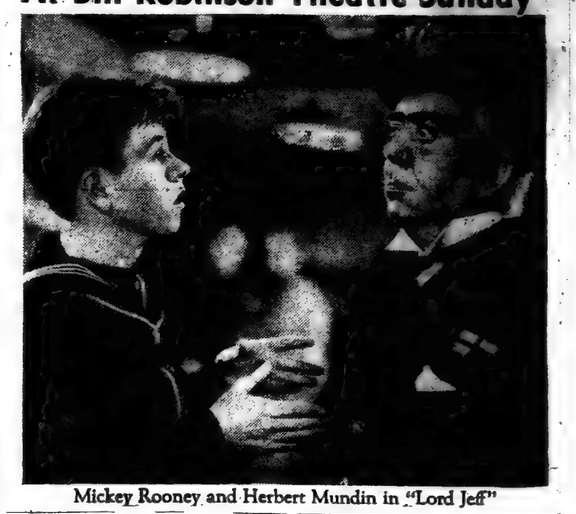
Borrow these books from the Vernon Branch Library, 4504 So. Central Avenue, and the Helen Hunt Jackson Branch Library, 2330 Naomi Avenue.

State GOP, Merriam Back Plank for Fair Play to Negro

California Republicans assembled in State Convention in Sacramento today made a strong declaration in the 1938 party platform for fair play to colored citizens "and other minority groups". The plank was submitted to the resolution committee of the convention by Thomas W. Myles, Jr., a delegate from Los Angeles, and had the strong and enthusiastic backing of Governor Frank F. Merriam.

The plank in its entirely as follows: "The Republican Pary in California stands today, as the Republican Party always has stood for equal opportunity for our colored citizens and all other minority groups. We will vigorously protect their economic status and personal safety. We will oppose any efforts to limit them in equal opportunity for gainful employment, either public or private."

The positive stand taken by the Republican delegates, it was predicted by political observers, would result in the return to the Republican Party of many citizens of minority groups, who were formerly strong in their Republican allegiance.



Two members of the convention were colored citizens, Mr. Myles and Delegate Blackburn of the 17th Assembly District, (Oakland).

The Resolutions Committee consisted of Hon. Ford A. Chatters, Chairman, Hubert Scudder, Richard E. Collins, Chas G. Johnson, Ken Dawson, Richard J. Welch, T. H. DeLap, Wade Snook, Harry Parkman Ray Hayes, Miss Eleanor Miller, Gerald Keeple, K. L. Stockton, Wm. D. Campbell, Howard D. Mills, Chas. W. Lyon, Clifton Hix, Harry B. Riley, Gordon Corwin and Chas. W. Stream.

At the meeting of the State Chairman Committee held following the State Convention, the Hon. Frederick Madison Roberts long time member of the California Legislature was selected as a member of the Executive Committee.

Actions speak louder than words and action is a news peg on which to hang many a story.

FORMAL DEDICATION

Stars and Movie Fans Turn Out for Dedication of Bill Robinson Theatre

With lights, stars, and general world premiere equipment, the theatrical institution at 43rd and Central avenue, undergoing a sensational titular shift from "Tivoli" to "Bill Robinson", put on a show Tuesday night that will be remembered long in the Ave.'s show annals.

All the glamour, crowds, confusion and grazed chins, typical of a Hollywood opening were present at the Tivoli—ooops—Bill Robinson went to town. Featuring a mid-night presentation of the Million Dollar cinemapic, "The Duke is Tops", the affair was attended by the most outstanding of Legion big-wigs. Hailing from North South, and East, Legion bigeees filled the newly named theatre-palace.

But most famous visitor of all was the Grand Duke of Dance, the Maharajah of Rythm, His Highness of Tap—Bill 'Bojangles' Robinson. The world-famed dancer and comedian, observers state showed little restraint in commending his newest name-sake.

With Nina Mae McKinney, and a score of smash theatrical Louise Beavers, Ralph Cooper, personalities in attendance, the night was termed a "tremendous success".

Also interesting was the fact that the great star-constellation attracted more supposedly blase Centralites than a free election jamgoree. In itself, many stated, this was "unprecedented".

Managers of the Bill Robinson promised future film entertainment to match the beauty and color of the new marquee, one of the city's finest.

Louise Beavers Signed for Film

Louise Beavers, who, as the colored "mammy" in "Imitation of Life" and "Rainbow on the River" was responsible for more tears shed per square inch of handkerchief than any other Hollywood film player, has been signed for the part of "Cassy" in Principal Productions' "Peck's Bad Boy with the Circus".

The film, which stars Tommy Kelly, has Ann Gillis, Edgar Kennedy, Benita Hume, William Demarest, Spanky McFarland and Wade Boteler in its featured cast.

Volunteers to Portray Nijinsky

John Garfield, who attracted critical and public notice with his first screen role in "Four Daughters", has asked Warner Bros. for the title role in "Nijinsky", screen play based on the noted ballet dancer's life.

SHOOT WESTERN AT MILLION DOLLAR

"Happy Valley" is the working name of the new western which is under production at Million Dollar studio, directed by Ralph Cooper, and starring Herbie Jeffries with Mantan Moreland, Bob Scott and a number of other featured players.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—The W. P. A. Federal Theatre Project, inaugurating its fourth consecutive season in Harlem, has selected for the 13th presentation, George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion."

Federal Theatre officials chose the Shavian comedy for a Harlem vehicle, bearing in mind the overwhelming success of "Macbeth" and "Haiti" in Harlem.

The play will have a cast of more than 150 Negro actors including Jack Carter and Edna Thomas of "Macbeth" fame, and Daniel Haynes, movie, stage and radio artist.

Haitian Official Praises 'Haiti'

Antoine Bervin, Haitian Ambassador of Goodwill to the United States, after witnessing a performance of the WPA Federal Theatre Project's play "Haiti" last night, had this to say: "'Haiti' is a very moving and exciting play. I am certain that every Haitian who witnesses this play would experience the same profound experience."

Mr. Bervin, who is in the United States on a visit, plans to leave for Haiti in a short while.

By JOHN KINLOCH

PICTURE: "The Duke Is Tops"
PLAYERS: Ralph Cooper, Lena Horne
PLACE: Bill Robinson

Seen again, 'The Duke Is Tops' fully justifies resurrection atthe new Bill Robinson. The picture to be sure, is riddled with technical and other discrepancies. Here and there, script-lines are trite to the point of embarrassment; but all things considered (particularly the $30,000 budget), the film remains "the tops".

Ralph Cooper's histrionic powers occasionally are thrown in doubt, but this can be due to bad lighting, recording or direction. Then again, he'll turn in the next scene startlingly good. In fact, this jolting back and forth from the mediocre to the more or less sublime is this picture's greatest asset and greatest draw-back. Although a shockingly original thing—life the African voodoo dance—is tremendously ingratiating after a particular barren area, it would have been so much better had the film remained upon an even keel of excellence.

At any rate, you will find the Duke the same likable fellow he was before. You will not be sorry to see him again—and again.

PICTURE: "I Am The Law"
PLACE: RKO Hillstreet
PLAYERS: Edward G. Robinson

Mr. Robinson is now among the legion of cinematic specia. prosecutors. No fear, positively we will not harken back to the days when Eddie barked lowbrow quips in "Little Ceasar" and "Smart Money". He has reformed; that is sufficient. We will let the past bury itself, or something.

"I Am The Law" is as forceful a little drama as you ever will see. It is one of those films which adheres to the "all crooks are rats" code and establishes this fact definitely and conclusively. While other films may concern themselves with regrettable social backgrounds, "I am the Law" concentrates upon to justice the mature, fully-developed malfactor.

Robinson is a peaceful law professor. Because gangsters want a "soft touch" in the city special prosecutor pob, he is appointed to this position: but kicks over the criminal apple-cart by turning action with a capital ACT. His prize pupil and favorite assistant is the son of gangdom's high-society big shot Otto Kruger. Here dear readers, is the well-known nucleus for a well-known melodramatic situation. Without the vaguest self-consciousness, this oft repeated theme is brought through to its usual climax. Poppa gets stricken by conscience and rubs himself.

The picture is distinguished by neat, clipping direction rather than expert characterization or novelty of plot. The whole thing bounces along at such an engaging pace that frayed edges of script-development are unseen. Nicely calculated by-play often compensates for drabness of the major scenes. For instance, Robinson's lecture upon criminal physchology followed by a demonstration of boxing prowess with a captive mobster is especially gripping.

"I Am The Law" fully qualifies for the action-entertainment which statistical experts say America desires. There is "clip on the jaw", kick in the puss" "chatter of machine guns" for every word of dialogue. Kids will love it. In fact, that part of me which is not a critic for the California Eagle, etc., loved it too.

Dunbar's Poem Inspires KMPC Offering Tonight

"A Banjo Song", beloved Paul Laurence Dunbar poem, furnishes the inspiration for tonight's stirring "A Capella In Bronze" presentation.

The quarter hour all Negro Federal Theatre Radio Division program, generously interspersed with choir numbers, furnishes a vivid account of the simple life enjoyed by the old southern Negro after his hard day's work is ended. Another poem, from the pen of James Weldon Johnson, "Answers To Prayer", is also featured on the musical program.

Choral numbers will include "Do You Call That Religion", "Oh Susanna" and other immortal favorites.

'Daddy of the Blues' Says Swing Music on Way Out

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22. (ANP)—Swing is definitely on the way out and the cats and the jitterbugs may as well recognize that the craze is no more stable than styles. At least, that is the opinion of W. C. Handy "daddy of the blues", who admits his interest today is mainly in spirituals—particularly the "happy spiritual--which he says is fast disappearing.

Handy said he was extremely annoyed at first when he found the cats making so free with his St. Louis Blues that he could hardly recognize the melody.

It reminds me of my experience", he said. "I wrote a piece called 'Yellow Dog Rag' and made a recording. It earned only $200 the first year. Ragtime was out, blues were in. So I kept the tune and changed the name to 'Yellow Dog Blues'. The song's earnings jumped to $25,000. I suppose I'll have to call it 'Yellow Dog Swing' now and climb on the swing-wagon."

Getting serious, the distinguished composer said swing isn't a definite form of music, merely the evolution of a proven tune. It's a fad that will have no permanent effect on American music."

Speaking of the spirituals, Handy said, "It makes me sad when I hear the best of them made to conform to a standard they were never intended for. They really are the folk songs of my race, of Africa. In my youth at camp meetings near Florence, Ala. where I was born, we used to sing happy spirituals, sing them our own way and never care if a white man heard. Now we have one eye trained on the white man who will buy and market them. We learned he likes sad spirituals, so that's all you hear. I hope to live long enough to see a real revival of genuine African spirituals."

N. Y. Critics Laud Capra Production

Known as a consistent producer and director of a long succession of motion picture hits, Frank Capra was definitely assured of another triumph when the press and public of New York acclaimed the world presentation of "You Can't Take It With You" at Radio City Music Hall.

Opening in the Metropolitan city on September 1, and now in its third successful week the Gotham critics described the Columbia picture as "the most utterly irresistable, delightful, human and entertaining film of the season."

The critics also intimate that the picture is the year's outstanding contender for the Academy award, and that several prominent members of the cast will be among those listed for the best acting honors of the year.

'Mikado' to Open Sunday in Windy City

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (ANP)—September 25, is the opening date for the Federal theatre's all-Negro version of the "Mikado" to be produced at the Great Northern theatre.

Those who remember Gilbert and Sullivan's most popular work in its whimsical Japanese setting, will see the same setting, the same costumes, and hear the same music, this time they will hear, also, a syncopated version of the music.

The opera, as it has heretofore been known, is a typical English affair. Without losing any of its charm the cast has made it as American as a baseball game.

Ko-Ko the Lord High Executioner, a ridiculous upstart, is personified by Herman Green, who has been a trouper since the age of nine. Green has retained the essential character of Ko-Ko that was endowed by Gilbert, at the same time bringing the plaintif humor and subtle grace of the Negro to the part.

Warner Brothers Opens Gates to Legionnaires

Hollywood studio gates were closed "tighter than Dick's hatband" this week on account of the thousands of Legionnaires here for the National American Legion convention, 95 per cent of whom would like to visit the lots. But only Warner Brothers' First National made them welcome. The rest were afraid they veritably would take the studios apart as the Shriners did during the recent national convention. It was their unrestrained behavior that caused the ban to be laid down for the Legion confab.

Warners', however, did not turn the visitors loose on their mammoth lot, but conducted a tour through the grounds By a well organized system of bus transportation they arranged to transport 40,000 through the grounds so that in passing they could at least get quick glances at the wonderful "land of make-believe", and get an idea of how the cinemas are made.

Canada Lee Plans Career in Films

Canada Lee, who recently took over the role of General Christophe in the WPA Federal Theater's "Haiti", after Rex Ingram, de Lawd of "The Green Pastures" found greener pastures in Max Gordon's "Sing out the News", is contemplating an operation to remove a cauliflower growth on both ears.

Canada, who was once the leading contestant for the world's welter-weight championship is seriously contemplating a movie career minus his cauliflower ears.

Gives Origin of Term 'Flat Foot Floogie'

By CHARLES SPEARS
(For A. N. P.)

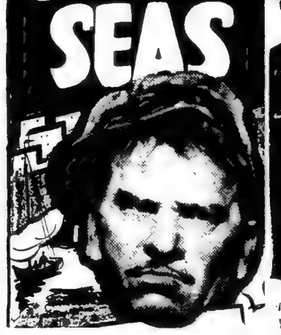
In recent weeks several articles have appeared in the press about "Flat Foot Floogie" and no one seems to know exactly what the term means.

Captain Porter, United States Secret Service, was the man who first used the expression, in the federal building in Chicago. In 1923 he was in charge of the Chicago division an old gentleman about 60 years old at that time, powerfully-built and as hard as nails. 'Flat Foot Floogie' was one of his pet terms, and the old gentlemen had been using it for many years before 1923, but that was the year it first came to our attention. On our way from New York to 'Frisco we stopped over to talk over a matter relative to some government business in which a Chicago policeman was involved. At that time the government agents had no love for the civil authorities in Chicago, and the federals had no love for them. While we were talking over the case he stated, speaking of the Chicago officer, "Oh them flat foot floogies will say anything". So . . . there you are . . . and it's in the records . . . which is the sort of proof scientists demand.

Cabarrus county of which Concord is the county seat is a "funny" county . . . if you get what we mean. Last week we were up there investigating a case. A young white man was found guilty of first degree murder, and sentenced to die Oct. 28 in the gas chamber, for killing his 19-year old sister-in-law. His defense was that he "chewed some roots which Aunt Jennie Morris, a colored witch doctor, gave me" which made his mind come and go.

Friday morning James Dixon, a colored farm hand, told a coroner's jury in Concord that his wife hit him with an alarm clock about 10 o'clock Thursday night after several hours of argument . . . and that he waited four hours for a rain to halt before hitting her in the head with an axe, because he didn't want to walk to Concord in the rain to surrender. After it stopped raining he hit his wife with the axe, set fire to the house and walked to Concord. The woman's charred bones were found in the ashes.

Not long ago a colored woman heard a shot out in the barn. She sent her little boy out to investigate, the child returned and reported "poppa has killed himself with a shotgun". The woman didn't even look in the barn but went straight to the field and worked tobacco for five hours . . . "I owed a doctor bill and had to have some money".



Thursday Fairfied Benson was sent to the roads for 30 days for boiling a black cat alive and throwing its bones in a stream of running water . . . he was "trying to git a lucky bone floating up stream". Yeah, boy . . . some "funny" things are happening in the old North State.

BY ALMENA DAVIS

That rare species of college student, an erudite athlete, is Bill Lacefield, U. C. L. A.'s broad-jumping star. As was announced last week in the west's best, Lacefield landed on his native heath September 10 after an absence of well nigh three months in furrin' parts. He subjected himself to an interview Friday, after waiting with patience quite unlike a celebrity, almost two hours for the interview-er to arrive.

Lacefield's a quiet lad, whom the casual would not get at all. He is big, 6 feet, 2 inches tall, and well built, but you wouldn't notice that at first. He gives out, in the exchange of glances something very intelligent and subtly appraising, but he is also near-sighted so the former isn't quickly perceived. His clothes are good, well cut and draped in the latest style, but you don't notice that until later. Your first glance passes over him, but something caught on the tail-end brings it back—and again— and finally you see you've got something there.

Westwood definitely has something in the 20-year-old sophmore, who bids fair to be number one broadjumper in a couple of years and that is mastery in under-statement. He ought to be the first man to crack 26 feet, which Mr. Jesse Owens says is territory forbidden to any but a kangeroo. Lacefield should be first, not because U. C. L. A.'s Harry Trotter might vaccinate him with a kangeroo gland, but because he has "intelligent concentration."

After the amenities, talk centered about the sports in which Lacefield does not take part. He was, during his high school days one of the city's best basketball players. He high jumps, hurdles, and has played football. He loves the casaba sport above all, and with his height and comparative slimness would have no difficulty making the Bruin hoop squad, and the temptation to be a two letterman has over-ridden the better judgement of many an athlete.

But no basketball, football, high jumping or even hurdling, except in a pinch, for Mr. Lacefield! They all develop the wrong kind of muscles for broadjumping and while he might possibly play one or two and still jump well enough to earn his board at the Bruin School, he realizes he won't get to the Promised Land that way.

Dispite his avowed concentration on broadjumping, there is nothing in Bill's demeanor to indicate he thinks he is potentially the great broadjumper. I've gotten about used to the ego in athletes, which they pass off as self-confidence, needed to aid them in beating the other fellow. But this boy has none of it. He'll keep on plugging, but he doesn't look on the Olympics as a cinch, "because there are good jumpers coming up every year" he says.

Our talk, interrupted by the ecstatic squeals of my kid sister who was at Jefferson when Lacefield was the school's pride and joy, often left sports for discussion of the German political and social scene. It seems Lacefield attempted to penetrate the outside crust of German life to see what the people thought of their government and its central figure, Adolf Hitler.

He didn't see the gentleman in question during any of his appearances in the principle cities of Naziland. He saw, however, Herman Goering, Nazi minister of propoganda.

So determined was he to pierce beneath the outward show and see what really lay underneath that he suffered the torture of attempting to talk to the athletes in their native tongue, and take it from one who was exposed to the lingual gymnastics of German, that was an effort!

Those efforts were a bit fruitless, I gathered, until he happened on a youth who had been reared in America, is now studying at an American university and intends voluntarily to live in the land of pumpernickel and beer.

Said Goiman argued with "our boy" that Hitler was no dictator, but a leader. He condoned the persecution of the Jews with the familiar reminder that the Hebrews had forgotten that they were guests in Germany and had insidiously set out to control the land.

Lacefield's nearsightedness didn't in any wise keep him from noticing the German pretties. He commented on the scarcity of silk stockinged legs, even in the big cities. He experienced no personal prejudice, received equal treatment, even to dancing with the frauleins in the public beer gardens.

It must be a common ocular ailment of white people the world over that makes them see all Negroes alike. As he was walking down one of the Berlin avenues, Lacefield said some Nazi dashed up and wanted to know if he were Joe Louis.

I rather fear for his safety had he been the heavyweight champion, gathering from what he told me of the people's attitude about the recent heavyweight fight.

He confirmed rumors that the people were told that Max Schmeling was fouled and lost the bout through a conspiracy between low-hitting Louis and low-browed referees.

Lacefield had quite a financially profitable summer. He came back loaded down with seven or eight medals, watches, a high-powered camera, given him in Munich where they make the fine lenses a blanket and varied prizes, any of which he could hock and get money enough to take him two years through the Bruin school.

Other colored youths on the trip were John Marion, an Oakland boy, now champion half-miler at Prarie View college, John Borican, Virginia State hurdler, and Bill Watson, the Michigan State one man track team.

tion, being picked on some all-American teams, and in 1937 Homer Harris, end and tackle, captained Iowa's eleven, being the first Negro football captain in Big Ten history.

BRUINS TO CENTER AERIAL ATTACK AROUND KENNY; IOWA HAS FRED SMITH, FLANK STAR

FRED SMITH, Iowa end

If you've been reading the L. A. daily newspapers at all since September 8th when Bill Spaulding issued the first call to arms, you know now that U.C.L.A.'s route to victory in the first game of the '38 season will be through the air, with Kenny Washington, of the Eastside Washingtons, in the pilot's seat.

Anything may happen tomorrow night at the Coliseum when the home team faces the Iowa U. Hawkeyes. Intersectional dark horses, the two were beaten often last season, but show symptoms of powerful offenses which may boost them to first divisions of their respective conferences.

Down here on Central Avenue, the "boys" are fairly confident of the outcome, the betting going something like two to one, and laid on the wings of the two dark angels, Mister Washington and his buddy, Woodrow Strode.

Because of early season inconsistency on Strode's part, the Kenny-Woody pass combination of last season is not on tomorrow night's program. Instead Kenny has orders to "shoot the licker" to Hal Hirshon, Bruin co-captain. Other pass units are Charles Fenenbock, Warren Haslam, Dale Gilmore and Merle Harris. U. C. L. A. ranked eighth in the nation last year in passing, but Spaulding intends to place even greater emphasis on the overhead this year.

Strode at right end, has been assigned the difficult task of keeping the way clear for Kenny's shagging to Hirshon, the two definitely the season's marked men. To date the 195 pound all-around athlete has not played the full period in any of the practice scrimmages, having changed off with Bob Cress, sophomore, however, Strode's followers are loking forward to seeing him keep his last season record, of the Coast's only 60-minute end.

AVERAGE WEIGHT

Average team weight of the Uclans is 205 pounds. Kenny will start with 190 pounds on his six feet, one inch frame. He will have his old' number, 13 while Strode still plays in the odd number bracket also, wearing 27.

Subject to change without notice, but guaranteed 80 per cent correct the Bruin starting lineup was released today. Hirshon starts at quarter Gilmore, r. h., Washington, l. h., Haslam, fullback, Strode, l. e., Zarubica, r. t., Pfeiffer, r. g., Ryland, center, Sommers, l. g., Wyrick, l. t. and Joe L. Brown, son of the movie actor, Joe E., l. e.

On Iowa's team, the steady left end, Fred Smith is the only colored player. Consistent, though heretofore not brilliant, Smith should be in the thick of things at least three-quarters of the time. The team is built around a powerful offensive quarterback, Nile Kinnick, all-conference player. Kinnick probably will be a heavy ground gainer. In the line will be Henry Luebcke, 305 pound tackle, and everyone is wondering what Strode, called a giant by Coast writers, will do against that mountain.

The kick-off is scheduled for prompt 8:15 and will be played under heavy arc lights with a white pig-skin ball. —A.D.

Star Iowa Wingman Faces UCLA Tomorrow Night

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Sept. 22—Aligning himself with a distinguished company of star Negro athletes at the University of Iowa, Fred Smith, veteran end, will play much of the time on the Hawkeye football team in the UCLA game tomorrow night.

The rangy Smith, who is a junior from Cedar Rapids, weighs about 195 pounds and is especially talented on defense. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and 21 years old.

When the Iowans opened drill Sept. 10, Smith immediately was chosen for a first team berth. A few days later, however, he sustained a slight knee injury which has kept him on the inactive list.

The bad knee is healing fast however, and there is no reason why Smith will not be ready to go when the Hawkeyes appear for the intersectional contest in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Smith is the only Negro on the 1938 Iowa squad, since Garfield Hillery, a slippery back who bore Ozzie Simmons' old jersey number, 66, was declared ineligible. There is a slight chance that Hillery, a sophomore halfback, may regain eligibility in time to play later in the season, but he definitely is lost for the western trip.

DUKE SLATER

Down through the years, Iowa teams in several sports have had star Negro performers. Among the first was A. A. Alexander about 25 years ago. Then followed the giant Duke Slater, tackle on the title team of 1921.

Ed Gordon won national broad-jump titles when an Iowa competitor and also took the Olympic championship in 1932. For three years, Ozzie Simmons was one of the most feared backs in the na-

Here's How to Save Money By Spending

Mr. Linder formerly of the Todd Clothing Stores has taken over the store that he assisted in opening for Todd's more than seven years ago. When opening for himself he was determined to operate his store differently in that he felt his successful operation depended upon his saving people money. Many hundreds of satisfied customers can now, after only three short months testify to the truth of this statement.

His theory is simple, in order to sell for less it must cost less to operate. His store is located in the heart of the downtown business section, yet is definately out of the high rent district. He scouts for good buys and when necessary pays spot cash. He sells only for cash and so does not burden his trade with credit losses. But, he didn't stop there, he wanted his customers to have definate assurance that their purchases were good. So he selected one of the world's largest Insurance Companies to insure every suit and coat for one year from date of purchase. In other words you get quality, economy and written protection with each suit or coat, something no other store in the City can give you.

Why not drive down to the corner of Third and Spring, park in any nearby lot it is free, and look at his windows you can't miss that beautiful big corner store, named LLOYD'S INSURED CLOTHES, just remember if it's in the windows it's inside. Step inside and look over the only serve yourself pants' department in any City. Believe it or not, fixtures were invented to make this a fact.

You have no worry about being high pressured into buying anything because you won't be. You might speak to Bill Mowen with whom no doubt many of you did busines with when he was located many years as manager of Todd's Sixth and Main Store. He will in his new capacity as manager of this store be happy to show you around.

Another evil that Mr. Linder claims to have corrected is the extra amounts people pay for credit priveleges. That is if they will only anticipate their wants and take advantage of his lay-is make your selection in advance, make a small deposit and it will be held until you have paid for it. In a very short time the garment is yours and many instances the savings effected will be sufficient to get the wife or girlfriend a complete outfit.

You will like Lloyd's and their clean, courteous ways of doing business. Recent arrivals of Countrywide Branded suits and Coats are awaiting your selection. And if you want that suit or coat next month, go down today and avail yourself of that layaway plan, it pays to pay cash. Prices range from $15.00 to $27.50.

Cobra Strikes Again; Peters is 'Poisoned'

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

Georgie "Cobra" Crouch struck surely and often last Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium and his deadly venom took effect in the seventh round when Referee Mushy Callahan decided that Nick Peters, the so-called Texas bad-man, had absorbed enough poisonous leather.

Nick was outclassed from the start but his windmill attack, twice as effective because of his bobbing head, made it difficult for the "Cobra" to strike with any conclusive result.

Crouch the cool "Cobra" of the ring, is definitely big-time now and a match with Baby Arizmendi, the mad matador from Mexico, trial horse of all over-ambitious gladiators, would not be amiss. Fact is, we would be inclined to favor the "Cobra" if and when such a match is signed, sealed and delivered.

O'DELL'S BOY IMPRESSES

In the six-round semi-windup, Jimmy McDaniels, handled by ex-fighter Sammy O'Dell, decisioned Al Hagar. McDaniels, who is leading the Olympic Derby for the best fighter turned pro during the year, found Hagar too sturdy for an easy victory but had no difficulty in winning handily.

Charley Coates and Hank Mobley danced all over the ring for four rounds. Zeke Castro nodded Johnny Verdusco but Referee Frankie Van apparently didn't concur with our opinion for he declared the four-rounder a draw. Babe Hernandez scored a two-round TKO win over Dick Nallo, and Don Brooks bounced Lew Sullivan thrice to cop the curtain-raiser.

BRAY VS. CROWELL

Big Boy Bray and Chuck Crowell renew their gloved war next Tuesday night at the Olympic in the 10-round main event. They have met before, Referee George Blake giving Crowell the decision after 10 thrilling rounds. Many thought Bray had a definite edge.

JOHN HENRY LEWIS TO BOX AT OLYMPIC HERE

John Henry Lewis, world light-heavyweight champion, will box at Los Angeles' Olympic late in October, it was announced here Sunday.

Louis Enters Hospital for Ankle Injury

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. (ANP)—An injury to his right foot occurring during a slide in a recent softball game placed Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, in Provident hospital Monday for special treatment. He was permitted to return home next day.

The injury was described by Dr. Homer Cooper, head of Provident's department of orthopedics and fractures, as "a torn laternal ligament of the ankle joint". Joe's foot was placed in a Boehler walking cast, a recent development in the treatment of fractures which has focused the eyes of the medical world upon Provident.

Dr. Cooper declared the champion will be kept inactive for the next three weeks, but it will not affect his fighting when he returns to the ring next year. Joe purposely waited until Monday for this treatment in order to be present at the first Mid-west Horse show held Sunday at American Giants park in which his mounts won five ribbons.

Louis, who has been barnstorming all over the country with his colorful array of players, will take part personally in the game, playing first base. This is the second local appearance of the Bombers in two years.

THE SUN STILL SHINES IN L. A.

The recall election September 16 has passed into history and Los Angeles again settles down to work and strives for a bigger, brighter, happier city.

The people have spoken. It was their will that Mayor Frank L. Shaw be retired and in the office so faithfully filled by him be placed for the next three years Judge Fletcher Bowron. Bowron, able jurist, matriculated in the school of hard knocks. The Mayor-elect understands the problems of the common people who have his sympathy and cooperation in the struggle for better living conditions and adequate wages under the best working conditions.

Those of us who supported Mayor Frank L. Shaw have nothing to regret and would do so again. We have no sore spots; our interest lies in keeping alive the aggressive drive for racial growth and expansion. We are going to give Judge Bowron the same democratic support put forth in behalf of the out-going administration.

If there be corrupt practices in high and low places, the California EAGLE will join hands with Mayor-elect Bowron and render every aid at our command to assist in stamping out the evil.

We have every right to feel and believe that Mayor-elect Bowron will not allow racial discrimination in appointments to enter into his program, but will treat all groups as Americans worth of a place in the government. However, this remains to be seen and any other course will be condemned and fought to the last ditch.

May the Dove of Peace be ever perched upon Mayor Bowron's desk—and damn him who scares it away.

AME CONFERENCE FINE SUCCESS

Last Sunday marked the close of what is claimed to have been the most successful session of the Southern California Conference in its entire history.

Historic First AME (Eighth and Towne) was the entertaining church, the Rev. Dr. H. M. Collins, pastor; Bishop Noah W. Williams, presiding, and Rev. Frank A. Harris, presiding elder.

The sessions were largely attended and financial reports far above those previous to the slowly receding depression.

The Dollar Money record of Eighth and Towne is claimed to surpass anything in the history of the entire connection.

Truly it has been a banner year for African Methodism, spiritually and financially, and we not only congratulate leaders and members of this great church, but pray for continued success in the uplift of mankind.

WE WISH HIM LUCK!

Frank L. Shaw, who retires from the office of Mayor after five years of faithful service, will again take his place in the business life of Los Angeles.

It is said Mr. Shaw will engage in wholesale and importing business on a large scale.

The EAGLE joins thousands of friends made when he was a grocery clerk in wishing him much luck and prosperity.

Mr. Shaw has always been on the up-and-up with this group, who in return, never failed to show their gratitude and appreciation. The friendship thus formed will endure.

LAGUARDIA HONORS STATE

California, Los Angeles in particular, is being honored this week with the presence of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of Greater New York.

When the Mayor entered the state and gazed upon growing fields, herds and fattening kine, all seemed to join this happy people in saying, "Welcome!"

The visit from the mayor of the nation's largest urban center has been happy and inspiring. He brought a message filled with confidence for the future and praise for the successful handling of an unfortunate situation from which we are now slowly emerging. He came as a good neighbor with "I am my brother's keeper" his watchword, and we all feel happier and more hopeful since hearing his inspiring messages.

AVENUE PHONE OFFICE?

A movement has been launched by some poor, misguided soul to locate a phone office on Central Avenue, to be manned by Negroes, where bills, etc., may be taken care of.

We can see no reason for such an office, as the present Avalon-Vernon headquarters are centrally located and within easy access of all Eastsiders.

Such a move may have a sound of merit to the unsuspecting, but a second thought will reveal a curly-headed senegambian peeking out of the wood-pile, i. e.—segregation—Jim Crow.

Files of the California Eagle will show we carried on a fight for months to have white collar workers placed in the Avalon office and we are still fighting for such recognition, but when it comes to the establishment of a Jim Crow place in order to give employment to two, and not over three, girls we are against the whole procedure.

We feel that the telephone corporation should give employment to the group in the upper brackets, side by side with all other workers, and to seek such recognition by creating a Jim Crow place in some newspaper shop or small room on Central Avenue to have Negro workers—well, we say "NO!"

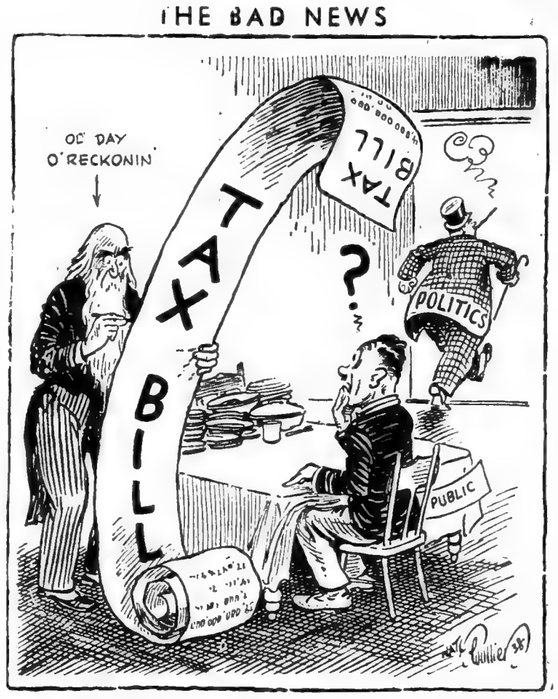
Further, we believe the phone company has too high a regard for the group to be inveigled into offering such an insult to its thousands of Negro subscribers. We also feel and believe that with proper approach and frequent talks upon the subject that the officials will see the unfairness in its present attitude and give us the chance we so richly deserve.

GUEST EDITORIAL...

There are many unemployed young Colored men and women that have within them the capacity for a great business success, which could be realized if they would start at the bottom and build a business for themselves.

Mail order advertising and selling is a field which has been overlooked by many competent Negro business men. Mail order concerns spend over $200,000 a year for advertising. This is a field which offers an excellent opportunity for our people to do business not only among ourselves and the national Negro market but in all markets.

Many of the large white companies and a number of the successful Negro enterprises had their beginning in the mail order field. An example of these business successes is the Mme. C. J. Walker Company and the manufacturers of the Black and White Products.



One great advantage in the mail order field is that it is not necessary to have an office as the business can be run directly from your own home. Those of our readers who are interested in manufacturing cosmetics, polishes, washing compounds, food products, etc., and marketing them by mail are invited to write to me in care of this column for further information.

I will be glad to refer you to agencies who make no charge, except for the cost of advertising, for preparing your copy and literature or for consultation. The advertising manager of this paper will be glad to discuss with you the low cost of advertising such products. In many cases mail order businesses have been started with as little as $7.00 which went for the copy that brought in the first orders.

There are in this country at the present time, approximately 1,800 mail order firms that operate from the homes. These firms do a flourishing business year in and year out. Glance over any paper and you will find advertising that is appealing for mail orders.

If you can't find a job make one. Here is an opportunity for you to gain economic security by establishing your own business and building for the future. For greater economic security continue to read our newspapers and to buy their advertised products.

THE BAD NEWS

THE WORLD THIS WEEK

By Robert Patterson

HAPPY ENDING

Last year, between 80 and 90 million Americans weekly streamed down the aisles of the nation's 16,000 movie theatres. But in recent months they have been staying away in droves—from the new pictures. Revivals of old talkies and fifteen year old "silents" have packed the galleries, which suggests that recession has had little to do with depressing box office figures. But America's great motion picture industry has never been one to lie down and brood over a defeatist complex. With typical zest, it has today swung into a broadside attack against lowered attendance with a million dollar advertising campaign covering the country. Hollywood, which has ever had a weakness for happy endings and rousing success stories, is obviously determined to make a virtue of her weakness and write a super-success story of her own, confident of a happy ending—90 million Americans marching down the aisles of the nation's movie palaces!

LET'S MAKE A LAW!

When Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard, she went to the right place but got the wrong answer. And so, regrettably enough, it may also befall all Californians if the notion of some southern California druggists is put onto the State law books. They want to make it illegal for any store, but a drugstore, to sell the items included in the pharmacopoeia—a list of the goods drugstores sell. Red pepper and olive oil, which now adorn the grocer's shelves, would be forced to join company with quinine and castor oil on the druggist's shelves, for these salad ingredients are in the pharmacopoeia. Baking soda would become a drugstore monopoly, from which it would be only one step to put another law on the books making it illegal for anyone but a licensed pharmacist to toast a Swiss cheese sandwich or make a chocolate malt. Not that this would matter, particularly, but it would be darned inconvenient, as all foolish laws are. Who thinks up these crazy things, anyway?

DOUBLE CONQUEST

"Japan will fight until China is utterly crushed," declared Premier Konoye of Japan a few days ago. This should set at rest any doubts that the island kingdom is planning a face-saving retreat and cessation of hostilities. The little warriors are knee-deep in mud and misery, which the prince-premier admitted, but the sacred mission to conquer China cannot be stopped by such obstacles. And the conquest of China, it is becoming increasingly clear, also means the seizure of American businesses in China. Troops are taking over business establishments in conquered areas and forbidding Americans access to them. Puppet regimes in Nanking and Peiping have granted monopolies on the most valuable commodities in those areas to Japanese firms and set up commercial blockades against American concerns. The conquest of American business is only incidental to the conquest of China and, despite numerous and surprising setbacks, Japan shows no sign of halting her campaign until she has taken both into her camp.

DESIGN FOR TOMORROW

It may be two or three years before rear engine automobiles begin coursing over American highways in any great number, but manufacturers have already patented several such systems within recent weeks. The new designs might well be left in abeyance until America has successfully mastered the front engine car which provides such an excellent buffer against collisions. A driver perched up forward on a line with the front fenders is in a highly pregnable position and wide open to a frontal attack. If that feeling of insecurity leads to more cautious driving, well and good. But suppose it forces them to become dyed-in-the-wool optimists, leaving all to Lady Luck? Then nose guards and chest protectors may become as indispensable as the steering wheel!

If they are lazy or industrious, honest or industrious, honest or criminal, virtuous or vicious the MANNER in which they keep their street is a REFLECTION of their collective character.

That is why you ought to be interested in living on a street that LOOKS like you want people to THINK you are.

If you live on a street that does NOT add to your REPUTATION, either MOVE off it or try to CHANGE it; you cannot afford to stay there as it IS.

This DECISION is extremely IMPORTANT if you have CHILDREN.

Science knows that nothing so shapes a CHILD'S FUTURE as its ENVIRONMENT in and immediately around the HOME.

CRIMINALS and DELINQUENTS usually come off CERTAIN streets; not off OTHER streets.

Streets that are dirty, run down, ugly and ramshackle, and which harbor violators of moral and civic laws, are the main INCUBATORS or crime and disease.

Science knows now that NO AMOUNT of social settlement work can offset the EFFECT of such STREETS on the growing CHILD.

So on YOUR STREET as elsewhere, you ARE your brother's KEEPER and cannot be UNCONCERNED about what he is doing for or to YOUR STREET; whether he is an asset or LIABILITY to your street; whether he and his are FIT ASSOCIATES for you and yours, is definitely your RESPONSIBILITY.

MINDING YOUR BUSINESS is only a GOOD RULE when your NEIGHBORS' BUSINESS does not detract from Your business.

Otherwise THEIR business and the ATMOSPHERE they create may not only affect you adversely but YOUR FAMILY.

If your street is developing mental, physical and moral DISEASE, that is DECIDEDLY your business.

It COSTS the community (and you) twenty times more to care for an institutionalized MENTAL DEFECTIVE or PHYSICAL WRECK than it does for the upkeep of a SOUND and NORMAL PERSON.

BILLIONS of dollars annually are spent taking care of and watching people who might have been healthy, worthwhile citizens if they had had the advantage of growing up on the RIGHT KIND of street.

Thus, YOUR STREET is your RESPONSIBILITY; and whether it is clean or dirty, beautiful or ugly, safe or dangerous DEPENDS largely upon YOU.

A good street, like a good bank or a good corporation, always pays DIVIDENDS.

What KIND of street do YOU live on?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SIGNATURES

Dear Editor:

I was extremely interested in the letter from Ruth Skeen appearing in your "On the Sidewalk" column.

It would be a privilege it seems to me, for any white person to sign such a petition. I would be more than pleased to cooperate in this and any other way.

Sincerely,
DAVID RAVIN

Dear Editor:

In reply to the letter of Ruth Skeen, 6350 Pimrose, Hollywood printed in the Sept. 15th issue of the California Eagle suggesting the signing of protests, I am very much interested and will gladly sign the petition.

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) Eula Mae Williams,

THANKS FROM A POLITICIAN

Dear Edtior:

Permit me to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for the assistance you gave me through your publication in my recent campaign for re-election as County Supervisor.

I am sure that your efforts were valuable in my behalf.

Sincerely,
JOHN ANSON FORD

Dear Editor:

It seems to me that hundreds of Negroes who have made a short study of the California Retirement Life Payment Act should write and tell what they think of it or some of it. I have been in a number of mass meetings and have bought and read their literature. Nevertheless I know very well that we cannot completely explore or penetrate other men's souls and minds. I believe if all Negroes were like myself, for and with the California Retirement Life Payment Act, it would cause millions to join with the plan in such large numbers, thereby making it a law before November 8, 1938.

I am writing this because I know you have the power and influence to stir up every Negro in the State, causing them to see that when the California Retirement Life Payment Act becomes a law it will blast the world.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM T. McFADDEN

SIDEWALK COMMENTARY

Dear Editor:

On July 21st last your column, "On the Sidewalk" was the best ever. Over and over I read the Eagle, from the "Sidewalk" through the "Laundryman" to the editorial comment.

When I had no work it was the Eagle that helped me live. I am employed by an attorney's family that for years has received the Eagle through the mail and they give it to me each week.

Many more years of success to you, dear editor.

I am
ELIZABETH HOWARD

Dear Mrs. C. A. B.:

I say "AMEN!" to you on your column this week especially your answer to T. Scott of M. E. church.

I didn't like his letter last week. Keep your eternal vigilance. Knock their ears down. You were JUST RIGHT.

Yes, we really have something SPECIAL to offer your boy or girl.

When schools want instruments, but do not feel that they can afford the New Prices, the wise thing is to invest in good used standard makes such as Selmer, Conn, Bach, Olds, etc., reconditioned and like new, at a saving of more than one-half.

Business conditions have slowed up in many lines, but the present situation has played right into your hands. We have by far the largest stock of reconditioned instruments (all standard makes) on the Pacific Coast.

Our time payment proposition to students is very liberal and just like rent. All we ask is a trial order. Our reconditioned instruments carry the same guarantee as our new instruments and will give far better results than a new second or third grade.

May we be of service to you in the near future? With best wishes, we remain

THE SEATING of Judge Fletcher Bowron last Monday clearly indicated the will of the people. The EAGLE Newspaper of the Air, as well as the paper itself, supported Frank L. Shaw

The reasons we have stated and we reiterate. This mayor gave more consideration to the Negro citizen, both economically and politically, than any other chief executive the city has ever boasted. His appointments were steady—therefore unprompted by mere political strategy. We do not regret our stand. We would take it again.

However, as said before, the majority has spoken. If we lived in some of the nations of the world, armament would commence instantly. By this time, we supporters of Shaw would be armed to the teeth and prepared to fight it out. However, this is America—a democracy. Our minds have been developed into a mold of tolerance so that we can conceive that the other side may be right, too.

Mayor Bowron comes before us with a plea for cooperation. It is his. Every citizen, no matter how he voted, owes it to the well-being of the city to get behind our new administrator and help him make a success of this new job. The old-type defeated politician immediately hunts loop-holes in the victor's armor. We must realize that this is both small and un-American, but principally that such a policy only reacts to our own detriment. If the city administration falls into a rut, we must help it out. For the longer it stays there, the higher our tax burden and the more complicated our civic problems. Judge Bowron, we believe, will attempt to make Los Angeles even a greater city. Let us help him!

TUESDAY AFTERNOON an endless flow of men filed over the great field of the Los Angeles Olympic Coliseum. Thousands upon thousands of them, with resplendent bands, drill teams, guns, and gags. But once during this great exhibition, the stadium announcer's voice lost its appropriate tone of high gaiety. That was when the Colonel Charles Young Post from Oakland, California wormed its way past the grandstand. For minutes, the announcer halted a frenzied description of all the laugh-provoking stunts, and told of an American Negro soldier whose maps guided the nation's finest military minds during two great wars. The men from Oakland straightened a little and marched on.

Charles Young was born in Mayslick, Kentucky, March 12, 1864. When he grew to manhood, he taught school until one day he was recommended to the United States Military Academy. He was admitted June 14, 1884, a lone Negro in an institution of whites.

From the beginning, other students heaped petty insults upon him. Wherever he went about the great government campus, there were whispers of antagonism and plans to annoy him. Fellow-students and faculty members joined in an understood campaign to make his stay at the school unpleasant. Perhaps, they thought, he would resign. Time after time, the young man allowed biting insults to pass unnoticed. With defiance ringing in his heart and head, he often sauntered away from his persecutors. With him, he found, grades must be particularly high in order to merit passing. With him, he knew, the slightest infraction of regulations would result in an unceremonious dismissal. But when pupils and their instructors attempted to discourage Charles Young, they misjudged their man. Whatever food served at that training school, the greater part of Young's diet consisted of eaten pride.

But the reward came and on August 31, 1889, he graduated: and was commissioned second lieutenant in the famed Tenth Cavalry Negro regiment. The young officer's brilliance was so conspicuous that Army officials found it necessary to transfer him frequently in order to avoid proper advancement. Finally he wound up a professor of military science and tactics at Wilberforce university. And for four years one of America's greatest military intellects taught raw college men the fundamentals of warfare.

Then suddenly the Spanish-American war broke out. The Ninth Ohio Regiment was formed of Negro volunteers, and Charles Young miraculously was put in command with the rank of major. During this conflict, his military papers became famous for their accura-

Police Halt 1-Man Rampage

As officers questioned Snapp with regards to his conduct, Miss Jessie Mae Davis, 1413° E. 53rd street was with Griffith, spoke up.

"Come on, Shorty, you know you just knifed one man".

Upon further investigation, it was learned that Snapp had stabbed Clarence Burleson, 1700 S. Central avenue, in the back at the latter's address and had fled. Burleson's condition was still critical late last night.

Charged With Theft of Auto

There's no rest for the weary, Douglas McFarland, 24, moaned today, in jail.

McFarland, already languishing in the Lincoln Heights bastile on a 30-day sentence for burglary, was "arrested" again Monday night and charged with theft of an automobile.

On information supplied by Mrs. Gladys Eagan, 1260 E. 35th street who had caused McFarland's arrest in the first place, when he burglarized her home, stealing jewelry and cutting up her clothing, Newton Street police booked McFarland this week on the car theft charge.

Mrs. Eagan told the officers she had seen the license to McFarland's Ford sedan and that it was registered to Mrs. F. A. Herring, of San Francisco, from whom McFarland assertedly stole the automobile several months ago.

Englishmen Clamor for Fighter Role

The opening of the play, "Golden Boyy" in London has been followed by a flood of applications to Columbia Studios from young Englishmen who feel they could represent the prizefighter violinist to the life for motion pictures.

In its preparations to film the Clifford Odets drama Columbia has been seeking an unknown actor or non-professional who could bring to the title role a striking personality new to the screen.

While the search has thus far been officially concentrated in California, decision is being withheld on a selection for the part and the applications of all candidates are being carefully considered.

Luther Adler, who created the part of "Golden Boy" in the Group Theatre's original Broadway production last year, is playing the same role on the London stage.

While Columbia's efforts to locate an unknown for the part were known in England and many applications had prevoiusly come to Hollywood from across the Atlantic, the London opening has given British youth a clearer idea of the nature of Odets' sensitively tuned fighting hero and inspired the increased display of interest.

With Los Angeles elite in ful attendance, the opening of the First building of the Outdoor Life and Health Association sanitarium at Duarte took prominence over all civic functions Sunday.

Representatives of all walks of Los Angeles life mingled as the tuberculosis home debutted among the fashionable medical establishments of the Duarte section.

HHeralded as a first out-post in a local battle against the ravages of dread T. B., which affects Negroes more than any other American group, the sanitarium is the dream of Dr. Leonard Stovall, Outdoor Life-Health head.

The building, a trim white spot on the flat Duarte plains, is equipped with the latest fixtures and beds. Spacious, yet cozy, it is hard to estimate how many will find happy convalescent days within its walls.

With a program emceed by publisher Frederick M. Roberts, Sunday afternoon, it takes its place among the year's medical—and social—events.

Queried on Lynch Bill

NAACP Asks Candidates to Pledge to Vote for Cloture to Pass Bill

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A questionnaire asking candidates for Congress to state their attitude on a new federal anti-lynching bill is being sent out by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, it was learned this week.

The N. A. A. C. P. board of directors at is meeting September 12, formally decided to sponsor the re-introduction of an anti-lynching bill in both houses of Congress in January. The questionaire followed swiftly upon the heels of the board's action.

Candidates for the Senate are being asked by the N. A. A. C. P. if... they will vote for limitation of debate on the bill if the sponsors in the Senate should present a petition for cloture.

In the last Congress the anti-lynching bill was filibustered to death in the Senate because, although more than 70 senators had pledged to vote for the bill when it came to a vote, many of these solons did not consider their pledge binding upon a cloture vote.

As long as there are at least a dozen Senators opposed to the bill and willing to speak against it, the only method by which a filibuster can be broken is thru the adoption of the cloture rule, hence the importance of the N. A. A. C. P. question to candidates. Cloture has been adopted frequently in the Senate, and once on a bill for migatory birds. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in a statement to the press believes that if this drastic gag rule can be adopted for a bill dealing with birds, it ought to be called up in a bill dealing with human lives snuffed out by mobs".

NEW BILL

The NAACP revealed this week that it is going forward with plans to have drafted and introduced a new anti-lynching bill in the 76th Congress. The work of passing the bill in the House will have to be done all over again, even though the Gavagan bill was passed 277-119 in April, 1937, because the Senate failed to pass the bill and a new Congress convenes in January. All bills not passed by both houses of the last Congress automatically died and must be passed over again.

"Nothing has happened to change our opinion that a federal anti-lynching law is needed if lynchings are to be checked and lynchers punished," said Walter White, N. A. A. C. P. secretary. "The five authenticated lynchings of 1938 may be fewer than in previous years, but they have been just as savage, and have

Merger of Pythians is Denied

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. (ANP)—Pythians of the nation heard with surprise this week of a repudiation by Supreme Chancellor William H. Martin of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres, in Springfield, Mass., that his order had been merged with the parent body the Pythians of North America etc., headed by Supreme Chancellor S. A. T. Watkins of Chicago.

The merger, ending a schism in Knight of Pythias ranks dating back 50 years, was reported in the nation's press last July, when eastern Pythians held their annual convention July 17, at Lynn, Mass. News of the merger was made public, following reported ratification of the plan by both organizations and by Supreme Chancellors Martin and Watkins. The latter was present at the Lynn meeting, in connection with his grand lodge visitations.

MARTIN SPEAKS

The statement of Supreme Chancellor William H. Martin, Eastern and Western Hemispheres, sent out from his office in Springfield, Mass., is as follows:

"There have been articles published recently in several papers announcing a so-called consolidation, in July, at Lynn, Mass., of the District Grand Lodge and Grand Court of New England, K. P. of E. & W.H. with the Knights of Pythias of N.A., S.A., E.A., A. & A.

"As this statement is incorrect and false, (and it is not intended to imply that your paper made the false statements of its own accord), and as it is my desire to fully advise all of our members, and those of the general public who may be interested, as to the true situation, I will thank you to please give equal publicity to the following statement."

GIRL 8, AND BOY 7 KILLED BY AUTOS

Two young lives were snuffed out this week by automobiles, almost within an hour of each other.

8-year-old Mary Annie Young of 1661 E. 42nd street, was struck down by a laundry truck Monday evening, shortly after five p. m., and died at the Georgia Street Receiving Hospital an hour later.

One minute after she succumbed Alpheus Cross, 7, of 1459 E. 18th street, was struck by an automobile dying at the Receiving Hospital an hour and eleven minutes afterward.

Neither driver was held by police. William Bujol, driver of the first car, a pick-up truck for the Diamond Laundry, told police, and his statement was substantianted by witnesses, that Mary Annie ran out in front of his truck at 47th and Honduras. He swerved to avoid hitting the child, he claimed, but the left wheel struck her and hurled her body some distance. Witnesses were Victor Parchman, 1652 E. 47th street and Lucille Herron, 1660 E. 47th street.

Little Alpheus also ran in front of an automobile at 18th and Hooper, driven by Joseph Giles, 11302 Parmalee avenue. On skates, the child suddenly appeared from behind a parked car right in the pathway of Giles' vehicle.

For "PUBLIC GOOD and WELFARE" something must be done about the ordinary material that's coming over OUR LOUD SPEAKERS of the RADIO. At present the only consistent meritorious material is THE TRUTH-FUL FLASH of the NEWS. The fine COMMENTATORS from universities that discuss the "BLOW BEHIND" the news is a great CONTRIBUTION. But these long drawn out BUILD UPS of some personality YOU already Know about, and then A DOUBLE DOSE about the product and finally the same old JOKES with SAME OLD Slap stick formula, is SOMETHING I believe most of us are GETTING ENOUGH of. We will buy the SOAP just the same whether the program is good or not PROVIDED THE SOAP is GOOD. So if they are giving ENTERTAINMENT why not a few CREATIVE BRAINS that have something to offer their GOOD CUSTOMERS? They who are in the KNOW don't like to receive a LETTER or Wire telling them that the PROGRAM IS NOT worth while, but still they WON'T EVEN LET the good brains around THE STUDIOS FUNCTION. A new idea is STOPPED before it is tried and IF SOME ONE happens to STUMBLE on a NEW IDEA, then all the programs from SEVEN o'clock in the morning to ELEVEN at night are alike AND THEY SING AND PLAY THE SAME TUNES. YES, there is a REMEDY. LETTERS sent by sufficient large groups, or clubs, federated into an organizataion, that COULD SPEAK for the ENTIRE group! They ask NEGROES, whites and all nationalities to buy their flour or their HEADACHE POWDERS but they never think it a good idea to employ more than TWO or THREE colored ARTISTS on important PROGRAMS. This is another AVENUE for EMPLOYMENT of our YOUNG GIRLS and BOYS studying the ARTS in the best UNIVERSITIES and it is UP to YOU WITH YOUR letters to open the way. THE SAME argument I have been giving you about PICTURES. Write, letters or POSTAL cards—WRITE! Miss Louise Beavers and Hattie McDaniels have JOINED IN THE CRUSADE for letters for OUR artists and I HOPE SOME more important ARTISTS will join this WEEK and ORGANIZE groups for LETTER WRITING. You have a PEN, all of GOD'S CHILDREN have PENS, so let's write and write all OVER GOD'S Country. Suppose the 50,000 persons who saw "RUN LITTLE CHILLUN" wrote letters to LUX THEATRE of the air asking to hear this great DRAMA, DO YOU THINK CECIL DE MILLE would turn a DEAF EAR?

Local Urban League Begins Two New Training Services

ing services under the direction of the Los Angeles Urban league was announced this week. First of these is an in-service training for public service, designed to meet the needs of persons with some experience and training interested in furthering their qualifications for various public positions.

At present this service includes training for receptionist-(PBX) telephone operator; secretarial-office management; education-vocational guidance; education-vocational handicap; social welfare-community organization; advertising-commercial art; custodial-building maintenance; employment-industrial relations; music and fine arts; administrative-technical legal aid, research and statistics; philosophy and human relations; public relations and journalism including cinema and photography.

The division of public relations and journalism will be under the direction of Miss Lillian Jones. It will function as a medium for publicizing the activities of all divisions and in addition will aid persons interested in this field of work to develop techniques for varied types of journalism.

EXTENSION

The institution of the in-service training for public service project will serve to extend the work in this direction already accomplished by the league, it was claimed. An experiment in 1934, when the executive secretary of the league was loaned to the Los Angeles County Relief administration for a period as administrator, has resulted in a stimulation of opportunity for young people in public service. There are now some 40 or 50 young Negroes in public service—particularly social welfare and employment service agencies—in Los Angeles city and county.

The other new project, which will be under the supervision of the league's employment division, will train persons in the mechanics of scientific building servicing. Operation of electrical equipment for cleaning and scrubbing carpets on the floor, waxing, polishing, graining of floors, and other features of building servicing are some of the skills for which persons will be trained. Edgar Hampton, graduate of Frank Wiggins Trade school, who is a certified technician in this field, will be in charge of this service.

Further information regarding these and other league services can be secured by calling at the office, 2502 South Central Ave.

AME's of Chicago Area Hold 56th Annual Confab

CHICAGO, Sept. 29, (ANP)—With the Rt. Rev. John A. Gregg presiding bishop of the Fifth Episcopal District presiding, the 56th annual Chicago conference of the A. M. E. church opened here last Wednesday at Institutional church. After the conference was formally opened the annual sermon was delivered by Rev. W. Reid, pastor of St. Mary's A. M. E. church.

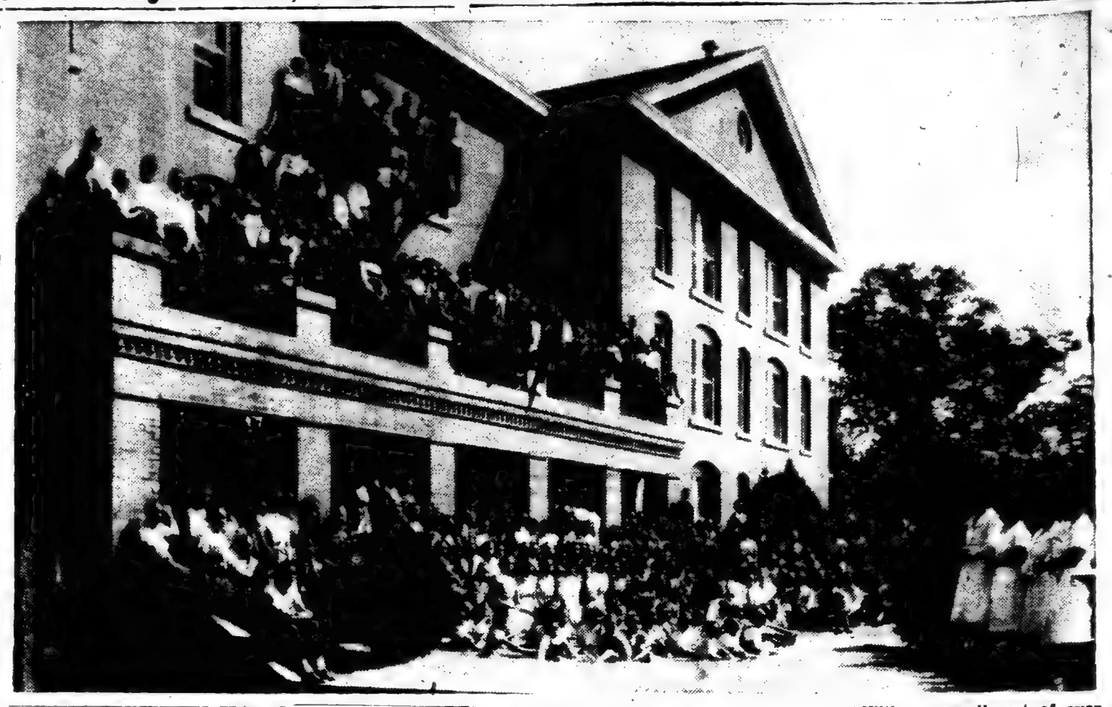
Th conference continued through the balance of the week, closed Sunday morning in the auditorium of DuSable high school, with the reading of appointments. Thursday session was featured by Bishop Greg's reading of a cablegram from Bishop R. R. Wright, now conducting the Zambezi Conference in So. Africa. Bishop Gregg told of the remarkable work being accomplissed in the South African field by Bishop Wright.

B'HAM CONSIDERING NEGRO POLICEMEN

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 29. (ANP)—Possibility of adding three or four Negroes to the police department to patrol the colored districts was aired by Police Commissioner Eugene Connor last week, who said that no definite action would be taken until public opinion had been sounded out.

Agriculture is Tuskegee's Newest Goal

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Sept. 29. (ANP)—That Tuskegee Institute is gradually expanding its agricultural program was emphatically revealed in President F. D. Patterson's first address of the school year to the Institute faculty, last week.



The new emphasis is two-fold in scope. First, because of Tuskegee's strategic location in the very heart of the Black Belt where it is easily and conveniently accessible to those Alabama counties which are most densely populated with rural Negroes, special courses of study are designed to meet the agricultural needs of this area. Approximately 70 per cent of Alabama's rural Negro population reside in this area. Second, because of Tuskegee's tested leadership and pioneering in Negro Extension Service and Vocational Agriculture and Home Economics and because of its nearness to the State Department of Education in Montgomery and the great Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, government and state officials increasingly rely upon Tuskegee for experimental projects in those activities which touch rural Negro life.

In his address to the faculty, Dr. Patterson spoke at length concerning the Land-Use Rural Housing project at Prairie Farms and announced that a member of the faculty—in cooperation with the Institute's School of Education—will develop an educational program suitable for similar housing projects which are being sponsored by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Dr. Patterson also stated that two members of the School of Mechanical Industries—an architect and a brickmason—have been making an exhaustive study of low cost rural housing for the Extension Service. Already the experiments in rural home construction and remodeling with material either on the farm or easily accessible to it, have attracted nation-wide attention as a solution to a most pressing problem of low income groups.

In line with this general expansion of the Institute's agricultural program, work has already begun on the laboratory and museum to house Dr. Carver's laboratory and exhibits.

Kimbrough Aids Gum Treatment

SAN DIEGO—Dr. J. J. Kimbrough, only Negro dentist, participating in the Southern California State Dental Association convention which met in San Diego last week, was one of the dentists demonstrating with treated patients the pyorrhea treatment developed under Dr. Karl Humphres and Dr. H. M. Barnhart of Los Angeles. Dr. Kimbrough was one of the local dentists taught the modern treatment recently under the auspices of the association.

Legionnaires' Resolutions Tabled Until Chicago Meet

Although the American Legion closed its 20th Annual Convention here last Thursday without conclusive action in the fight on the "autocratic" U. S. War Department, observers consider that the small band of Legionnaires, opposing discrimination by the nation's defensive body scored a moral victory.

They succeeded in having placed on the table of the Defense committee for the next convention meeting in Chicago in September of 1939, the resolutions 131, 109, 141, pertaining to the integregation of Negroes in all branches of the army, navy, artillery, and air corps.

Allegedly parlimentary strategy succeeded in tabulating the resolutions before they could be explained by delegates and brought to a vote. The resolutions had been submitted to the 20th annual convention after having been adopted in the state conventions of Kansas, California, Iowa and Ohio.

Scheduled to speak for the resolution was Albert Dunlap, national delegate from Washington, D. C. (colored).

Dunlap claimed that committee manuevers and shifts of time caused him to be late for the meeting with the Defense committee, before whom he was to explain the resolutions. When he did arrive, Dunlap claimed the chair was in the act of recognizing the chairman of the Defense committee for his annual report. When the motion of adoption was put before the convention and the question put, Dunlap claimed he arose and on a point of information inquired of action taken on the resolutions.

OVER-RULED

When he was told they had been tabled, Dunlap became angry and proceeded to leave the room. Delegates called to him to take the platform and un-burden himself, which he did, asking for justice and unanimous consent to speak for the adoption of the resolutions.

An un-named delegate from Illinois requested the chair to grant the Washington delegate three minutes but when he commenced to speak, another delegate called for the previous question. The chair then over-ruled Dunlap.

In a signed statement to the Press, Dunlap claimed that his remarks were in reality "germane" to the principle issue of the convention, Defense Report, Armed forces, and that the chair was in error in its ruling.

"If we are good enough to be officers in time of war, then why are we not good enough to be officers in time of peace" was one of the questions put to the listening Legion delegates by Dunlap.

In addition to the integration of colored soldiers in all branches of the war department, the resolutions called for a pro rata share of enlisted personnel and officers. Pointing out that more than 400,000 colored soldiers answered the call of battle in 1918, of which 40,000 actually fought., Dunlap alleged that they would be more efficient soldiers in the event of another war if properly trained and instructed.

The resolutions also proposes the appointment of two colored cadets yearly to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

WOMEN who are ACTIVE and CHEERFUL every day of the month

MANY women are active and cheerful every day of the month—cheerful the whole month through.

For others, there may be two or three days when they just can't be cheerful. Theirs may be a condition which Cardui would benefit, or it may be that their physician should advise treatment to free them from unnecessary suffering.

If you have monthly pains due to a run-down condition from mal-nutrition (a condition in which you simply do not get enough energy and strength from the food you eat), Cardui may do you lots of good. It is a bitter tonic (to give you more benefit from eating) and a medicine to ease functional pains of menstruation.

Since so many have found it helps to relieve the nervous tension and ease much of the discomfort at menstrual times, Cardui is widely and favorably known. Mothers tell their daughters about it; women tell neighbor women how it has helped them or some one in their families.

Remember that Cardui has been found to help in a two-fold manner: (1) to ease functional pains of menstruation and (2) aid in building up the whole system through its assistance as a vegetable bitter tonic.

RAILROAD CLATTER

By: CHARLES L. UPTON

From current newspaper reports it begins to look like Adolph Hitler has reached the end of his string. The man who hates Negroes and Jews alike, the man who has a false dream that he and Germany can rule the world after taking such a licking Twenty years ago has not learned his lesson and seeks to again throw Europe into one of the most horrible wars civilization will ever witness. He coldly rejects all offers of peace and reminds our president that the late Woodrow Wilson was the cause of him being where he is today with his sham democracy. Having tasted blood in devouring Austria he is likened to a vicious animal and raves and craves for Czechoslovakia who will die rather then submit to a madman who would take away all their rights, money and property. He has given the Czechs until Saturday to make up their minds to surrender. Premier Benito Mussolini, another blood thirsty animal of the same type and caliber, who had a dream he was Napoleon a few years ago and devoured Ethiopia tells the world that he will back Adolph up with the Italian army while Russia tunes up her vast fleet of war planes and calmly waits for the bomb to burst. The sooner Hitler is out of the way of the Soviet, the better and there apparently seems no better way than the course he is pursuing. Will there be war? Well it will be one of two things. If not a war with the Czechs then a civil war in Germany. This is my own observation of the European situation today and I guess I have a right to express it. Everybody else is doing it, whether they are right or wrong remains to be seen and just so some of my Pullman Porter friends don't loose their heads and organize a Joe Louis battalion, let 'em fight.

Birthday Greetings

Many happy returns to the following readers who celebrate their birthdays during the month of September: J. Fowler, S. V. Pinky, Frank White, G. D. Smock, L. T. Henderson, Rosalie Monroe, Alice Jane Butler, H. B. Wilson, Mrs. O. Hundley, Mrs. J. J. Johnson, L. C. Busby, H. E. Fry, C. Jones, H. H. McCraevn, Sylvester Franklin, Samuel Forrest and Edward R. Smith, Jr., congratulations.

Delegates Return to City Monday from Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Con.

Bringing to an end the climax of one of the greatest conventions of Negro workers in the history of organized labor, delegates, W. B. Holland and H. L. Armstrong will arrive in the city Monday and hold a series of meetings in which they will make their report and give the members the highlights of what took place at the convention. In as much as the delegates placed before the convention the brotherhood's program for the next porters in this district a large attendance is expected to be on hand. Several other resolutions were sent to the convention and their outcome will also be given out at these meetings as well as the general outline of the Brotherhoods program for the next year. These meetings will be held at night when it is cool and comfortable at the Brotherhood headquarters and only members of the Brotherhood and the Women's Economic Council will be admitted. The meetings will start promptly at 8 p. m. beginning on Monday, October 3rd at which time the regular monthly meeting, which was formerly held in the day time, will be held with the regular transaction of business. The meetings will last until Friday night, October 7. Notices have been mailed out to all members and a large attendance is expected.

Otto Johnson Takes Bride Puts One Over on the Gang

Keeping his romance and wedding secret for over two months, Otto Johnson, dapper young beau brummel of the Pullman Porter colony, came out from his honeymoon, after learning that the Clatter was let in "on the know", mailed the writer the following belated announcement: Mrs. Mattie M. Adams announces the marriage of her daughter, Emily Marion to Mr. C. Otto Johnson, on Monday, the 20th day of July, 1938, Santa Ana, Calif. At home after October first, 1815 West 36th Place, Los Angeles, Calif. Now fellows I don't know what you think about being let down like that but as one of the gang I think it is a dirty Irish shame, just look at the fun we missed in tearing the house inside out, well mama's boy certainly put one over on us allright but, nevetrheless, the gang has the address and have appointed a committee to pay Mr. C. Otto Johnson a visit at home after October first, we just can't let him get by like that he has been so nice to us all during his single bliss it would be a shame to snub him now. It, therefore, gives the CLATTER great pleasure at this time to offer its congratulations. Mrs. Johnson you got a swell fellow and the gang will miss him. Or is it in the bargain to let him have a night off. The committee: Bill Asbury, James White, Jonn Carter, Will Carter, T. D. Starks, Johnny Mooee, Joe Estoeage, and Chas. Upton. Beware!

Mr. and Mrs. James White Entertain

After many weeks of bachelor bliss while the war department has been in the East, the writer was finally run down by Mr. and Mrs. James White and coralled for a dinner party last Friday night. I must confess that it took somebody who knows the ins and outs like the much changed Jimmy to do the trick and once in captivity the writer didn't need any black-jack to pursuade him to sit down and shove his big feet under the heavily ladden table of choice viands that was spread before him. Invited and watching a hungry man go to town were the genial Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Asbury whose modesty must have been terribly shocked at the way the writer devoured all that was placed before him. Nonchalant James White demonstrated to his guests that he is in a class by himself when it comes to making pineapple ice cream about the finest it has ever been the writer's pleasure to consume. Mrs. White proved to be one of the most charming hostesses in these parts.

Guy Houston Story Postponed

The writer regrets that owing to the shortness of time correct data on the railroad career of the late Guy Houston who was buried last week from the Angelus Funeral Home could not be obtained. As soon as we are able to secure same the story will be published.

Wm. Asbury Takes in Convention

Wm. Asbury breezed into town last week and related a few highlights of the Brotherhood convention. According to Asbury's observations the chilly winds of Lake Michigan ran our delegates, Holland and Armstrong, under cover. Asbury says the weather was far from being B. V. D. climate and the boys hovered around the hotel radiators, one had on a thin rain coat that wouldn't keep you warm on the desert and the other prayed for the sun to come out. He further states that the convention put on what they called a stool-pigeons' night in which all the stool pigeons were invited to come in out of the rain. A. Noel happened to be there on the other nights when only members with delegates badges were admitted and was left on the outside looking in. Now ain't that somethin'.

Aunt Mary Has Operation

According to my Northern reporter, Aunt Mary, one of the finest hotel proprietors for railroad men in San Francisco, underwent an operation, she is well at this writing and we are glad to hear it.

Riot Town in Maryland to Oust Negroes

Order for All Negro Idlers to Get Out of Town is Aftermath of Riot

SNOW HILL, Md., Sept. 29. (By ANP)—Mayor John O. Byrd of this lynch-minded community Monday ordered all unemployed Negroes to get out of town as the aftermath of a race riot Saturday night in which one Negro was killed, another wounded and 21 arrested.

Slayer of the lone casualty, Police Chief W. Rhodes Rew, was exonerated by a coroner's jury after testifying he was "forced" to fire on Frank Bishop, 19, after a group of colored men "insulted" a police officer.

Mayor Byrd said Monday:

"We have secured the cooperation of Worcester county authorities and are preparing tonight to take an official census of all Negro residents in Snow Hill and vicinity. Those that we find are not employed in Snow Hill will be given a choice of going to jail on vagrancy charges or of getting out of town and its vicinity at once.

"If necessary we will take most of them to the Virginia line from where most of them came."

Town officials said about 900 Negroes come to this Eastern Shore village every year for the potato and canning seasons which closed last week.

YOUNG PIANISTS IN CONCERTO RECITAL

Phyllis Kelson and John F. Brown, Jr., young pianist of the Gray Conservatory of Music will be presented in a concerto program Sunday, October 9th at 4 p. m. at the Gray Musart, 4068 Central Avenue. They will play the Haydn D Major and the Pierne C. minor concertos respectively. Prof. Gray will be at the second piano. Admission will be fifteen cents.

Begin Set-up of Negro Units of Community Chest

Organization of the Negro divisions of the Community Chest was set under way this week by Mrs. Zelma Watson Duke, who has been appointed in general charge of the Chest campaign in the South Central Avenue territory. Mrs. Duke, who is president of the South Central Coordinating council, is the wife of Rev. Baxter Carroll Duke, pastor of Avalon Christian church, 43rd and Avalon Blvd.

In an appeal to citizens to subscribe to the Chest agency fund this fall to the full limit of their abilities, Mrs. Duke called attention to a report received by her from Mrs. Maude H. Roof, executive secretary of the Family Welfare association. The report gives the result of studies during the first eight months of 1937 and the first eight months of the present year of services rendered by the association, which has given valuable aid to Negro citizens.

During the 1937 period, the report states, the association had under its care 4000 persons representing 1143 different families. In the same period of this year it cared for 9717 persons representing 2777 families, an increase of 142 per cent. To meet this 142 per cent increase, the agency had only 24 per cent more money. Moreover, approximatey 1000 applications for much needed aid had to be rejected for lack of funds.

"These figures," Mrs. Duke commented, "indicate conditions that are general at nearly all of the 88 Chest-supported agencies, namely, a steadily increasing demand for assistance, and deplorably inadequate budgets with which to meet it."

If the agencies are to be enabled to continue their health and wefare programs, she declared, the public this fall must increase

'Job Ethics' is New Jeff Hi Night Course

"Job Ethics and Vocational Psychology" a new course on Monday and Wednesday evenings at the Jefferson Evening High school under Mrs. Grace Fisher Atkins has attracted a group of students who are enthusiastic about this subject, it was reported by Cleon Kersey, principal, this week. Psychology has long been taught to students who were fortunate enough to be able to attend college, but in the past few years a number of Adult Evening Schools of the city have offered such courses in the hope that students might better understand numerous books and magazine articles appearing in recent years. In many of these popular works, Psychology is considered the basis of how to succeed in life and how to be happy in the work that is one's means of livelihood.

Another class that offers current thought-provoking topics to adults is the Current Problems Forum on Friday evenings.

Such questions as the "Thirty Dollar a Week" pension, the repeal of the sales tax, single tax on land, and the war in Europe are explained in the course of these Friday meetings, 6:30-9:30.

The leader of this class, Eugene Lingle has lived a considerable part of his life in Germany and Czecho-Slovakia. He will bring to the group at this weeks session some of his experiences on a recent trip to Central Europe. Speaking the native tongues of these countries, he was able to obtain first hand information on which he has based many lectures since returning to the United States.

The beginning Spanish class on Tuesday and Thursday is available to any students who wish to enroll at this time. Mr. George Smith is the instructor.

Y's to Stress Interracial Principles

NEW YORK, N. Y. Sept. 29—The Interracial group shown above is a Y team that has just completed a summer of visitations to Y. M. C. A.'s of the North and West for the purpose of stressing the importance of making the Y. M. C. A. truly interracial in practice as well as profession.

The National Conference of Y. M. C. A.'s Serving Colored Men and Boys to be held on the campus of Howard University, November 4, 5 and 6, will devote time to the consideration of interracial principles and practices, as well as to methods of improving the programs of existing Associations, it was announced today.

Channing H. Tobias, Executive Secretary, who has carried on agitation in conferences at home and abroad against an exclusive policy of segregation in the Y. M. C. A., states that the National Conference will urge the National Council of the United States to take seriously the following resolutions passed by the recent World's Conference in India:

"First that no Association or Branch should adopt a racially exclusive membership policy or close any of its activities to any man on the ground of his race or color; provided, however, subject to the above principle, the conference does not mean to recommend the closing down of special Associations or Branches existing to meet the needs of groups which would otherwise not receive adequate YMCA service.

Second, that the preceeding resolution be brought to the notice of every national movement as a recommendation, with the request that it be transmitted to local Associations in like manner and that the World's Committee shall be informed by national movements of the progress made in carrying out this recommendation."

Prizes amounting to $1,500 will be awarded to winners in the fifth annual non-professional rodeo to be held Oct. 14, 15 and 16 in Victorville, Cal Godshall, manager of the event, announced yesterday.

With the entry lists restricted to working cowboys, the non-professional rodeo has achieved a prominence shared by Ogden, Salinas and Sun Valley shows.

GET READY FOR FALL

Now that the Labor Day weekend has marked the close of summer, it is time we took stock of ourselves and set about repairing the ravages of summer sun and wind and getting ourselves in fit condition to set off our first fall clothes.

Get in front of a good mirror in a bright unflattering light. (We can't bask indefinitely in the soft glow of a shaded lamp so we might as well face the worst once and for all and see what can be done about it.)

Start with your hair. Is it dried out, stiff and unruly? A series of oil shampoos and in addition the application of a good pomade will do much to correct that dried condition. The chances are that in the heat of summer you have neglected your daily brushings. Take it up again in earnest if you hope to recapture the lost sheen. And if the sun has faded it, there are excellent preparations on the market which will help restore the lustre.

That Summer Complexion

Now for the complexion. Don't despair if it looks several shades darker after all that exposure to the sun's rays. A few good bleaching treatments will restore it to its original color. But since bleaches are often drying, don't forget to give your skin plenty of good cream. If it's probably rough and scaley anyway after a hard summer so don't neglect it. Try cleansing your face with cream at night instead of using soap and water, for the period of readjustment at least, and after it is thoroughly cleaned rub in a little more and allow it to remain overnight.

How do your hands and nails look at this point? A bit ragged around the cuticle, cracking nails, and an all-over roughness? Soaking the nails in warm olive oil for a few minutes each day will restore the natural oils, soften the cuticle, and correct the brittle condition that causes them to crack. Get a good hand lotion and use it religiously every time you wash your hands. In the heat of the summer most of us were inclined to skip over this beauty rite.

Have You Slumped?

If you have slumped a little in your step, say due to the heat (and who hasn't let up a bit?) you had best take up your daily dozen with renewed vigor. The fall dresses should look sleek and slim, no ungraceful bulges and bulges. A new dress looks no better than the figure that wears it. The weather is cooler now and a little will-power may be all that's needed to achieve slim, well-proportioned lines.

Start your reducing at once. People make allowances for summer failings but there's no excuse for going into the winter looking anything but your best.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 607—521 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

LYNCH BILL

shown just as great contempt for law and order. More important than that, three of the five victims were guilty of no crime whatsoever—innocent men have been put to death by thoughtless blood-crazed mobs. We are not sure that the other two were actually guilty of any crime. Furthermore, in not a single case has anyone been arrested for these lynchings. In other words the states have continued, as they have in the past, to do nothing about lynching. The federal government must act."

Poems on Homely Things

LADY BILBREW
(To Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew)

Lady Bilbrew, Lady Bilbrew,
Wave your silvery baton high.
Let all mankind know we women
Are not merely standing by,

Chocolate Angel, Chocolate Angel,
With your silken wings of white,
Coax and train your dusky cherubs.
As no other artist might.

Pump them full of rhythm and rhythm
Harmony, symphonies too.
Lead them on like quaint Pied Piper,
They have worlds of faith in you.

Wake Enterpe from his slumber;
Orpheus gloats on yonder hill.
Beckon famous music masters.
Challenge them to match your skill.

Lady Bilbrew, Lady Bilbrew,
Wave your silvery baton high.
Let these men folks know, we women
Can do something more than cry.

NINE YEARS OF SERVICE

With announcement of the addition of a motorcycle and truck to faciliatate the delivery service of Jenkin's Poultry Market, 1387 E. Vernon avenue, there were revealed many little known factors about the establishment of Jenkins' and the business philosophy on which it runs.

In its ninth year, Jenkins remains one of the oldest, in point of continous business, retail poultry markets on the Eastside. It was a risky business starting a new enterprise in 1929, and the field was crowded with fifteen other markets in this one locality, but Jenkins felt that the people needed a new type of service, one characterized by efficiency.

Through the early years, during the hardships of getting started the founder held to his ideals. Recently the market was remodled and is considered the most attractive and sanitary market in the city, so evidently the ideals were profitable.

Carrying out his word of efficiency, Jenkins has installed the latest type fixtures and equipment. Their outstanding characteristic is that they are easily cleaned. Also an innovation is the use, almost exclusively by Jenkins' market of wrapping paper of high quality, a neutral fibre, guaranteing the sanitation which is risked when old newspapers are used.

With the exception of one employee, the efficient help has been with the company for periods of from three to seven years. They are especially trained in the rudiments of salesmanship, handling poultry, as well as in Jenkins' Market has the added distinction of being the first market to feature delivery service, that boon to busy housewives. He boasts the largest delivery service of any retail poultry market in the city.

Psychology of Working Class Studied at Jeff Hi

By GRACE FISHER

Before the working people can demand the proper distribution of the nation's industry they will have to do three things, first, organize, second, study industry, and third establish a logical and workable solution to the present chaos. Many workers have already concerned themselves with the economic problems of the country to the extent that they are endeavoring to spread the information to their fellows. These problems are considered by progressive workers who attend the classes at Jefferson Evening High school every Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p. m. in room 128.

The Forum has discussed Hitler's method of solving the employment problem, which has been suggested many times in our own country. This procedure is to send the married women home and give the employment to the men.

On the surface that sounds well. Let us consider the implications. First of all the average wage in Germany is less than $14.00 per week. In the United States it is less than $20.00. If only the husband's income is to supply the living it means a tremendous sacrifice. Hitler has seen to that by many posters, sugesting one dish menus, fasts, beer drinking and the like, in order to make the small income elastic. In general, this means a lower standard of living.

The second consideration is that women have been proven just as intelligent and capable as men Is there any reason for her interests being inherently that of housekeeping Surely American women have proven that. In the 1930 Statistics reviewed in "Recent Social Trends" we find only 13 per cent of the American women not gainfully employed

FORCED OUT

Since the Industrial Revolution and the rise of capitalism, women have been forced from the home in order to maintain a reasonable standard of living. It was proven that they have talents and ability. At present the education and training of women is as serious a consideration as that of men. In fact, enrollment in the many trade schools and colleges show that women are becoming more numerous than men in preparation for the future.

In spite of the interests and activities of the "weaker sex", there still remains a majority of the working class untrained and unprepared for wholesome industrial life. They have not acquired ability, appearance or personality. The youth who enters high school is to willing to take courses which just enable him to receive a diploma. When graduation comes, he is prepared for nothing. Neither has his interests been motivated to the extent that he has any conception of industrial security. Therefore the working population is a gullible sort remaining at the mercy of the capitalist class. He is afraid of organization because he knows nothing about it. He is satisfied with a pittance because he has been taught to be thankful for that.

Modern invention has made machinery take the place of labor. It has lent a higher civilization but a lower standard of living for the masses. It is the problem of the masses to study the situation and establish a solution to the emplovment menace, war, and fascism. The worker must think for himself. He must gather information and cooperate with his fellow.

Libraries, public evening schools, and civic organizations are available in order that the worker may be informed.

Again may we urge you to visit Mr. McKnight get acquainted with him, he has a host of friends among the Colored People and you will find it a pleasure to do business with him. POLITICAL POT PIE...

By IRA

As we gird for the final showdown in the campaign, Republican leaders had just as well know now or to their sorrow and defeat later that they can't win through placing political acrobats out in front to lead.

Those who have stood fire in the past are not going to be shoved aside for a man or men who followed Lemke and other false gods a few years ago and assisted in former G. O. P. defeats.

These "revenue-cutters" (highbinders), finding shake-downs rare in other pastures, now sneak in under the sidewall of the Republican tent and horn their way up to a front seat in the party council. No, we won't stand for it and issue a warning now that shoving such birds forward means defeat.

In the rounds, we learn that Mrs. C. A. Bass, EAGLE editor, has been appointed as a member of the Executive Committee, Republican state Central Committee.

According to Richard L. Newton, chairma nof the G. O. P. 14th District County entral Committee, the skids are greased to slide Tom Ford out and William D Campbell into that comfortable seat he's occupied for the past six years.

Speaking of "folding up quickly" in a previous issue, Bob Strather and Emory Craine, McAdoo Eastside big-shots took exceptions: "Why", said Crane, "pick on us when the "Study Clubs" folded while the vote was being counted. We did wait 'til the next morning."

Missing Democrats: Dick Abrams, Ella Hawkins, Bob Strather, Emory Craine. We did lamp Gil Banks one dav this week.

The Board of Trade bloomed and flourished under the guidance of Walt Lawson during the Shaw regime. Now we have the "Board of Trade" ushered in with the new mayor, t's directed by L. R. Ingram, Bob LaMar and John D. Marida, big-shots in Bowron's triumphant march. They are located at 4618 Central. It will be a meeting spot for various organizations.

Again we say "next week". These politicians seem to be marking time. We find nothing and the boss is saying "get it or get out!" What am I to do? Get busy boys, have eaten on the hog down to the feet One more duster like this then it'll be hy-poppin' for this poor scribe. Save me, boys!

In the City Council that fine fellow, Councilman Franklin P. Buyer tried to save our life by handing us this: "Public works committee recommends that the petition requesting improvement of the second alley west of Meyler Street from 11th to 12th Streets in San Pedro, be granted."

Chatter and . . . Some News

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL

Society Editor

THIRTEEN STORIES UP . . . standing at a window in the Transportation Building . . . an open window . . . looking down on headlights worming their way through traffic a few minutes before seven and catching the clang, clang of the street car . . . I get fascinated by the idea conjured up in the minds of suicides. The street below is an invitation . . . one can casually step out and drop into nothingness . . . be away from lights and noises and people hedging one in . . . And yet, what is there to be gained in blood spattered on a sidewalk . . . I would surely fall on my head . . . No, there's no danger of my ever forgetting that . . . It is so good to be alive, to watch a classroom fill with intellectually curious persons, to get the feel of a challenge in returning to books, of thrilling to days ahead when exams and term papers will demand a reckoning . . . and get it.

It is good to be in school again . . . even at night . . . even away from verdant freshmen and campus life . . . though there's a little tinge of sadness in memories that crowd in. In the hall, during intermission, I run into Mrs. Willa Hudgins and recall summer . . . there's the bell! Yes, it's good to be in school again.

EDUCATIONS IN THEMSELVES:

I'm saying that about Beatrice Day who you see here at the left . . . and Theo Hampton . . . Bee's the little girl who's come the hard way . . . all by herself.

Beatrice Day

An orphan that had a goal and stuck full time to it . . . Bee worked and finished high school and junior college with commendable colors . . . and now she goes into a fuller life with her hands full and ready to give her best in increasing her own and another's happiness . . . Bee's getting married in February to an unassuming fellow with ideas for getting ahead . . . I'll let you read the story elsewhere . . . Mind? . . . Theo Hampton has what I call pluck plus. Young, with a great capacity for organization work (YWCA, etc.) and a full-time job . . . and romance. Saturday, she took her second matrimonial venture; Howard Washington's the partner to her joy . . . They're honeymooning in San Diego.

And then, there's this newcomer to the Southland—Miss Lena Edwards—who's striking out in a new field and a hard one. Drop in and encourage her Sunday afternoon when her studio's opened in the California Bank Building at Vernon and Central . . . Jessie Reed will be graduated tonight from the L. A. County General Hospital School of Nursing . . . and in November will become the bride of Charles Henry McDaniel . . . Oh, these balanced ladies . . . Congratulations to Emily M. Adams who has been Mrs. Otto Johnson since July 25 . . .

And sincere sympathy to Rev. Baxter C. Duke of Avalon, whose father died in Topeka last week . . . Also, to the family of pretty Rylva Easter who met death bravely in the tragic train mishap last week . . . while en route to Wilberforce for her senior year. In both instances, I'm sure those mourning them are comforted by the thought that their lives were fraught with giving . . . and lives on to strengthen the lives they touched.

Many thanks to the Shaw Chapel M. E.'s to be a guest at their banquet on October 7 . . . I can't remember ever missing a free meal . . . 'cept when I'm mad . . . or there's a speech attached . . . which takes the appetite.

FULL DAY:

After breakfast followed by an hour of reading and another hour of banging typewriter and piano keys . . . nothing could have been more welcome Sunday than the invitation to dine with Mrs. Lucille M. Williams and daughter and son-in-law, Lois and Eugene Rabb . . . It's been a long time since I enjoyed so much being at the Williams board . . . Since the days in Columbus when many a student dropped by with that look that let Mrs. Williams know the "turf" or boarding school wasn't just up to par . . . victually speaking . . . Banter and memories kept notice away from prodigious helpings.

. . . After the dishes, to Eighth and Towne for the C.U.C. broadcast that featured surprises rich and galore . . . Louise Beavers, very smart in black crepe with satin contrast, patent pumps and a shallow crown hat, made one of the most sincere appeals for fan mail for struggling young artists . . . Lois Hodnott, pretty girl with the pretty voice, sang "Summertime" . . . with more fervor than in "Porgy and Bess" . . . Luvenia Harper-Dones at the organ brought approving glances from all directions . . . she wore an individualistic print afternoon gown with jade sash. Clarence Muse in what the well-dressed gent wears . . .

GRADUATES TONIGHT; WEDS IN OCTOBER

"Petite saison" . . . it begins to round itself out . . . and entertainment . . . during it, is as pleasantly effervescent and intriguing as ever before . . . if we were in a stew of wonderment at summer's end as to just what would be done and how and when while society marked time before the winter plunge . . . we no longer wonder now . . . for we've already experienced not a little evidence as to just how our most charming hostesses have racked their brain for more than one season "fin in" party . . .and meanwhile time stretches out to time . . .October is practically here . . .month of ubiquitous costume parties . . . and when one, Eastern bred, gets the first foretaste of the heady whirl of an approaching holiday season . . .Southlanders get it too . . .in the various changes of tempo that mark our living . . . cool winds that have long since scattered the beadies of inhabitants . . .the quickness of the descending dusk . . .the change of color in the pyramids of fruit and vegatable that mark the vendors tempting arrays for holiday tables . . .already to be seen . . .a matter of weeks . . .no longer months . . . before we turn our faces into the sunshine of our mythical winter season . . .and speaking of grand summer entertainment, there is the memory of.

We offered to bet him $25 that an ad this size would not sell two cars a week. He accepts the bet, but to definitely prove to us the merits of his paper makes this proposition. You present this ad after you have bargained for an automobile listed below and instead of paying the $25 to the editor we will give you this amount as credit on any one of these cars. 50,000 Chillun "Run" to See Drama

WE SEE figures this week which emphatically show that some 50,000 people have seen Federal Theaters' "Run, Little Chillun", now on the stage of the Mayan theatre. It happens that we are included in this number that has viewed Hall Johnson's famous work.

Fifty thousand people is more apt to describe attendance at a major football game than a theatre's offering. But, "Run Little Chillun", although in no wise similar to a grid contest, may set a new record for Los Angeles theatres; that is, if it hasn't done so already.

The play caught on with the city's press with its premiere performance. Critics ran out of adjectives in their write-ups of the merits of the opus. Subsequent attendance has justified their first reports.

This offering of the Negro unit of the Federal Theater project, directed, produced, staged and acted by Negro talent, definitely presages a new day for the Negro actor.

ABOUT TOWN: The Rev. Howard Thurman, who was a teacher at Morehouse college in Atlanta when we passed thru there and who since is a bigwig at Howard university in Dee Cee, spoke here Sunday night at First Congregational church, downtown . . . the eminent lecturer and scholar could spellbind us more thoroughly than most . . .

Bob Garrett, one of Uncle Sam's postal employes, is raising prize rabbits as a sideline, we do understand . . . Willis Dudley, well known L. A. clubman who has been East, is back in town . . . spotted him among worshipers at Hamilton M. E. Sunday morn . . . The Community Chest has started its campaign fund ball rolling . . . the worthy cause drew a large number to an area meeting last Tuesday . . . the rising Gilbert Allen singers were among the features . . . A hearty pat on the back goes to Dr. Leonard Stovall, guiding hand of the Outdoor Life and Health Ass'n which dedicated its rest home at Duarte Sunday . . . The largest and healthiest looking specimen of manhood we know, Dr. E. I. Robinson, is back in town from an eastern trip. His picture of conditions in Dixie was not so heartening . . . A singer really going places in a hurry is baritone Kenneth Spencer who had a prominent role in "Gettysburg" at Hollywood Bowl last week . . . Edward W. Anderson, featured in our column, "Occupational Sketches" as the "Hog King of San Diego", has been exhibiting some of his prized Tamworths at the Pomona Fair . . . Back on the job from San Diego where she had a two-weeks' rest, is social worker and otherwise activer Carmelita White . . .

Chicago gets our vote as the most cosmopolitan city, to date, in the U. S. Last Saturday, an all-star aggregation of Negro ex-collegians took on the Chicago Bears, a professional football outfit.

The sports lovers of the Windy City flocked to see the game not because of any racial angle but because they didn't mind paying out the sheckels to see a bang-up football game.

When the so-called national pastime uses players because of their ability and not because of their color it may get up out of the doldrums and really become the NATIONAL pastime —national because it does not limit its make-up to a certain races.

PREDICTIONS: It's our hunch that Woodrow Strode, if he continues the flank play shown against Iowa last Friday under the arcs, will gain All-American recognition this fall.

INTERRACIAL NOTES . . .

By ABLYNE LOCKHART

Doug "Where am I" Corrigan announced that he would enter the University of California at Berkeley branch through Sather Gate; instead, he pulled another "wrong way" journey by arriving at West Gate Thursday, Sept. 15.

Before the famous flyer made his appearance, over 7000 spectators clamored for standing space around Wheeler steps. Students were perched high on top of roofs of surrounding buildings; doors, trees, and windows.

Poised and calm, Corrigan greeted the UC news staff, and photographers, with the very same familiar grin and leather jacket he has worn since his epic New York to Ireland "mistake" flight.

"I'm afraid I don't know much about football. It's too rough," Corrigan replied when asked to give his opinion of the California varsity.

Although he appeared tired, Corrigan said he enjoyed his cross country tour and "didn't mind all the fuss" made over his flight.

"I like this sort of thing," he said.

He has no plans for the future, he said, but wants to continue in aviation.

"I'd like a little private life," Corrigan reiterated but immediately denied rumors that he was going to Long Beach to settle down!

The student body president, Allen Lindsay, presented the aviator with an ASUC card number 28. Number 28 because it represents the hours Corrigan spent in the air during his flight from New York to Ireland.

Upon being presented to the crowd, it was suggested that his entrance might have been unusual and somewhat wrong. Corrigan replied, "Looks like a lot of other people have come to the wrong place with me."

"Well, anyhow — this here ASUC card looks like one of the alphabetical departments of the government. You say it will let me into the big games free? Gee! I got just enough Scotch in me to go to something for nothing.

"One thing, I'm kind of shy about getting acquainted with college students. They're above my mental plane, because I didn't get started in high school. Of course I know I can't fool you students 'cause you all know geography better than I do.

"This winter when I was reading some books, I saw where people were getting hungry, killing each other, going insane, so I decided to come back to California!

"I wasn't thinking about anything while I was flying—I was just flying; although, I did sing, 'California, Here I Come'!"

In his concluding remarks, Irishman Douglas, however, promised that after he completed his visit at the university, he would not end up at Stanford.

The LAUNDRYMAN

Howdy, everybody, Ive been doing a lot of miscellaneous reading lately; delving into ancient history, and that of England during the lifetime of Charles Dickens. This famous author as you know, did much to alleviate the abject condition of unlucky debtors, in his startling portrayals of debtors prisons.

Only yesterday, I was reading about some hapless prisoners chained to cultivators, and farm tractors, and kept in a six foot, wire fence stockade. It wasn't in England, however, but right here in the real old U. S. A., the home of the Free: in the inglorious state of Arkansas. And the prisoners, seventy-five in all, were all Negroes save five. A white attorney, K. T. Sutton has filed an application for the release of everyone of these men from the farm of J. C. Cherry a white farmer who secures their labor by paying the fines assessed against them by the Justice of the Peace. Some combination that, since the Justices, and the Bailiffs get a rake-off on each fine paid.

One can easily see that such a vicious circle would go on forever unless determined efforts are launched to destroy it. One can hardy believe that such conditions could exist in a country like ours, where sympathy for the oppressed in other countries is so pronounced. Truly, charity should begin at home.

I see that the Metropolitan life Insurance Co., according to report— does not solicit Negro business in New York. Notwithstanding the fact that it smacks of segragation it is a mighty good thing, if true. Why? Because it will give our Race Companies a larger field to work in. I was approached only the other day by a salesman of theirs in regard to insuring the life of a young son of mine. I told him very quickly that I definitely planned to insure him in the Golden State, one of the leading Race insurance companies. Somewhat to my surprise, he did not attempt to disparage the company but said that it was a good outstanding organization, and complimented me for my determination to trade with my own people.

AFRICA UNDER BRITISH RULE

Native Africans in Rhodesia under British Imperialism are paid thirty-six cents per day for ten hours work in the mines. White workers in those some mines, doing the same work are paid $4.80 per day according to report. On top of that, native Africans are required to carry twelve passports, namely a poll-tax receipt a pass port to leave a reserve, another to gain entrance into another township, one to go from one location to another, a visiting pass, a traveling pass, and a permit to be out after nine o'clock at night —in His own Country. From a standpoint of sheer arrogance, I do not think Hitler can hold a candle for British Imperialism to steer by. However, it's a long lane that has no turning, and even now, maybe, the Hand of Destiny may be tracing "Mene, Mene, Tekel Upharism" upon the walls of the British Empire.

ATTENTION PLEASE!

When you think of purchasing an automoblie—you begin by wondering where you can go and where you will be assured of prompt and courteous service, WELL, to avoid all the worry let me suggest that you go to WALDORF AND HENDRICKSON CO. PLYMOUTH and DESOTO DEALERS, 1322 South La Brea. The ever popular priced cars and the 1939 models are really a knockout also you will be given a most liberal allowance on your old car as a turn-in. Mr. Art Waldorf openly solicits the colored business—and so vast has their business been with the colored people —the past three (3) years they have employed Mr. E. D. Lewis Donded (COLORED) as salesman. Fall right in line with the rest of the happy and satisfied customers of Waldorf Henderickson Co.

C.M.C.—What must I do; stay on here or leave?

Ans.: I would advise you to stay at home and do not leave. You have been going thru a period of difficulties during the past months in your home; however, I see a change for the better in the near future. A move at this time would only prove a setback.

D.L.—What step should my aunt take to get her money?

Ans.: There will be some difficulty in your aunt receiving this money. If she will take the proper steps in contacting these parties she will receive a settlement during the coming month. This settlement will be smaller than she anticipates but it will help her much.

F.F.—Will we get our home paid for?

Ans.: If you will concentrate your efforts in saving during the coming month when you will have an opportunity to do so, you will be successful in keeping the payments up. This will mean going without other things but it will be worth it. Your son will pay you a visit later on and will help you in this.

E.N.—Will I succeed in this new line of work?

Ans.: I vision this line of endeavor as being more to your liking and you have a good personality combined with persistence which will help to bring you success. Your best time for making money will be after 1943.

V.O.N.—Will I be able to sell this old coin?

Ans.—I would suggest you purchase a coin book from the company you were thinking of in the past. Find out what your coin is valued at and get in touch with the firm. I am sure they will make some sort of settlement to you for this coin.

G.E.N.—Will this song bring me any money?

Ans.: This song will not bring you any money but it will lead to the purchase of more songs that you will compose in the future. Keep trying; I see a bright future in store for you as a composer.

P.C.—Will I ever receive my old job back?

Ans.: This job you had last year in the drugstore is already in someone else's hands. I would suggest that you look in another direction for work and with persistence you will find something during the coming months.

SKETCH SUBJECT: B. M. GILMORE, Examiner, Motor Vehicle Department.

By VERNON E. FORD

LIKE A derelict at sea, we are drifting, drifting, continually drifting in the occupational field. Any individual may scan a list of friends and not be surprised to find that the majority of them drifted into what they consider their most congenial and remunerative positions. As illustrative of our drifting is the typical case that I am about to relate.

As in most instances with a large number of Negroes who have been fortunate to finish some school or college, this man entered the teaching profession. Because of a lack of profit on his investment in education, he became discouraged and disgusted. He entered first one occupational field and then another. At the present time he is the only colored person employed in such capacity as the one in which he holds with the State of California.

This man is B. M. Gilmore, a South Carolinian by birth. Coming to California in 1929, he immediately took the civil service examination for Examiner in the California Motor Vehicle Department. At the time this examination was given, the State did not require any experience that would seemingly fit one for the type of work required but it rather required a wide knowledge of motors. The belief appeared to be that if an individual was a mechanic or a chauffeur, he was qualified to become an examiner. Very little attention was paid to one's ability to handle the public, his education, etc., as is now requried. If the requirements had been taken from an educational standpoint, this man and, no doubt, many others would have passed with flying colors. It so happened that Mr. Gilmore's experience as an elevator engineer, refrigeration engineer and an elevator operator stood him in good stead.

Although Mr. Gilmore is a graduate of Biddle university, he did some graduate work at New York City college and Columbia university, besides attending night classes at Los Angeles. Majoring in psychology, languages, physics and logic, he obtained a B. S. degree from Biddle. Upon receiving his degree in 1922, he accepted a position as an instructor at Livingston college in North Carolina; following employment at the State Teachers college at Montgomery, Ala.; Prairie View State college at Prairie View Texas; Southern university at Baton Rouge, La.; and finally A. & M. college at Huntsville, Ala.

Besides Mr. Gilmore's varied experience in the occupational fields, he is an accomplished and affluent linguist, speaking Spanish, French, deaf mute, German, Russian, Japanese and Italian. Until recently he was Interpreter Examiner for the Orange and Los Angeles Counties district offices of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Some of these languages "were acquired after entering the services of the state", through his own intiative and integrity in order to improve the services rendered by the department. There have been instances wherein he has represented the State in courts where some infraction of the motor laws have been violated.

He says, "It is my candid belief that the happiest man is the one who does not have to depend on others for employment but work for himself instead."

LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

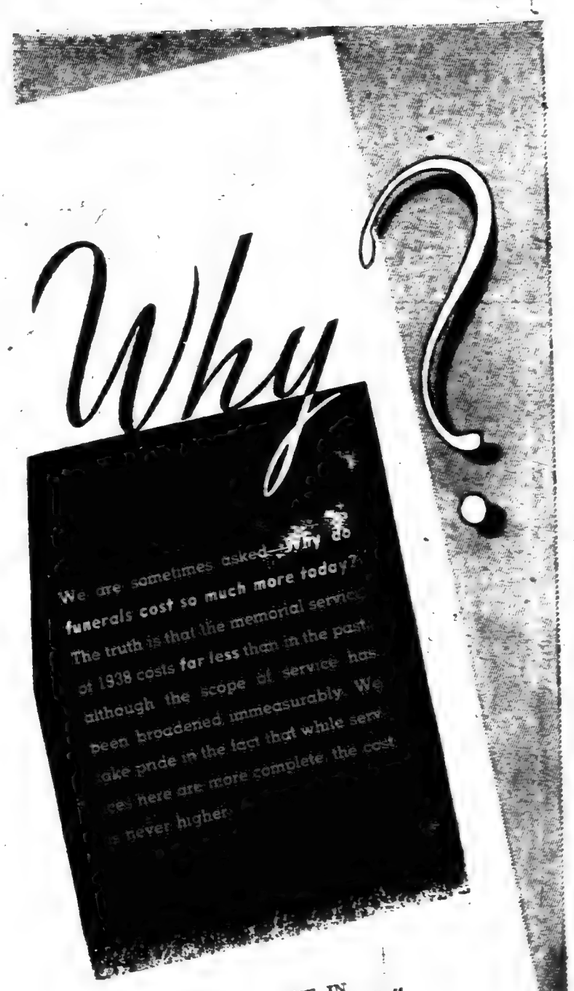
By Miriam Matthews

"God sent His singers upon earth
With songs of sadness and of mirth,
That they might touch the hearts of men,
And bring them back to heaven again."
—Longfellow.

A great critic tells us that no art is more closely related to man than poetry and the most casual reading of it will convince the skeptical that verse demands no special apparatus for its enjoyment.

Charles Darwin said in one of his letters that if he had to live his life over again he would make it a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week to keep the mind from becoming a kind of machine for grinding out general laws from a large collection of facts.

Many readers will enjoy "The People, Yes", by Carl Sandburg, a long poem presenting a portrait of the American people through the accumulation of bits of folklore, legends, tall tales, slang, wise and foolish sayings, with the poet's own philosophy to bind them together.



James Weldon Johnson's "Book of American Negro Poetry", is one of the most satisfactory and richest anthologies one will encounter in a long time, representing as it does the poetic expression of a racial group which has much to offer in this field. Of especial interest is the introduction by the editor on the Negro's creative genius.

Among the best of the newer Negro poets is Frank Marshall Davis, Kansas born, who brings a Western note to Negro expression in his two small volumes, "Black Man's Verse" and "I am the American Negro". With little of the melancholy of his race, little influenced by the mood or style of the spiritual, Mr. Davis accepts the raw vigor of his environment and responds to its casual aspects of beauty in a free-running verse that marks him a poet of authentic inspiration.

Selden Rodman has put together "A New Anthology of Modern Verse" which is a recent selection of the Literary Guild. In it he abandons the conventional pathways of the older anthologists to give emphasis to the dynamic quality and content of present day poetry. Besides many of the most notable epic and lyric poems of our time he has included here the folk-songs of the Negro, acid light verse, modern humor and satire. The dominant note of his anthology is excitement and it includes such well-known moderns as Robinson Jeffers, T. S. Eliot, James Joyce, Vachel Lindsay, D. H. Lawrence, John Masefield, Elinor Wylie, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Edwin Arlington Robinson and a host of others both American and English.

Many other splendid anthologies and single volumes of poetry may be found on the shelves of the Vernon Branch library, 4504 S. Central avenue and the Helen Hunt Jackson Branch library, 2330 Naomi Ave.

Yeah! Man!

It will be a hot time the afternoon and night of Sunday, when members of Walter Brinkop Post, No. 281., American Legion, stage a monster "jitterbug" contest in Gilmore Stadium.

Seeking the hottest crew of rug cutters in Southern California, members of Walter Brinkop announced that a special invitation is extended to colored couples desiring to compete aginst white "jitterbug" teams, several of which have already won contests.

With "Satchel" McVea's famous 15 piece "Howdy" orchestra supplying the latest "jitterbug" tunes, the preliminary competitions will begin at 2 P. M. and continue until 4 P. M.

SWINGEREE

At the conclusion of the qualifying events at 4:30 p. m. the spectators and competing "jitterbugs" will be invited to engage in a wild Swingeree to be staged on a mammoth stage that will be constructed on the Stadium infield.

During the afternoon competitions teams will be qualified for the final contes, which will begin at 8 p. m., with $150.00 in prizes being offered to the first 15 winning teams.

Efforts are being made to induce Bill Robinson, stage and screen favorite and dance instructor for Shirley Temple, to appear at the jamboooree, as he did at a recent swingeree staged in Chicago.

Teams desiring to enter the contest can obtain information regarding entry requirements by Phoning TWinoaks 6338.

Dunbar's Poems to Be Heard on 'Bronze' Airing

Tonight's (Thursday) "A Capella In Bronze" presentation again features two of Paul Laurence Dunbar's most beloved poems.

"Long To'ds Night" is the title of the quarter hour Amos Reese musical program, to be aired over KMPC at 9:30 p. m. with Federal Theatre Radio Division Negro favorites.

"Itchin' Heels" is the amusing title of the second Dunbar poem to be presented with the popular Negro choir accompanying, and paints a lively picture of the temptations that beset the typical "good Christian" at the sound of the "jazz fiddle".

Prominent in the cast are Lester Wilkins, Jack West, Charles Hawkins, and others under Robert Cummins' direction.

Braddock Has No Part of Joe, Pilots Say

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (ANP)—Despite statements by Columnist Joe Williams and other white sports writers who have said in print that James J. Braddock, "positively" has part of Champion Joe Louis' contract, the fighter and his two managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, just as "positively" denied such Monday.

According to Williams and others, whenever Louis collects, so does the man from whom he won the title. Braddock is supposed to draw 10 percent of every purse Joe gets as long as he holds the crown.

But the champion and his managers stated that no such contract or arrangement exists. They said that the same arrangements holds good now that has held good in the past: that is Joe himself gets 50 percent, the managers 20 percent each and Jack Blackburn, trainer, the remaining 10 percent. They also said Mike Jacobs does not "control" Louis, but merely has a contract for exclusive promotion of all the champion's fights.

'Run, Little Chillun' Runs Again

Show That Has Thrilled 48,000 at Mayan Opens With Renewed Vigor

Federal Theaters auspiciously began another engagement last Saturday night of "Run, Little Chillun" which has thrilled over 48,000 theatergoers at the Mayan theater in its first ten weeks' performances.

Taken off the boards for five nights, the show opened with renewed vigor and its cast displayed the same delightful gusto that marked their initial performances.

There is no let down in the tempo of the convincing elation of the players. The inexhaustible variety of poignant humor convulses current capacity audiences as it did two months ago when the "chillun" first announced that "something's got to be did."

The excellence of Jess Brooks, as Rev. Jones of Hope Baptist Church; Ruby Elzy's portrayal of the discarded wife of Jim and Alfred Grant's improved characterizatoin of the back-sliding soul torn between the wiles of Sulamai (Florence O'Brien) and his religious up-bringing- all stand out in a cast of first rate Negro players.

The entire production is by the Negro Unit of Federal Theatres, under joint sponsorship of Federal Theatres and Music Projects. Clarence Muse directed the players and Hall Johnson, author of the play, trained the Carlyle Scott Federal Music Project singers.

Musicians Ass'n Holds Meeting

The Los Angeles Musicians' Association held its first meeting of the season Sunday at the Gray Musart with much enthusiasm for the proposed activities of the coming season manifested.

One interesting item of the current events was the report of the opera "Gettysburg" given a the Hollywood Bowl last Friday evening. Kenneth Spencer, baritone who sang a principal role, was presented in his first recital by the Association several years ago. It was stated as gratifying to learn to the Association that he has continued to rise until he has gained such merited recognition.

FAUSTINA JOHNSON SUFFERS BROKEN LEG

Mrs. Faustina Johnson, chairman of the Los Angeles Women's Breakfast club, suffered a broken leg last Thursday morning while getting on the "V" car at Vernon and Long Beach Avenue. Mrs. Johnson is confined to the General Hospital and is reported as one of the most cheerful patients in the ward. She is constantly receiving expressions of good cheer from a host of friends.

Elephant Boy in Hollywood

Sabu, the 15-year-old East Indian lad, jungle born, who rose suddenly to film stardom three years ago in "Elephant Boy", yesterday was guest of the cinema capital, with Carole Lombard acting as hostess.

Sabu's bigest desire on his first trip to the United States, he said was to meet Miss Lombard.

Taken to Selznick's International Studio, Sabu deserted the stars for a newly-found, even greater interest. He eluded his two black bearded Sikh bodyguards and was found riding through the lot on Miss Lombard's two-wheeled motorglide, his turban a red streak and his white teeth gleaming in a joyous laugh as he flashed by the sound stages.

Sabu was most excited over the fact that tonight he is to fly to New York, and next week is to meet President Roosevelt in the Capital City.

Capra Film to Screen in U. S. Theatres

More than 300 leading theatres throughout the country will simultaneously inaugurate the national presentation of Frank Capra's latest production for Columbia, "You Can't Take it With You," starting Sept. 29.

Evidence of the picture's tremendous success is indicated by the unstinted praise of press and public at its world showing at Radio City Music Hall where it is completing its third week.

Over a half million people have seen the picture at the Music Hall. This is declared to be one of the longest and most successful engagements in the history of the theatre.

ARTHUR-GRANT MAKE BOW IN GAY COMEDY

Marking their first co-starring appearance in a motion picture, Jean Arthur and Cary Grant are scheduled to start shortly on the filming of "Our Wife" at the Columbia studios.

The picture is listed as one of the important productions on the 1938-39 program, a gay comedy of modern marriage.

PICTURE: "Valley of the Giants"
PLACE: Warner Bros.
PLAYERS: Claire Trevor, Wayne Morris

This is the perennial tale of the girl who is reformed by the great outdoors and the young hero who supervises, more or less inspires reformation. Of course, there is the California lumber-grab scandal of 1900's thrown in.

It seems that Wayne Morris is a stalwart young man and owner of an untouched lumber empire—the Valley of the Giants. This vale is peopled by the immense Redwood trees of this state which are reputed to be the oldest living things on earth. Chas. Bickford (boo, hisssssss) is an unscrupulous lumber pirate who attempts to obtain these properties through fair means or foul. His object, we know, is to sell the great forest monuments and discontinue, in many cases, five thousand years of plant life. To accomplish said nefarious ends, a beautiful women is employed. Enter, the heroine. Claire Trevor tricks our trusting mountain youth, but suffers remorse, etc. and so on (a process known as "getting your soul saved") and returns to him.

There are many rousing fights, last minute resues, and the like. Alan Hale has a fine role as a pugnacious lumber-jack. There is one scene which he does proud. Surging into the town giggle-joint, Hale proclaims "My mother was a hurricane, my father a ring tailed tornada . . . and when I'm mad, I'm a one-man wave of destruction. And I'm mad" Single handed, he whacks the place.

Jack LaRue returns herein after a noticable absence. This time under a mantle of nobility. La Rue portrays Miss Trevor's understanding partner in crime.

Photography is outstanding, with several gorgeous shots of northern California landscape.

PICTURE "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"
PLACE: Bill Robinson (coming)

Now that Walt Disney has been discovered by the nation's universities (he has received honorary degrees from many of them), the artist's great masterpiece, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs", is even more interesting.

An example of fine entertainment which the new Bill Robinson promises Eastside audiences, the picture, as we all know, is the first full-length animated cartoon cinematown has ever turned out. However, even more than an artistic phenomeneon, "Snow White" is a box office miracle. With returns coming from the World's continents, it is estimated that the film will clear something like six million dollars in profits.

The fable of the old witch queen and the little lady "fairer than them all" is told with charming simplicity and many novel cartoon "camera-angles". Disney, always a master of characterization, has added to "Snow White's visual enjoyment a cast that stands out for originality and individuality. Dopey, Doc, Sleepy, —all the seven dwarfs—are memorable for their various individual personalities. Most honorable of them, of coure, is little Dopey who does not know whether he can speak because he has never tried.

The situations are all familiar —although no more lacking in originality than some of our recent drawing-rom stuff. Despite the fact that each and every patron knows that the bad Queen shall be hurled to her destruction and Love rises triumphant over all, Disney has very forcefully built up suspense in many sequences. Thus, having established a sort of nostalgic charm—the creator has added "plot interest" equaling that in "flesh and blood" epics.

Kids will like the film most because of the Dwarfs hilarious antics. Grown-ups because they will think they're kids again.

OF THEATRE AT FAIREXHIBIT SCALE MODEL

Pictured here is a scale model of Commedia dell' Arte, one of the 13 miniature theatres exhibited at the State Fair this year. This model, together with the others, is a visual evidence of the Federal Theatre Research Bureau's extensive research into the history of famous theatres down through the ages. Construction of the miniature models was begun two years ago under the direction of Cyrilla P. Linder, supervisor of the Research Bureau.

Commedia dell' Arte is the name given to the improvised performances of the 16th century professional actors and stage managers. It never existed as written drama or as spectacle—it was a platform, actors, action. There literally was no text of the play for the actors, merely a scenario tacked up backstage. The player supplied the rest out of his own inventiveness, wit and bag of tricks.

During the earliest years of the Renaissance the companies set up their roadside stages wherever a large enough audience could be mustered, at the crossroads, in the streets and at the fairs.

By 1575 the courts had tired of the imitations of the ancient plays and "discovered" the Commedia dell' Arte. From then on, for a century and a half, the professional commedians were the favorites of all courts.

AN EXCHANGE OF EPISTLES

Dear Miss Davis:

I sincerely regret that Artist Moore's caricature of Kenny Washington failed to meet with your approval.

I assure you that the Evening News did not mtend to disparage him in any way, as a matter of fact, I feel that if you had regarded the drawing in the pure light of a caricature it would not have filled you with "disgust, distaste, disdain, distemper."

You are the first person of whom I have ever heard who has experienced such a conglomeration of emotions at one and the same time. It must have been quite a sensation.

I think you will agree with me that the Evening News has been more than fair in its treatment of Negro athletes. It stands to reason that we would not suddenly change our policy and crack down an such a fine young athlete as Washington.

As a matter of fact, we plan to print caricatures of every member on the team during the current season, and Washington was first on the list because he undoubtedly is the best football player on the U. C. L. A. squad.

In your very vitriolic letter you asked whether Artist Moore would turn loose his talents on what you refer to as my "mouse trap." He has done so and I am enclosing it to you with the hope that it will serve as a salve for your wounded feelings.

You "double-dare" us to print a picture of Washington in what you call "au-natural or something." The truth of the matter, is that if all the pictures we have printed of Washington in action and otherwise were laid end to end they would probably reach from the Evening News building to your cubicle at the California Eagle.

Sincerely yours,
Ned Cronin, Sports Editor
Evening News

Ned Cronin, Sports Editor
Evening News
Dear Mr. Cronin:

Although I still find myself unable to be reconciled to Artist Moore's caricature of Kenny Washington (Evening News, Sept. 23), even in the light of your explanation, I wish herein to commend Mr. Moore for his artistic ability.

Given the proper subject, Moore exhibits signs of genius. I was overwhelmed, enthralled, quite a "conglomeration of emotions" I will admit, but I cannot exaggerate the pleasure the exquisite detail of Moore's drawing of you gave me.

While I have had the pleasure of looking upon your cherubic countenance in the flesh, but once, I feel without a doubt that the essence of the man, Ned Cronin, is revealed in the pen and ink sketch I have before me . . . yeah, even to the dew drop on your chin.

Commend me. I beg of you, to True Artist Moore. He has lent an aura of blessed reality to the false and jaded realm of sports. I live for the day when the money-eyed white-slavers of the Daily News building will subsidize his talents no longer and he may dwell and labor in absolute fidelity to his inner being, similar to that enjoyed by us in our "California Eagle cubicle."

Yours Compassionately
Almena Davis

McDaniels Tops Ranking Net Star

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—Jimmy McDaniels, Xavier University's newest importation from the Pacific Coast, humbled Roy Cohen, third ranking National player, the third time he played him. The score was 6-3, 3-6, and 6-2. McDaniels experienced some difficulty in getting used to the gravel courts and dropped the first two matches to Cohen.

Following the victory over Cohen, he defeated Ernest McCampbell, national collegiate champion.

Bruin Back Marked Man in Iowa Tilt

The spectacle of a whole team playing one man was staged on the brilliantly lighted turf of the Coliseum last Friday night as U. C. L. A. trounced the University of Iowa, 27-3, in an intersectional tilt, the opening game on both schedules.

The marked man, of course, was Kenny Washington and 13 a number that was watched by the Hawkeye squad to a man, and nailed with healthy whacks every opportunity.

If one believed the experts, it was definitely not a Washington night Bothered by dew on the grass that sent ball handlers scurrying for the referee's dry towel between each play, and wet the trousers of each of the players through to the skin, Kenny spent a miserable first quarter, fumbling the ball almost as often as it came within reach and spoiling the Bruin's threat to score in the very first fifteen minutes of play. Benched near the end of the initial quarter, he remained huddled between the coaches until the last half. Then he was waved in and more than compensated for the earlier performance.

HALF IN 1, 6 IN OTHER

In spots Bill Spaulding's left half was as brilliant as he had been poor. His ball carrying was as elusive as ever. Given the pigskin twelve times, almost twice as often as anyone else on the team, he advanced it 70 yards, failing to gain only four times, that because of poor blocking by his running mates. An additional ten yards which he picked up on a beautiful spread formation, were subtracted when officials penalized the Bruins for off-side.

Washington's end runs, good for an average of 15 yards, were brilliant as expected. Twisting his hips, changing pace, he looked like a jitterbug getting in some "hot licks". Whether it was only obeying orders or whether it really took that much beef, on each tackle it took four to five men to put him down.

BLOCKING

A revelation of the lad's versatility was his brilliant line-plunging and blocking. With comparatively little help from the center of the Bruin line, he bucked his way thru the heavy Iowa center wall for several gains. In truth, the third touchdown might easily have been carried over the line by Washington. The records show that after the nullified ten yard run, Kenny ran around right end for 14 yards, executed a first down on the three yard line, drove through right tackle for two yards, placing the ball on the one yard line, from which point it was carried over the pay-off marker by Gilmore.

Washington experienced some difficulty with his right leg, a bit shorter than the left, result of a childhood fall. After the game, he was treated for a cramp at Hollywood hospital.

STRODE SHINES

Woodrow Strode, stream-lined Bruin right end, received the plaudits of the critics for brilliant defensive play. With the exception of four minutes in the first quarter and five minutes in the last, he played the whole game, almost maintaining his record of Westwood's sixty minute end.

Iowa evidently had orders not to carry the ball around right end where the hefty brown Bruin waited. Consequently, business for Mr. Strode was very bad first quarter. Contenting himself with pushing end and center players around a bit, he finally was thrown a Washington pass, but it was intercepted.

In the second quarter Fennobock signalled a pass to the lanky youth, just over the Iowa goal line. As he reached up for the ball, three Hawks tackled him and Kinnick, Iowa quarterback, grabbed the ball. Attempting a lateral out of the danger zone, Kinnick fumbled and Strode recovered on the two yard line and passed over for a touchdown.

Taking the offensive on the defensive, so to speak, Strode blocked two punts that were meant for Bruin territory. Usually something of a lazy player who gives an air of not yet having extended himself, he then became a bit fired and commenced to run around his end, making tackles in Joe E. Brown's son's territory.

Bruins Off to Meet Oregon

UCLA's Bruins left their Westwood lair last night bound for Eugene, Oregon where they face the Oregon university Webfeet in the second game of the season. Coach Bill Spaulding plans to land his charges in town late Friday evening after eight hours of travel.

A short workout will be held enroute and the teams will go into a real practice scrummage Friday in preparation for Saturday afternoon's game.

The Bruins loom as favorites with odds at least 3 to 1. They were victors over the Ducks last season, 26-13.

Both Boston U. Guards Are Colored

BOSTON, Sept. 29, (ANP)—Something unique in college football, two colored boys holding down similar berths in the middle of the line, is offered by the powerful Boston university eleven this year.

The two players, Roland Bernard and Chet Smith, are first string guards in their senior year, after making great records in Rindge Technical high school of Cambridge, Mass., in other positions. Smith was All-scholastic end and Bernard was All-scholastic center.

Bernard won his letter at center while a sophomore at Boston, but Smith was moved to tackle. He also won his monogram. Last year Smith was shifted to left guard and proved so outstanding he was a regular all season. Bernard was shunted from center to right end and also won a second letter.

This fall when practice started, Bernard was moved in to right guard and in practice workouts has been little short of sensational. After playing all over the line, both boys seem set for their best seasons at positions neither played while in oren schol.

The boys are "buddies" and almost the same size. Bernard is six feet one inch and weighs 210 pounds, while Smith is six feet even and scales 204.

Hank Off to Training Camp in Ark.

Boxing's boiling pot began to steam anew here this week, with the departure of 'Hustlin' Hank" Armstrong for Hot Springs, Ark., and the entrance of Chalky Wright in the coast portion of the national featherweight tournament.

Armstrong, who recently gave up the featherweight third of his triple crowns, left here Tuesday minus five teeth, extracted because of his engagement with Lou Ambers, from whom he lifted the lightweight title.

He is scheduled to defend his welterweight toga againt Ceferino Garcia in New York, November 2. After several weeks of training at Hot Springs the ruler of two boxing divisions moves on to New York.

Garcia has begun training for the forthcoming go.

WRIGHT RATED

Rated as headman among the nation's featherweights, by none other than Armstrong, Chalky Wright filed entry this week in the national featherweight tournament. The western eliminations open this week at Hollywood Legion stadium with Charley McDonald as matchmaker.

Texas College Whips Jarvis

TYLER, Tex., Sept. 29.—The Texas College Steers looked like everything but champions as they eked out a 13-0 victory over coach Mosley's Jarvis Bulldogs. Little Sammy Howard was the spark plug of the Steer's offense. Howard scored both of the Steers touchdowns, the first coming after a recovered fumble in the first quarter and the second coming after a 40 yeard drive in the last quarter.

Bray Lucky to Get Draw With Crowell

Wild and Strong Tenth Round with Chuck Out On His Feet Favors Bray

Going into the tenth round behind in the round count and decidedly a beaten man, Alfonso "Big Boy" Bray staged a rousing tenth round finish last Tuesday night at Olympic auditorium to gain a lucky draw with long and lean Chuck Crowell of Artesia, California.

Crowell, who really has no business in the same ring with Bray found the "Big Boy" easy pickin's for most of the bout. Going into the tenth, Bray, who if he will FIGHT will give ANY heavyweight plenty of trouble, landed several hard overhand rights on Chuck's jaw which staggered him. Crowell was out on his feet for most of the round.

Referee Frankie Van, who is in dutch with the fighting gentry and who is being tabbed "incapable" as a result raised both boys' dukes amidst a roar of disapproval.

MOORE IN DEBUT

Archie Moore, classy middleweight from St. Louis who has been campaigning successfully in the southern part of the state, TKO'ed Tom Henry in four, Odell Polee decision Jack Wofford; Johnny Verdusco TKO'ed Mickey Karrl in 3; Doug Carter stopped Jed Wolf in 1; and Chuey Vargas decisioned Marty Gomez.

In one of the featured six-rounders next Tuesday night, under a 2 main event bill is Johnny Hall, who meets Frankie Hern in a re-match.

Ross Snyder Net Stars Beaten

Ross Snyder Tennis Club, pride of the Eastside, came out on the short end of the stick last Sunday on the home courts in an inter-club tournament with the Hollenbeck playground team. With the exception of Juliette Harris, seeded number one player on the Snyder team, who defeated Mary Kaufman, number one Hollenbeckian in a stirring match, the best the local group had to offer was far below par.

Number one Snyder player, Bill Deane was vanquished by the visiting top seeded player, Sammy Fox, 6-4, 6-3. Down to doefeat also went Colquit Fisher, number two Snyder tennist, before Hollenbeck's second player, Percy Guilford, score 6-4, 6-4.

ROSS SNYDER TENNIS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The roster of newly elected officers of the Ross Snyder Tennis club was released today. With Ed Bell as president, the group is led by Elsie Buie, vice, Ben Woods, recording secretary, Jane Burris, financial secretary, Wendell Gladden, treasurer, Jeanette Johnson, reporter, Bill Deane, business manager, Bush Manson, official referee and Emuel Collins, sergeant at arms.

Snyder Bulldogs Lose to Spoiler A. C. 13 - 12

The score 13-12, and the play leading up to the final whistle, hotly contested the Ross Snyder Bulldogs, newly formed football team, made its debut last Sunday afternoon before a considerable crowd ot the Ross Snyder playground.

Al though they went down to a point defeat before the Spoiler A. C. team, the Bulldogs gave indications of having plenty of what it takes to play fast and furious football.

Composed of former college and high schol players, the Bulldogs are led by Bush "Tiger" Manson, Wilberforce immortal. Manson made All-American in the colored loop in '28 from Fiske, in '29 and '30 from Wilberforce. Both coach and player, Manson played a smashing, slashing center last Sunday.

Also a standout was Jim Burt, shifty little half-back, who ran 75 yards off tackle for a touchdown. Other players are Clarence Poindexter, former Wyoming University tackle, Bill Deane, graduate of the University of Nebraska where he played football and was seeded second on the University tennis team, "Boots" Collins, one time Compton Jaysee pass and punt artist, and Bear Roberts, well known player in local pro circles.

Coach Manson announced that he expected the addition of Neil Clisby and "Spec" Meadows to his roaster. The Bulldogs will meet Capistrano't "Fighting Mexicans" Sunday afternoon on the Snyder turf.

IOWA END, INJURED, WAS LEFT AT HOME

Fred Smith, only colored regular on the Iowa university football squad, failed to recover from knee injuries sustained in scrimmage, in time to make the trip to the West coast for Friday night's UCLA-Iowa game.

Kenny After All-American Berth

Kenny Washington, UCLA's stellar passer and leg man, is leaving no stone unturned in his determination to make All-American, if not this year, in his last season of collegiate football, the Fall of 1939.

At the halfback position, Kenny admits, a player has to be triply versatile in order to make the honor team. An ace passer, ball carrier, tackler and blocker, Washington in this week's practice sessions, started on the only branch of the game in which he is not proficient, punting. He passes from the right side and kicks from the left.

Editorial Comment

"NEW LEADERSHIP NEEDED"

The caption is quoted from what is known in printer's parlance as a type handbill thrown in yards by kids, but more often consigned to the trash burner of those upon whose door-stoop it is cast.

True, some merchants desire this class of advertising medium, but people — buyers we mean — look to the source from whence it comes. The buying public has confidence in institutions that prove their worth to them and the community by actual service. Backed by these men and women, merchants, laborers, and mechanics have a star to which to hitch their hopes, aims and ambitions. But he who has only a name (throw-away publication) can give nothing, has nothing nor does he give a hoot, because there's nothing at stake save pork-chops for today and the morrow is left to fight its own battles.

The public has become educated; the trash-can publication produces condemnation from prospective buyers. On the other hand, papers owned, controlled and distributed by people who have thousands invested become increasingly popular.

"New Leadership" is a hue and cry of the improvident, get-something-for-nothing hustlers that invaded California soon after J. J. Neimore founded THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE some 58 years ago, and touched off the blast that was to bring a greater measure of peace, happiness, and justice to people of all creeds and colors.

Year by year, get-rich-quick grafters, failures in their homeland, have invaded the state, sought to crowd men and women into discard who, through privation, toil, and suffering, contributed to the present growth and prosperity of the city.

Leaders are men and women who have carved a niche high upon the wall of progress. For example, a ne'er-do-well, unsuccessful at home, attacks: Dr. Albert Baumann, from whose drug stores comes the bulk of our successful pharmacists, and a heavy property owner; Dr. H. Claude Hudson, dentist, owner of the Avenue's finest business building; H. H. Towles, reputable physician; George Beavers jr., vice president and co-founder, the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company; Dr. Frank R. Whiteman, social service commissioner, property owner and leader in the American Legion; and Betty Hill, militant fighter for civic and political rights. But then, we recall the ancient Chinese proverb, "One cannot be insulted by one's inferiors."

A MAYOR WAS MADE

Monday at high twelve, Fletcher Bowron resigned from his seat on the Superior Court bench of Los Angeles County to become Mayor of Los Angeles, the nation's fifth city.

Two thousand enthusiastic citizens cheered and witnessed the brief ceremony that marked the induction into office of the only man ever to climb to this exalted position in our city government via the Recall.

Mayor Bowron was bold in his statement that he had no vengeance to wreak on those who conscientiously supported the outgoing Mayor and that all would receive the same honest and fair consideration at his hands as those who supported the Recall.

The 51-year old jurist who now holds the reigns of government in Los Angeles seemingly represents a high type of American citizen.

We greet the new Mayor and again pledge him hearty cooperation.

THE AVENUE PHONE OFFICE

Just why we should be called on to put pressure on the telephone company to establish an office on Central Avenue when the company maintains offices centrally located in the district — handy and convenient for all patrons — we are unable to discern. Obviously, somebody's hungry for the spotlight.

True, public service corporations should maintain offices in the communiy for the convenience of patrons, but why seek to burden them with further expense when they are already in our midst with finely equipped offices?

Of course, the telephone company should employ Negro white-collar workers. The EAGLE started the move for employment of our group in all capacities by the telephone company and not once has rested upon its arms, although successful in having the buildings mannd by colored custodians, we are still on their trail, battling for jobs in white-collar places—not on a Jim Crow basis, but side by side in the general headquarters for the people of this section.

The message that President Roosevelt sent der feuhrer Adolph Hitler may blandly take credit for the new European conciliation movements. However, all students of the foreign situation will recognize that Hitler is so far from the influence of any outside government that such an idea is ridiculous. This, of course, is not to discredit our chief executive's efforts, but merely points out that Hitler relented only because Hitler so ordained.

The peace plea of a hated democracy was not the argument that four mobilized nations presented. Czechoslavakia simply has called the Aryan bluff. A people resigned to their fate have accomplished more than three years of involved Franco-British diplomacy.

A petition adaressed to Mrs. Mary D. Briggs, Postmistress, Los Angeles district, being circulated this week reads:

"The undersigned citizens and representatives of various Civic and Social Organizations hereby respectfully request the Honorabl Postmistress in and for the City of Los Angeles, State of California, to name and appoint CHRISTOPHER SCOTT, the Superintendent of Station K, situated at 1046 East Vernon Avenue, Los Angels, California. The undersigned further represent that they have known Christopher Scott for several years and recommend him for such position becaause of his broad experience while working in the Post Office Department and the very high qualifications he possesses."

The California Eagle heartily endorses the petition. The services Mr. Scott has rendered the citizenry in line with his duty makes him the only logical choice for this service. Not only will such an appointment give Negroes fitting recognition as a racial group, but, we sincerely, place in office the BEST MAN FOR THE JOB!

DEATH OF A NATION

The master of the Third Reich has now become the master of Europe, and the sovereignty of a continent that Germany set out to achieve in 1914 seems virtually won.

The horror of war, of deadly air-raids strafing civilian populations, of another mad carnival of butchery, played a leadaing part in forcing Britain and France to bow before the gusts of Hitlerian fury.

MASQUERADE

HEAD MAN AT HOME

Even a loyal party follower likes to be head man in his own bailiwick, and when purges, American style, become the order of the day, he likes to handle his own shotgun. This is what Democrats, old line and New Deal, are concluding this week with the votes from Maryland and Georgia showing that the kind of glad Tydings citizens wanted to hear was not necessarily the same tidings the Democrats' party leader approved of. President Roosevelt decided last week he was through, for the present, with further recommendations in the congressional elections. His aggressive and outspoken role in the 1938 political primaries provides future high officeholders, of whatever party, with a gentle hint whose words might run, "Every voter likes to be top man on his home grounds." It's a natural weakness!

FREE ROOM AND BOARD

America's unemployment problem presses sharply for solution, even though jobless workers, here and there, are mastering the dilemma in their own fashion. Witness the case of Tim Decker, who today is a happy man, and all because a Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco indicted him. Decker was released on parole from Leavenworth this June, free to turn to his legitimate calling, but nobody wanted a cook. Some people might have applied for relief in his case, or become a bindle-stiff, or a skidroad bum, but not Decker! He stole a penny piece of mail and surrendered. The government had no choice but to prosecute. The indictment indicates that Decker will be returned to Leavenworth where there is no unemployment, and where he is assured free room and regular meals. He is pleased no end.

FOREIGN CHECK LIST

Since a new Federal law went into effect two weeks ago requiring the registration of all agents or organizations of foreign governments, the National Munitions Control Board has mailed out more than 700 letters to such agents or groups. The letters contain a helpful reminder to these parties that the United States would appreciate their registering with the State Department. The new law applies to all persons receiving pay from foreign governments, except diplomatic or consular officers, and those engaged in bona fide trade or commercial activities. The purpose of the measure is not to discourage legitimate cultural organizations, supported by foreign powers, but to provide our government with a convenient check-list to see that such organizations remain cultural, and do not become dangerously political. Someday Bund members in America might feel "oppressed" and holler to Berlin for help. This law hopes to discourage excessive homesickness of that variety.

FIVE LITTLE WORDS

Because of five little words which came out on the slip of a tongue, the trial of Tammy leader Hines is blocked, the five weeks District Attorney Dewey took to build up his case before a blue ribbon jury are wasted, and New York taxpayers are out $50,000—the estimated cost of the short-circuited trial. "Hines and the poultry racket"—those were the five inadvertent words uttered by Dewey on which Judge Pecora declared a mistrial, stating that the poultry racket had nothing to do with the present case. To some citizens, this will seem like legal quibbling lifted to the nth degree. It may have seemed so even to Judge Pecora, for the decision setting forth his reasons for declaring a mistrial, required two hours' reading time!

Adversity Has Its Good Points

Adversity has its uses. If plans did not go awry at times, all would be like the rich man in the Bible who told his soul to take its ease.

An example of the chastening effect of adversity is the gains made by Negroes on many fronts since the depression has shaken our nation out of its smug security and set it to finding out its faults. One of these gains became evident last week, when Negro doctors by taking a position on the administration's recommendation for state medicine compelled their organization to be recognized.

Deep down this is revolutionary. With the exception of a few men in a few communities, the white medical men have turned thumbs down on Negroes. At the same time their county and state organizations have dictated to states and municipalities the laws for medical practice—a natural thing to do. But in some respects they reserved to their own membership the exclusive right to qualify. Their refusal to take in Negro doctors thereby makes color the basis for their rejection.

Today the profession is faced by the possibility of the state taking over medical and surgical service, as it already provides water or maintains sanitation. Under the new system a doctor would qualify like a postal employe and be a public employe. The white doctors realize the possibility of this very thing happening because hospitals and clinics maintained at public expense are state medicine partially in effect and they are increasing rapidly.

Negro doctors, by speaking out now, weaken the opposition that much. As a result for the first time in history the officials who direct the white national body of doctors have admitted petitioners from the Negro National Medical Association. They go to complain against the rule by which the whites limit to their own membership the doctors who may be employed in public hospitals. A case arising from this practice occurred recently in Denver, where a Negro doctor, long on the staff of the county hospital, found himself dismissed because the staff by decision of the county officials was to be made up only of members of the county medical association.

Public officials frequently bar Negroes from public employment in this indirect manner. When trades unions such as plumbers and electricians are permitted to control city inspection, or when a rule is passed that public contracts are to be done by union labor, the color bar is in effect wherever the unions do not admit Negroes.

The situation within the medical profession affects few Negroes. The same practice in public works keeps many from work. Since a gain for them made anywhere points to the possibilities of breaking through everywhere, this change in the medical profession which is one result of the depression, shows how hard times have their compensation.—From the Kansas City Call.

BUYER'S GUIDE by Clarence Peacock

Colored Americans must be made aware of the fact that their newspapers are their most effective and respected weapons in their fight for economic security. The Negro is now an established institution capable of maintaining influence, prestige and power. Within recent years great strides have been made in Negro journalism and in the quality of our papers.

Although our papers are widely read and absorbed by our people, many of them do not fully understand or appreciate the importance of this medium. Every reader should know that he plays an important part in our collective efforts for group betterment.

This year American businessmen will spend approximately $450,000,000 for advertising as an expression of their faith in the future. Last year white businessmen spent $500,000 for advertising in the Negro paper, while Colored businessmen spent approximately $25,000 in their papers.

Negro businessmen must cultivate this market if they are to reap the full benefits that are to be found there. They must lead the way by advertising and developing the art of spreading constructive propaganda. They should participate in all public affairs whenever possible and they should sponsor and create interest in those things that will bring legitimate publicity to their business.

In a recent survey made of the daily morning papers in New York City, it was found that the circulation in the Harlem area of one paper was 24,704. There are 26,969 families in this section, therefore the family coverage for this paper in Harlem is 91 per cent. The combined circulation of the four morning papers in Harlem was 34,704. This shows that Negroes as a group are as susceptible to advertising as any other group.

Another interesting fact disclosed in this survey was that in the entire borough of Manhattan the median annual family expeditures was $2,657 while the median annual family expenditure in the Harlem section was $3,097.

Colored businessmen and the readers of our papers must give their full support to these papers for it is through this medium of expression they can build business and insure ec-cy and clarity. Frequently strategic positions were captured by the American forces through wise following of a Major Young map or notation.

The Negro press found it had a hero ready-made; Charles Young, with Paul Lawrence Dunbar, and Booker T. Washington formed a supreme triumvirate of newspaper appeal throughout black America. In 1906, Dunbar passed away; while Young and Washington remained the national heroes of sepia journalism. Made a captain in the regular Army, Young's assignments took him to the Phillipine Islands, Mexico, and Haiti. During this time, his work with the War Department brought further recognition from the powers in Washington.

Meanwhile, of course, the God of War was sharpening his weapons in Europe. Pell-mell, as today, that continent rushed toward the thing which was, supposedly, "never to be again". The Kaiser sent tart notes to the King; the King replied with equal sharpness. The City of Berlin, became, instead of a flourishing economic and commercial center, a thinly disguised warehouse. Block after block, mile after mile of war supplies lay dormant—waiting their chance to lay waste a civilization. Then, dramatically, a Serbian radical shot Archduke Ferdinand of Austria. A little matter . . . growing larger. Then, in an instant, blotting out everything else, testing the corrupt bonds of treaties and forcing mobilization notices from the world's great governments. And so, the World War.

In America, Lieutenant-Colonel Charles Young prepared himself for what he believed the inevitable—America's entrance into the big fight. Regrettable as it was, he knew that war alone could reveal his true military worth. As warfever gripped the nation, as implication in the great horror became certain, the black American press cocked its head and strutted the walk. They knew that Charles Young's brilliance and service had won him the undoubted rank of general. Military authorities granted it. There was no doubt—Young had earned a generalship.

But, in a moment, all these hopes were gone. Like a quick, unsuspected below-the-belt punch, Colonel Young was retired from the Army on the ground of physical disability. The injustice of the act was matched only by the brazenness of its excuse. For seldom has there been a more perfect physical specimen than Colonel Young.

For days, Afro-America lay stunned. Then, uproar began. Pounding forth from every black man's printing press in the nation came the protests. Gaining momentum, this movement spread to progressive white newspapers; while opposition came but weakly. Some argued against the wisdom of a Negro general, but none denied that Young's retirement was a forced, unjust action. Finally, this clamor became so deafening that the Negro officer was taken out of retirement and placed as an instructor at Camp Grant during the last months of the war. Of course, all opportunity for the great services he might have rendered was lost. What thousands of lives might have been saved because of his recognized military genius will never be known. Certainly his presence in France would have aided the Allied cause tremendously.

But these things were passed, and the United States was faced with a problem. What should they do with this world-renowned soldier? Indeed, he was a worry. Then someone struck upon a bright idea. Why not send him to Liberia—as a consulate attache? He had been there before; in fact, received the Spingarn meda for his services to that republic. So in 1922, Young embarked for what he knew would be death. One more joust with the African sun, he felt, would finish him, he was right.

In 1923, while on a trek to the interior, he died; and was buried with military honors by British soldiers. Of course, return to the native land was only fitting for this great leader. By British law, however, it was necessary for him to remain interred at his original burial-place for one year. At the end of this period, the body was removed for transportation to the United States. But instead of the customary Man o' War which bears dead heroes homeward, a dirty tramp steamer bore Charles Young. Here the United States Army heaped disgrace upon itself. It chose to insult even the dead remains of a man it had greatly wronged.

But America's conscience was pricked. On May 27, 1924, a monster funeral was solemnized at the College of the City of New York, under the sponsorship of the American Legion. The chief speaker was Theodore Roosevelt, son of the President and Assistant Secretary of the Navy. He said that the great militarist was one—"who by sheer force of character overcame prejudices which would have discouraged many a lesser man".

Final burial was at Arlington cemetery with representatives present of the United States Army, the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Army and Navy Union, and the American Legion.

This man's life, shot through with disappointment and injustice, might easily have become a symbol of bitterness or hatred. But this is not the emotion Colonel Charles Young has left with the Negroes of America. He is remembered as a kindly gentleman, truly humorous, yet moving with inate dignity. He possessed an amazing ability to forgive. His life, his philosophy are a study in tolerance and understanding. Never did he allow himself to become bitter. Never did he criticize a superior officer. Never did he forget that he was, above all—a soldier. And we remember him best as he answers an old Tenth Cavalry volunteer who asks "What shall I bring?".

"Send your family home; get your life insured in their favor; BRING your Bible and yourself!" says the colonel.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Please find enclosed clipping taken from a white San Diego Daily newspaper. Recently the Southern California Dental Association met here in Coronado. Strange to say, my husband, Dr. J. J. Kimbrough is the only Negro belonging to that organization.

Last May he took a course in "Modern Surgical Pyorrhea" and therefore was asked to appear on their program which was held in the famous Coronado Hotel, together with a group of white dentists and demonstrated the new method of surgical pyorrhea. The demonstration proved so successful that they were invited to repeat their clinic in other cities including El Centro, Santa Ana, and Los Angeles.

I know that you are interested in Negro accomplishments, hence I took the liberty of sending you this information as you may wish to publish it for others to read.

Sincerely,
Quincella Nickerson-Kimbrough

THE NEW four power conference in Europe has been hailed throughout the world with everything from mild indifference to wild enthusiasm. All, however, have agreed that the world, the present civilization, came closer to destruction this week than ever since 1914. The stay of execution, though, may not be all so many expect.

But first, let us examine the background for the events which now shake our mythical world peace.

The fundamental cause for all present European entanglement and disagreement are the treaties following the World War. In the guise of creating a new institution of international tolerance and justice, the great victorious countries of 1918 instead molded great paper castles of domination. They dismembered the German empire, they lent that nation huge sums at usurious rates, and demanded prompt payment. German colonies, on which the country's very existence depended, were snatched away.

Certainly the Allies were not unaware that Germany was a land without mineral resources or great agricultural possessions; certainly they understood that seizing her colonial holdings in totum was but laying the groundwork for future dissension. At this point, we are entirely too ready to heap all the blame for international chaos upon Hitler, while a substantial block of this blame rests rightfully on the shoulders of greedy democracies.

The seizure of weak Austria was the Nazi prelude to the present Czechoslovakian affair. Precedents then established by world powers were calculated upon in the present mix-up. Hitler was able to surmise that a stiff enough bluff could easily throw Britain and France into paroyisms of war-fear. In this, he was correct. The spectacle of a near-bankrupt leader, reigning over a nation with neither raw nor war materials, bringing to submission two nations with limitless supplies of both, will remain one of the most sensational passages of diplomatic history.

But Hitler, for all his shrewdness, did not take into account one thing. That is, the extreme patriotism of the Czechoslovakian people. Their democracy and their liberty are things they refuse to cede. They understand that full German annexation of the Sudetenland would be tantamount to such a loss. Great militarists often figure only in the channel of numbers of men, guns, and materials. They forget the most essential factor of human conflict—human. The Czech enmity against her Aryan neighbor is deeply imbedded in the personality of the nation. Accustomed to persecution and already resigned to war, these people have accomplished the impossible—Hitler was forced to back up. Napoleon too was undone because he failed to perceive the extreme patriotism of the nations he crushed.

The conferences of today, we fear, will not result in any permanent settlement of the Czech situation. Faced with a united line-up of the democratic powers, Hitler had no choice but to retreat. But even this significant advantage did not strengthen the democratic backbone to the extent of any firm stand. In recalling France and England to conference Hitler attempts only to duplicate a past diplomatic triumph. Those nations already have bowed. Perhaps he expects to weaken Czechoslavakian morale by forcing a reaffirmation from them concerning their approval of dismemberment. Whatever his motive, the Iron Man of Europe has found the stone-wall of Czech hate too much. Yet, faced even with this, he reiterates demands. The futility of the present peace conference with regard to long-rand settlement is most vividly illustrated in the mid-European republic itself. While Prime Minister Chamberlain cried with joy on the floor of the English commons, Czechs greeted the new Hitler conferences with mingled pessimism and apprehension.

Throughout the entire negotiations, we in America have assumed amazing courage—for Britain. When that nation decides to submit to a dictator, we have cried "double-crosser" and "fraidy-cat". Possibly these epithets have some foundations, yet we fail to consider the very deep causes for a seeming weakness on the part of the democratic nations' foreign policy. Hitler and Mussolini have evolved a theory of government which places the citizen under direct control of the state, with special emphasis upon his duty and responsibility to that organ. Government in Germany and Italy, then, is the end of life, not the means. Hence, a dictator may boast away the lives of millions with a supreme confidence that these millions only perform their God-anointed duty.

Chamberlain and Daladier, however, far from having their respective populations responsible to them, are under the direct control of their electorate. Before the state, they must consider the men and women that compose it. They must consider the life of each citizen that is entrusted to the wisdom of their policy. Obviously, they cannot make the blanket statements — grandstand plays, if you please—of the dictator.

Then, too, the hypocrisy of the contention that every Englishman should perform his Devastated home in Providence, Rhode Island, where the recent Eastern hurricane struck in high-gear. Realization of how severe the storm was is just now sweeping the nation. Inset shows Madeline Morrison (nee Johnson), niece of Mrs. C. A. Bass and special correspondent, who writes vividly of storm horror. Below is her son Herbert, who was almost lost in the flood. Mrs. Morrison spent her freshman year at the University of Southern California.

GRAPHIC STORY OF FLOOD HAVOC IN PROVIDENCE TOLD

City Takes Licking From Nature

Looked Like World When Noah Came Out Of Ark, Eye-witness Says

By MADELINE MORRISON

(Special EAGLE Correspondent writing from the heart of flood-torn Providence, Rhode Island.)

The day of the hurricane I thought would be our last. Just outside our house fallen wires wires and mail boxes floated by in an endless, dreary procession.

I hope I never go through another hurricane like this. It is hard for outsiders to realize the terrible force with which the tidal wave struck. Providence looks like the world when Noah came out of the ark—especially our beaches.

The sister of Martha Stender, well-known local character, and her husband were drowned while swimming to a road. The water had swirled over their home, completely submerging it. Another sister swam a mile with her dog to the main road, where water was waist deep.

I was consoling my mother and other occupants of our house when the chimney went; then the roof. My son, a lad of ten, was playing at a neighbor's house three blocks away. With storm mounting every second, I became frantic and started for him.

I don't know how I managed to keep alive, for trees were falling all around. The rain pounded like little steel darts. The sky was filled with flying debris, furniture, and all sorts of unimaginable things. Our peaceful little street was desolate for blocks. I shall never forget the sound of that wind—racing, they say, at almost an hundred miles an hour. Those three blocks stretched into an age; I believe I can recall each instant of the journey. There I was, the only sign of life for blocks. It was as if the city had suddenly become depopulated. The actual feeling of intense, terrified loneliness undergone then will never be forgotten. It was wind, rain, water—and me, alone.

Finally I reached my son and managed to return home with him. When the roof went and several small articles of furniture threatened to ascend, horror reached a peak with us all. The storm had invaded the home itself; there was no further refuge. We prayed and waited. And at midnight the wind finally died.

Broadcasting, the strangest ever heard, began next morning. Only local amateur stations operated. We sent a message that "all relatives alive" which, we are told, reached California thru short-wave pick-up.

A friend of mine was trapped in front of the big mid-town post office. She was swimming with water over her head, but was finally pulled into the building by a rope. Another friend drowned in her machine under Union station. They are still digging and pumping bodies out of our big department stores.

Downtown Providence had ice boxes, stoves, furniture, food, etc., floating down the streets. No lights or phones. Darkness and devastation. Our family had lights and phone service Friday, as we are on the hospital line; but many are still without both.

Beach houses at Matunuck are a memory. There isn't a cottage left or a piece of wood. Rocky Point and Oakland Beach are no more.

Local newspapers consist mostly of death notices these days. Very little else. The war talk has gone back to the last page now.

The Eastern seaboard has taken a licking from Nature it didn't think possible. We will be a long time forgetting "the great storm of '38".

WOMAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY STREET CAR AND AUTO NEGLIGENCE HELD CAUSE

Impact Hurls Body In Path Of Auto

Auto Knocks Body Back In Front of Trolley; Coroner Charges Neglect

Negligence on the part of a motorman operating an S car on Avalon boulevard for the Los Angeles Railway company, was responsible for the death of Mrs. Lula McKinley, 47 year old housewife of 293 E. 50th street, according to a verdict rendered Tuesday by the coroner's jury.

Mrs. McKinley was struck by the Southbound S car at 4th and Avalon early Friday morning as she crossed the street from the West to the East curb, hurrying to catch a Northbound car.

On that car was her husband, Mr. McKinley, bound for work. When he looked up from his morning paper he saw his wife's body lying in the street.

The impact flung the body upon the car-catcher of the street car. Then it was rolled into the pathway of an automobile, driven by . Sperger, white of 155 W. 118th street, and was again knocked into the path of the street car.

The woman's body was badly broken when bystanders reached her. T. N. Forrester, 23, was the motorman operating the car.

Vice Detail Head Surprises Youths

The vigilance of a vice officer cruising about in the wee hours of the morning, saved an Avenue shop-keeper from a thorough burglarising, early Wednesday morning.

Lieutenant Sidney Sweetman, head of the Newton Street Vice detail, surprised two youths, Lionel Fleming, 1606 E. 40th Pl., and Harry Taylor, 1030 E. 29th street, in the act of breaking into Karst's Sweet Shoppe at the corner of 41st and Central avenue about 2 a. m. Wednesday morning.

Firing two shots into the interior of the store, Sweetman ordered the youths out and when they did not obey, flanked by two hastily deputized bystanders, Gilbert Norman, 1174 E. 40th Place and Johnny Walker, 983 . 42nd Place, went in and arrested the culprits.

Proprietor Of Cafe Robbed

Two armed hold-up men waylaid Hedeich Takagi, cafe proprietor of 4205 Central avenue, at an alley on 42nd street, West of Central avenue, at 3 a. m. last Sunday morning, robbing him of $93.00, the contents of a California Bank currency bag.

Takagi, who was unable to furnish police with a description of the robbers, other than to ascertain that they were Negroes, said one of them stuck a "shiny gun" in his stomach, and emptied the bag of a $2.00 roll of nickles, $11.00 in change $43-53 in loose money, his wallet containing $17.00 and slugs for the music machine in his cafe.

Rev. Brown Begins Year with Fine Record; Brother to Visit

Rev. J. M. Brown, one of the most distinguished pastors in the African Methodist Episcopal church, has just begun this conference year as pastor of the First A. M. E. Church, Pasadena with new impetus on the strength of the brilliant report made at the recent Southern California conference for last year's work.

The report showed that nine thousand dollars was raised by the church for all purposes, $2,100 of which was paid on the principal of the church mortgage with interest bringing it to $2,600. Rev. Brown is now heading a drive to finish the mortgage clearance on the edifice located at 70 W. Mountain View. He is being encouraged by his wife

WILL PROBE CHARGE MADE BY "BIG BOY"

In one of the most spectacular developments of local fistianic history, Big Boy Bray, Gene Sorrall's Pugilist de luxe, charged attempted bribe to Suey Welch, fight promoter at the Olympic, this week.

State boxing commissioners will hear the complaint today.

Bray signed an affidavit and filed it with the commission charging Welch and Baron Henry von Stumme had offered him the money to lay down in his fight with Church Crowell at the Olympic last week.

Von Stumme is Crowell's manager.

Welch denied the accusations and Robert Cowan, Bray's manager also denied that Welch had anything to do with fixing the fight.

Cowan, who is now in jail on an 8-year old murder charge growing out of a cleaner and dyers war, admitted there had been an arrangement with Von Stumme over the fight.

He said he had been forced to agree to have Bray "lay down" in order to get the match. He said, however, he had intended to let Bray go in and win, despite the agreement.

In the fight, fans said Bray

Wm. Herman Succumbs

A coroner's inquest failed to determine the circumstances of the death of William Herman, veteran theatrical man, who succumbed last Friday in the General Hospital. Herman is alleged to have fallen from a small veranda and died as a result of injuries suffered. Whether the fall was accidental or deliberate suicide, the coroner was unable to determine. Hospital attaches were reluctant to give any other information that was brought out in the inquest.

Funeral services will be in charge of Jesse Graves of the Screen Actor's Guild, it was reported Wednesday.

Herman is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frances McAdams of St. Paul, Minnesota who has not seen him for twenty years and who is unable to attend the funeral services because of sickness in her home.

Mrs. McAdams expressed shock at her brother's death and said that letters from him had given her the impression that he was recovering and was quite cheerful.

The SCREEN ACTORS GUILD has just completed a NEW EIGHT year pact with the PRODUCERS. This means GUILD shop and GUILD shop only for the next eight years. One of the GREAT gains for ACTORS is the NEW 48 HOUR week, heretofore there was no limit to a weekly CONTRACT. Players will receive time and a half for overtime, that is FOR FREE LANCE and CONTRACT players receiving 500 DOLLARE weekly or LESS, and a MINIMUM 12 hour rest PERIOD for ALL PAYERS receiving 1,000 Dollars weekly or LESS. That is you must have 12 HOURS between calls. A permanent COMMITTEE of three, one from the SCREEN ACTORS GUILD and one from the PRODUCERS and the third CHOSEN jointly to ARBITRATE any and all DISPUTES about the EMPLOYMENT of EXTRAS. They are to thoroughly INVESTIGATE the EXTRA problem. An IMPROVED SYSTEM of GRANTING waivers by the GUILD is to be taken care of IMMEDIATELY. Waiver have been GRANTED among the COLORED EXTRAS, many times WHEN it was not NECESSARY or FAIR to the MEMBERS. The WAIVER should be granted ONLY when there are not ENOUGH GUILD members paid up to ANSWER the CALL. And this should be CHECKED closely by the EXTRAS' representatives, Mr. JESSE GRAVES and Mr. ED. BOYD. I heard the other night a BRAG by a singer that he had NOTHING to worry about ALL HE HAD to do is to get a WAIVER. That is not true of GUILD regulations. SIMPLY some of these type of people "FOOL the WHITE FOLKS KIND" get away with it simply BECAUSE they DON'T know, ALL THEY should about the abilities and capacities of our many PAID UP LOYAL members. So MEMBERS protect YOURSELVES against the WAIVER pirates by SENDING thru YOUR representatives INFORMATION and COMPLAINTS which will be acted UPON at ONCE. You who are MEMBERS have paid by your LOYALTY and SOMETIMES BLOOD MONEY for better working conditions and salaries. SO WHY stand by and let some SCAB enjoy the fruits without a CARD. The new AGENTS decree by the GUILD is a wonder. ALL agents must have a GUILD FRANCHISE, and 19 other DON'TS in favor of the ACTOR. Call Mr Graves and Mr. Boyd, keep them informed and FIGHT UNTIL GUILD MEMBERS get ALL THAT belongs to them. So Long.

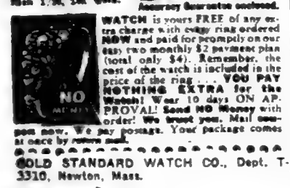
HERE IS THE NEWEST CLOTHING NEWS IN YEARS

Insurance has protected the life of you and yours as well as your valuables for many years. Today for the first time you can buy insured clothes for men. This new idea was pioneered by Mr. Linder of Lloyd's Insured Clothes. His object in doing this was to impress his customers and the public in general, with the fact that the clothes he sells MUST BE GOOD, certainliy no reliable insurance company would underwrite a poor item. Therefore at his store you get at no extra cost a signed certificate of insurance.

Due to low rent, cash buying and no credit losses, you can get a brand new fall suit or topcoat in the latest styles and patterns, plus free insurance protection, at prices ranging from $15.00 to $27.50.

The very next time you are downtown step out of the high rent district, and look over the new fall window display of LLOYD'S, located at 300 South Spring Street on the corner of Third and Spring. You will be pleased to discover that every garment shown in the window is inside at the prices quoted. Please remember that only refined courteous salesmen are employed there. You will not be high pressured at any time. Go inside, without any obligation, ask the manager, Bill Bowen, to show you around. Many of you no doubt remember Bill during the time he was manager of Todd's 6th and Main Store. He will be more than glad to greet you in his new capacity of manager of LLOYD'S.

An evil that Mr. Linder has devoted much time to correcting is the great amounts the average credit customer is forced to pay for that privilege. In his plan he guarantees a savings from $10.00 to $25.00. All you have to do in order to effect these savings is first determine the items you expect to add to your wardrobe, then go down to LLOYD'S make your selections, place a small deposit and the garments will be held for you until paid for. In no time at all you will be able to have them paid for. Boy, what a grand and glorious feeling it will be then to find that you are not in debt and that you have saved many dollars in the bargain. The plan is very simple, but like all simple ideas, it really works.



Another inovation you will like at LLOYD'S is their completely stocked pants department. This is the only serve yourself department of its kind in the world. Special fixtures were invented to make this possible.

Before buying that new fall suit or coat, in justice to yourself and your pocketbook, you owe it to yourself to first visit LLOYD'S and check their Nationally Famous Brands, every garment is styled right up to the minute and only featured in going patterns. The more conservative dresser will find everything in staples. Follow the new trend, shop out of the high rent district, go to LLOYD'S, 300 South Spring Corner Third and Spring in downtown Los Angeles, open evenings till 9 p. m. and Saturdays till 10 p. m. free parking on any lot. . . —(Adv).

POLITICAL POT-PIE

By IRA

We have been told that our time honored friend, Charlie Alston, has been forced to close his real estate office at 28th and Central on account of ill health. Sorry, Charlie is a fine old boy and a wheel horse in the Republican set-up, being a valuable member of the County Central Committee.

We stand corrected: The Ingraham-LaMar place at 47th street is not a Board of Trade. It's Chamber of Commerce, an old organization that maintained offices in the Blodgett Bldg. a few years ago. Walt Lawson holds the copyright on "Board of Trade".

There was no dough distributed on this side during the recent elections, hence the boys and girls are all friends.

William D. Campbell is one of the most active Republican candidates we meet. Campbell is backed by the powerful Townsend group and will likely give Tom Ford a run for his money in the 14th District.

Speculation is rife as to whether or not Governor Merriam will appoint a Negro to one of the vacant judicial seats in Los Angeles. Strongly mentioned are Ivan Johnson, former assistant U. S. District attorney; Lloyd Griffith, E. C. Jennings, Hugh Macbeth, and Herbert A. Greenwood. Loren Miller, big boy in the Democratic wheel is being put forward by leaders of his party. Go to it, boys!

Word comes that Gus Hawkins, Democratic assemblyman, will have to face Sid Dones, real estate baron, in a run for the seat in the 62nd. Sid is on the Progresive ticket. It's hard to tell the distance a frog can jump from where he sits.

Sophromie Collier Buried Tuesday

Mrs. Sophromie Collier of 1171 East Santa Barbara was buried October 4 from Pierce Brothers Mortuary in Valhalia Cemetery. Mrs. Collier was a member of the Townsend club 93 of which George Hiley is president. Mr. Hiley conducted the funeral. Mrs. Collier was eight-one and has no known relatives. She was a member of the Christian Science Fifth and pastored by Mrs. Alma Canon, 1642 W. 36th Place.

Attending the funeral were Mmes. Ethel W. Dunn, 1129 East Santa Barbara, R. Riches, and Miss Marian Howel both of 1171 East Santa Barbara.

Kansas Univ. Won't Admit Second Negro

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Oct. 6 (ANP)—Claiming that the school was overcrowded, Dean H. R. Wahl has refused Donald Ferguson, second colored student to apply, admission to the University of Kansas Medical School which has opened its doors to Negroes after barring them for many years.

Edward Williams of Ellsworth, Kan., whose protest to Gov. Huxman resulted in ending the color bar, is already enrolled. When Ferguson applied for admission and was not accepted, he carried his case to the state supreme court which ordered the medical school to reveal why he was refused.

Dean Wahl said Ferguson's color was not involved. The medical school has a waiting list, and students are taken on the basis of their grades. Williams is a Phi Betta Kappa. Ferguson is high on the list, but must wait until a vacancy occurs before he can enroll.

Our group shares with her family the sorrow of her passing".

In September, 1937, Miss Easter transferred to Wilberforce University from Los Angeles Junior College Entering the Elementary Teachers' Department of the College of Education. Miss Easter expected to receive her degree at the end of the present year. She was a member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

New Breed of Hog Perfected on Lincoln University Farm

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., October 6. (Special)—Success in the deriving of an entirely new breed of hog is claimed here by Arthur Lee Hammons, instructor in the department of agriculture, Lincoln University (Mo.) with the birth yesterday of a litter of thirteen pigs every one of which bears one or more of the spots that the breeder has been trying to perfect. For five years Mr. Hammons has been experimenting with a variety of hog-breeds in an effort so to blend these breeds as to produce one breed bearing selected characteristics of the different types. His has been an effort to stabilize color and improve feeding habits over those of existing hogs.

To do this Mr. Hammons faced the experience of generations of hog-breeders such as is stated in the famous principle of Gregor J. Mendel, nineteenth century scientist, who showed that "height, color, and other characters depend on the presence of determining factors, behaving as units, and that the second and later generations of cross-breeds exhibit these characters in all possible combinations, each combination in a defenite proportion of individuals." Mendel's Law established the expectation that in any effort to blend breeds some individuals, often a definite proportion, say one out of every four, if not of the second generation always of the third generation, will "revert" and come forth with exact characteristics of one of its forbears.

POLKI-DOTS

The Lincoln University agriculturist has so far succeeded in negating this law with his newborn litter of 13 "polki-dots", as he has chosen to call them. Every one of this litter, not just as expected proportion, has the dots. Through experience with earlier individuals of this breed, Mr. Hammons finds they have better feeding qualities than all other breeds, maturing to market size 180-220 pounds in five and a half months.

Mrs. Hammons expects to put the new litter and the producing sow, born five years ago, on exhibition at the American Royal Stock Show in Kansas City, Oct. 21 and at the New York World's Fair, in 1939.

State Groups Condemn Garrison Revenue Act

"California can not afford a plunge into squandermania!"

With that emphatic declaration, the State Association Against the Garrison Bond Act--Proposition No. 13 on the November ballot--today announced that civic groups throughout the State have enlisted in the campaign to defeat the proposal.

The official argument against the proposition in the Voters' Pamphlet, published by the Secretary of State's Office, was released today and condemned the act in the following language:

"This dangerous act would abolish the time-tested principle which requires the vote of two-thirds of the people to approve public borrowings. It would permit the issuance of revenue bonds, in any amount, by a bare majority of those actually going to the polls. In reality, it would mean that any district city or county could be plunged into debt by a small minority, as only a fraction of the registered vote usually turns out for a bond election."

Signing the argument against Proposition No. 13 were: Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Pasadena, founder of the California Federation of Women's Clubs; Glenn D. Williams, Los Angeles, secretary of the California State Real Estate Association, and Lewis M. Foulke, azelle, Siskivou County, president of the Common Property Taxpayers' Association.

Organizations which have taken action against Proposition No. 13, charging that it would result in a tremendous increase in public debt, with a consequent increase in the tax burden, include:

California State Farm Bureau Federation
California State School Trustees Association
Native Sons of the Golden West
American Legion, Department of California
Disabled American Veterans
Agricultural Council of California
State Chamber of Commerce
California State Real Estate Association
California Taxpayers Association
Southern California Retail Grocers Association
California Savings & Building-Loan League
California Association of Building Owners and Managers
Apartment House Owners and Managers Association
Little Business of California, Inc.
Northern California Retail Druggists Association
California-Nevada District of Wiwanis International
Common Property Taxpayers Association of California

NEW YORK, Oct.6.—A vigorous protest was made by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today to Governor James V. Alred of Texas, who was recently nominated by President Roosevelt for a Federal judgeship, against the brutal assault made upon Dr. George F. Porter, President of Wiley Junior College, in the presence of court attaches and deputy sheriffs last Thursday. Dr. Porter was summoned for jury duty and the attack upon him was made when he refused to be excused from service as other Negro prospective jurors accepted dismissal.

INSURANCE CO. SAYS HEART DISEASE LEADS NEGRO DEATH CAUSES

United Mutual Benefit Association, N. Y. Insurance Company Owned by Negroes, Completes 5-Year Study of Negro Mortality Statistics

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—A five-year study of Negro mortality statistics, completed last week under the auspices of the United Mutual Benefit association, the only Negro-owned insurance company operating under a New York charter, allegedly has unearthed facts widely at variance with Negro mortality statistics as compiled and disseminated by white insurance companies.

The results of the survey, in the opinion of C. D. King, president of United Mutual, have proven conclusively that social and communicable diseases are not among the dominant causes of Negro demise, as frequently stated by white companies. An examination of official autopsy records showed that gonorrhea, which is generally believed to be a powerful agent in the promotion of other diseases, was practically last in a long list of such contributing factors when viewed from a Negro viewpoint, King said.

The study, conducted under the supervision of Hawthorne E. Lee, superintendent of agents for United Mutual, covered 500 cases. These were taken from the company's files, hospital records, the records of private physicians and the official statistics of the City Health Department.

It was found that in New York State, during the five-year period beginning in 1933, the leading causes of Negro demise ranked in the following order:

HEART DISEASE

Heart disease, pneumonia, cancer, diseases of the kidneys, diseases of the circulatory system, tuberculosis, accidental deaths, cerebral hemorrahage, diabetes and social diseases. "A much larger proportion of colored people are the victims of heart ailments than is generally shown in the statistics of the white companies," Mr. Lee said in his report. It was his view that this could be largely attributed to unhealthy living conditions, as induced by economic hardships.

Negro owned insurance companies are making it possible for Negroes to accumulate much important vital data concerning themselves and to refute the false statistics which some white companies allegedly use as an excuse to increase their rates on Negro insurance, it was claimed.
